Fight Continues To Check Army Worm Advance

Michigan Bankers Offer Farm Youth MSC Scholarships

Michigan bankers are offering a total of 240 scholarships of $100 each for 8 week short courses in agriculture and home economics at Michigan State College.

Robert Dennis, of the MSC department of short courses, said that the boys and girls selected will enroll in the first term, which starts October 27. He also said that further information is available from high school teachers of agriculture and home economics, county extension workers and bankers.

The instructional program for the girls includes work in foods and nutrition, clothing, home furnishings and home management and consumer buying.

Boys will get a complete course in agriculture, including studies in livestock, dairying, crops, farm management, poultry, soils, horticulture, farm mechanics and others. They may choose from several elective courses.

Dennis said that both boys and girls will get special courses in rural leadership, family relations, parliamentary procedure and public speaking.

The students will live in the short course dormitory and will eat in the short course cafeteria.

For Sheriff, Gilbert Lindsay, Republican candidate, primary August 5.

Farmers' Crop Losses In Antrim-Charlevoix Are Heaviest In State

Crop losses to farmers in Charlevoix and Antrim counties will total thousands of dollars by the time the army worm invasion which hit this area last week is brought under control. Outbreaks have been reported throughout the western half of the state, according to Ray Janes, MSC entomologist, who was here Tuesday to make a check with Ed Rebman on the progress being made to control the worms in this area. He says the outbreak here is the most serious of any yet reported.

Many oat fields in the area are a total loss or nearly so and the destruction of other fields which were not sprayed before the pests got a foot-hold will be seriously damaged. The grasses in mixed hay fields and some corn fields also are being attacked.

Recommend Barrier

Following their check of the area, Janes and Rebman recommend that barriers now be established around the most heavily infested areas in order to keep the worms out of areas that can still be controlled by spraying.

Barriers are constructed by plowing a strip about eight feet wide with the back furrow in the center. Fresh poison bait is then placed in both outside furrows every day. Fields which have not been attacked should be watched closely for the first signs of infestation and spraying immediately.

It will be at least two weeks before the area will he safe from further devastation, according to Janes. Until the danger period has passed, he says it is imparative that farmers continue with every control measure at their disposal.

Harvesting oat fields with a grain binder will require further precautions, Janes says. He suggests spraying the strips of ground on which the bundles are to be shocked. This measure will eliminate the possibility of the worms infesting the bundles.

First attack of the army worm was discovered last week by Arlo Wickersham on his Marion township farm. He reported the case to County Agent Rebman who made an investigation and immediately called all farmers to organize for a control campaign.

A mass meeting attended by nearly 150 persons, was held at the Marion town hall last week Wednesday evening. Ray Janes of MSC was called in to assist Rebman in presenting the situation to the farmers and help with plans for a control campaign.

Howard Stephens was chosen to direct the work of spraying crews which worked night and day to cover the fields most seriously infested. Spraying machines were furnished by Harold Clark, Burr Blanchard and Mathew Bros. Local oil distributors lent their assistance by keeping water supplies available for the sprayers. Tank trucks for this purpose were furnished by Karl Erber of the Erber Oil Co., Al Smith of Thiesen-Clemens and Jim Goodfellow of the Furgeson Petroleum.

Advises Farmers To Store Wheat For Price Boost

This looks like a good year for wheat growers to store their crop and sell later. Clarence Prentice, Michigan State college agricultural economist, says that flooding markets at harvest time and marketing wheat while moisture content is too high are costly to farmers.

Every year since 1938-39 the market price of wheat has advanced to above the support program sometime following harvest, Prentice points out. The seasonal low price usually has been at harvest time.

The problem of low prices at harvest time is apt to be worse this year because the largest wheat crop in Michigan's history will be harvested this summer.

Due to the lack of adequate commercial storage, a larger portion of the wheat crop will be stored on farms. For successful storage, the grain bin must be in good condition before filling with wheat or other grain. It should he tight, rat-and mouse-proof, clean and disinfected properly prior to use.

Wheat also should be stored containing less than 14 percent moisture. Growers should wait until the grain is dry before combining. Wheat containing 14 percent moisture or moro just won't keep in Michigan, Prentice says. It spoils and becomes "sick wheat". Too much "sick wheat" moved to market from farmers' grain bins last winter at discounts as high as 50 cents a bushel.

Good pasture, properly managed, will lower the amount of protein supplement consumed by hogs as much as 50 percent, according to Michigan State college animal hushandry specialists.

Rural Family Gets Michigan Bell's Two Millionth Telephone!

Michigan Bell's two millionth telephone is placed in the farm home of Clifford and Sylvia Pond by Installer William R. Mugford. With telephone lines reaching out to more and more farms each year, 7 out of 10 rural establishments in Michigan now have telephone service compared with 3 out of 10 in 1945.

There were important goings-on last week at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Pond of Holt, a pleasant and prosperous rural community near Lansing.

A telephone was installed in their home, a telephone inscribed with these words:

TWO MILLIONTH TELEPHONE
MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
MR. AND MRS. CLIFFORD POND
HOLT, MICH., JULY 15, 1952

This telephone is an important new member of the Pond family. It unites Clifford and Sylvia Pond with their three daughters, five grandchildren and Mr. Pond's parents, all living in nearby communities within the same local telephone calling area.

While strengthening family ties, this two millionth telephone stands as a symbol of your telephone company's strength—the kind of strength needed to furnish a service that is essential to everyday life and vital to defense.

If you have been under the impression that all bass have left Lake Charlevoix, three local fishermen would like to correct your impression.

They are Dick Farmer of this city, and Emil and John Krchak of Crystal Lake, Ill., who caught 15 bass while still-fishing in Lake Charlevoix.

The total weight of the catch was 25 pounds. The largest fish weighed 2½ pounds.

Several of Michigan's Gold Cup entries are being brought here through the efforts of Jack Schafer of Detroit, owner of Such Crust III and IV and Arthur Rouse of Boyne City.

Vantage points from which the races can be seen include the Ferry ave. and North side beaches, Mercer Blvd. and the turnout on US 31 a mile from the city.

Water skiing exhibitions on the lake will precede the races, which will be run over a ten-mile course off-shore. Three heats of 30 miles each will be run over the course, Mr. Schafer said.

The Venetian Night week-end activities will open with the coronation of the Venetian Queen, Donna Ball, at the Queen's ball at the Charlevoix Beach Hotel Saturday evening.

Sequanota Club Observing 50th Anniversary This Week

The Sequanota Club, located on Lake Charlevoix near Ironton and one of the north's oldest summer colonies, will observe its fiftieth anniversary this weekend.

Families of charter members and others long associated with the club will be guests at the special anniversary celebration, which will open Friday afternoon with a reunion tea in the Taylor Garden.

Dr. and Mrs. George Buttrick, members of the club for more than 30 years, will be the principal speakers at the Friday evening meeting. They will speak on their recent trip through the Orient, the Near East and Europe while on a Joseph Cook Lectureship.

Saturday will be devoted to activities for the children of the colony and Saturday avoning tha adults will join in tho fun with a stunt night program.

The anniversary dinner will be held Sunday at the Club house and Sunday evening Vesper Services will conclude the three-day celebration.

This unique colony was started in 1902 by the late John Winter Thompson who first came to the area as a boy when he visited in East Jordan. Later, when he was head of the music department ot Knox College, Ill., he returned to northern Michigan and spent the summer with the Adams family at Ironton.

Because he loved the north country, he interested friends at Knox College in organizing a summer colony here and returned to Ironton with several friends to find a suitable site. They visited many spots before selecting the present site of the club located on the west shore of Lake Charlevoix. The first 13 cottoges were built in 1902 and the following year the present Club house was constructed. There are now 22 cottages.

Some of the families have been visiting the club for four generations. Most present members are related to or closaly associated with the charter members. Annually members and their families come from nearly every state.

The first families to settle the colony were closely associated with colleges. Since then many from religious circles have joined the group. The members are proud of the fact that eight young men who were reared ot Sequonota have entered the ministry.

Among those who will be guests this week-end will be J. W. Bailey and daughter, Mrs. Mary Bailey Ewing of Macombe, Ill. members of the Capt. Albert Eades family and Miss Edith Thompson of Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa., and Mrs. Helen Thompson Scibel of Kalamazoo, members of the John Winter Thompson family. Mrs. Worth L. Matteson of Foreman, Ark. a member of the George W. Thompson family.

Other guests will be Kellogg McClelland of Galesburg, Ill., Prof. J. Raleigh Nelson of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Mary Lewis Beard.

Present officers of the club are: president, Dr. Charlas Hatlauar of Naw York City; vice president, Douglas Jackson Latts of Houston, Tex.: secretary, Mrs. Matteson: treasurer, Harry Landis of Detroit.

The planning committee for the golden anniversary observance includes Mrs. Frank Taylor of Evanston, Ill., Dr. William Lampe and Mrs. Margaret Schmidt of St. Louis, Mo., Miss Edith Thompson of Chambersburg, Pa., Mrs. Landis of Detroit, Mrs. Joseph Andrews of New Brittan, Conn., and Mrs. John Hullman of Texarkana, Ark.

Kiwanis Hears Speech Recorded At Convention

The Charlevoix Kiwanis meeting at the Beach Hotel Monday night heard a tape recording of the address given by Clarence Manion, dean of the Norte Dame College of Law at the Kiwanis International convention held at Seattle last month.

Dean Manion entitled his talk "The Key to Peace" and among other things said "To save American freedom we must resist big government at home and abroad. We cannot defeat despotism in Russia by establishing despotism in Washington.

"We can deflate big government by demanding thot governmental deficit spending be outlawed; by demanding a permanent ceiling on federal taxes and by resisting and reducing every federal appropriation for any and every purpose."

He went on to say that it is only recently that our government has been corrupted and made ridiculous in a vain attempt to make it do everything.

He concluded by saying that "fortunately, the political scientists who founded the Republic were not confused. They were definitely and dogmatically certain about the nature of man. They built the Republic upon the specifications of truth and set forth in the Declaration of Independence: Man is a creature of God; he has God-given rights and duties; Government is his agent to protect these duties. American government can do this job. It has done it well for 150 years."

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schantz celebrated their thirty-second wedding anniversary at a surprise dinner given Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Loper.

Leagues To Play Make-Up Games

The Class A and B softball teams will play 'make-up' games for the next week, Del Terrill, recreotional director, announced Wednesday.

The regular schedule was concluded yesterday with only rained-out games to be played off ot this time.

The play will be concluded in time for the District softball tournament here Friday, Aug. 8.

Following the tournoment the A and B leagues will play a two-game knock-out tournament to determine the championships in each league.

Large Crowd Watches Boat Parade Here

A crowd, estimated to be as high as 30,000, was on hand Sunday for the annual Venetian Night Boat Parade on Round Lake.

Placing first in the annual event which this year drew 18 entries, was the Rogue owned by Robert Bridge, E. D. Hawley and Dr. G. B. Saltonstall. Legendary Paul Bunyan was a passenger and his blue ox, Babe was at the tiller in the colorful original float designed and made under the direction of Jack Dollenmaier, of Bay City and Charlevoix.

The Queen's boat, which was also one of tha lead boats, the Boss, owned by Alvin D. Goldman, placed second; Bill Novak's sail boat, Ya-hu-di, was third and tha D. D. Walker boat of tho Belvedere club with its 'space ship' was fourth.

Louis Wallace's cruiser was the second lead boat.

Judges were Mrs. Marge Lyon of the Chicago Tribune, Joe Reeves of Grosse Pointe Farms, Dexter Clark of Detroit, Dick Allgire of the Petoskey Evening News and Mrs. Fred Schoenfelder of Ellsworth. They viewed the parade from the U. S. Coast Guard cutter commanded by Robert Sommerville, CBM.

A colorful fireworks display sent up from the Dr. L. E. Grate property odded to the beauty of the aquatic parade on Round Lake.

Prior to the parade a variety program was presented in East Park by the Charlevoix Marine band directed by C. A. Odmark, the Camp Charlevoix Boys' chorus singing sea chanties and the Harry Cool trio of the Argonne.

Many visitors cama early to see tha scheduled Gold Cup speed boat exhibition races on Laka Charlovoix. However, all but one of the boats failod to arrive and tho exhibition was called off. The ono boat which did arrive, Such Crust IV ownad by Jack Schafer of Dotroit, was exhibitod but was not placed in the water for lack of a driver.

Highway restrictions prohibiting the travel of the large trailers on the highway during the week-end prevented the boats from being brought here for the exhibition race. Only through the special efforts of local officials and friends was it possible to bring the Such Crust IV north for the event.

The Queen's ball at the Charlevoix Beach Hotel Saturday evening opened the two-day Venetian Night week-end celebration.

-The Queen's florol crown and corsage was donated by Edwards Florist.

Water skiers, skiing behind the Lesser and Ward speed boats presented a water skiing exhibition on Lake Charlevoix Sundoy afternoon.

The Charlevoix Lions club sponsored the Venetian Queen's ball, and the Charlevoix Marine Club the Venetian Boat parade, in co-operotion with the Charlevoix Board of Commerce.

Jerry Whitley Is Appointed New Fire Chief

The appointment of Jerome (Jerry) Whitley as fire chief to succeed Charles Marshall, who will retire next month, was approved by the Charlevoix city council at the regular meeting of the group Monday night. The appointee must first pass a physical examination.

At the some time the council odopted a resolution requiring any new city employee to submit to a physical examination if he is to be employed by the city for more than a four months period. The examination will be at the city's expense. The order will become effective immediately.

Parking on the south sido of Mason st. from Bridga st. to the dock will be prohibited, effective immediately. The parking created a troffic hazard on tha narrow and steep hill when large trucks entered the araa for discharging cargo.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

WE'VE SAID this before and we'll continue to say it . . . Charlevoix is blessed with a lot of good-looking youngsters . . Venetian Queen Donna Ball and the members of her court were just an example of what I mean . . . Gowned in formals, each was a picture of perfection in her own right . . . And also present were others who, although not in the court, were equally as lovely . . . (P.S. Their escorts looked purty too) . . .

DOES ANYONE have a recipe for pot-porri . . . It's made with flower petals and scads of other stuff . . . Mrs. J. C. Marshall and Mrs. John Mol are looking for a June issue of House and Garden which had such a recipe . . . If you've any suggestions give one of them a ring . . .

WELL, what did you think of the Democratic convention? . . . Or aren't you interested in politics? . . . Personally, we don't think you have much choice these days when it comes to liking or disliking politics for that's about all there is on the radio and in the newspapers . . . In the next few days you'd better give some thought to the Primary Election and come Tuesday, take yourself to the polls and vote . . . We don't care for whom you cast your vote . . . we play no favorites . . . but, cast your vote . . . We contend that if you don't vote you lose your right to gripe . . . And what would you do without that? . . . But seriously, do vote Tuesday . . . whether you think so or not, it's mighty important . . There are those behind the Iron Curtain, for instance, who would give their lives for the privilege . . . If you're smart, you'll show your gratitude for what you have by voting now and in November.

LAST WEEK we mentioned Life magazine's story on Adlai Stevenson, now Democratic presidential nominee, . . . Mrs. E. J. Edwards informed us that the building in the background of Stevenson and his family is the Belvedere Hotel where the family once summered . . . And Mrs. Harvey Campbell came up with another interesting bit of information . . . During the summer of 1910, '11, and '12, an aunt of Gov. Stevenson, occupied the cottage now owned by the William Ockrants on Michigan ave. and Gov. Stevenson often visited her there . . . Gee, just think, if he is elected president, the present owners can hang out a shingle stating: President Stevenson once slept here" . . . Well, it's a thought . . .

VENETIAN Night has come and gone . . . and with it all the hard work that goes into one big weekend . . . People . . . literally thousands of them were in town for the event . . . Many came for the Gold Cup speed boat races which did not materialize . . . which was a shame . . . But highway rulings and other major obstacles prevented all but one of the boats from arriving . . . And Jack Schafer's Such Crust IV which did come did not have a driver so couldn't be placed in the water for an exhibition run . . . It's heart-breaking for those who plan the event and no explanation seems satisfactory . . . Which is probably hard to understand but what more can be said.

But Venetian Night itself with its program and fireworks was grand . . . as per usual . . . We hope everyone who was here enjoyed that . . .

WAS TALKING to Bob Somerville, skipper of the 83 foot Coast Guard cutter which returned last week from following the Chicago to Mackinac sail boat race . . . He was telling us about the storm on Lake Michigan Tuesday . . . The boat was following a sail boat off Grey's reef when the storm struck with winds that were clocked up to 85 miles an hour . . It struck with such force the water looked like ice . . . The sail-boat the cutter was following had only two little jib sails up and was over with its mast in the water at times . . . He said they expected momentarily to have to pull along side and take the crew aboard but they stuck it out and when they finally arrived at Mackinaw a few hours later there wasn't a breath of wind . . . Water spouts were popping up all over during the storm . . . We'll bet that's one trip the sailing crew will refer to for years . . . And Bob says it's one he'll remember too . . .

MET A Youngster, Raul Trevino W., of Monterey, Mexico, the other day . . He's visiting at the home of Dr and Mrs. Gerald Gibbons and two of the Gibbons' boys, Joe and Peter brought him around for us to meet . . . And that's about all there was to it for Raul speaks little English . . . Dr. Gibbons converses with him in Spanish . . . But we'll bet our bottom dollar that he'll know the language before long . . . Kids seem to make themselves understand, no matter what. Dr. Gibbons and this youngster's father, also a dentist, were classmates at St. Louis University. . .

Nancy Lee Ikens, Gerald Olson Exchange Vows

The First Methodist Episcopal church here was the scene of the wedding Sunday afternoon of Nancy Lee Ikens and Gerald Olson. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Cunningham. The Rev. and Mrs. Ole Olson of East Jordan are the parents of the bridegroom.

Baskets of pink and white gladioli and roses decorated the altar before which the Rev. Mr. Olson, father of the bridegroom and pastor of the Latter Day Saints church in East Jordan, read the double ring service.

Mrs. A. C. Belding, grandmother of the bride, was the organist and Bonnie Hosler of East Jordan was soloist.

The bride selected a gown of white lace and net over taffeta for her wedding. It was styled with a hip length bodice of lace, short sleeves and a full skirt of net over taffeta. Net and lace mitts and a fingertip veil of net completed her costume. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and roses.

Shirley Cunningham of Lansing, as her only attendant, wore a gown similar to the bride's in aqua taffeta and net and matching mitts. Her bouquet was of yellow chrysanthemums.

Albert Chanda, Jr. of East Jordan assisted the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Ray Olson, brother of the bridegroom, and Ronald Cunningham.

Mrs. Cunningham chose an aqua crepe dress and white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Olson wore a navy taffeta and lace dress and white accessories. Each wore a corsage of red roses.

A reception for the immediate families followed at the home of the bride's parents.

For traveling on their wedding trip the bride wore a steel blue gabardine suit with yellow accents and white accessories. After Aug. 1 the couple will make their home in East Jordan.

The bride is a 1952 graduate of the Charlevoix high school. The bridegroom is a graduate of the East Jordan high school and a printer at the Charlevoix County Herald.

Arlene Klooster, Adrian Postmus Wed In Ellsworth

Ellsworth — Miss Arlene Klooster and A/3c Adrian Postmus were united in marriage Wednesday evening, July 23, in the Ellsworth Christian Reformed church. Rev. E. Boeve, pastor of the church officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Palms and white glads arranged in large wedding baskets, flanked by two candelabra provided a beautiful setting for the candlelight ceremony.

Jay Kuiper, organist, played traditional wedding music for the service and accompanied the soloists, Mrs. Peter Postmus, who sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because" before the entrance of the Bridal party; and Allie Klooster who sang "The Lord's Prayer," as the young couple knelt following the speaking of their vows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of white nylon net over satin. The dress featured a lace trimmed net yoke, fitted bodice, long sleeves coming to a point over the wrists, with the full skirt, lace trimmed, ending in a long train. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a colonial bouquet of white and pale yellow rosebuds.

Miss Eleanor Heeres, a close friend of the bride, served as bridesmaid, wearing a mint green taffeta and net formal and carrying a colonial bouquet of mixed carnations.

Master Ronnie Drenth of Ellsworth, cousin of the bride, served as ring bearer, carrying the rings on a white satin pillow.

Little Sandra Bergsma of Zeeland also a cousin of the bride, was the flower girl, wearing a yellow taffeta party dress and carrying a white basket of pink carnations. A wreath of daisies in her hair made her a complete picture.

A/3c Gerald Postmus, twin brother of the groom, assisted as best man and wore his Air Force Blues, as did the groom. Arthur Klooster and Peter Postmus, brothers of the bride and groom, respectively seated the guests.

Mrs. Klooster chose a navy and white print sheer dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding and the groom's mother wore a navy sheer dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of red rosebuds.

Mrs. Kate Klooster and Mrs. Hattie Bergsma, grandmothers of the bride, wore navy blue dresses with navy accessories and their corsages were of white carnations.

Following the ceremony the reception for approximately 75 guests was held in the church parlors under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bergsma of Zeeland, who acted as master and mistress of ceremonies; and Don Campbell, who supervised the serving. Recordings of bridal music and hymns provided a musical background for the reception. Misses Eleanor VanderArk, Esther Oosterbaan, Rena DeVries, Betty Drenth, Kay Cooper and Gladys Fielstra assisted in the serving, wearing pastel yellow organdy aprons, gifts from the bride. Kay and Gladys also were in charge of the gift room

The bride and groom cut their wedding cake, a three tiered square cake, iced in white and topped with a wedding bell arrangement.

After the reception the young couple left on a short trip into northern Michigan. Arlene chose a beige gabardine suit with white accessories for her going away costume. The groom returned Monday to his base at Dover, Delaware and the bride will reside in Ellsworth for the present.

The bride, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Klooster, is employed in the office of Morweld Steel Corp. and the groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Postmus is a member of the Airforce with four months duty to his credit.

Lima beans and peas should not be shelled until they are ready for use.

MICHIGAN needs 'em BOTH!

Dwight D. Eisenhower

NO SHIRT-TAIL RIDER—

FRED M. ALGER

Fred M. Alger

Alger became an enthusiastic Eisenhower for president supporter more than a year ago, when the two met and talked over the country's needs, seeing eye to eye.

Alger was the first state official, and the only candidate for governor to endorse Eisenhower. He was criticized for doing so. It wasn't good politics. Good politics dictated that he ride the fence. He wouldn't because he believes the people should know where a candidate for office stands.

The Eisenhower-Alger combination is a natural.

Both are agreed that the Nation's defense comes first.

Both have proven themselves good and able administrators, Ike in the European zone, Alger as an efficient, economy-minded, three-term Secretary of State.

Both are full-time veterans of World War II.

Both have records bespeaking unalterable hatred of dictatorship, Ike in arming the western world against Stalinist aggression; Alger as leader of the movement which ended machine rule of the Republican Party of Michigan.

They understand each other.

It's a pair that can't be beat.

What's doing at Camp Charlevoix

The fourth week of the camp season started off Monday with the arrival of Paul Gach, photographer from Grosse Pointe, here to take the camp pictures. It was a hot, sunny day, just right for pictures, which took both Monday and Tuesday to get finished. Boys were in official camp uniform, and they really made a picture. The finished pictures have arrived and they all turned out super. Boys are busy ordering them for their scrapbooks and to take home to help decorate their rooms.

Wednesday was Mackinac Island day when the first fifty boys enrolled for the summer left for a great day at this historic island. The boys making the trip were: George Thompson, Dirk Scholten, Bob Heller, Chuck Schank, Peter Moe, John Beeman, Jon Schmidt, Koky Cummings, Bill Fox, Steve Levis, Ed and Jimmy Vardon, Bob Siewert, Ben Douglas, John Jacobs, Bob Gordon, Tom Keller, Dave Milligan, Scott Beeman and Chris Roosevelt.

The boats from the Chicago-Mackinac race were all at the island and it was a thrill for the boys to see all the various types of boats. They also enjoyed their tour through the Grand Hotel. They were accompanied on this trip by Terry Tyksinski, Doug Walker, Tex Johnson, Manny Alves, Bill Cameron, and Ken Smith.

Wednesday, Cabin one with Bud Bigelow in charge took a two night trip down to Eastport. The boys enjoying this trip were Ben Douglas, Jim Smith, Bob Mehring, Tom Manley, John Walgren, Jim Potter, and Lance Warner.

Thursday was another day on which three cabins took off for trips away from camp. Trips are a very important part of camping and boys enjoy them as they are taught how to live and cook in the great out-of-doors. Cabin 17 with Cleve Rush in charge went over to Susan Lake and enjoyed some fishing. These boys were Rick Smith, Sandy Proctor, John Yensel, Doug Nichols, Peter Barrett, Tom Watkins and Ken Gibbs.

Cabin 13 with Tex Johnson in charge took a horseback trip. The riders on this trip were Ned Kurtz, Allan Leadbetter, Ames Gardner, Bob Gordon, Tom Hoerner, Dave Butler, Greg Shoop and Dan Robinson. The sandy beach of Lake Michigan down at Eastport called Cabin 7 its way, and Chan Benton took his boys there. They were Peter Thingstad, Dirk Scholten, Dick Msyo, Bruce Gustine, Tom Frech, and Jonathen Schmidt.

Friday the regular activities in the camp kept the attention of the boys and Saturday was the Carnival day. The morning was spent with each cabin getting its concession or booth set-up, and by Carnival time at 3:00 o'clock, parents, guests, and boys and men were ready for a terrific show. It was a very successful carnival, the proceeds of which go to the Foster Parent's Plan, which sponsors the two war orphans in Europe. The camp has supported two boys for several years. On Saturday night, there were skits in the clubhouse and everyone ended the day tired but very happy.

Sunday morning the chapel sermon was given by Nate McMurrin, one of the counsellors. He spoke on "Character". Many guests were present and it was a splendid service.

Sunday afternoon we enjoyed a "Little Rodeo" put on by the cowboys. There was calf roping, steer riding, and time events for the boys. Some of the riders in the show were Jack Scott, Tom Keller, Peter Barrett, Chris Roosevelt, Sandy White, and Garr Youngren.

Sunday evening the entire camp was taken into town to see Venetian Night. This was made possible by several parents who came out to camp and took boys in their cars into town. The Camp Charlevoix Boys' Chorus, under the direction of David Netting, gave its usual program of Sea Chantys. The boys sang very well and many were the compliments that came our way. This morning, Monday, we all slept an hour later, and today several trips got on the roads again.

Parents are reminded not to send food, Candy, gum, etc. to the boys. Future dates to mark on your calendars are: Rodeo and Final Indian Ceremony on August 22, with camp closing on August 23.

Mail Carriers To Aid Grouse Count

Lansing — About 800 rural mail carriers are expected to participate in the conservation department's annual mid-summer brood counts of pheasants and grouse during late July and early August.

In the upper peninsula and the northern lower peninsula, about 300 mailmen will count grouse broods seen and the total numbers seen from July 28 to August 9.

In the southern lower peninsula, pheasant broods and total numbers seen will be tallied by about 500 participating mail carriers from July 21 to August 2.

Most pheasant and grouse broods are half grown and quite active during these periods.

Control Of Flies Possible With Good Sprays---Sanitation

Fly control around the farm is no easy job but sanitation and use of recommended spray materials will make it easier, according to Ray Janes, Michigan State college entomologist.

Sanitation means getting rid of all places where flies may breed. Janes said that unless breeding places are removed, it is doubtful that spray materials will do the control job. Manure piles damp areas, calf pens and similar areas are breeding places for flies.

Present regulations forbid use of DDT in dairy barns. But lindane or methoxychlor will control flies in barns, Janes said. Ten pounds of 25 percent wettable lindane powder, or 40 pounds of 50 percent wettable methoxychlor powder, in 100 gallons of water is the correct strength. It should be applied in a coarse spray, but not in quantities that will run off the walls. Do not spray feeds, watering cups or mangers, Janes warned.

Outside walls or pig pens may be sprayed with DDT at the rate of 40 pounds of 50 percent wettable powder for 100 gallons of water, also may be used. Lindane, mixed the same as for inside use also is effective.

A combination of pyrethrum and piperonyl butoxide is now available for spraying for horse flies and will aid in control of deer flies. However, treatment will last only about five days even under the best circumstances and concentrated dosages. Follow instructions of manufacturers, Janes recommended.

All Concerned With Army Worms To Meet

There will be a special meeting of everyone who was concerned with the army worm control program for the past two weeks this Thursday evening, July 31 at 8:30 p.m. Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, reports. The meeting will take place at the Marion Center hall south of Charlevoix.

All farmers in this area who have used spray materials or who had spraying done or who have had some damage frdm army worms should attend this meeting. Also everyone who aided in the control program should also attend. The purpose of the meeting is to settle up for the materials used, for the sprayers and for any other help that we have received.

Grass Program Is Answer To Summer Feeding Problems

About 21 percent of the tillable acres in Northern Michigan are in pasture, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, said today. Because of this high percentage, it is important that pasture be given serious attention. Native grasses supply good pasture early in the season; however, by midsummer they mature and become dry so they are no longer capable of supplying the needs of producing livestock.

Alfalfa and brome grass, and reed canary grass are some of the better high producing types of pasture that will hold up during a dry period. A program that has become popular is to make grass silage out of some of the early, plentiful supply of forage for midsummer feeding. A trench or horizontal type silo may be used.

To further hold down the cost of this job of preserving some of the feast for the famine, this silage can be put into this trench without chopping. It is important to have sides fairly straight on the silo and to pack it well by driving over it with a tractor. The top may he covered with a saw dust to a depth of about six inches to prevent spoilage.

A field planted to fall rye in mid-August will give early fall pasture. This may solve the problem of having a field to pasture while the alfalfa-brome takes its fall rest period. Fertilizing the reed canary grass will make it more palatable. Those who do not have reed canary should remember that it is the summer dry months when the water table is low that those areas suitable for this crop can best be worked up. Seeding should be by mid-August or else late fall after plant growth has stopped. This usually means November 15.

Advises Buying Seed Wheat From Local Suppliers

Many farmers are beginning to think about seed for the wheat crop to be planted this fall. S. C. Hildebrand, Michigan State college extension specialist in farm crops, has some suggestions based on research tests and experiences of farmers.

Both soft white winter and soft red winter wheats are recommended for Michigan depending on the section of the state. the hard red winter wheats are not recommended because they do not produce typical hard wheat. Therefore, a dockage may result if the soft and hard types become mixed on the farm or at the elevator.

Hildebrand recommends purchasing seed wheat from local seed dealers and seed producers. They are interested in your business year after year while salesmen who travel from farm to farm selling seed at high prices may never try to sell you seed wheat again. For this reason local dealers may be more dependable. In some cases, salesmen from other areas may sell seed which is not even adapted to your farm.

The Michigan State college specialist also points out that seed certified by the Michigan Crop Improvement association is of high varietal purity and is more free from mixtures of other wheat and rye. Such seed is as good or better than any available and can usually be obtained locally

Today's farmer has to be a shrewd businessman and operate his farm on a sound financial basis, MSC agricultural economists say.

30 Years In Postal Service

"Thirty", in the vernacular of the newspaper, means "the end" but for two employees at the Charlevoix post office it marks the number of years in the postal service . . . and both are counting on continuing for many more years.

They're Louis O'Niel, dispatcher, and Floyd Black rural letter carrier, to whom the number "30" and 1952 hold a special meaning. For O'Niel it is the beginning of his thirtieth year in the postal service and for Black it is the completion of three decades as a rural carrier.

Both started in the postal service in the early 1920's when it was a common practice to spend as many as 16 hours on the job and when it took hours to cover the rural routes, either via a car over rough country roads in the summer or with a horse and cutter in the winter.

But both agree things are looking up for postal employees. The wages have increased 300 percent, employees now have a regular work week and 69 more days of annual leave and, for the rural carrier, the cars are better, the roads are improved and winter deliveries aren't too much different from the summer runs.

O'Niel started with the postal department in 1923 as a clerk, the employee who does all the jobs no one else wants or has to do. As he puts it, 'I went through the mill'. His next assignment was that of letter carrier on the valley route but before long he was back in the office as a clerk before starting as an understudy to the late Barney Harrington as dispatcher. He became regular dispatcher when Mr. Harrington retired in 1936.

More recently he was in line for the assistant postmaster's position when Peter H. Timmer became postmaster in May of this year but he turned it down. There's only one job he wants now . . . that of rural letter carrier.

Dispatching mail is quite a job, Lou explained, as he stood at his post. First, all the mail is sorted and placed in its proper pigeonhole, then its packaged and routed as it is placed in a special mail sack.

After years of practice he makes it sound simple but actually there's a lot to it. First it is necessary to know the name of every post office in the state (there are now 1150) and the railroad or star route which services it. There are more than 80 ways most letters can be routed and a dispatcher must know them all. Incidently, when he started on the job there were some 1640 post offices in the state.

Out-of-state mail is also placed in special pouches and is either sorted again on the mail car or in another post office.

Through the years the type of mail has changed too, Lou said. Up until about 1940 the only foreign mail was an occasional letter sent by a native European to a relative abroad but in the past ten years all that has changed. During World War II, mail was sent to every place American troops were stationed and now letters go back to many of those places. Again American troops are overseas and many more people are traveling abroad again so overseas mail is heavy, especially for the two months prior to the holidays.

The mail load has changed through the years also. In the 1920's, for instance, Eveline Orchards sent many cases of cherries and apples as gifts. The same was true of the Loeh farms when gift packages of cherries went through the local postoffice.

In addition the Ironton and Beaver Island mail, routed through the local postoffice, has grown. During the winter months, especially, the Beaver Island mail is quite an item. From Jan. 1 until navigation on Lake Michigan opens after April 1, all mail plus all produce, meat, etc., is carried via plane and must be weighed before shipment since payment is made on a weight basis.

Even the methods of transporting the Beaver Island mail, has changed, Lou added; for when he first joined the postal staff it was carried over the ice by horse and sleigh or dog team during the winter months. During the months before the ice was solid or when it was breaking up there was no mail service. Air mail to Beaver Island was inaugrated in 1925.

In addition to his work as a dispatcher, Lou is a civil service secretary in the district, has given all postal civil service examinations here far 15 years and does a cost ascertainment count here four times annually.

In his spare time Lou likes to fish. He denies that he is a stamp collector . . . he sees enough stamps during working hours without adopting it as hobby, he says.

For Mr. Black the changes have been equally as varied. When he first started as a rural carrier he covered the 32.75 miles of rural route 2 with a Model A Ford which at the time was quite an improvement over the horse and buggy. In the winter, however, it was old Dobbin hitched to a cutter that brought the mail to residents of the Ironton, Marion Center and Phelps communities.

The late Louis Sharrow was the first to attempt the winter rounds in a motor vehicle which he called a snow-mobile. Mr. Black recalls. For the past 20 years, however, the roads are opened by the Charlevoix county road commission and, with only a few hardships, the mail is delivered daily with little loss of time despite the snow.

In addition to serving as rural carrier, Mr. Black operates a farm in Marion township. He takes great bride in his horses which have won many horse-pulling contests in the north.

Both men can retire from postal service at the age of 55 years with 30 years of service but neither, at the present time, has any such thing in mind. In fact they both figure they're good for many more years of service with the post office department.

CONGRESSMAN
CHARLES E. POTTER
Republican Nomination, August 5

VOTERS OF THE 11TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT:

Here's a personal message for you from your Congressman, Charles E. "Chuck" Potter, your Republican candidate for U. S. Senator from Michigan

"Just the other day, when I was between 'here' and 'there', I had a long conference with a number of my close friends from the 11th District who have been associated with me over the years in my campaigns.

"We discussed very seriously whether my schedule should not have included more time back home in the 11th District during my present campaign for the U. S. Senate. We studied my past schedule and my future schedule, and decided that it would be much the best for me to continue the program in the rest of the state.

"Since I commenced this campaign for United States Senator, I have been working at top speed, day and night, with a grass roots program that has taken me up and down the entire state, from one coast to the other. I have been home only twice.

"Here's the way I reasoned, in case any of my good friends and colleagues in my own 11th District feel I should have spent more time in our home district:

"My friends at home know me well. You have honored me with your votes and your wonderful support for three terms in Congress. You know my history, my story, my record and my beliefs. In other words, from our long and wonderful association, you know all there is to know about me and what I stand for, and by your votes you have shown that you have faith in me.

"However, as you well know, the rest of Michigan doesn't know me as well as you do. It was, therefore, incumbent on me to take our message to the rest of the state, right up from the grass roots level.

"So this is the way I have been spending my time, and this is why I haven't been able to come back home and campaign as I would have liked to do.

"But I am sure that all of you in the 11th District, who for so long have done me the honor of allowing me to represent you in Congress, not only understand but agree with the campaign I have been waging and the schedule I have followed. We are embarked on a tremendously important task, and I am deeply grateful for the wonderful support which I know you are giving me."

Johns will serve as temporary officer in charge until Stewart D. Holmes, Bos'n, arrives from the 8th C. G. District to assume command.

Beaver Island Homecoming Is This Week-End

Homecoming . . . a time when everyone who can returns to his home or home-town to meet old friends and visit familiar haunts.

That is what former Beaver Island residents will be doing this week as they make their way back to America's Emerald Isle located in northern Lake Michigan 34 miles northwest of Charlevoix for the annual homecoming and August dinner.

The event which provides the opportunity for the annual pilgrimage is held for the benefit of Holy Cross Catholic church to which approximately 95 percent of the island residents belong, for most are decendants of the Irish Catholics who came to the island nearly a century ago. The Rev. Joseph Herp O.F.M. is pastor of the church.

And what will thera be for entertainment of former residents during the homecoming? Everything to make an Irishman's heart happy . . . family, friends, food, dances and a parade to name a few.

Saturday will be devoted to 'visiting' and toasting old friends

The real celebration will he on Sunday when everyone starts the day by attending Mass at Holy Cross church.

At noon the ladies of the parish will serve a turkey dinner at the Parish hall with the entire island population of more than 300 joining with several hundred visitors for the occasion.

Immediately following the dinner there will be a parade through the business district of St. James, the island's only town located on the harbor at the northeast side of the 17-mile long island. Coastguardsmen from the local lifeboat station will add a military touch as they lead the parade

The Charlevoix lifeboat station has accepted delivery of a new 40-ft. utility boat, Robert C. Ashdon, Bos'n, commanding officer of the U. S. Coast Guard Group Charlevoix which includes the local lifeboat station, announced prior to his transfer to San Juan, Peurto Rico.

Because of its speed and maneuverability, the new boat will add much to the efficiency of the local station, Mr. Ashdon said. It will step up rescue work and will also cut down on the time necessary in making regular trips to the other stations in the group which extends from South Fox Island north to White Shoals lighthouse near the Straits of Mackinac.

The craft is powered by two 200 h.p. General Motor Diesel engines and has a cruising speed of 23 miles per hour. At full speed it will travel better than 26 miles per rour.

Equipped with radio, the boat has both inside and outside control stations and can be operated by only two crewmen if necessary. The small forward cabin has two bunks and a small galley.

The boat was brought here by railway flat-car from Curtis Bay, Md., where it was built. It replaces the 36-ft. picket boat which earlier was taken to the St. Joseph area of southern Lake Michigan.

The Charlevoix Lifeboat station has two other boats used in its operations, a 26-ft. surf boat and a 36-ft. lifeboat.

Plans Underway For Annual SPEB Song Jamboree

The Barbershop Jamboree held here over the Labor Day week-end is growing up.

The event held annually under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix chapter No. 19, S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A., will observe its tenth birthday this year, and as if in celebration of the event, it promises to be the best yet.

Reservations are arriving daily for the event which will be held Aug. 29-30-31 and Sept. 1 at the Charlevoix Beach Hotel, Jerry F. Scudder, secretary-treasurer of the host chapter, has announced.

Invitations have been issued to a number of 'name' quartets who will appear in the annual Parade of Quartats, a public program at the high school auditorium Saturday evaning, Aug. 30.

Barney Englehart, president of the local chapter has nominated his committees to complete plans for the Jamboree, which has become a tradition.

A Gay Nineties theme will be carried out in observance of the tenth anniversary of the annual event and local merchants are being asked to use the motif in window displays and in other decorations.

Several hundred Barbershop devotees are expected for the annual Jamboree which has become a top-attraction here through the years.

He plans to leave here via plane Aug. 12 for Miami, Fla., to join the ship.

He will be succeeded by Stewart D. Holmes, Bos'n who will come here from the U. S. C. G. Tender Salvia stationed in the 8th C. G. district.

The bid for $218,575.37 was awarded to Carl Goodwin and Sons of Allegan.

Mr. Goodwin assured Councilman Harry Gebeau and city attorney Norman Ance, who were in Lansing for the opening of the bids, that barring difficulties in getting essential materials the actual construction of the highway would begin after the Labor Day week-end. However, he plans to start preliminary work within two weeks.

The completion date for the project has been set for November 30, 1952.

The project calls for grading and drainage structures and concrete pavement of the stretch of road which will connect the new US-31 completed in 1949 with the section of US 31 at the bridge which was widened when Memorial Bridge was completed the same year.

Boys' Dash To Alaska Furnishes Thrills, Adventure But No Jobs

With ten blow-outs, nine flat tires, two shattered wind-shields, one shattered window, one punctured gas tank and a memorable trip to their credit, eight Charlevoix boys with a yen for adventure returned home recently from Alaska.

All were of one opinion: Despite the fact that they didn't find work or stay as long as they had planned, they would do it over again . . . anytime.

Strikes, a shipping strika which had been on even longer than the steel strika, had halted all construction in Alaska and therefora no jobs wera available. This, however, did not dampen their spirits and they returned, felling they had fulfilled a dream that two of tha group had had for 12 years.

The eight, Bernie Zeitler and Dave Hardy, who had planned the trip since they were boys, Cliff Lagerman and Dick Donaldson, all four veterans of four years in the Air Force from which they were discharged late in June, Warren Shadko, George Haggard, Tom Donaldson and Larry Petersen, left here in two cars early in July. They did not travel together from here but on July 3 rendezvoused at Shelby, Mont., from where they started the long trek up the Alcan Highway to Fairbanks July 4.

The highway, they explained, is definitely not a super-highway. It's built of gravel and stone and it was the latter that was responsible for the blow-outs, flat tires, shattered glass and punctured gas tank. In the northern section of the highway, gas stations and settlements are 50 to 75 miles apart with nothing but the wide open spaces in between.

Enroute north they had a couple of close calls. Once a big moose lumbered onto the highway in front of one of the cars and another time an oncoming car swerved in the stone and they ended-up on the edge of a 60-foot embankment, shaken and frightened but safe. But other than that there were no near-accidents.

One of the things that impressed them most was the vast wilderness in northern Canada and Alaska. As Bernie said "It was a thrilling experience worth the entire trip to find yourself on the top of a hill and see before you miles and miles of forest and know that there were places in it where no white man had ever walked."

One day they saw a forest fire miles from the highway which they assumed had been set by lightning or some other quirk of nature for no sign of civilization could be seen.

The second impressive experience was the 24-hour long days. Since they were so near the Arctic circle, it was never really dark. Dave, in telling of it, said you always had the impression that the sun would pop up over the horizon at any minute. And when it did come up, it seemed as though it was only a short distance from where it had set the night before.

The strikes, particularly the shipping strike which started late in May, only a short time after the shipping season to the territory opened, has had its effect on the people of Alaska, they reported. All construction, which must be done during the brief summer season, has been halted as a result of both tha shipping and steel strikes. In Fairbanks alone, a city of 12,000 population, more than 3,000 workmen are unemployed as a direct result of the strikes.

This and the fact that the new GI Bill for veterans was adopted the day they arrived in Alaska, were the deciding factors in their early return. Since the four veterans are planning to attend college under the new Bill, they needed jobs to supplement the funds they would receive under the Bill.

One of the first things they did after arriving in Fairbanks July 9 was to visit a near-by airbase and look up a former high school classmate, Cpl. Arnold Loper, who has been stationed there since December.

Warren Shadko, one of Arnie's closest friends, was among the trio who went from their camp outside town to the base to get in touch with Arnie. Warren said there weren't words to describe the airman's surprise at seeing his friends from home. He immediately applied for a three-day pass and spent the time with the gang, showing them Fairbanks and enjoying their company.

Fairbanks, incidently, isn't much of a city, they reported. Most of the buildings are small and of wooden construction although a few modern more permanent buildings are appearing.

One of the stories they relate is about Warren, who went to the store for two loaves of bread. The expression on his face when the clerk said "91 cents, please" was something to see. Other foods were equally high. For instance, whole milk is 75 cents a quart.

They paid many prices for gasoline along the way, but the highest was 69 cents for five quarts in northern Canada.

Another thing they enjoyed was the wild-life. Black bears with cubs, a mother moose and two small ones (meese, as one of them called the little ones) deer and other small animals were numerous along the highway which is cut through wilderness. The fishing in the Yukon territory, they said, was fabulous.

In Fairbanks thay watched workmen dredging for gold. In one placa the earth was torn from the hills by machines as they mined for the precious metal. Close by was a smelter and processing plant.

The weather was ideal with temperatures up to 87 degrees, they reported. The mosquitoes, however, were the largest they had ever seen. One couldn't sleep without a netting at any time.

When they decided to return home, they sold all thier food supplies, keeping only enough for the return trip.

In all, they covered approximately 9,000 miles.

Was Alaska all they expected it to be? The answer was a unanimous "Yes, even better and more beautiful. And we wouldn't have missed it for the world."

Girligigs

Find a chair and sit down, dear gals, because it is going to take a while to report this Fall fashion news to you . . . it's kinda gruesome.

First . . remember the old snaps of yourself that look as if you had stuck your head in a pencil sharponer, then hung it out to dry in tha wind and the rain? . . . Well, you're going to look like that again now because the windblown bob is back. Only now it's called the Chrysanthemum coiffure, no less.

And it takes more than just a bit of doing to get the casual, but careful look . . . as if you had just wandered in out of a gentle breeze. It has to be shaped, set and dried, combed and carefully 'fluffed' with a hairbrush to disarrange the arrangement . . . If you know what I mean.

Second . . . ramembar tho not-so old snaps of yourself with the "new look"? . . . . well, you'ra going to look lika that again now, too. The fabulous Christian Dior has gone and done it again with a new "new look". Main difference being that the new skirts will be almost as long, but slimmor, than the old "new look" skirts of 1947.

And then there's the gal, Schiaparelli, who has designed her Fall silhouette after the (gulp!) grasshopper. This features a "smoothly round, sleek and slender body, swelling hack, bouffant skirt and jut-out wings." How she can get that description out of one of those cross-legged, googly eyed, spittin' beasts I can't imagine.

The designer Carvon has taken her inspiration from tho poor fishes and come up with a sea siren line of afternoon and evening creations that "follow the body without corsatting, with effects (whatever they are) floating towards the back to finish in a fish tail, scaly surfaces, fluid waists and flowing hips." In other words, you won't walk . . . you'll undulate.

I am sure it CAN'T be as bad as it sounds. And all due apologies to our beloved stylists who are continually confusing us with posies . . . and fish . . . and (gulp!) grasshoppers.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Well, What Do You Know?

Do you believe in a bunch of old tales about lightning—about how it's attracted by cats or the warmth of cattle... how it never strikes in the same place twice... or how it's liable to turn milk sour? Lots of people often do—but they're wrong.

Dad Hawkins inspired this column today. He's really studied up on lightning since his own cow barn was struck that time.

"Trouble is, most of us don't know half enough about the subject," Dad says. "And about half of what we do know is false!".

From where I sit, Dad's statement applies to a lot of things besides lightning. Too many people think they know their neighbor's wrong when he votes for his candidate instead of theirs. Some people even resent our right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer if and when we choose. Opinions based on misinformation and prejudice, instead of being "grounded" on true facts can cause more damage than lightning ever did.

What's doing at Camp Charlevoix

The two cabins of the oldest boys in camp left on Monday morning, the start of the fifth week, for a three day trip to Beaver Island. Even though the day was terribly rough and the waves a mile (?) high, they decided that nothing could stop their plans. The boys on this trip were Paul Hunt, Ed Vardon, Edgar Guest, John Hudson, Tim Barnes, Dale Leegstra, Bob Kelly, Sandy Proctor, Doug Nichols, Ken Gibbs, Tom Watkins, Dick Smith, John Yensel, Peter Barrett, with the two counsellors, Phil Shoup and Cleve Rush. Cabin number 10, with Nate McMurrin in charge took a canoe trip down Lake Charlevoix to Young's State Park. All reported a great time and these boys were Clark Wells, Ricki Gilbert, Ricki White, Wally Nitz, David Chumbley, Peter Noonan, and Tom Wasmuth.

On Tuesday Cabin 16 with Jim Ball in charge took a horseback trip. These boys were Bill Fox, Greg Gebhardt, Rick Lenz, Bill Wolff, Kip Taylor, Scott Beaman, and John McBride. Ed Monsma took his cabin of boys by truck to Grave's Crossing on the Jordan River. The boys reported good fishing and the boys on this trip were Roy Chapin, Bob Holmes, Dan Ross, Dave Butler, John Jensen, Bob Appleby, and Tom Richardson.

Hank Hubbard and Jack Kramer took their boys in the Kramer sailboat for two days of sailing on Lake Charlevoix. It is a very large boat and the boys really had a great time. The boys on this trip were Devy Barnes, Keith Dunham, Eric Nagler, Matt Buder, Jack Scott, Jim Varden, San White, Jim Hartman, Steve Robinson, David Weiss, Billy McCleave, Larry Cummins, and Marty Burke.

On Thursday cabin six and eleven, with Don Dohoney and Doug Walker in charge took a horse back trip and the boys riding on this trip were Ted Grace, Garr Youngren, Chuck Hinsch, Art Blaul, Bob O'Brien, Steve Levis, Peter Moe, Tim Lowrey, Peter Dodenhoff, Ralph McElevenny, Bob Wood, and Simmy Leonard and Bill McKee and Bill Parke.

On Friday several of the trips returned and Camp Hay-Wentha came for a day of Inter-camp competition. It was a fine experience for campers from both camps. The visitors winning softball, tennis, and one archery match. Charlevoix boys won one archery match, riflery and swimming. Boys who did outstanding work for Charlevoix were Ralph McElevenny, Roy Chapin in tennis; Edgar Guest in riflery, and in swimming our starts were Peter Dodenhoff, Steve Nichols, Tom Keller, Dick Degener, Dave Milligan, John Hudson, Dick Smith, and Bill McKee.

Sunday morning chapel was attended by several parents. The speaker of the morning was Hank Hubbard who gave a most inspiring talk.

You Can Whisper—and Be Heard!

We should like to have you come in for a ride in a Golden Anniversary Cadillac. And when you do, we hope you will just sit back and relax . . . and listen!

And what will you hear?

Well, you'll hear the soft sound of the wind as it slips past the streamlined body . . . and, possibly, the quiet ticking of the electric clock.

But aside from these—you'll hear almost nothing. In fact, you'll find you can actually whisper—and be heard by your fellow-passengers!

We want you to experience this because nothing speaks more eloquently or more convincingly of motor car quality than—silence!

It tells you, first of all, that here is automotive engineering at its superlative best. For such silence of operation can only come when every phase of the car's performance is in perfect harmony.

It speaks of precision—for only the greatest accuracy in design and construction can result in such remarkable freedom from vibration.

It is a testimonial to fine craftsmanship—to quality materials—and to scientific styling.

And, of course, this marvelous quiet foretells many of the pleasures and satisfactions you would enjoy as the car's owner. It promises rest—and relaxation—and peace of mind . . . and a minimum of upkeep expense.

So why not take our suggestion—and come in and drive this beautiful Golden Anniversary creation? Let it tell you its own wonderful story through the things you cannot hear!

Antibiotic Feeds Not Solution For Worm Infested Pigs

Addition of aureomycin and vitamin B12 to feeds does not overcome the ill effects of worms in hogs, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, told farmers this week.

He said that some hog raisers have the mistaken idea that antibiotics and vitamins will let them forget their worm worries.

Rebman cited an experiment conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to illustrate his point. Eight 10-week-old pigs were divided into two groups of four. Each group contained pigs from the same two litters. At the beginning of the experiment there was not more than a pound difference in weight between the groups of pigs.

One group was fed a regular diet. The other group was fed the regular diet, plus six pounds of a crude mixture of vitamin B12 and aureomycin per ton of feed. Two days after the pigs were divided, two pigs in each group were infested with worms. All the pigs were weighed and slaughtered 169 days later.

Results showed that the worm free pigs on the special diet gained 161 pounds each, but those infested with worms on this diet gained 118 and 120 pounds, respectively. The worm-free pigs on the regular diet gained 98 and 154 pounds each. Those infested with worms on the regular diet gained 70 to 84 pounds each.

Fair Premium Books To Be Distributed

The fair premium books for the Charlevoix county fair which will be held September 2 to 6 are now ready for distribution, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, said today. These premium books may be obtained by stopping at any of the farmers co-ops in the county or by stopping at the County Extension office at Boyne City and picking them up.

Farmers who are interested in bringing cattle to the fair are reminded that animals over 12 months must be Bangs tested and any hogs brought to the fair must be vaccinated. If anyone is planning on bringing cattle or hogs to the fair, please let Ed Rebman know so that arrangements can be made for Bangs testing and vaccination.

Oats Variety Plots Harvested

August Bulmann of East Jordan on the left looking at some Beaver oats and Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, examining somo Eaton oats.

Eaton and Beaver oats looked the nicest at the oat variety plots when they were harvested last week at the farm of August Bulmann, Ed Rebman, county agent, reported today. There were five varieties used—these were Eaton, Clinton, Beaver, Craig and Kent.

These oats were planted April 25 at the rate of 56 pounds per acre. Three hundred of 3-12-12 fertilizer was used per acre and a grass seeding of 8 pounds of sweet clover was made.

The Beaver oats were the tallest and looked very nice. This Beaver oat is a new variety as far as Charlevoix county is concerned. The first Beaver seed was planted last year. The seed for this first variety trial was furnished by George Klooster of East Jordan.

The Eaton oats are still a great favorite among many farmers and they are doing as well as any of the other varieties. They have a good stiff straw and are a good yielder. Many farmers also like Clinton and they looked very nice in these variety plots.

Craig is an oat from New York and this is the first time it has been tried in Charlevoix county. They are a little shorter than the Eaton or Beaver but still looked very well. The Kent oats looked the poorest. The main criticism for them was the fact that while all the other oats were standing up well ready for the combine, Kent was already falling down.

The samples taken last week will be shipped to Michigan State college, East Lansing, where they will be thrashed, weighed and acre yields calculated. When they have these yields the results from Charlevoix county will be published along with the results from the other six variety trials throughout the state.

Adequate Milk Supply Foreseen By USDA Experts

Michigan State college agricultural economists report that U. S. Department of Agriculture specialists figure that farmers have enough cows now to provide an adequate milk supply for our fast increasing population during the next 25 years.

These estimates are based on the opportunities for better breeding, feeding and management now available in increasing number to dairy farmers.

They say artificial breeding with good, proved sires can prove highly important in developing better dairy cows. High yeilds of feed may be obtained from properly - managed grassland crops.

Better cows fed plenty of good-quality roughage will give farmers their best opportunity to feed for maximum milk yields at lowest cost, they summarize.

Proper Milk Care Is More Difficult During Hot Months

"Proper care of milk is always important but needs particular attention during hot summer months," D. L. Murray, Michigan State College extension dairyman, reminded dairy farmers this week.

Getting milk cooled quickly is one thing, but it's not the only consideration in producing quality milk, he pointed out. Cooling only preserves good milk . . . if it hasn't been kept clean, cooling doesn't help much.

To keep milk clean, rinse all the utensils and milkers with a dairy sanitizing solution just before milking. Bacteria spread rapidly in hot weather, so don't give them a chance to live on the pails.

Wipe the cow's udder with a clean cloth that has been dipped in a dairy cleaning solution. Dip the teat cups of the milker in a different pail of solution before each cow is milked.

As soon as the milk is taken from each cow, get the milk out of the barn and into the milkhouse.

Murray advised putting the milk into the cooler as soon as possible. The quicker milk is cooled the lower the temperature, and the less bacteria will grow in it. When milk is only stored overnight, 55 degrees usually is cool enough, although temperatures as low as 40 degrees are better.

After milking, wash all the utensils and milker pails. If the milker has long milk tubes, hang the tubes and teat cup assembly in a solution rack until the next milking.

Fence Maintenance Costs Reduced By Chemical Treatment

The cost of maintaining fences can be materally reduced by the use of chemical wood preservatives and Lester D. Bell, Michigan State college forestry specialist has figures to prove it.

He says that it is a matter of simple arithmetic. If a post costs 75 cents and it costs 50 cents in labor to set it and staple the fence to it, you have a total cost of $1.25. If this post rots off in five years, it has cost you 25 cents per year of service.

If, on the other hand, you take the same post at 75 cents, add 25 cents worth of chemical preservative, and then add the 50 cents labor cost to set it, your post has cost you $1.50. This is where preservatives really pay off because the treated post can be expected to last three times as long as an untreated post—15 years.

With 15 years of life, the annual cost of the treated post is ten cents a year as compared with 25 cents a year for the untreated post. You also save the labor and trouble of resetting the other two untreated posts it would take to cover the 15-year span, Bell points out.

Plan Beef Tour For Calf Breeders

A beef tour has been planned for all members who are raising beef calves for the Charlevoix County Fair, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, said today. This tour will be held next Monday afternoon, August 11 starting at 1:00 p. m.

The first stop will be at the farm of Archie Murphy at East Jordan at which time considerable discussion will be held regarding fitting and showing of the animal, feeding and care of the animal and other points that are pertinent to good success at the show. Other stops during the afternoon will be at the Shank boys, Jack Zoulek, Donna Schroeder and Jim Behling.

The boys who are feeding calves in the Charlevoix and Ellsworth area are Gary Curtis, Kenneth Allison, David Stoel, Chester Farrell, Marvin Oosterbaan and Robert Drenth.

which will be made up of floats entered by all business places as well as by the Michigan Conservation Department and Charlevoix county road commission. A comedy touch will be added by clowns and other comic characters.

A street dance and supper will be climaxed by the big dance at the Parish hall during the evening with Hann's orchestra from Pontiac playing for both round and square dancing. Bill Spaulding will call for the square dances.

And close by, watching all the activities, will be the island's oldest native born resident, Mrs. Dan P. Boyle. Though she celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday anniversary Wednesday her heart will be as light as the youngest dancer's and her spirit as gay.

From her window near the harbor she will watch the visitors arrive for the homecoming and on Sunday she will join them, greeting each as though he were her own for she loves them all.

Blessed with Irish wit and love of her fellow-men, Aunt Maggie, as she is known, is a favorite with everyone. She has always been the first to a bed-side in time of illness or to a home with a comforting word in time of sorrow, now, despite her age, she carries on her small acts of kindness which have endeared her to all who know her.

A devout Catholic, as are the majority of island people, she attends Mass regularly at the parish church.

The love and esteem the island folk have for her, whether they live on the island or elsewhere, was shown several years ago when the farm home where she and her husband had lived for many years was destroyed by fire along with all their possessions.

It wasn't long before a house was found for them and completely furnished by their family and friends. And each who sent something, whether it was large or small, did it gladly for it was an opportunity to repay this tall, angular woman for the love, affection and understanding she has given so generously through the years.

She comes by her Irish ways honestly, for her parents, Dominic Gallagher and Mary Green, came from Erin Moor, County Donegal, Ireland. Shortly after their marriage they came to Beaver Island in the late 1850's a few short years after the death of King James Strang and with him his Mormom Kingdom. On August 6, 1864, their daughter, Maggie, was born.

Other communities may have their queens in beautiful young girls but on Beaver Island Aunt Maggie Boyle will be queen of the homecoming this year as she has been for many years and will continue to be as long as she is able.

'Aunt Maggie' Boyle Awaits Homecoming

Mrs. Dan P. Boyle, oldest native born resident of Beaver Island, observed her eighty-eighth birthday anniversary Wednesday. She looks forward to the annual Beaver Island homecoming Sunday when she can welcome home a host of old friends.

Yachtsmen Enjoy Annual Jamboree On Beaver Island

St. James — The Yachtsmen's Jamboree went off with a bang and "King" Bill Whalen kept us all in suspense by not showing up till the last minute. Upon his arrival he took over his job as master of ceremonies with the greatest of ease. Instead of the usual green hats Bill and his cronies sported bright red ones this year. This didn't stop them from singing the old Irish favorites with their usual flare.

John McDonough and son, Bill, took over from Bill long enough to show their talent on the guitar, harmonica and piano.

Beaver Island was represented by solos by Mrs. Andy Grossi and Miss Patricia Kinney. These ladies with their lovely voices sang several Irish songs.

The public address system that was installed by John McDonough made the show much more interesting as the audience was able to hear better.

Each year the number of yachtsmen who attend the Jamboree is getting larger. This year there were 19 sailing yachts plus several cruisers.

Mrs. K. B. Wright To Join Husband In England Soon

Another Charlevoix bride is leaving soon for overseas to join her service-husband. This time it's Mrs. K. Bryon Wright, the former Colleen Reed, who will leave Charlevoix Aug. 8 for Hamilton, N. Y. enroute to England.

She will sail three days later aboard a transport for Southhampton and from there will go to Oxford, where her husband, Airman 2/c Wright, has an apartment awaiting her.

Overseas since April of this year, he is stationed at an Air Supply Depot at Brize-Norton.

Like all wives journeying overseas, she must take with her all her anticipated needs for the more than two years she plans to be gone—linens, dishes, cooking utensils, personal clothing and needs plus the little things that make a home, pictures, lamps, etc. In fact, the list sent her by the government advised taking most everything but the kitchen sink. Cpl. Wright was a little more fortunate, however. He found an apartment with most everything but a refrigerator.

While living in Oxford, Mrs. Wright plans to attend the University.

Enroute to the east coast, she will meet another airman's wife from Peking, Ill., with whom she has been corresponding. In New York she will meet others who are sailing on the same orders including the wife who will have an apartment in the same house as hers.

Cpl. and Mrs. Wright were married at the Christ Episcopal church here in February. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Reed.

Camp Charlevoix Carnival Helps European Boys

Camp Charlevoix, the area's oldest and largest camp for boys, had a festive air recently as the entire camp turned out for the annual carnival.

But behind all the fun and ballyhoo was a serious and worthwhile motive, the support of the camp's two foster children in Europe.

Mindful of their obligations as foster parents through the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, the 130 boys at Camp Charlevoix work hard toward supporting two children, a project which has been in effect at the camp for ten years.

Besides the carnival revenue, all Sunday chapel contributions and the proceeds from the annual Rodeo refreshment concession go to the fund which requires $15.00 per month for each child for a period of one year.

The camp has two new 'adopted' children this year, they have been notified. They are Daniel Krawczyk, a 14-year-old Polish boy and Christos Skerlos, an 11-year-old Greek boy.

Daniel is being cared for at a colony for Polish war orphans in England and Christos, who was born after his father was killed in action during World War II, lives with his mother in Athens.

In return for his contribution in behalf of his 'adopted' child, the Foster Parents, in this case the entire camp, receive a brief history of the child and a photograph. The boys send Christmas parcels to their 'children' and in return the youngsters write to the boys and send them Christmas and Easter greetings. Correspondence, through the Plan office, is encouraged since the children need the feeling of being loved and belonging to someone, someplace.

In return to gives the campers a feeling of responsibilitp toward someone less fortunate, Kenneth W. Smith, owner-director of the camp said.

Camp Charlevoix is one of four camps in the United States which support European war children through the Foster Parents' plan.

Coleman, secretary of the Charlevoix Board of Commerce, was toastmaster and introduced the officers and board of directors.

Baskets of white gladioli adorned the altar before which the Rev. Max Ostrowski performed the ceremony.

The bride selected a navy sheer afternoon dress, matching accessories and a corsage of white roses for her wedding.

Mrs. John Schmittdiel, as her only attendant, wore a navy blue taffeta gown, matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

D. Nelson assisted the bridegroom as best man.

A wedding breakfast for 25 guests followed at the Dilworth Hotel.

To Observe 59th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Plenny Genett of 301 May street, pioneer residents of Charlevoix county, will observe their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary Saturday.

A family gathering will mark the anniversary for the couple who are not planning a formal observance of the occasion.

Mr. Genett and Mrs. Genett, the former Mary Supernaw, were married at Holy Childhood church in Harbor Springs Aug. 16, 1893. They made the trip from their respective homes in Atwood and Norwood by horse and buggy to Ellsworth where they boarded the train for the trip to Harbor Springs to be married at the Catholic church there because there was no resident pastor at St. Mary's church here at the time.

They returned to Norwood township to make their home on a farm where they resided until moving to Charlevoix in 1937.

Mrs. Genett was born in Ellenburgh, N. Y., July 1, 1872, and came to Michigan with her parents at the age of seven years. She lived near Atwood in Antrim county until her marriage.

Mr. Genett was born at Norwood Sept. 15, 1870.

Both are in good health although Mr. Genett's activities have been limited because of failing eye-sight due to cataracts. Mrs. Genett does all her own house-work and in her spare time sews and crochets rugs. Until this year Mr. Genett had a garden.

They are members of St. Mary's church where both attend services regularly.

They have two children, Mrs. Irving (Lela) Hallett Sr. of Detroit and Ward of Flint. They also have two others they call their own, Mrs. Clarence Whitney of Wyandotte and Theodore Sheldon of Flint whom they reared after their mother, Mrs. Genett's sister, died when the children were five and two years old respectively.

The couple has two grandsons, Richard and Irving (Bud) Hallett Jr, of Detroit and two great-granddaughters.

"Charlie" Marshall Begins Retirement After 32 Years

In a quite little house located on Carpenter avenue, away from the telephone, the fire siren and the bustle of the city hall, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marshall have settled down to make their home following Mr. Marshall's retirement as fire chief and custodian of the city hall.

Their new home will be a far cry from the life the couple has led since 1919 when Mr. Marshall first became assistant fire chief and driver for the city's first motorized fire-fighting equipment. From that time until the city hall was completed in 1939 they lived in the court house building and since then in the apartment over the fire station in the city hall building. It's been a 24-hour a day job for the Marshalls who have lived for 32 years with an ear cocked for the ring of the telephone when any call could be an emergency.

"But it's going to be different now", Mr. Marsball says. "Tillie is going to have a home of her own to fuss with and I'm going to have some time to do what I want."

However, Charlie, as everyone knows him, is not going to hang up his helmet and hatchet for good. He will continue to serve as relief man for Jerome Whitley, who has been appointed to succeed him. At present he is spending a great deal of time at the fire hall acquainting his successor with all the details that go with the job.

Although Charlie has served as fire chief for more than 16 years and assistant since 1919, his fire-fighting days go back even farther for he became a volunteer fireman in 1897 when he was only 18 years old.

Charlie was born in Canada Jan. 9, 1879, and when he was two years old came to Charlevoix with his parents and two brothers, Henry and Eber. His father was a millwright and had come to northern Michigan to be employed in the mills at the beginning of the lumbering era.

Charlie's first job was also in the mill and it was during these days that he became a fire fighter.

Being a fireman in those days was hard work, Charlie relates. It wasn't too long after the bucket-brigade days and the only equipment was a hose cart which was operated by hand. When there was a fire in town, everyone pitched in and no one at the mill was ever 'docked' for the time spent at a fire.

In the late 1890's the town fathers purchased the most modern piece of fire-fighting equipment in the north, the Sylvia, a pump operated by steam. It was stoked by wood or coal and had 200 pounds of pressure, a great improvement on the hand pump. The kindling and coal or wood was always laid under the boiler and when the fire alarm was sounded, the first man there started the fire. By the time the horse-drawn apparatus arrived at the fire, the steam pressure was up and the pump was ready for operation.

The Sylvia not only served this community well through the years but was taken to Pellston and Boyne City as well. The trip to Pellston was made on a railroad flat-car and one trip to Boyne City aboard the tug, Taylor. The other was made by horse team and sleigh in the spring of the year.

It was the first piece of motorized equipment in 1910 that gave Charlie his job as assistant fireman. Until then George Burns, who had a livery stable, had furnished the horses and was also the driver.

During the 32 years, there were few alarms that Tillie did not sound to call the volunteers to their posts.

Charlie has always felt great pride in his volunteer firemen. Just recently he said state fire marshalls had asked him the secret of getting along with his men . . . something many fire chiefs have not learned.

With incredible accuracy Charlie can list the major fires in Charlevoix in the past half century and can tell stories of the damage wrought and the lives lost.

And two days a week will find Charlie back in the harness, just waiting for the chance to be back at his old job . . . one he has performed well and faithfully through the years.

Missing from the picture, however, will be Tillie for she'll be home enjoying herself. And when not at the fire hall, Charlie will be there with her, tending his garden or just reminiscing.

Dr. F. Cook,46 Is Believed Drowned Here

Dr. Franklin Cook, 46 of Evanston, Ill., was believed drowned near his summer home on Lake Charlevoix near Hortons Bay late Friday evening.

He had left the cottage shortly after 9 p.m. for a ride in his 12 ft. outboard motor boat and when he did not return by 11 p.m. his wife, Frances, notified the Coast Guard lifeboat station here and asked that they search for him. Rain and fog halted the search at 3 a.m. but the Coast Guard returned at 5 a.m. and an hour later found the boat about a half mile from the Cook cottage, where it had washed onto the beach in a swampy area. The throttle was open. Later it was discovered the small anchor was missing.

Sheriff Floyd Ikens was notified of the accident Saturday morning and with Michigan State Police joined with the Coast Guard in dragging operations which were continued until Monday noon. Water in the area is up to 120 feet deep.

The Sheriff's department and the Coost Guard are continuing to check the area regularly.

Preparations Pushed For Songfest Here

The Mid-State Four of Chicago, past international champions and the Merri-Men of Lansing, present Michigan champions, will head the list of popular barbershop quartets to appear in Charlevoix during the tenth annual Barbershop jamboree Aug. 29-30 31 and Sept. 1.

The announcement came from Jerry F. Scudder, who with Dr. G. B. Saltonstall is serving as co-chairman of the event, which annually brings to Charlevoix the top quartets of the middle west and several hundred barber shop devotees.

Edwin Smith of Wayne, International SPEBSQSA president, the first Michigan man to head the organization, has accepted an invitation to serve as master of ceremonies for the parade of quartets at the high school auditorium Saturday evening, the only event open to the public.

Howard Tubbs of Detroit, state president, has called a semiannual meeting of the state organization during the four-day convention. Attending the convention will be all state officers and nine area counsellors.

A new and novel stage setting, one of the highlights of the jamboree, is being planned and constructed by Wayne Belding.

Elmer A. Englehart, president of the local chapter No. 19 which boasts 37 members, has named the first of many committee chairmen. They include Randall Crump, signs and street decorations; Leonard Burns, public address system at all events; Louis Hamlin, seating arrangements for all events; registration, Mr. Scudder; Floyd Brown, radio advertising; Bob Miles, stage script.

Other chairmen will be announced later.

Mr. Burns is chapter vice-president and Mr. Scudder is secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Scudder and Dr. Saltonstall assumed the general chairmanship from Jack Dollenmaier of Bay City who is recuperating from a recent illness and thus was unable to carry out the job he has held for several years.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

WENT BY THE new school the other day to have a look-see and we'd like to report that things are looking up . . . The superintendent, Walter Johnson, tells us they've been fortunate in having good weather and they're hoping to have the walls up several feet before school opens . . . They've spent two months on the 'ground' work and it's just that . . . you can hardly see that anything's been accomplished but he showed us it had . . . And by the way, you'll be surprised at the size of the new unit to house the music and manual arts departments . . . Is it ever going to be wonderful . . .

REMEMBER the squirrels at the Tower Hotel we told you about earlier . . . We stopped by to see them the other day and was it fun . . . They have a small screened in porch they call home . . . They have 'nests' in a cabinet drawer 'cause, after all, they do have to keep warm . . . And they also have a tree of their own to scramble about in . . . And they run on the screen as tho' it were nothing at all . . . And when they get to know you they'll even go through your pockets looking for 'treats' . . . And you'll be in for quite a treat if you stop by to see them . . . Make it late in the afternoon when they've had their naps and they're really playful.

TELL us, if you will, where has the summer gone? . . . Another two and half weeks and it will be the Labor Day week-end and practically the end of the summer . . . But a lovely one, we might add . . . And did you ever see anything lovelier than the moons we've been having recently . . . We hope our summer visitors appreciate the fact that we ordered them just for them . .

AN ORCHID to the Rod and Gun Club for the grand sportsman's carnival enjoyed by so many over the week-end . . . The club is a good example of what can be done when everyone pitches in and does his share . . .

MICHIGAN and Petoskey avenues have been busy places this week . . . what with Michigan Highway department crews surveying for the new highway and the prelimary work of removing trees started . . . Looks like the contractor will be here to start the job Sept. 2 . . . only three weeks from now . . .

AS MOST of you know by now . . . Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson was a summer resident here as a child and last summer was a guest of J. P. Wilson on the Chicago Club . . . In answer to a wire of congratulations on his nomination he has sent the following letter to Mayor John Knight . . . "The wire of congratulations from the City of Charlevoix touched me deeply. Charlevoix is the scene of my earliest and happiest memories. I wish I were there now! Cordially yours, Adlai E. Stevenson," . . . A gracious gesture graciously acknowledged. we think.

DON'T FORGET to listen to the All Stars-Los Angeles Rams football game from Soldiers' Field Friday night . . . Bob Carey, Charlevoix's first All-American, is among the more than 60 college athletes on the All-Star team . . And on the sidelines will be his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Carey, his twin, Bill and brother Tom . . Wouldn't you like to be there too?

Girligigs

From the world of science has come news that has revolutionized my wishful thinking. After what I heard the other day, I no longer wish to someday swing on a star, or loll on a moonbeam way up thar . . .

It seems up on the moon the skys are always black as velvet, and the days are a whole month long . . . which means I would have to do a good week's work between sunrise and moon (whew!) . . . and get a whole week's sleep between moon and sunset. That I know I couldn't do . . . even tho' the nights are two weeks long!

It doesn't make any difference on the moon whether the weather is cold or whether it's hot . . . 'cause I'd be where the weather is absolutely NOT.

There'd be no clouds, no patter of rain, no soft breezes . . . just nothing. No twilight . . . no starlight. . .

The only one good reason I could find to bask on that moonbeam is that there wouldn't be any mosquitos.

So if wishes were fishes . . . I'd rather be a fish.

What's doing at Camp Charlevoix

Monday of the sixth week of camp was devoted to cabins getting ready for trips, as we are right in the midst of our annual trips weeks, and boys are ever eager to take to the open road and see new places and do new things. On Tuesday, cabin 8, 13, and 16 returned from Wilderness State Park at Mackinaw City, only to have their camping site taken over by three more groups from here. Doug Walker took his boys up there, the boys being Ted Grace, Peter Moe, Garr Youngren, Steve Levis, Bob O'Brien and Arthur Blaul. Bill Cameron took the following boys from his cabin, John Millis, Steve Nichols, Jimmy Alt, Arthur Sullivan, and Chris Roosevelt. Don Dohoney also took this trip with Tim Lowrey, Peter Dedenhoff, Ralph McElevenny, Bob Wond, Bill Parker, Bill McKee, and Sim Leonard.

Cabin number 18, the oldest boys in camp, and under the leadership of Phil Shoup, took a horseback trip. The boys riding on this trip along with Whip Burnside, the cowboy, were John Hudson, Edgar Guest, Paul Hunt, Ed Vardon, Bob Kelly, Dale Leegstra, and Tim Barnes. And not to be outdone by the bigger boys, the cabin of the littlest boys in camp took an overnight, too. David Netting took the following boys out, George Davis, Chris Chapin, Pat Anderson, Billy Self, John Mapes, Dick Alt. They spent the night at Whiting State Park.

On Wednesday, Chan Benton took his boys down to Grave's Crossing on the Jordan River and they had two nights out. These boys were Peter Thingstad, Dirk Scholten, Bruce Gustine, David Ferguson, Jon Schmidt, Tommy Frech, and Bob Klintworth.

Another horseback trip left on Thursday. This time it was Cleve Rush's cabin. The boys were Dick Smith, John Yensel, Peter Barrett, Tom Watkins, Kent Gibbs, Doug Nichols, and Sandy Proctor. Cabins 12 and 14 with Ed Monsma and Terry Tyksinski left for Eastport with their boys. They were Rny Chapin, Bob Holmes, Dan Ross, John Jensen, Tom Richardson, Dave Butler, Bob Appleby, Bob Siewert, Chuck Schank, David Milligan, Otis Cummins, Tim Mast, and Johnny Watson.

Friday, trips were returning all day long and it is always a thrill to see the trucks coming into camp, and hearing the boys singing "O We're From Charlevoix." Boys rave about their trips, the camping spot; the food, and the fun they have had. This coming week our long trips go out, and already boys are packing for them.

On Sunday morning, Jean Rush, our tutoress, gave the talk at Chapel, and both parents and campers found it very inspirational. Both Jean and Nancy, the nurse, have endeared themselves to everyone in camp, and this summer has been made much happier by having two such wonderful girls in camp. Rodney Deyo, who teaches Indian Dancing here at camp, arrived and boys were very pleased to see him again. They recalled the wonderful Final Indian Ceremony of last year and tomorrow he starts in training the boys in the intricate steps of Indian Dancing.

Charlevoix County Farm News

Oat Test Plots Indicate Plowing Advisable

The TNT plot was the best looking oats. They were taller, had less quack grass and looked as though they would yield more. The field cultivator plot was the poorest in the group and contained the most quack grass of any plot.

The oat tillage plot fitted with the TNT plow at the Charles and Tony Faculak farm appears to be better than the rest of them according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. The TNT plow has a small sub plow underneath the regular point which goes from 2½ to 4½ inches deeper to break up the plow sole. The other operations on the TNT plot was disking twice and using a spike tooth harrow twice.

On the whole the plots that were plowed are the best looking plots. The oats are taller, they have larger and better heads and there is less quack grass than in the plots that were not plowed.

The plots with the once over tillage methods such as the plow and clodbuster plot, the plow and rotary hoe plot and the plow and weeder plot are very good though not quite as good as the one with the TNT plow. On the other hand there is a saving of two or three operations in fitting the ground at a cost of several dollars per acre. With oats at 70c per bushel this means that we could have somewhat fewer oats and still come out ahead of the game.

The poorest looking plot of course are the ones that were not plowed. The field cultivator plot which was field cultivated three times, disked once and spiked once is the poorest. The Chisel plowed plot and the disk harrow plot are also very poor. The oats are thinner and there is considerable more quack grass appearing in the plots.

It had been planned that yields would be taken of each one of the plots, however, the army worm did enough damage to some of the plots that yield samples would not have been too accurate. But from the looks, it pays to plow for oats.

State 4-H Club Show Slated To Start August 16

The cream of Michigan's crop of 60,000 boys and girls who are 4-H Club members will engage in friendly competition the last of this month at the 37th annual State 4-H Club Show. The event is slated to begin August 26 on the Michigan State College campus in East Lansing.

Some 2,000 boys and girls are expected to be on campus for the 4-day event. They will exhibit more than 5,000 entries in 500 divisions and classes, according to Berne Freeman, acting state 4-H Club leader.

For the Tenth year the State Show will be held on the MSC campus. Prior to that, the 4-H Club members held their statewide competition at the State Fair in Detroit. During the war when state fairs were abandoned the 4-H'ers moved their activities to MSC . . . and they liked it so well they've kept coming back, Freeman said.

Special evening entertainment will spark the usual judging and demonstrations program. Talent from the 4-H Club members themselves will be on parade, the annual style revue will be held and there will be the usual opening assembly on the first night of the show.

Premiums and awards, furnished primarily by the Michigan Department of Agriculture, will amount to $28,000 this year. Special awards will be given by firms and organizations and several out-of-state trips will be awarded. Highest honor will go to two boys and two girls who win the coveted trip to the National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, D. C. next year.

Freeman urged the people of Michigan to attend the State Show, "It is open to the public free of charge and we would like to have them see the work 4-H members have been doing the past year," he said.

East Jordan 4-H Girl To Model At State Fair

Charlevoix county dress review winner, Margaret Lord of East Jordan, will model her 4-H garment as a part of the program at the Michigan State Fair at Detroit Saturday evening, August 30, K. C. Festerling, district 4-H Club agent reported today. Miss Lord was county dress review winner at spring achievement day held last April. She modeled her garment at district competition at Michigan State College on July 1. She won the blue ribbon distinction at this club week review and will attend the State Show and model her garment for state honors August 28.

Miss Lord models a sport dress of gold denim. She will leave direct from Michigan State College for the State Fair with a delegation of 25 other 4-H girls. The trip to Detroit, meals, transportation and hotel accomodations will all be taken care of with the compliments of the state fair management. The dress review at the Michigan State Fair will take place at the band shell. Following the dress review the girls will receive free tickets to the performance in the coliseum. Miss Lord will hurry home on August 31 to attend her brothers weddng.

beef animals now on feed starting at 3:00 p.m. Anyone who is interested in purchasing these animals should plan on doing so. If your home freezer will not hold an entire steer, line up with a friend or two and buy one of these fine animals together so you may have some good meat to eat this winter.

The pig sale will follow this, and to wind up the program there will be a pig scramble. The evening program will be a grandstand circus put on by Klein's Attractions.

Horse races will he held on Friday and Saturday, which has been designated as Charlevoix Day and Children's Day respectively. These races will start at 2:00 p.m. Klein's Attractions will again put on the Friday evening program while the horse pulling will be Saturday evening. The Michigan Traction Dynamometer will be used to furnish more entertainment and a better pulling contest.

The school bands from Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City are expected to be present at the fair on their days. The amount of exhibits and the quality will be better than last year. Everyone is invited to take a week off and attend the Charlevoix County Fair.

MANURITIS

SYMPTOMS — Tender hands, cramped fingers, aching muscles particularly in the back, abnormally warm feet. Many victims find themselves nearly exhausted after a days work. Condition may be serious if victim has mental aversion to work around the barnyard.

Recommended Relief

The disease is seldom fatal unless accompanied by heart trouble or other physical ailments. Definite relief is possible in nearly every case by eliminating the cause. Before you begin hauling manure, see us about equipping your tractor with a Horn hydraulic loader.

Switches to Dodge . . . lowers hauling costs

- Whatever you haul, there's a Dodge truck— ½-ton through 4-ton—that's "Job-Rated" to fit your job and save you money.
- Full crankcase ventilation saves oil, lengthens engine life, and lowers upkeep costs.
- Two fuel filters—instead of only one—keep fuel clean to help prevent carburetor clogging and fouled cylinders.
- For smooth power that saves wear and tear, gyrol Fluid Drive—a Dodge "exclusive"—is available on ½-, ¾-, 1-ton, and Route-Van models.
- Come in today for a demonstration and a real good deal.

"My Dodge has proved to be a real saver on gas!"

says LEWIS ENGEL, Reliable Supply Company, Chicago, Ill.

"We are getting several more miles per gallon with our Dodge 'Job-Rated' truck—and in a small business like mine, economy is important.

"My Dodge has not only proved to be a real saver on gas—but we are real pleased with Dodge dependability. Hauling pipes, fixtures, plumbing tools and other heavy equipment has broken down several trucks for us. But our Dodge has taken heavy-duty use over bumpy roads for a long time now and we haven't had to have a single mechanical repair."

Enjoy over-all economy. Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks are easy on gas and oil, thanks to compression ratios as high as 7.0 to 1. Other cost-cutting advantages include lightweight aluminum-alloy pistons and gas-saving carburetor with economizer valve.

Cut down upkeep. With a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck you get such proved money-saving features as 4-ring pistons with chrome-plated top rings, exhaust valve seat inserts, pre-fitted connecting rod bearings, positive-pressure lubrication, and other features.

Get long life. A Dodge "Job-Rated" truck gives you special alloy steel springs and shot-peened axle shafts. Other dependable Dodge long-life advantages include such features as wear- and heat-resistant valves, oil-bath air cleaner, and floating oil intake.

Foster-Parsons Exchange Vows At St. Mary's Church Here Saturday

St. Mary's church was the scene Saturday morning of the marriage of Patricia Ann Foster, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Ernest Franklin Foster, and Roger John Parsons, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Theodore Parsons of Rogers City.

White gladioli and asters combined with huckleberry greens adorned the altar before which the Rev. John Grzybowski performed the double ring ceremony. The pews were also decorated with white flowers and huckleberry greens.

Traditional wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. Frank Oleksy, and Mrs. Cornelius Geiken was soloist.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. For her wedding she selected a gown of white faille designed with a sheer yoke and cord trim. Her two-tiered veil of illusion net was secured by a brim of lace brought from Belguim by her father. A handkerchief of the same lace was tucked in the cuff of her left mitt. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and gladioli buds.

Genevieve McArdle of Ionia, a college room-mate, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of white nylon net styled with a brief cape and bouffant skirt. Her head-dress was of blue bachelor buttons and huckleberry leaves and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and blue bachelor buttons.

Leonard Parsons of Rogers City assisted his brother as best man. Leo Parsons of Rogers City, brother of the bridegroom, and Paul E. Foster, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Foster wore a cotillion blue silk shantung suit dress and white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Parsons chose a navy blue crepe dress and white accessories. Both mothers had corsages of Talisman roses.

A reception followed at Heerings and later a wedding breakfast was served to the wedding party and their immediate families.

Miss Florence Hanhagel of Lansing, aunt of the bride, was mistress of ceremonies. Assisting her were Nancy Foster of Winnetka, Ill., Ann Henderson of Niles, Jo Dougherty of Piqua, O., and Gayle Williams of Marysville, O.

After a northern Michigan wedding trip the couple will live at Purwood street, Rogers City. For traveling the bride chose a navy bagerdine suit, a matching velvet hat and a white carnation corsage.

The bride has taught at Rogers City for the past two years. The bridegroom is associated with the Parsons Studios there.

Guests for the wedding were present from Rogers City, Alpena, Grayling, Houghton Lake, Petoskey, Torch Lake, Lansing, Ironton, Mt. Pleasant, Mason, Kalamazoo, Seattle, Wash., and Palo Alto, Calif.

Fall Fashions Given Preview

The fashion tables have turned on us and are giving us Navy blue as a favorite year 'round color for smart women. This was obvious in the Fall fashion showing at the Tuesday luncheon and style show at the Belvedere Hotel.

Over 100 ladies attended the 12:30 luncheon and preview of early Fall fashions from the Polly Kay Style Shop, which are being featured in the current issues of Harpers Bazaar, Voque and Mademoiselle magazines.

Although navy is predominate for wool and knitted sportswear, a new favorite is beige camel's hair, whose classic tailored lines have suddenly gone softly feminine. An outstanding camel's hair suit modeled has a softly detailed boxed jacket, convertible sleeves, and a pencil-slim skirt. (Straight skirts all have an action pleat in the back.) The most popular color accent for beige is a vivid red.

That this is truely a year for sweater girls is proved by the lovely Scotch cashmere sweaters that can't be missed under a suit jacket by their cozy turtle necks.

Fabrics are such good news . . . and the washable, permanently-pleated washed plaid Orlon skirts are tops for teens and college girls. Clothes features for co-eds are matching hats, detachable hoods and pockets . . . out-sized pockets for lipstick, date books, and what-have-you.

Another leading fabric is jersey . . . dressed down for daytime, dressed up for evening. Smartest of these shown is a black all-purpose dress with a softly pleated skirt and a boat neckline.

Anything goes if it is a little bit of red . . . as modeled in a jaunty soft wool coat-dress and three quarter sleeves and slightly flared skirt.

Applause was spontaneous upon the appearance of a dramatic black velveteen coat accented with large pearl buttons. The high styled skin-tight sheath dress and the full skirted velveteens are equally charming for tea or cocktails.

The youngest were not forgotten in the parade of back-to-school styles. As usual, red and blue plaids are the favorite for skirts, slacks and pedal pushers . . . Teamed with matching or plain flannel boxers, they are almost a new uniform.

The lovely models for Tuesdays fashion show were members of the Belvedere Club. Fashion comments were given by Polly Haggart of the Polly Kay Shop, and piano music was played by Mrs. Ruth Thompson.

UNITED STATES Delegate Benjamin Cohen has told the 12-nation UN Disarmament Commission that this nation will not agree to tie its hands against using A-bombs, germ weapons or chemical warfare against agression until there is a world guarantee against mass destruction weapons.

Bambi Steps Out Of Fiction

Pictured are Bambi, 7-weeks old fawn, and the four boys of the William Parsons family of Norwood township, who 'adopted' him when they found him crying in the woods near their home. Bambi has since gone to a new home furnished by the Michigan Conservation Department.

With him in the picture are (l to r) Floyd, 14, Dale, 10, Bambi Ivan, 13, David, 6, and Mickey, the family dog.

There's an air of sadness about the William Parsons home in Norwood township these days. The reason? Their pet, Bambi, a seven-week-old fawn who had lived with the family almost since birth has gone to a new home provided by the Michigan Conservation Department.

The four Parsons boys who 'adopted' the fawn when it was but a few hours old go about their chores with heavy hearts and in odd moments talk of Bambi and the fun they had with him.

It all started late in June when the oldest boy, Ivan, 13, and a friend, Dickie Way, heard the cry of the new-born fawn while on their way home from a swim in Hardwood Lake. Fearful of what might happen to the little thing in the woods, the boys carried him home.

Mrs. Parsons, shocked by their actions, sent them scurrying back to the spot after explaining it was unlawful to pick up little fawns and trying to convince them the mother deer was near by. The mother, however, evidently frightened by the human smell on her baby, would not claim it and after 24 hours alona in the woods the Parsons had no choice but to bring it home and attempt to raise it.

Soon he was drinking milk from a nursing bottle and before long was running about on his litttle match-stick legs.

The boys, familiar with the story of another little deer, called

Fred Cartier Sells Clothing Business, To Continue Tailoring

Missing from the pages of the Charlevoix Courier this week for one of the few times in the past 52 years is an advertisement from one of the city's oldest merchants, Fred E. Cartier, who announced this week that he is selling his present business.

The men's-ready-wear clothing business which he has run for 52 years is being sold to Jack Mailhot of Mailhot's Outdoor Outfitters in whose store he has operated the business for several years. He plans to continue his tailor shop at the same location, however.

One of Charlevoix's oldest business establishments will pass out of existence with the sale, for Mr. Cartier came here from Chatham, Ont., in the summer of 1900 and since the following summer has operated a business under his own name.

Through the years he has seen Charlevoix grow from a logging and fishing village to northern Michigan's finest summer resort.

For more than half a century he provided men's clothing for major occasions in the lives of Charlevoix's men-folk, whether it was a boy's first long pants or a wedding suit.

He has done his share, too, making Charlevoix a finer place in which to live.

He has backed many civic improvements from the city's first sewerage system in the early 1900's to its modern sewerage disposal plant completed in the 1930's. As a member of the city council, he was influential in making the parks one of the city's finest features. When a member of the Charlevoix Hospital board of directors he urged the con-

Mid-States Four To Headline Parade Of Quartets August 30

The tempo of activities has been stepped up as the Charlevoix chapter No. 19, S. P. E. B. S. Q. S. A. puts the finishing touches on their plans for the tenth annual Barbershop Jamboree at the Charlevoix Beach Hotel over the Labor Day week-end.

Reservations from throughout the midwest and several eastern states have already been received for the summer's concluding event which will open Friday night with the chapter and ladies night parties at the hotel for chapter members and visitors.

The Mid-States Four of Chicago, a versatile quartet whose antics promise to entertain the visitors here as much as they did American fighting men in Japan and Korea last year, will headline the parade of quartets expected for the Jamboree, one of the top events of barbershop circles.

The Mid-Stetes has a reputation of being ona of the most entertaining organizations in barbershopping. They can take any song and by their clever and versatile rendition make it entortaining. Of course, their outlandish costumes and manners do much to add to the presentation. Their most recent costumes include Oriental garb acquired while in the Far East.

The second out-state quartet to join the parade is the Renegades of Q-Suburban, Ill., chapter two, which includes members who have appeared here with two other quartets in the past, each singer having participated in international competition.

On the program with the past international champion, Mid-States, and the Renegades will be the current Michigan champions, the Merrl-Men of Lansing; the Note Blenders of Oakland county and the Crow-Matix, Muskegon, who have participated in state and international competition; the popular Fourfathers of Muskegon and two groups new to Charlevoix audiences, the Hobby Chords of Detroit and the Wolverines of Detroit, also competitors in this year's international contest.

Other quartets will join the parade for the public program at the high school auditorium Saturday night, Aug. 30.

For the third year the Charlevoix Beach Hotel will be headquarters for the Jamboree.

Elmer A. Englehart, president of the local chapter, has completed his selection of chairmen for the various events. Added to chairmanships previously announced are: Dallas Henry, chapter party and Mrs. E. D. Hawley and Mrs. James Coleman, ladies night party Friday; Henry Ingalls, Afterglow Saturday night; Randall Crump and Arthur Heilig, co-chairman for Costume party at Belvedere Casino Sunday night; Jack Grupa, seating arrangements and ticket collection.

The parade of quartets at the high school auditorium Saturday night will be the only event open to the public.

Owls to Enter Class C Ball Tournaments

The Charlevoix Knight Owls will enter the Class C regional softball tournament at Petoskey Friday night after losing to the Cheboygan Eagles by a 7-0 score in the finals of the district tournament here Monday night.

The Cheboygan team will enter the Class B tournament at Alpena the same night.

Three district tournament winners in Class B and C will enter the two regional tournaments. Each team must lose two games before it is eliminated.

The local nine went into the district finals here after defeating Petoskey A. Kans 3-2; Petoskey Fochtman Motor 9-2 and Petoskey Eagles 5-1.

Monday night however, the team seemed to fall apart as they committed seven errors and in the fourth inning alone allowed Cheboygan to score four runs on one hit. Until the last game, however, Charlevoix played excellent ball all through the tournament.

Bob Potter started on the mound for Charevoix Monday night and was relieved in the sixth inning by Phil Shoup. Don Meggison for Potter and John Swanson for Shoup.

Howard Preseau, pitching for Cheboygan, allowed two hits. Charlevoix allowed seven runs and seven hits.

The Cheboygan nine had defeated Petoskey Home Dairy 5-1; East Jordan Iron Works 15-3 and Cheboygen Nordmans 7-1 to go into the finals.

Others teams entered in the district tournament here and eliminated in the early rounds were Mackinaw City, Cheboygan Lakes, Petoskey Elks, Boyne City Merchants, Petoskey Christian church, Petoskey Barnum Brothers, Cheboygan Ginops, Mackinaw City Merchants, Cheboygan Fiesta, Petoskey St. Francis and Cheboygan National Guard.

Dean Davenport was tournament manager.

Former Resident Has Polio Attack

Fred Christensen, 43, of Waukegan, Ill., a former resident and brother of Mrs. Marie Blissett, is recuperating from a recent attack of polio, his sister said this week.

He suffered the attack August 3 shortly after returning home from a vacation trip and was hospitalized at St. Vincent's hospital in Waukegan. Last Thursday he was taken to Highland Park General Hospital in Highland Park, Ill., for further treatment of paralysis of both legs.

Kiwanis Hears Bishop R. J. Wade

Bishop Raymond J. Wade addressed the weekly Kiwanis dinner at the Charlevoix Beach Hotel Monday evening. His subject was "Signs and Sign Posts of Life".

Bishop Wade, who was the Methodist Bishop in Europe before the War, was Bishop of the Diocese of Michigan from 1940 to 1949. He is now president of the Bay View Association and in charge of building the Summer Program at this internationally known summer community.

Kiwanian out-of-town visitors were President Harry C. Sullivan of Grand Rapids East Kiwanis; Roy Fisher and Harry Reeves of Plymouth; Alvin Josyln, Ypsilanti; Robert Burns, River Rouge; "Andy" Bloetcher, Detroit Northwest and Kenneth Bird, formerly of Charlevoix.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

DID YOU happen to notice Lake Michigan Saturday night . . . with the wind kicking up some good-sized waves with each cap highlighted by the setting sun . . . and in the distance some brave sailors bringing in their boats with sails up . . . a sight to be remembered . . .

HAVE YOU noticed the names on the lists of prospective football players at the various schools in the state . . . Next time take a look . . . you'll see several names you know . . . At Michigan Jim Bowman's on the list . . . at Michigan State it's Chuck Fairbanks and at Central Michigan, Ron Cunningham . . They'll all be reporting early and trying out for the Varsity . . . All played together with the Rayders . . . Kinda nice to see the boys doing well . . . We're sure you'll feel just as proud as we do . . .

TWO CHARLEVOIX boys had quite a thrill last week while visiting in Cadillac . . . They were Bab and Dave Miles who were at the airport with their uncle when Arthur Godfrey's plane came in for a landing . . . The great Godfrey put on a little impromptu show for the few people who happened to be there . . . Bob got some pictures and Dave was all set to get his autograph but at the last second got cold feet . . . We understand Mr. Godfrey spent some time at Walloon Lake before going on to Sun Valley . . .

DON'T FORGET your tickets for the Barbershop jamboree and the parade of quartets Saturday night . . . Aug. 30 . . We always contend we're not much for barbershopping but come this time of year, we get the fever . . . just like everyone else . . . Then, too, when you get to know some of the foursomes it's fun too . . . Looks like a good bill so keep it in mind . . .

IT WILL soon be time for the kids to go back to school . . . Sept. 9 is the day Charlevoix's young fry will go back to learnin' a little more about the three 'R's . . . and shortly after that the big kids will be going back to college . . . If any of your family's going to school, to the service or just going some place . . . how's about giving us a ring . . . We don't like to miss anyone hut we don't always hear about it, you know . . .

WE HAD the good fortune last week to be invited to the farewell party the Coast Guard gave for their departing C. O., Bob Ashdon . . . The party and the spirit in which it was given should have meant a great deal to Bob and Shirley for the boys were really sincere when they said they hated to see him go . . . You knew they meant it when they sang 'He's a jolly good fellow' and 'Auld Lang Syne' . . . And being with the group it was easy to see how the one thing they have in common, their particular branch of the service, holds them together . . . And no matter where you go you'll find a former buddy or a mutual friend . . . It's one of the amazing things about all the services . . .

WATCH THE Chicago Tribune this week-end . . . There might be a story on Charlevoix written by Marge Lyon of the Tribune staff in her column, The World I Know, which appears on Saturday and Sunday . . . She was here for the Venetian night week-end and promised she'd do a little story on it . . . In fact, her columns for several weeks now have been about places she visited in this area . . . Interlochen, Acme, Alden, the cherry country . . . Chances are there'll also be one on Beaver Island, for she went to the island for a brief visit and was stranded due to a storm, so really got to know the place . . . You would have liked Mrs. Lyon . . . she's one of those perfectly charming people who's at home anyplace . . We're anxious to know what she has to say about her visit here . .

CAN YOU believe . . the Charlevoix city band will present its last concert of the season next Wednesday . . Mr. Odmark has a grand program prepared now that he's out of the hospital after a bout with his pet ulcer . . . So if you've missed earlier concerts be sure and hear this one . . .

WE WERE talking with the dean of the bridge-tenders, Fred Bergmann, recently about the number of times the bridge is opened . . . He told us that their biggest day . . . 24 hours . . . was last month when the bridge was raised (and lowered, of course) a total of 56 times . . . that's quite a record . . . We'll bet after a day like that the tenders have nightmares or something . . .

Girligigs

Sticks and stones may break the bones of rabbitts, pussy cats and skunks, but the elegant names they have been called will certainly never hurt them.

No fancy names anymore tho', pet, because since the fur label law has gono into effect, rabbits is rabbits, cats is cats, and skunks is skunks. And (sigh) mink is mink.

You don't mind my telling you . . . or do you? . . . that when you get right down to the bottom of a Baltic lion or Galland squirrel coat it's rather rabbity. And "blue Japanese wolf" isn't that at all . . . it's somebodies goat!

Among the 100 or so other subterfuges which hava gone up in the smoke of the furriers pipedream are "river sable" for muskrat, "black marten" for skunk, "Manchurian wolf" for Chinese dog, "mand-o-coon" for dyed lamb and "genet for plain cat.

What do you bet that now we have won our indignant battle against being fooled without knowing it, we'll still prefer to believe that a goat is really a blue dyed Japanese wolf!

I HAD ARTHRITIS

Do you suffer the pains of arthritis and rheumatism? Do your shoulders, hands, knees, or feet pain you? Do you wake up mornings fatigued, actually more tired than when you went to bed? Do you feel discouraged and down hearted, as though it were all impossible?

Well, dear friend, I have gone through all of this for twelve years, with very little relief after having carried on a program of treatment which cost nearly thirty dollars a month for several years.

During these last twelve months, however, I have found blessed relief, all without the use of drugs and at a cost of a few dollars a month. I cannot express my full appreciation for the marvelous improvement I have experienced.

If you will send me your name and address, I shall be very happy to give to you information regarding the nature of the product that has given me such wonderful relief.

Abfalter-Novotny Vows Exchanged Here Saturday

In a simple ceremony solemnized Saturday afternoon Mrs. Jeanete Abfalter and Frank Novotny exchanged wedding vows in the presence of their immediate families.

The Rev. George L. Majors read the double ring service before an altar arrangement of pastel gladioli at the Congregational church.

The bride selected a light blue silk shantung suit, white accessories and a lavender orchid corsage for her wedding.

Mrs. Jack Abfalter of East Lansing, daughter-in-law of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a navy silk shantung dress, navy accessories and a corsage of yellow mums.

Sharon Abfalter, daughter of the bride, gowned in pink and white watered taffeta, carried the rings to the altar in a nosegay of summer flowers.

Mr. Abfalter assisted the bridegroom as best man.

A reception followed at the bridegroom's home. A wedding cake encircled with red roses centered the refreshment table. Bouquets of gladioli were used about the rooms.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will return here to make their home.

Nicholas Blinoff Is Guest Soloist At Methodist Church

Nicholas Blinoff, violinist with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra and a former local resident, was guest soloist at the First Methodist church here Sunday.

He and his wife, Martha, a language professor at the University of Minnesota, spent several days here last week while on a vacation trip.

Mr. Blinoff, it will be remembered, first came to Charlevoix in the late 1930s as a Russian refugee who was sponsored by the churches of the community. He resided here for more than two years before going to Texas and later to Minneapolis where he joined the symphony orchestra in 1943.

His wife, whom he had married in Europe before coming here, remained in Paris with her family during World War II and joined him in this country in 1946. Since then she has served on the faculty at the University of Minnesota. This was her first visit to Charlevoix.

Until this year the couple has returned to Paris each summer to visit her mother. They plan to visit in the east before returning to Minneapolis by Sept. 10.

Announce New Teachers To Join Faculty

Three new teachers have been added to the faculty of the Charlevoix public schools Supt. Roy G. Bennett said this week in announcing the opening date for the 1952-53 school year, Sept. 9.

The teachers will meet Sept. 8 for a teachers conference at the school with classes being called at 9 a.m. the following day, Mr. Bennett added.

The new members of the faculty are Robert V. Kanerva who will teach commercial subjects, Mrs. Helen O'Neill who will head the home making department, and Mrs. Marjorie Cook who will teach art, in the elementary, junior and senior high school. It is the first time the course has been offered in a number of years.

Mr. Kanerva, who comes here from three years at Ceaderville, will succeed William L. Billings who has left the teaching profession to accept a position with an Allegan industrial plant. He is a native of Marquette where he graduated from high school, and Northern Michigan College of Education. He is also a veteran of 2½ years with the army. His wife and daughter will accompany him here.

Mrs. O'Neill is no newcomer to the public school faculty. Her home is here and at various times she has substituted in the home making department. At present she is attending the summer term at Michigan State College. She formerly attended Ohio Wesleyan University and graduated from the University of Chicago. She succeeds Mrs. Clifford Wamion, the former Gradye Patterson, who will teach in southern Michigan. Prior to her marriage Mrs. O'Neill was a member of the teaching staff here.

Mrs. Cook taught art in the adult education program last winter while a member of the faculty at Central Lake. She will become a full-time member of the teaching staff this year and will teach art in all the grades. Except for a part-time program two years ago, this is the first time art classes have been available. A native of Detroit, Mrs. Cook graduated from Hillsdale College and attended the University of Michigan.

A fourth teacher may be added before school opens to teach English and speech formerly taught by Mrs. Donna Stutt.

Hospital Holds Annual Meeting

The report of the New Area Hospital Building Committee, presented by Herbert Schofield, showed a total of cash in banks at $118,750.08; U. S. Bonds, $40,014.90; pledges receivable, $109,750.25 and interest earned, $419.81.

Gordon L. Freedman, reporting on the progress of the new hospital, said the estimated cost of the new structure in which the Federal government will participate is as follows: construction, $530,000.00; equipment not including construction, $34,000.00; site survey and soil investigation, $1,000.00; architect's fee, $26,500.00; supervision, $6,000.00; miscellaneous costs, $1,000 for a total of $598,500 of which the Federal grant will be $329,175.00.

Mr. Freedman went on to say that the committee had boen advised to take bids in January as starting construction in the fall is not a satifactory time in northern states. The recent steel strikes also had a bearing on the decision, he said.

Barring an all-out war, the Charlevoix area hospital has been assured a grant through the Hill-Burton act, he revealed.

The new hospital will be basically a 38-bed unit when all private rooms are occupied singly or will have a maximum of 44 beds when the private rooms are converted to semi-private rooms. It was explained that experts say it is more economical to build private and semi-private rooms than wards.

The question arose on the matter of hospital insurance and who would be liable for the additional cost of a semi-private room if the contract called for a ward bed. A possible equalization of rates my be the solution to the problem, Mr. Freedman said. The problem will be taken up with hospital service officials.

The superintendent's report, given by Miss Ann Baumgartner, revealed that 1,136 patients were admitted during the fiscal year ending June 30. During the same period 1,122 were discharged. The average number per diem was 24 adults and 3 infants. Total days care given was 8,722. The out-patient department showed a large increase with 1,491 patients being cared for.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were also read by Mrs. E. K. Shanahan and Mr. Bleha respectively.

Bambi Steps Out Of Fiction

him Bambi and soon he learned his name and would come or answer when called.

Even the family dog, Mickey, accepted the new pet and would run and frolic with him.

Bambi became quite a beggar and when he managed to get into the house would beg until he was given toast and jam or a dish of cereal.

As he grew, he wandered farther from the house, returning only at meal time and would sleep in the bushes near the house.

The Michigan Conservation Department had been notified and last week two officers came to take him to his new home in the Ogema State Park near Roscommon. There he will be placed in a deer run for the present and later taken to a state game preserve, the officers said.

The boys found it difficult to understand why they could not keep Bambi but the officers explained that soon he would wander away and would be chased by the dogs or perhaps some hunter, not knowing he was a pet, would shoot him for Bambi had lost his fear of humans and would not run away, as his wild brothers and sisters do. All this, however, did not soften the hurt felt by the boys at the loss of their little friend.

No doubt Bambi will miss the attention lavished on him by his loving friends but in time he will join the other deer and live as they do.

In the time he lived with the Parsons family he grew from 5½ pounds to almost triple that weight.

struction of the east wing which increased the capacity of the institution and added much-needed departments. He served as president of the Charlevoix Board of Commerce and as a director of the West Michigan Resort and Tourist Association. Always realizing the value of advertising he 'sold' Charlevoix and its news for the 25 years he served as local correspondent for the Grand Rapids Press. All in all, it seems that in every thing he has done he has had the interest of his 'adopted' city at heart.

His business record has been equally as well known. He operated a tailor shop at 308 Bridge st. for 35 years and in the early 1920's added a dry-cleaning business. When East Park was built, the business was moved to Antrim st. and in 1946 the dry-cleaning department was sold. After a brief time on Belvedere ave., the business was moved back to its present location.

He plans to continue his needle and thread, thimble and sewing machine business in the Mailhot shop, which everyone agrees is a good idea for what would Charlevoix be without Fred E. Cartier.

Best Yielding Wheat Varieties Named For State

Farmers will soon be planting about 1,500,000 acres of wheat—about three-fourths of it being soft winter wheat and the rest soft red winter wheat.

H. M. Brown and S. C. Hildebrand, Michigan State college farm crops authorities, have studied reserach results and talked with farmers to prepare recommendations on best varieties to plant.

Michigan has two outstanding white wheat varieties—Yorkwin and Cornell 595. Yeild and test weights of the two are about the same, and both good. Yorkwin is slightly more winter hardy and has a more plump berry. Cornell 595 has a stiffer straw and a higher degree of resistance to loose smut.

Vigo, Thorne and Seneca are all highly recommended red wheat varieties. They yield about the same, according to yield tests. All three have satisfactory winter hardiness and straw.

Vigo has slight advantages in test weight and observation indicates it may be more susceptible to mildew. Vigo and Thorne are well known, having been produced in Michigan for three years or more. Seneca is a newcomer, being developed in Ohio and produced in Michigan for the first time this season.

So far as a choice between red and white wheats is concerned, Brown and Hildebrand say it's largely a matter of growing what most farmers in your community grow, That will help avoid mixture of the two types at the local elevator.

Six 4-H Dairy Clubs To Exhibit At Charlevoix County Fair

Charles Beeman, 13 years old, on the left with his three months old Guernsey heifer and Don Beeman, 11 years old, on the right with his five months old heifer are shown with their two calves that they plan to take to the Charlevoix County Fair, September 2 to 6.

There will be six 4-H dairy clubs represented at the Charlevoix county fair which will be held September 2 to 6 at East Jordan, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, said today. These 4-H dairy clubs have about 70 members and it is expected that all of them will enter their dairy animals in the fair.

The leaders of these dairy clubs are as follows: Lawrence Elzinga, Douglas Knudsen, and Archie Murphy of East Jordan; Leonard Lick and Ann Pearsall of Boyne City and Dick Smith of Charlevoix.

The 4-H dairy club members must start weeks before the fair in order that their animals will be ready for the show. Feeding the animal is only part of the job. Grooming and training the animal to lead are very important. This is more so in the 4-H dairy project than in the open class exhibitors. The 4-H awards are not based on the animal itself but rather are based on the ability of the 4-H member to handle the animal. They must be able to lead it when the judge requests them to do so; they must be able to make it stand whenever necessary and the animal must be fitted properly for the show.

Entry day for the 4-H animals and for all other exhibits is Tuesday, September 2. Judging of these dairy animals will take place Wednesday morning starting about 9:00 a. m. It is hoped that Jason Shinn of Bellaire will again be the judge. It is always quite a show at the judging ring. After Mr. Shinn places the animals he does a very good job in explaining why a certain group are 'A' animals while others are 'B' or 'C' animals.

Livestock Loss By Poor Hauling Can Be Reduced

Bruising, crippling and killing livestock by careless loading and hauling is costly and can be avoided, says Charles J. Little Michigan State college extension livestock specialist.

Marketing time and show time are two dangerous periods. Even though some animals are insured, the loss is still great. Here are some suggestions that Little says will help reduce livestock handing losses.

Remove nails, wire, splinters and broken boards from hauling racks. Use a smooth loading chute that is not too steep. Bed trucks with sand or other material that will keep the animals from slipping.

Partition loads of animals of different sizes to prevent injury to the smaller ones. Load slowly to prevent crowding against sharp corners and to avoid excitement. Little warns against beating animals into the truck, since this will bruise animals.

Soil Conservation Board Sets Rates On Marsh Plow Use

The marsh plow was the topic for discussion at the last regular board meeting of the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District. This marsh plow was purchased for $375.00 with the assistance of the Charlevoix County State Bank, the Charlevoix State Savings Bank, the State Bank of East Jordan and the Boyne City Branch Bank. The banks purchased the plow for the district and they are to be reimbursed with the earnings from the use of the marsh plow.

The board of dirertors set a very nominal charge of 75c per hour for the use of this marsh plow. The purpose for this low charge was so that all farmers who had land that needed a marsh plow or a land breaker plow could get the use of this tool. The plow was not used too much during 1951 and may not be not be used too much during this year due to the excessive moisture which makes many low lands impossible to work.

The problem for discussion at the last board meeting was that some farmers had a little breakage on the marsh plow. There were two possibliities that the board could do. One was to leave the charge at the low rate of 75c per hour and have the farmers who use the marsh plow and break it stand the repairs. The other possibility was to increase the rental charge for the marsh plow and have the district stand the repairs. After careful consideration, Clayton Healey of East Jordan made a motion, supported by Bob Straw, of Charlevoix, that farmers who use the marsh plow must stand the breakage and that they would leave the charge down to 75c per hour. This motion carried.

Farmers who are interested in using this plow may contact anyone of the directors, Clayton Healey and Harold Goebel of East Jordan, Bob Straw and Clyde Warner of Charlevoix; Norval Korthase, Boyne City, or Bill Grimm, farm planner or Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

It is wasteful to start cooking vegetables in cold water—have the water at a rolling boil before you put in vegetables, say Michigan State college home economists. And don't add baking soda to the cooking water, for soda destroys the precious vitamins.

New "Early Red" raspberry lengthens season, boosts yield

A new red raspberry variety, named "Early Red," has been developed at Michigan State College's South Haven Experiment Station, after 20 years of breeding and testing. The "Early Red" starts producing berries early in the season when the crop is small and prices are usually higher. Plants are upright, tall, vigorous, hardy and very productive. The berries have good flavor and a long ripening season. They withstand canning without crumbling and freeze as well as Latham raspberries. For more information, call your County Agricultural Agent.

Beaver Island Homecoming Is Huge Success

The 1952 Beaver Island homecoming is now history . . . the visitors have returned home and the island folk have settled back into their old routine but the event will long be remembered as the most successful since it was started in 1932.

More than 300 guests were present for the turkey dinner and other events sponsored by the Holy Cross parish on the island. But despite the good food and the dancing, it was the parade, one of the island's first, which was the highlight of the entire event.

The idea was presented by Mrs. Charles Pischner and Mrs. Peter O. Gallagher and through the co-operation of the island population, it became the highlight of the homecoming festivities.

The entire history of Beaver Island might well have been written from the parade for there were the Indians who first populated the island, the Mormons whose kingdom reigned supreme in the mid-1800's and the Irish who followed in the wake of King James and who now constitute the island's population.

To give the parade a formal touch was the U. S. Coast Guard jeep manned by two men in uniform towing the island's fire fighting equipment, the Michigan Conservation truck and other equipment and the Charlevoix county road truck and equipment.

Aunt Maggie Boyle, the island's oldest native-born resident and queen of the homecoming, was a gracious monarch as she rode in a decorated car driven by Peter O. Gallagher.

The King Strang hotel carried out the Mormon history theme on a float on the Gallagher truck with Fred Spalding in crown and royal robes surrounded by his lovely wives in pretty dresses (not bloomers). A second scene showed Bill Spalding as a disobedient Mormon tied to the whipping post being lashed by Lawrence Malloy with a black snake whip.

Paul Kenwabakise, dressed as an Indian chief in war-paint and mounted on a dashing pony, galloped up and down the line of march while his wife, lovely in her Indian princess garb, marched sedately in the parade.

Irish songs could be heard as a float, entered by the Harbor Light restaurant and towed by Pete Rene of Traverse City came down the King's highway. On the float depicting a boat decorated in green were Irish colleens, Janet and Eleanor Gallagher, Rosemary and Marie Nackerman and Rosemary and Kay McDonough gowned in formals singing Irish airs to two old-timers, Tom Malloy and Johnny Gallagher, decked out in top hats and tails while majorettes, Kathy McCann and Ann Phillips, kept time with their batons.

The Beaver Island Game club float depicted one of the island's major features, hunting, in a scene with Conservation Officers Carl Kuebler and Charles Kluenhenz as the hunters with their rifles and dogs before a background of evergreens.

And then there were the comedy floats headed by Archie La Freniere of the Shamrock with his puddle jumper decorated with shamrocks. His children, Loretta and Alvin sat on the fenders drinking pop while Lee Cuddington, as a bar-tender, despensed beer from his make-shift bar on the back of the car.

Ed Burke, the island's cab driver, deserted his modern taxi for the day and went back to a horse and buggy with Mrs. Peter O. Gallagher as his passenger. Both were dressed in gay nineties costumes.

No parade is complete without music so a truck loaded with a variety of "odd creatures' made up a kitchen band with wash boards and dish pans much in evidence. Uniforms were out but among the players could be seen Marilyn Kenny and Mary Margaret Green in long underwear stuffed with pillows; Mrs. Willie Smith gowned in clothes of 1900 vintage and Pat Kenny as her 'beau' in clothes of the same year; Mary Catherine Hanley and Rosalie Bennett in burlap and sack cloth and Rita Wilson of Grand Rapids in a red and white costume.

The island's newest hotel, the Beaver Lodge, was represented by its car carrying the Art Johnson family.

Decorated bicycles entered by Norene and Buddo Cross, Dale Cull and Johnny Gillispie ended the parade.

From the county garage building, through the main street, to the school and back again via the Coast Guard station and lighthouse, the marchers wended their way, halted only by Pat Bonner and his violin and other old-timers who step-danced and sang for the parade participants.

Thus ended what will always be known as THE parade by those who witnessed it.

Softball Title Goes To Alpena In District Meet

Alpena Bessers won the Class C regional softball title at Petoskey over the week-end by eliminating Scottville and the Charlevoix Knight Owls.

The Alpena nine won over Scottville Sunday by a 2-1 score after the latter had downed the Charlevoix team Saturday night. The Saturday game eliminated the local team following a 4-2 defeat Friday by Alpena.

In the regional tournament the new title-holder scored 10 runs on 14 hits and three errors in the three games they played to win the championship.

Scottville in the three games had four runs, 16 hits and eight errors and Charlevoix in two games scored four runs on seven hits while committing seven errors.

The Alpena team will represent the northern district in the state softball tournament to be held over the Labor Day week-end.

Council Adopts Plan To Collect Water Accounts

The Charlevoix city council Monday night made an initial move to cut down on the delinquent water accounts by adopting a resolution making it necessary to obtain a permit from the office of the city clerk to connect or re-connect the water service to any property in the city.

The move was the first planned by the council to crack down on delinquent accounts.

Within a short time all users whose bills are in arrears will receive notices informing them the date on which the water service will be discontinued if the bill is not paid in full. On that date service will be discontinued without further notice until the account is settled. A permit allowing the water to be re-connected will be issued when the bill is paid. If a plumber is asked to re-connect the water service, he will be held responsible for the account if he does so without a permit.

A special council meeting has been called Sept. 2 for further study of the problem.

In other business transacted by the council the bid for Workmen's Compensation Insurance entered by the Michigan Mutual Liability Co. was accepted. A second bid was submitted by Hampton Insurance, representing the Auto Owners Insurance.

Harold Pearl's bid of $719 for painting specific parts of the city hall and fire station, the warehouse at the municipal dock and the water pumping station was accepted with the understanding that the city be relieved of all responsibilities regarding workmen's Compensation Insurance.

The council also voted to accept a parcel of land offered by Frank Brown and located in the Lindsay Park addition on Meech st. in lieu of taxes assessed on the land.

Bills amounting to $11,178.35 were accepted and ordered paid by the council.

Parade Of Quartets Program Saturday Highlights Songfest

The four-part harmonies of barbershop quartets will be heard 'round the town this week-end as the largest turnout of barbershoppers since the SPEBSQSA Jamboree was started in Charlevoix is expected here to participate in the local chapter's tenth anniversary celebration.

The Charlevoix Beach Hotel will be the headquarters for the event which opens Friday and concludes Monday and which has come to be recognized as one of the most colorful events in the entire Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

For the fourth time in the past five years, the quartet which entertained troops in Korea last year, the Mid-States 4 of Chicago, will headline the 1952 show.

Supporting them will be the Renegades of Palos Heights, Ill. another entertaining and amusing foursome comprised of members of other quartets which have won state championships and competed in international contests.

While these two out-state groups could offer an entire evening's entertainment, there will be several of Michigan's best, rounding out one of the best harmony songfests ever held here.

The state talent will consist of the Merri-Men of Lansing, current Michigan champions; the Note Blenders, international Medalists, which means the group finished among the first five in the International competition; the Crow-Metix, international finalists; the Fourfathers, district novice champions and the Hobby Chords, among which are former members of the Gardenaires, past Michigan champions.

International president, Edwin S. Smith of Detroit, will act as master of ceremonies aided by Howard Tubbs at curtain call. Mr. Tubbs is Michigan district president and president of the Detroit chapter.

The parade of quartets will be held at the high school auditorium at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. A novel stage setting has been planned by Wayne Belding for this event, the only one open to the public.

Other dignitaries attending will be Gordon L. Grant of Saginaw, international board member; Jack M. Dollenmaier of Bay City and Charlevoix, past president of the Michigan district and the following present district officers, Rush Wyman of Lansing, vice president; Loton Willson of Boyne City, vice president and Louis Harrington of Detroit, secretary. These officers and counsellors from the ten Michigan areas will attend a district meeting during the four-day convention.

Chapter officers who have made reservations include James Jackson, Grosse Pointe president; William Wales, Redford president; Ira Murray, Lansing president; George Kemerer, Carrolton, Ohio, secretary and Stephen Rickel, Grosse Pointe secretary.

Members of the Grosse Pointe group arrived Saturday and are busy with preparations for the parade. Others taking part in Saturday night's show are arriving daily for rehearsals and members of some of the quartets are on hand for the purpose of fitting their parts into the stage theme at the high school auditorium.

The growth in popularity of the Charlevoix Jamboree has been Phenomenal. While eight charter members still belong to the local chapter none would have dared dream, when they invited Muskegon and Grand Rapids to meet with them in 1943, that the now-famous Jamboree

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

WE JOINED with several hundred other people last Friday in attending the Camp Charlevoix Rodeo . . . The youngsters put on a good show with a bit of everything . . . Everyone we talked with enjoyed every minute of it . . . We got quite a bang out of the boys at the camp whose parents had come for the closing, which included the rodeo and the council fire . . . You'd hear this name and that one called over the public address system as parents arrived and couldn't find their young fry (which wasn't surprising for they were every place.) And then you'd hear a youngster bringing up a new friend he'd made during the summer to meet his folks . . . or you'd hear another saying Mom, Dad, this is Bill (or Jack, or whatever the name might be), my counsellor I wrote about . . . It was really grand . . .

AND THE Council fire . . . the setting along the lake a perfect sunset which left the sky painted with amyriad of colors, the water lapping on the shore . . . the solemnity of it all as the camp fire was lighted and the pageant, the story of the Indians was narrated in the stillness of the night . . . Truly something to remember . . We can understand now why kids love camp . . . And the camp directors, the Ken Smiths . . . and their counsellors and the cowboys and the Barney Engleharts . . . just eveything about it . . .

WE DON'T know if you're like us, but we always associate roses with June . . . or at least early summer . . . always forgetting that they're lovely anytime, especially in Charlevoix . . . Mrs. Floyd Bartholomew brought us a huge white rose and several smaller red and yellow tearoses that almost made one's mouth water they were so luscious . . . Mrs. Marsh Meek showed us some heavenly buds she'd snipped from her bushes which at the time were enroute to the hospital to brighten Mrs. Pete Sharrow's room . . . (And a nicer way of brightening up a room we can't imagine) . . . And Sunday we noticed the DeWitt Peters' bushes are in full bloom again for about the third time this year . . . One can hardly believe his eyes when he sees them . . .

HAVE YOU noticed the cover on the latest Reader's Digest . . . wild geese going south . . . Oh, it can't be that late, or can it? . . . Labor Day is coming around the corner and soon all our summer friends will be taking off for points south . . . One gets a nostalgic feeling just thinking about it . . . But as we've said countless times . . . It's one of the prices we pay for living in a summer resort . . . But we wouldn't trade it for all the tea in China although by the time September rolls around we're a little frayed at the edges . . . To our summer visitors . . . all of them . . . a fond good-bye, have a good winter and don't forget to come back next year . . . we'll be counting on it . . .

HOW'D YOU like the freighter, the Ben E. Tate, that came through last week enroute to Advance with a huge load of coal for the REA plant there . . . We hear it will be opening early next year . . . and will generate current for some 22 northern Michigan counties . . . The Tate literally inched its way through the channel . . . for which we couldn't blame the Skipper . . . after all, it was his first time in and what with wind and current, maneuvering a ship that size loaded with 5,700 tons of coal is no small job . . . And was it riding high on its way out that night . . . Incidently the Tate was only the first of about eight or nine which will bring in coal for the Advance plant before winter sets in . . . So for the kids who missed it, cheer up, you'll see one of them . . .

THOSE OF you who didn't attend the Smorgasbord at Fellowship hall last Thursday night have no idea what you were missing . . . Never saw so much beautiful food (and tasty too) in all our lives . . . You have no idea what good cooks they have at the Community Church of God . . . Just anything you'd like to mention . . . Don't miss the next one . . .

SAW THE cutest thing coming in from Camp Charlevoix the other night . . . We first spotted two shining little eyes in the roadway and then picked up the outline of what we thought was a cat but it turned out to be . . . of all things . . . a little raccoon with a ringed tail . . . the cutest thing you ever hope to see . . .

CHARLEVOIX did a bit of alright in the Chicago Trib over the week-end . . . On Saturday was the story about Charlevoix's Venetian Night parade in Marge Lyon's column, The World I Know . . . along with some squibs about the boat to the Beavers and the pet skunk at the Beaver Lodge . . . And on Sunday a big story on our own Chicago Club and its wonderful residents . . .

YOU'LL notice elsewhere in the paper young Christi Lee Senger arrived on the scene Thursday . . . the scene being the Charlevoix Hospital . . . But true to newspaper tradition, Mama Carol went to the hospital on press day . . . Wednesday . . . and Papa Fred had to sweat it out while young Miss Senger took her own sweet time about arriving . . . But they tell us she's mighty sweet so we'll forgive the furor she caused in the Courier office . . .

Calls From Norway To Initiate Phone

When most new telephone subscribers have telephones installed in their homes, their initial calls are to a near-by relative or neighbor.

However, some people have to be different as in the case of a new subscriber in Oslo, Norway, who Sunday called his aunt, Miss Inga Ness, at the Loeb Farm.

Miss Ness talked not only to her nephew but to her brother and two sisters whom she had not seen for several years.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

by Gene Alleman

"Hello! This is the Sooper Hooper Manufacturing Co. We've got a defense contract for hydrogobinators for the Air Force. But we need a subcontractor to turn out the frammis on the globbis for us. Do you know of any firm that can make 'em?"

Such a request is duck soup for the Michigan Department of Economic Development.

From its files of over 2,000 Michigan plants, it quickly comes up with the right answer.

So the hydrogobinator go into production, the Air Force maintains its defense schedule and a new contrac. . . . and more payroll . . . comes to Michigan.

This is just one of the services the DED performs to build Michigan prosperity.

"OUR INDUSTRIAL Developement service takes credit for assisting in bringing two large plants to Michigan recently and has helped persuade several plants not to move or expand out of the state," says Don C. Weeks, director.

"Up at Iron Mountain, the former Ford body plant stood idle since last December. One of our agents was hired by the owners of the building to spend full-time filling the plant with new industry and already has 20% of the space occupied.

"Meanwhile the division is working with five other hard-hit areas to help stimulate all-out community programs to attract industry."

That phrase "community programs" is the key to Michigan's economic future.

Michigan business itself has subscribed $20,000 for a survey of the economic potential of the Upper Peninsula. In progress is a program to raise an annual $100,000 by subscription by business for a Michigan-wide promotion program.

BUSINESS realizes, in the words of Weeks, that "nothing is more important to the whole community of Michigan than that it be recognized as a place which has an economic climate favorable to industry. That climate can't be improved until Michigan residents know what has to be done and action is then predicated on careful planning to unite Michigan in attracting industry."

A survey made last year by the University of Michigan, with business footing the $20,000 bill shows what industry thinks of the state, why it stays, why it moves out. Answers eventually will determine the number of dollars and cents in every Michigander's pocket.

Always working with the community itself, the department has an average list of 150 industrial buildings available for rent, lease or purchase.

The Industry Service Division has played a prime part in getting defense contracts and subcontracts for Michigan plants since the start of the Korea police action.

The Research Division provides technical services to the other divisions and communities which want to survey their own assests (and liabilities) and prepare brochures to attract industry.

"ECONOMICS" is an awfully dry-sounding term.

But reduced from all those syllables, it means, basically, how much money does John Q. Citizen have in his pocket and what can he buy with it?

In those terms, economics is something that concerns everybody all the time.

That's why Michigan citizens are lucky that the Department of Economics Developement is directed by a Commission made up of 19 prominent business and professional men from all parts of the state.

Their names are too many to enumerate here, but Dan Gerber, president of the nationally-known Gerber's Baby Food company, is chairman of the Commission and is typical of the stature of the men who guide this program since the Commission was created five years ago by the Legislature.

HOW'S business in Michigan? The report of the Michigan Department of Revenue just released for the month of June indicated it's improving steadily since March.

Total sales and use tax collections for June were $21.96 million, an increase of $618,031 over June of '51.

Michiganders spent at least $706 million in retail stores in June. At least 3% of that figure is $21.1 million, the amount reported as retail sales tax that month.

Auto, apparel, building material and food . . . in that order . . . produced the greatest sales tax revenue during that month.

THE PERENNIAL private industry-government control argument can churn up a couple degrees of temperature by comparing a pair of figures from Arenac County.

More Trout Inc., a sportsmen's organization, is building a fish-control and rainbow trout impoundment dam on the AuGres River near McIvor. Their cost will be under $10,000; the Michigan Conservation Department estimated it at $22,000.

Sea lampreys, those eel-like destroyers of fine Great Lakes fish, get their come-uppance from More Trout Inc. As spawning fish and pursuing lampreys move upstream, they pass through a fish sorter. There the lampreys, which have lived off other fish all their lives, are removed . . . permanently. And, in perfect irony, they're ground up and used as fish food.

Susanne Webster Weds J. A. Starnes In Double Ring Church Ceremony

Susanne Webster became the bride of John Albert Starnes in an impressive double ring service at the First Congregational church Tuesday afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Clair Stockman Webster and the late Mr. Webster. Mrs. Ruie Starnes of Cocoanut Grove, Fla., is the mother of the bridegroom.

Baskets of white stock and gladioli and huckleberry greens decorated the altar before which the Rev. Carl F. Hoch of Petoskey read the service. Arrangements of the same flowers and greens marked the pews.

Mrs. J. A. Starnes

Mrs. A. J. Stelter, organist, played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. E. D. Hawley.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Richard K. Paddock of Midland. For her wedding she chose a gown of white Chantilly lace over satin designed with a sweetheart neckline and stand-up collar, long sleeves which came to points over the wrists, a fitted bodice and full skirt. Her short veil of bridal illusion fell from a half-hat of matching lace and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

June Guild, as maid of honor, wore a strapless gown of light blue lace and a matching net stole. Her Juliet cap was of blue lace and net and her flowers a Colonial bouquet of blue and white cornflowers.

Marilyn Blissett and Marjorie Brow, as bridesmaids, wore gowns similar to the maid of honor's with matching bolero jackets and Juliet caps. They carried Colonial bouquets of the same blue and white flowers.

Willian Fochtman, cousin of the bride, assisted the bridegroom as best man and Dale Suomela and Louis Edwards seated the guests.

Mrs. Webster selected a gown of navy lace, navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink glamellias for her daughter's wedding.

Immediately following the service a reception for 150 guests was held in the church parlors, which were decorated with vari-colored gladioli. The refreshment table was centered with a tiered wedding cake decorated with white roses. Arrangements of flowers decorated the table.

For traveling on a brief northern Michigan wedding trip the bride wore a tan linen suit, black accessories and a white orchid corsage. The couple plans to return here briefly before leaving Monday to make their home in Key West, Fla., where the bridegroom is stationed with the U. S. Navy.

The bride is a graduate of the Charlevoix high school. The bridegroom graduated from a Cocoanut Grove high school before enlisting in the Navy.

Among those from away who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Paddock and son, John, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sinclair and Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Barbian of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Miller and daughter, Jane, and son, Forrest Jr. of Benton Harbor and Mrs. Wilson R. Paxton and daughter, Carol Jane of Detroit.

Parade Of Quartets' Highlights Songfest

would grow to its present proportions.

Coming here that first summer to give support to Charlevoix's Ballad Benders, were the Unheard of 4, then state champions, and the Harmony Halls, later state and International champions.

In attendanco at the first Jamboree wera 165 persons in the Beach Hotel dining room as contrasted to the packed auditorium in 1951. From tha initial meeting it was evident tha Jamboreo was to become a fixturo as Charlevoix has always given its wholehearted support in making its guests feel at bome.

Unlike most barbershop affairs, the local theory has been relaxation even unto clothes where slacks, tennis shoes and gay costumes prevail. All this culminated in what is now known as the Bert Escott costume ball, the highlight of the four-day event, which has been held in recent years at the Belvedere Hotel Casino.

The jamboree will open Friday night with a special party for visiting women and a special songfest for the men. On Saturday the parade of quartets in the high school auditorium will be followed by an "afterglow" at the Beach Hotel. Sunday night the annual Escott costume ball will be held at the Belvedere Casino and Monday wil be given over to "wood-shedding" or impromptu quartet singing.

The Charlevoix Jamborees have become so outstanding in the Society that the local chapter has been advised by the International office to submit a dozen photographs of the highlights of this year's event for publication in the SPEBSQSA's official magazine, the Harmonizer.

The judging of agricultural exhibits including livestock, crops, 4-H and homemaking will be held Wednesday and concluded Thursday morning. A livestock parade at 1 p.m. Thursday and a calf scramble for 4-H and F.F.A. members at 2 p.m. will be followed by the second annual fat stock sale at 3 p.m. The sale of the feeder pigs from last year's pig scramble and the 1952 pig scramble will conclude the afternoon activities.

Thirty animals including Herefords, one Angus and possibly two Shorthorn steers will be auctioned at the fat stock sale at 3 p.m. Thursday.

Ten of these animals are Herefords from last year's calf scramble and the others are animals obtained late in the year for 4-H and F.F.A. members to feed out for the fat stock sale. The animals, which weighed between 300 and 500 pounds last fall, will now tip the scales at 900 to 1200 pounds.

The animals will ba sold at public action and anyone can bid on them. It will ba an opportunity for anyone to obtain good beef for home consumption. The Fair board will help any bidder arrange to have tbe animal dressed, cut up and frozan.

The Charlevoix county Fair will also give county crocheters an opportunity to enter their crocheted articles and in so doing become elegible for entry in a nationwide Crochet contest. Prizes in the national contest include $2500 in cash, an all-expense trip to Chicago and many other worthwhile prizes. The entries must receive recognition at the county fair to be elegible for entry in the national contest.

The rules are simple. The entry must be crocheted of mercerized crochet cotton and must have been completed since Jan. 1, 1952. There are 16 classifications covering almost anything one might wish to enter.

Drivers Urged To Use Caution Labor Day

iod. Friday through Monday. It was the safest Labor Day week-end, from the standpoint of fatalities, since 1944, when only seven were killed. The highest toll was 46 in 1940.

"The Labor Day period is always regarded as potentially dangerous. The holiday comes on a week-end for trips and other activities. It is also the time when many persons return home from summer cottages so children can enter school.

"Drivers exercised a great deal of care and common sense last year and the week-end toll was comparatively low. The volume of traffic will probably set a new record this Labor Day if weather conditions are favorable, but nevertheless the toll can be further reduced if drivers are cautious. If they are, it will help bring the summer to a more happy ending."

I HAD ARTHRITIS

Do you suffer the pains of arthritis and rheumatism? Do your shoulders, hands, knees, or feet pain you? Do you wake up mornings fatigued, actually more tired than when you went to bed? Do you feel discouraged and down hearted, as though it were all impossible?

Well, dear friend, I have gone through all of this for twelve years, with very little relief after having carried on a program of treatment which cost nearly thirty dollars a month for several years.

During these last twelve months, however, I have found blessed relief, all without the use of drugs and at a cost of a few dollars a month. I cannot express my full appreciation for the marvelous improvement I have experienced.

If you will send me your name and address, I shall be very happy to give to you information regarding the nature of the product that has given me such wonderful relief.

Fresh Peaches Offer Variety In Menu Change

Michigan's peach crop is a good one and homemakers should take advantage of the situation according to Roberta Hershey, Michigan State College foods and nutrition extension specialist. Miss Hershey gives some tips on peach uses.

For easy peeling she suggests dipping well-washed peaches in boiling water for just one minute . . . no more . . . and then immediately into cold water. If you are canning peaches you will be interested in knowing that it is important to wash them before dipping into the hot water to wash off some of the spoilage bacteria.

Miss Hershey says that after the boiling water dip it is easy to slip off the skins. If you drop the peeled halves in a solution of two tablespoons of salt and two of vinegar to a gallon of water, you can keep the fruit from darkening.

How about serving broiled peaches around the edge of the platter with your next roast whether it's beef, pork, or canned luncheon loaf? asks Miss Hershey. Place peaches in a shallow pan, pour just a little honey or brown sugar and a wee bit of fat over them and slide the pan under the broiler until they are delicately browned.

Or here is another idea suggested by the home economist. Put a generous spoonful of cottage cheese between two halves of peach and drizzle a honey dressing over it. The honey dressing is made by mixing equal parts of strained honey and lemon juice. The lemon juice keeps the peach from discoloring and lends a piquant flavor at the same time. Or set sliced peaches and blueberries in lemon gelatin made with part ginger ale. That will add zip to the peach flavor, says Miss Hershey.

Grouse Population In State Increasing

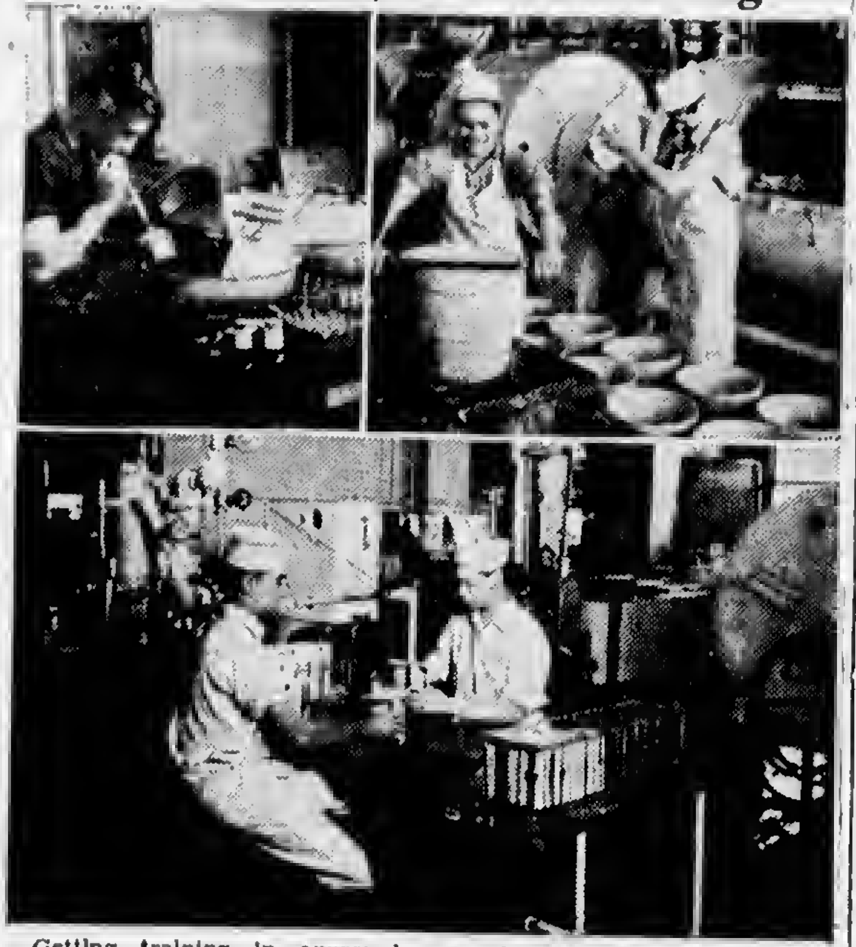
LANSING—Michigan grouse hunters this year are facing a season nearly twice as long as the three open weeks they have been accustomed to for several years.

And conservation department surveys show the grouse population quite capable of taking the longer season. From numerous studies made here and in other states department specialists know grouse populations increase and decrease in a fairly regular cycle, despite yearly kills by hunters.

"Present indications are that the grouse populations this fall may reach its highest peak in 20 years," says George A. Ammann, department grouse specialist. He urges taking more grouse now and notes that by doing so the cyclic population decline that will follow may not be as sudden or go as low.

The grouse season is to run 41 days in the northern two-thirds of the state, where last year it was 21 days. This still is shorter than customery seasons in Wisconsin or Minnesota, where 51- and 45-day seasons respectively, have been in force the the last twn years.

Learn Dairy Manufacturing



Getting training in approved practices of processing and manufacturing dairy products are these Michigan State College short course students. The short course, offered during January and February, includes classes in butter making, practical creamery tests, processing market milk, making ice cream and so on. In upper left, a short course student prepares to run a butterfat test on a milk sample. Students in the upper right picture get experience using the giant butter-making equipment at the college. Ice cream making and packaging occupies the young men in the lower picture. Information on enrollment in dairy manufacturing, dairy production, poultry, fruit production, floriculture, agriculture and agricultural engineering short courses may be obtained from the Director of Short Courses, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Vandals Damage Michigan Parks

Lansing—Vandalism is stalking Michigan's park system again this year, as rangers continue to find smashed tables, broken windows, upturned trash containers and valuable property stolen.

Vandalism has been so bad, the conservation department's parks division reports, that reduced facilities are available to the public in certain sections of southeastern Michigan parks. Generally repeated damage occurs in outlying spots of the bigger recreation areas which do not have the manpower for extensive patrolling.

One favorite practice of park vandals is to chuck picnic tables into rivers and lakes. Park personnel pull the tables from the water, only to have the same chore the following week.

Another probem is with waist-high picnic stoves. Expensive and hard to get, the stoves often are stolen.

If vandals can get into buildings, tables and cairs are broken, cupboards are ripped from walls, windows are smashed, and doors are ripped from hinges.

Much park damage is known to be done by minors, and acting on this, New York City is considering an ordinance that makes parents liable for damage by their children to city parks. In Michigan, police action is used against violators, but apprehension is difficult.

Oil Companies Buy State Land Leases

LANSING—Oil companies and independent operators paid the state $62,094 in leasing over 63,000 out of 100,000 state acres offered at August public auction.

The conservation department's lands division says acreage was leased in 25 lower peninsula counties, mainly in Mason, Oceana, Cheboygan and Roscommon. Average bid for wildcat acreage was $1.08 an acre.

Here's a hint for berry pickers who may get stains on rayon clothes. If it is a washable rayon, rinse the stain thoroughly with warm water and if the stain persists, use a mild bleaching solution (on white fabric only) and then rinse in weak solution of vinegar and water. For non-washable rayons, sponge with lukewarm water immediately, recommend Michigan State college home economists.

Contouring saves soil and increases yields.

Ellsworth Spotlight

Mrs. Grant Hastings

Banks Township School To Open On September 2

Ellsworth — Banks township public school opens its doors on Tuesday morning Sept. 2 to the students of all grades. Registration of all in the upper six grades will take place Tuesday morning with classes starting in the afternoon. All kindergarden children will report in the morning at which time the division of the morning and afternoon classes will be decided.

The list of the teachers is the same as last year with Mr. Seifried, principal and teaching shop, conservation and math; Mr. Jones Civics and Commercial; Mr. Wind Physics, Science and Math; Miss Armstrong, English and Library; Mrs. Bown, Home Ec and Art; Mr. Inman, Speech, History and Athletics and Mr. Smith Biology.

In the grades Miss Sherk will have kindergarden and first grade; Mrs. Bolser, second and half of the third; Mrs. Ferrell, half of the third and the fourth and Mrs. Potter the fifth and sixth grades.

As yet there has been no success in acquiring a band instructor this year. It is hoped that before school starts that a band man can be found. According to the reports from the state office there will be a shortage of band men in the state and nearly 40 schools will have to be without bands this year.

Hot Lunches will start on Sept. 8th. The charges this year will be 18c without milk and 20c with milk. The reason for the rise in price is due to the fact that the State has cut their allowance to the schools 2c and it appears that the amount of goods received from the State will be much less.

The Athletic program this year will be cross country running, basketball, baseball and track. The Athletic program won three out of five trophies in the league last year and it is hoped that they will be successful again this year. Emphasis this year will again be that the teams will be outstanding in their spirit of fair play and good sportsmanship.

Long Waterfowl Season Slated For This Year

Lansing — The longest Michigan waterfowl season since 1945 has been confirmed by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the conservation department reports.

A 55-day season running October 1-November 24, recently approved by the conservation commission and now confirmed by the federal agency which has final authority, is based on a "moderate increase" anticipated in the fall flight of Mississippi flyway birds.

State hunters had a 45-day season last year, 33 days in 1950 and 80 days in 1945.

A more liberal woodcock season is scheduled too. Dates are October 1-31 in the upper peninsula and the northern lower peninsula and October 20-November 7 south of highway M-20 or the southern lower peninsula. For the first time in recent years, an open season on jacksnipe was considered, although finally disapproved.

Waterfowl bag limits will be unchanged at four ducks daily and eight in possession. One may be a wood duck. Geese maximum take is five daily or in possession but not more than two Canada or two white-fronted geese. Any combination of 25 American and red-breasted mergansers may be bagged daily, with no possession limit after the opening day. Daily bag and possession limits for coots continues at 10 birds. Four woodcock can be shot daily, eight held in possession.

Ducks, Geese and coot can be hunted from one-half hour before sunrise to one hour before sunset except on opening day when legal shooting begins at 12 o'clock noon. Woodcock can be taken from one half hour before sunrise to sunset. Shooting timetable maps will be available at department regional and district offices and will be printed in many newspapers.

High Water Floods Coast Guard Road

LUDINGTON—High water over a portion of the single access road has marooned the Coast Guard station north of Ludington state park. The road is under about a foot of Lake Michigan, the conservation department reports.

High water at the park also has forced closing of a portion of one picnic area and has caused considerable loss to the beach because of erosion.

The conservation department maintains the Coast Guard road, which runs through the park.

Circuit Court Hears 5 Cases At August Term

Judge Charles L. Brown, at the August term of circuit court here last week, heard one civil and four criminal cases.

In the only trial heard by Judge Brown the jury brought in a verdict of no cause for action for either party in the case of the Cotan Corp. of Newark, N. J., and the Foster Boat Co.

The criminal cases included two car thefts and two morals charges.

Robert William Blackburn, 18, charged with unlawfully driving away an automobile belonging to Mayor John Knight July 3, was sentenced to 18 months to five years in southern Michigan prison.

Harry B. Sanford, 17, pleaded quilty to unlawfully driving away an automobile while on probation. His case was referred to the probation officer. Bond was set at $1,000.

Leonard Brooks, 19, of Boyne City, and Stanley Clare Sweet, 23, of East Jordan, pleaded guilty to a morals charge and their case was referred to the probation officer. Bond was set at $500 each.

James VanDusen, 20, of Charlevoix and Grand Rapids, pleaded not quilty to a morals charge and his case was bound over to the October term of court. A $5,000 cash bond was ordered by the court.

Seashell Mystery Still Unsolved

The mystery of the tropical seashells which washed up on the Lake Michigan beach last Thursday morning is still unsolved, but for about two hours local residents and summer visitors had a lot of fun gathering the colorful shells as they came in on the sea and hazarding a guess as to their source.

The first shells were found by park keeper W. H. Supernaw as he raked the municipal beach near the south pier. Later the shells washed up as far along the beach as the water works and many people were on hand to gather them.

Specimens were sent to southern Michigan where a museum attendant identified them as tropical shells which had been out of salt water for some time and had probably been dumped into Lake Michigan recently.

State Dairyman Tells The New Dairy Rulings

Two items in the amendments to the milk law recently passed by the legislature are of particular interest to dairymen who sell milk and cream for direct consumption or bottling purposes.

The amendments which become effective September 17 have to do with milk house and equipment for handling the product, and minimum quality standards.

D. L. Murray, extension dairyman at Michigan State College, said today that the law now states that milk houses are required to contain facilities for cooling, handling and storing milk. They must have facilities for cleaning and storing equipment, a two-compartment wash tank, metal rack for storing utensils and a water heater.

A self-closing door is required between milk house and stable in place of the vestibule which was or still may be required by some local markets. Minimum size standards of the milk house have not been specified by law, but by ten by 12 feet should be the minimum for convenience of the operator, Murray advised.

Quality standards are that milk must test not less than three percent butter fat. The bacteria count must be not more than 100,000 per cubic centimeter, as determined by plate or direct microscopic count, or a reduction time of not less than four hours as measured by the methylene blue test.

After spraying pastures for poisonous weeds, it's best to keep the cattle out until after the weeds have decomposed.

Open the way for BETTER YIELDS with an A-C Subsoiler

Open up your land for higher yields. Break up hard pan down below the reach of your plow—up to 18 inches or more with the WD tractor, up to 14 inches or more with the CA tractor.

Reduce "break-throughs" on terraced land by opening the way for heavy showers to penetrate between terraces. Give newly seeded grass waterways a chance . . . open your land above the waterway with an A-C subsoiler to divert run-off and reduce drowning of seedlings.

Allis-Chalmers subsoilers are quick-hitched, hydraulically operated for depth control and easy transport.

AG Journalism Course Ready At Michigan State

Michigan State College this fall will become the 15th school in the nation to offer course work leading to a bachelor's degree in agricultural journalism, college officials announced today.

Set up in response to an ever-increasing demand for training agricultural journalists, the new course will begin this fall and will allow students to get their agricultural journalism training in two different ways.

Students may either major in agriculture and minor in journalism to receive a bachelor of science degree in agriculture; or they may major in journalism and minor in agriculture to receive a bachelor of arts degree in journalism.

Work of the journalism majors will be administered in the school of Business and Public Service, and work of the agricultural majors will be conducted in the School of Agriculture.

Demand for agricultural journalists exceeds the supply by a six to one ratio, according to a recent survey by the Texas A. and M. department of journalism under the direction of Dr. Donald A. Burchard.

Commenting on the tremendous demand for agricultural journalists, Dr. Burchard concluded his survey by stating, "Educators are gravely concerned over the situation and expect it to get worse before it gets better."

Agricultural journalists have been extremely scarce. It has been hard to fill positions on agricultural publications, in advertising agencies dealing with farm supplies and equipment and in agricultural college writing and editing work, college officials reported.

Another area where many of these specialized journalists are needed is in radio and television work and on daily newspapers, which have constantly been expanding their agricultural sections. Public relations firms which deal with farm people and equipment also are demanding more people trained in both agriculture and journalism.

The M.S.C. course was worked out by a college committee composed of representatives from the journalism department, the School of Agriculture and the department of information services.

Rural Building Course Planned

In answer to a demand for men skilled in rural building, a special course will open in September at Michigan State College, East Lansing.

The Rural Building program will be a 72-week training course consisting of three 12-week terms of resident work at the college and a similar period of placement training under college supervision.

The new course is designed to meet a demand for men to become farm carpenters, general farm mechanics and service men who plan to engage in farm construction and maintenance.

With farm building designs becoming more complicated, construction work requires greater skill. The department of agricultural engineering and department of short courses together sponsor the course.

Entrance requirements are for high school graduates or a person 18 years of age with satisfactory work experience.

Details regarding the course and enrollment for the course which begins in late September may be obtained from the Short Courses Department at Michigan State College.

Dairyman Gives A Grass Silage Tip

Here's a tip for dairymen who complain that their dairy cows won't eat grass silage. George Parsons, Michigan State college extension dairyman, says that this is not unusual—in fact, the college has the same problem with its dairy herd.

He advises farmers to feed about five pounds of dry hay along with the grass silage. This will help sharpen their appetite for it.

Calf Scramble At County Fair To Be Thursday

There will be 12 hereford beef calves in the calf scramble which will be held Thursday, Sept. 4 at 2:00 p.m. at the Charlevoix County Fair. It is expected that 16 to 18 boys will enter the scramble and compete for one of these calves. The boys 4-H and F.F.A. members must be 15, 16 or 17 years of age and physically fit.

These boys will have these calves to raise during the next year and they will be brought back to the 1953 Charlevoix County Fair to be sold. There will be no other calves in the beef feeding project other than the 12 scramble calves.

Anyone interested in entering the calf scramble should contact Ed Rebman, County Agricultural Agent, of Boyne City for application forms which must be signed by the boy and his parents. There will also be a pig scramble for younger boys and girls.

Steers On Feed Early In Fall Gain For Market

Farmers who depend on dry, fading pasture alone too long, instead of starting cattle on some feed in late summer and fall, may find valuable market weight actually lost.

Weight lost through poor pasturing, without feed, or after a hard freeze can be put back on only the hard way, by expensive feeding, cautions George A. Branaman, of the Michigan State College animal husbandry department.

Feed can be saved in spring by sending animals to lush new pasture, he points out, but in the fall it's a question of feed only. Farmers can save time and labor in the feeding program in the fall, Branaman suggests. Steers weighing 700 pounds or more may be fed up to ten pounds of grain in one feed, instead of being fed twice daily, without disadvantage.

Most Michigan steers now weighing more than 700 pounds will be finished for market without any pasture next spring, Branaman notes.

Another good reason for putting choice grade cattle on grain early is the usual trend of a peak market before February, Branaman remarked, adding that well-finished beef may drop after the holidays. Corn, barley, oats or roughage, and grass silage may replace pasture and hay. Protein supplement is desirable for higher grade steers when good legume hay is limited.

What's doing at Camp Charlevoix

Camp Charlevoix, northern Michigan's oldest camp for boys, concluded its 26th season Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smith are camp directors.

The annual rodeo during the afternoon Friday and the council fire Friday night concluded eight weeks of camping for 130 boys from 12 states.

The council fire staged at the council grounds on the edge of Lake Charlevoix was a fitting climax to the summer program.

More than 600 visitors sat in a semi-circle around the council fire area with an Indian Wigwam silhouetted against the night sky, still lighted by sunset colors, forming a background for the Indian pageant, written and presented under the direction of Rodney Deyo of Detroit, a member of the Heoki Wacipi Dancing Society.

The best of a single Indian drum heralded the approach of the Indians on Lake Charlevoix as their canoes, lighted with colorful torches carried the Indian chiefs and warriors to the council fire. The lighting of the fire opened the pageant which told the story of life among the Indians with all events portrayed in a variety of Indian dances. Terry Tycinski narrated the impressive story as campers wearing Indian garb danced to the beat of the Indian drum.

The funeral ceremony at which the spirit of 1952 was buried concluded the ceremony. During this each camper deposited a note he had written on the subject, "What Camp Has Meant to Me," in a glass jar. The jar will be buried until the opening council fire the following year.

As an epilogue to the Council fire Rezza Mofarah, a native of Iran, portrayed a tableau on "Man and his Struggle for Life." He is a recent graduate of Dennison University and will attend Michigan State College for graduate work this fall.

In the glow of the council fire embers, Mr. Smith presented each camper with his 'Arrow C' marked with the number of years he has attended Camp Charlevoix. Special recognition was given to Mrs. Smith who has been at camp for 17 years; Harry Bingham who has served as business manager for 16 years; Frank Smith, who who first attended as a camper ten years ago and who now is a member of the staff.

Earlier in the day Charlevoix townspeople and summer visitors, joined with campers and their parents to watch the annual rodeo. The crowd numbering more than 700 came to view the boys in a display of horsemanship, steer riding, calf roping and other related events.

Tex Johnson of Nacogdoches, Tex., was arena director; Frank Smith and Dave Netting, director of boys; Whip Burnside, stock handler; timer, Barney Englehart; clowns who added to the fun of the rodeo, Manny Alves and Don Dohoney; announcer, Mr. Smith; refreshments, Tom Broom.

The exodus of campers to their homes in major cities in the east, south and middle west started immediately after the Friday performances as campers left via car with their parents. Other boys returned home by train or bus over the week-end.

Korean Veterans To Be Eligible For Unemployment Pay

Federal Unemployment Compensation for Korean veterans, similar to the Servicemen's Readjustment Allowance paid World War II veterans, will be paid after October 14, 1952, Howard Smart, manager of the Petoskey Office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission announced recently. This announcement is made in response to dozens of daily queries at M.E.S.C. branch offices throughout the State, Mr. Smart said.

The payments will amount to $26.00 a week for not more than 26 weeks, and are paid by the federal government through the M.E.S.C.'s claims division. To be eligible, a veteran must have served in the armed forces after June 26, 1950, and must have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

Unemployment Compensation under this program may not be paid within 31 days after discharge if the veteran received $100.00 in mustering out pay; not within 61 days if he receives $200.00 of such pay; not within 91 days if eligible for $300. (This provision is inserted because $300 is paid overseas veterans with more than 90 days service; $200 to veterans with more than 90 days service in the United States, and $100 to veterans with less than 90 days service.)

The veteran's Readjustment Assistance Act, under which this unemployment compensation is payable to veterans of the Korean conflict, provides that veterans must serve a one-week waiting period after their claim has been filed. They will be eligible for compensation in the second week, if still unemployed. He must be able to work, and available for work. If the veteran has benefit rights under any state unemployment insurance program, or under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, he must first claim such benefits.

In Michigan, Korean veterans' wage credits in employment covered by the Michigan Employment Security Act are frozen as of the time they entered military service. This entitles them to state benefits if they had previously earned any wage credits. However, Mr. Smart, said many of the Korean veterans have entered the armed forces without having any work experience at all. The Federal Act is of particular benefit to these young vets.

Freighter Enters Harbor With Coal For Electric Co-Op

The freighter, Ben E. Tate, of the Paisley Steamship Corp., passed through the Charlevoix harbor Tuesday enroute to Advance with the first load of coal for the Northern Michigan Electric Co-operative, Inc.

The ship was carrying 5,700 tons of coal and was drawing just under 20 feet of water when it passed through the channel, an operation which took approximately 20 minutes.

The ship passed through on the out-bound trip at 8 p.m. Tuesday night.

The Tate brought in the first of nine such loads of coal to be delivered to Advance this year.

Several Major Improvements Are Made In Schools

Teachers and students returning to classes in the Charlevoix public schools next week will find several major improvements in the buildings completed during the summer recess.

The usual re-decorating project in the hall-ways of both the high school and elementary buildings and in several rooms in both schools has added much to the general appearance of the buildings to be re-decorated over a period of years.

The school cafeteria, a room with approximately 6,000 feet floor area has been completely covered with tile in a vari-colored pattern donated to the school by James G. F. Coleman of Charlevoix and Chicago. The new floor covering adds to the attractiveness of the room in the basement of the high school and will cut down maintenance costs. The covering also extends into the tunnel between the two buildings in the basement and was also laid in the superintendent's office in the elementary school.

A great deal of time was spent in renovating the gymnasium

Trucking Group To Meet Here In June 1953

Charlevoix and the Charlevoix Beach Hotel will host their first national convention in June, 1953, when the Regular Route Common Carriers Conferece of the American Trucking Association meets here for a six-day convention, it was learned this week.

The announcement came from J. Robert Cooper, of Detroit, chairman of the conference, in a communication to Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kramer, owner-managers of the Beach Hotel. It will also mark the first time a Michigan city has been selected for the meeting of the national conference.

The Board of Governors of the Conferenco will open their 1953 meeting June 23 and conclude June 29. At that time 120 board members representing 4,000 motor common carriers in the 48 states and the District of Columbia, members of the Conference Committees and their guests will be meeting here for ona of three meetings held annually.

Mr. Cooper went on to say that the Conference is a working body and during the meeting here will discuss problems common to all motor common carriers throughout the nation. Local problems will be handled on a local level by the Rate and Tariffs Bureau. Michigan's Bureau is located in Detroit and managed by Carl G. Hoelecheck, who was born at Norwood and spent his early days in Charlevoix.

The board members and the many serving on Conference committees represent the top management of the trucking industry, an industry whose rapid growth exceeds that of any other business, Mr. Cooper said. To best explain this Mr. Cooper said that in 1941 the members of the Michigan Bureau grossed $37 million and ten years later the same group grossed $150 million.

The meeting to ba held here next June is one of three held annually. Usually one is held in the east, another in the middlewest and the third in tha Pacific coast area. The fall meeting this year will be held in New York and tha winter meeting in Miami, Fla.

Charlevoix and the Beach Hotel were chosen from a number of cities and hotels after much discussion concerning the many attractions each had to offer, Mr. Cooper said.

County Fair Furnishes Variety Of Entertainment, Races, Exhibits

Two of the Fair's major attractions, harness horse-racing and horse-pulling will be offered during the last two days, Jess Smith of this city, superintendent of speed, said this week.

From 30 to 35 horses have been entered in the harness races, Mr. Smith reported. Among them are such favorites as Don Frisce of the Ralph Thompson stable at Prescott plus several others from the same stable and four from the Cassaganda stablo at Crystal Falls. Only locol horse is one entered by Ralph Bocot. Others will be brought hare from Cadillac where they were raced earlier this week.

The horse races will be staged at 2 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The horse-pulling contest will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday night.

George C. Haggard has been named presiding judge and Harold Totten associate judge. A third member will be named to the judges' committee later in the week.

A live-stock parade at 1 p.m. today will be followed by calf scramble at 2 p.m. and the second annual fat stock sale at 3 p.m. The sale of pigs from the 1951 pig scramble and this year's pig scramble will conclude the afternoon's activities.

The Barnyord Frolics will be presented at the grondstand at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday nights. The midway this year with booths, shows and rides promises to bo excellent. Mr. Rebman said Wednesday.

Saturday will be Children's Day with reduced prices for all rides on the grounds.

The Charlevoix band is expected to oppear on the program Friday night.

Large Audience Enjoys Annual SPEB Songfest

The tenth annual Barbershop Jamboree is now a memory as more than 400 visitors from nine states and Canada departed for their homes after declaring the Jamboree the best in the history of the event.

The constant growth of the Jamboree, the last major event of the summer season, is reflected in the increased attendance through the years and the fact that visitors came earlier this year and remained for a longer time, Jerry F. Scudder, co-chairman of the event said. Registrations, for example, hit their peak on Thursday instead of Saturday as in previous years, he added.

The parade of quartets Saturday night, the only program open to the public, played to a packed house in the Charlevoix high school auditorium.

Following the prologue introducing Paul Bunyan and his blue Ox, the curtains parted to show the legendary character sitting on a pile of logs sharing the spotlight with Babe, the Blue Ox. The stage setting was designed and built by Wayne Belding.

With Edwin S. Smith of Wayne, international president as master of ceremonies, the eight quartets presented a variety of numbers, some old, some new, some popular and several of a more serious nature. All were well received by the audience, which also enjoyed community singing under the direction of Henry D. Schubert of Dearborn.

Quartets participating in the parade were the Four-Fathers of Muskegon, County Seaters of Dowagiac, Hobby Chords of Detroit, Note Blenders of Oakland county, Renegades of Palos

Football Squad Is Working Out For First Game

The Charlevoix Rayder football team took to the gridiron this week in preparation for their opening game with Boyne City Sept. 26.

On hand for the initial practice session Monday were 46 of Coach Del Terrill's prospective 56 candidates for the 1952 squad. Other players, still busy with summer jobs, will report for practice with the opening of school next week.

Coach Terrill will be building his team from scratch this season following the loss of 14 lettermen from the 1951 line-up.

Ten lettermen are returning but the number includes only three regulars from last year's eleven, Stan Whitley, a tackle, and Bill Bennett and Jim Lewis, backs.

Other lettermen who saw limited action last season are Dean Davenport, Larry Burns and Bill Moster, linemen who will be candidates for regular positions on the squad while Don Vratanina, Paul Johnson, Fred Jolliffe and Bob Jolliffe will be out for regular berths in the backfield along with the veterans mentioned above.

This week Coach Terrill will confine practice sessions to fundementals and offensive plays with an eye to the candidates for the regular squad.

Pete Burns and Irish Coleman will serve as assistant coaches.

by Gene Alleman

The editor of The Courier doesn't like to write obituaries for traffic victims.

Last year he and his colleagues on Michigan's 400 daily and weekly newspapers had to write death notices for 1,640 persons who died on the highways and streets of our state.

They had to write about 48,418 people who were hurt in auto accidents . . . many of them permanently crippled. They had to report on 176,587 traffic accidents in '51.

Those aren't just statistics; they are people. Some of them are friends and relatives of Michigan editors. Some are friends and relatives of yours.

So that they won't have to cover so many funerals of highway victims . . . and also so they and their readers are spared the grief that every such needless death brings, Michigan editors are uniting to turn the full force of the press toward arousing their readers and fellow-citizens to the tragedy that rides in our autos.

IN REGIONAL conferences throughout the state in the next few weeks, editors will discuss the solution to the problem.

That solution, simply, is this: Bring all the facts to the public. An informed public opinion can be counted on to push through the necessary changes in attitudes and laws.

Basis of the press program is "a report by Michigan people to Michigan people on how to check mounting highway injuries and deaths."

That's the subtitle of the report by the first Michigan Highway Safety Seminar held on Michigan State campus, last Spring. The report was unveiled yesterday at a meeting of the Michigan State Safety Commission called by Fred M. Alger Jr., secretary of state and commission chairman.

Michigan editors are just one group of 100 different organizations that are joining forces to battle the appalling increase in death, injury and loss that mar our streets and roads.

Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, was seminar chairman. General Motors, the Gas & Oil Association of Michigan, the Michigan Automobile Club and the Michigan Press Association were just a few of the organizations which took an active part in the seminar.

All of these organizations representing every type of industry, commerce and profession in Michigan, realizes that only the public can make highways safer.

The attitude of Mr. and Mrs. Michigan and their sons and daughters spells the difference between carnage and safety on our roads.

DO THESE incidents sound familiar?

"Can't you get a driver's license for my father? Sure, he's 78 and doesn't see well but he needs to drive to get aound. Remember, I worked in the 17th Ward for your boss, the sheriff, last election." So Grandpa gets a license and eventually a headline reads: "Aged Driver Stricken At Wheel; Three Dead In Crash."

"YEP . . . Made it from Tawas to Detroit in three hours! Had it up over 100 plently of the time, too." And the headlines: "Speeding Car Leaves Road; Driver Maimed."

"Yes, I guess Junior drives a little reckless some times. But after all, he's only young once and a kid's got to have some fun." "Hot-Rodders Race On Highway; Four Cars In Fatal Collision."

"Look, Judge. Can't you fix this ticket for me? After all, I slowed down at the intersection." "Mother Hurt As Car Runs Stop Sign."

"Those darn cops are always trying to stick somebody on a speeding charge. Why don't they go out and catch crooks instead of picking on an honest citizen?" "Speeder Kills School Child."

ALL THOSE headlines are taken from Michigan newspapers. You've undoubtedly heard enough of the comments to realize that they're accurate, too.

Until Michigan wakes up to the grim toll of highway tragedies, until Michigan realizes it isn't smart, or socially accepted, to violate traffic laws, highway deaths will outnumber those of any battlefield.

It's to wake up his readers, to mobilize public opinion to wiping out unsound and unsafe laws, practices and public acceptance that your editor and his fellow newspapermen are embarking on an intensive campaign to make streets and roads of Michigan safer for you, and his readers.

ONE OF THE MORE decorative aspects of the Lansing scene are the "queens" of various Michigan festivals who call to pay their respects at the Capitol. One of the most charming is Dione Coval who reigned over the Romeo Peach Festival this week-end.

She passes out the information that peach trees, like field crops have to be rotated. Apple trees are the alternate crop. Peach trees last 8 to 10 years, bear after the first two years. Apple trees last twice as long which makes rotation a problem.

The annual average crop in Queen Dione's kingdom is 20 to 30,000 bushels.

IF YOU READ your whodunits in paper-backed volumes, you've been nicked an extra penny sales tax recently.

Because magazines and newspapers are exempt from Michigan sales tax and because the pocket books are handled by news firms, dealers didn't collect the tax until very recently.

"We don't know why the sudden change," says a Department of Revenue spokesman "Such books have always been taxable and we assume that the dealers have been absorbing the tax in the past."

Trade associations say they haven't bulletined their members about charging the tax. They think the movement has been spontaneous.

"Our auditors may have spotted the situation in a regular checkup," says the revenue department. "The grapevine usually spreads such news mighty fast."

Whatever the cause, it costs a penny more these days to find out that it was the butler who scragged Sir Geoffrey Peffry Begherry in the manorial mystery.

Change Rules For U.S. Insurance Premiums

Veterans may now make their checks or money orders for government life insurance premiums payable to "Veterans Administration", VA announced today.

Heretofore, checks and money orders had to be made payable to "The Treasurer of the United States". As a result, many premium payments were sent to the Treasury Department rather than to the VA District or Central Office handling the insurance account.

Veterans were advised by VA not to send cash through the mails but to use checks or postal money orders. Cancelled checks or money order stubs serve as premium receipts.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

FOR THOSE of you who like to do your Christmas shopping early . . . there're only 94 shopping days 'til Christmas . . . And a lot less than that before you must have your overseas servicemen's Christmas packages in the mail . . . We haven't checked with the postoffice but the mailing dates are usually between Oct. 15 and Nov. 15 . . . depending on where your serviceman is stationed . . . So start looking around right now for those things that will make his heart glad . . And there's still plenty of good light to take snapshots of his favorite spots and people to bring him a bit of home at holiday time . . . So get going now . . . not six weeks from now . . .

AND ANOTHER date to remember . . . Sept. 23 . . the last day you can register for the general election Nov. 4 . . . There're still three weeks to register but that isn't long . . . And if you want to cast your vote for your favorite candidate, now's the time to sign on the dotted line if you haven't already done so . . . We had occasion to see the poll list prior to the Primary election and were amazed at the number of citizens who are not registered . . We don't care what your politics are . . . You con vote for the Man in the Moon if he happens to be on a ballot but VOTE . . . and if you aren't yet registered, do that NOW . . .

LIKE SEVERAL hundred other people we attended the Barbershop Jamboree program at the high school gym Saturday . . . And like that same several hundred, we were delightfully entertained by some fine quartets . . For those of you who didn't hear the program we'd like to tell you about the stage setting, which was really something . . . You've all heard of Paul Bunyan and his Blue Ox, Babe . . . Well, they were there . . . Paul sitting on a pile of logs on the right-hand side of the stage with his red-stocking-capped head touching the top of the stage and Babe on the other side . . . at least eight feet tall wilh horns another 18 inches long . . . We were raised on stories of this illustrious pair and we had our ideas about what they looked like, but we must say we never thought Babe was that particular shade of blue . . . We just figured it was a shade that would take the wear and tear a little better . . . But we must admit it was a beautiful shade of sky-blue . . . But all kidding aside . . . it was very, very well done . . . Wayne Belding designed and built the setting but we understand scads of guys helped assemble it . . . And then there was Bob Miles who came up with the idea . . . It was really a community project . . . And don't forget the evergreens which added the final touch . . . and smell.

IT'S HAY-FEVER time . . . in case you hadn't noticed the red noses . . . And that's another thing that should be a community project . . . destroying the greatest offender . . . the ragweed . . . We hoast of our pollen-free air but it isn't going to be that way long if everyone doesn't get busy and clean up the ragweed . . . It grows everyplace . . . And if you don't believe us, look on the back of your lot, along the alley or in the vacant lot . . . When you see it, pull it up . . . And if you don't know what it looks like, ask someone . . . But get rid of it . . . Hay-fever is miserable stuff and a lot of people suffer from it so get to work on that project . . .

IN CASE you're interested in the pot-pourri Mrs. J. C. Marshall and Mrs. John Mol were making . . . the project is about completed . . . Several people sent recipes and after some debate one was selected and the job started . . . it took days but the finished product has been placed in the jars . . . We haven't 'whiffed' it yet but if it smells as pretty as it looked in the making it's going to be mighty nice . . .

A NOTE FROM the A. A. Schaerers the other day from Cheboygan . . . As many of you know, Mr. S. loves steam engines and they'd gone over there to see a steam threshing machine of some description . . . And from Arlyle Roberts who left recently for Portland, Ore., where she'll teach this year, a card telling us she and Marj. Allen had a grand trip west . . . And especially enjoyed Denver . . . That must be quite a place . . . everyone seems to like it . . . A friend of ours who has sinus says that's the only spot he's ever hit where he's free from it . . . And we're not on the payroll of the Denver Chamber of Commerce either . . .

Heights, Ill., Extension Chords of Grand Rapids, Merri-Men of Lansing and the Mid-States Four of Chicago.

At the afterglow which followed at the Charlevoix Beach Hotel, Jamboree headquarters, four other visiting quartets who had not appeared on the parade joined the group.

The Escott Costume ball at the Belvedere Hotel Casino Sunday evening was reportedly the most colorful ever staged, with a variety of original costumes in evidence.

The Grosse Pointe chapter represented by 56 members and their wives appeared as a group clad in costumes carrying out a South Sea Island theme complete with Hottentot chiefs and dancing natives.

A buffet supper at 11 p.m. was prepared and served by the Belvedere Hotel staff.

The Belvedere Club has granted the Charlevoix chapter, host to the Jamboree, the use of the casino for the past nine years.

The Charlevoix chapter's Labor Day week-end jamboree is among the oldest barbershop conclaves with a record of ten successful years.

Clarice E. White, William H. Hair Are Wed Sunday

Baskets of gladioli and greens decorated the North Bay Evangelical church for the wedding of Clarice E. White and William H. Hair Sunday afternoon.

The Rev. Chester Fiedler of the Evangelical United Brethren church of Hortons Bay read the service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clare E. White and Mr. and Mrs. William D. Hair are the parents of the bridegroom.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride selected a ballerina length gown of iridescent gray taffeta, gray and black accessories and a corsage of white baby mums and pink roses for her wedding.

Mrs. Mark Treadwell of Royal Oak was her sister's matron of honor. She wore an iridescent purple taffeta gown, matching accessories and a corsage of white mums and roses. Lois Garver, niece of the bride, and Lynn Hair, sister of the bridegroom, as junior bridesmaids, wore iridescent rose taffeta gowns and corsages of white mums.

Mr. Treadwell assisted the bridegroom as best man.

Mrs. White chose a teal blue gown and brown accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Hair, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gray print gown and black accessories. Both had corsages of American Beauty roses.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

After a Canadian wedding trip the couple will make their home in Petoskey where the bride will be a senior at the Petoskey high school. Mr. Hair is a 1952 graduate of the Charlevoix high school.

Elk Herd Still Plagued With Unknown Disease

Gaylord — Two more elk, both suffering from the disease or deficiency that has plagued Michigan's herd for years, have been taken near here by conservation department authorities.

Both are cows, each about two years old. The first died shortly after capture. The second is in a weakened condition.

The dead elk will be autopsied, the live one taken to the department's East Lansing laboratory at Michigan State College for study.

A third elk, a yearling bull, already is under observation at the laboratory. It was captured near here some weeks ago, in a weakened condition.

Many such elk have been found in recent years, victims of the unsolved riddle that leaves them weak, without fear of humans, and in some cases, blind.

When cultivating vegetables, it's best not to go deeper than one and a half inches.

Home Accidents Are Called Very Serious By Expert

The old saying "home sweet home" might well be altered to "home safe home," according to Olevia Meyer of the Michigan State College home management department. In the past two years in Michigan the total deaths resulting from home accidents ranked second only to the number of motor vehicle accidental deaths.

Miss Meyer gives other facts about home accidents that will indicate danger areas. Kitchens are the most dangerous rooms . . . more accidents occur there than anywhere else. Cuts and pierces are the most frequent injuries for both men and women, with burns and bruises ranking second and third. Women are the victims of home injuries twice as often as men, although men do have a high rate of injury in yards surrounding the home.

Falls and fires take the greatest toll of deaths among home accidents, she said. And older people are especially vulnerable to injury through falls, with stair steps a special menace.

Miss Meyer suggests that kitchen accidents usually occur when people are careless, in a hurry or tired. Disorder, poor judgement, and using the wrong, or faulty ejuipment also contribute to the high accident rate in kitchens. She also warned against improper use of equipment.

Experts Predict Normal Pheasant Hunting Season

The annual rural mail carriers' brood count of pheasants failed to show an anticipated increase, and conservation department pheasant specialists now predict a hunting season very similar to last year.

A kill of about one million pheasants thus is predicted for the coming season.

A total of 471 carriers reported seeing 3,075 broods along 280,000 miles of rural roads. This averages out to 1.10 broods seen per 100 miles of driving, an "insignificant" drop from last year's 1.15 repartment specialists say.

Only in the five-county southeastern Michigan area was there a significant 22 percent increase over last year's count. The other 33 counties studied showed almost no change.

Highest number of broods was found in the Thumb region, with southeastern Michigan running second. The Grand Rapids area ran third, the central area fourth, and southwestern Michigan, always low in pheasant production, ran a poor fifth.

The mail carrier counts have been made for seven years. Each year about 500 carriers take part in the count, considered the most accurate pheasant survey used by the department.

Hogs Thrive On Rye Pasture In Winter Season

Hogs can make good use of pasture in any season and owners providing it for their swine all winter long will be putting dollars in their pockets.

If pasture is not available, the best substitute is a good quality leafy legume, advises H. F. Moxley, Michigan State College animal husbandry extension specialist.

Rye planted in late summer or early fall, at rate of six to eight pecks per acre, can get a good growth before freezing weather. This provides hogs with a pasture they will relish in late fall and throughout a mild winter. Sows and litters will find it ideal as early as late March.

Rye aids hogs in health and makes faster, more efficient gains with less grains and proteins, Moxley reports.

Good-quality well-cured second cutting alfalfa should be fed where pasture is not available, Moxley adds. Approximately ten percent of the ration for fattening hegs should be a good legume hay and this should be increased to 15 to 30 percent for brood sows and gilts. Alfalfa may be ground and fed in the grain ration or free choice as hay, the extension specialist reports.

Plan To Pamper Pullets: Payoff In '52 Profits

Michigan hens are making their fall moulting shift, from abundant low-priced eggs to scarce high-priced eggs and the trend continues until January.

That makes the early hatched pullets very important birds on any farm, according to J. M. Moore, Michigan State College poultry extension specialist.

Pullets start laying eggs in five to six months but it is not until they are about eight months old that they lay large eggs, and then only if they have proper breeding.

With egg profits in the last half of the year and pullets the money makers, farmers should take special care that poor management does not cause a drop in egg production, Moore advises.

Pullets have been free, in sunshine, with green grass, bugs, beetles and everything to make them happy. Now they are being shut up in the laying house and famers should do all possible to overcome the shock. The first thing is a clean laying house, with all refuse cleaned out, dust washed down, perches and nests treated with a good mite killer and disinfected. It should be ready when pullets start laying.

Deep litter should be used in laying houses now, and it should be six to eight inches deep. Cut straw is better than long straw. Shavings, sawdust and corncobs are satisfactory. Litter should be stirred regularly and any crusted, matted material thrown out.

When the pullets are housed, feed should not be changed. If growing mash is being fed, continue it two to three weeks while pullets become familiar with new surroundings. If a shift to laying mash is planned, farmers can start the laying mash the last two weeks pullets are out on range.

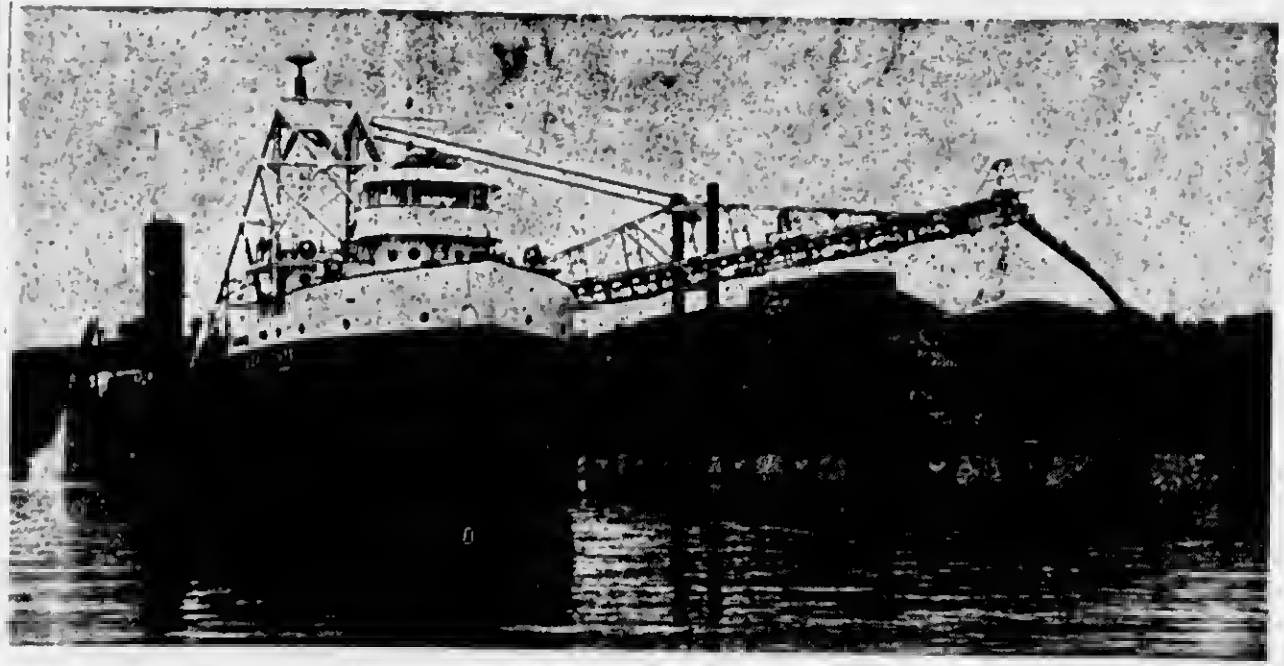
Housed pullets should not be startled as they are wild and shy at sudden motion such as someone entering the pens. Get acquainted with the birds and they will settle down to work.

Plenty of fresh air in housing will prevent birds catching colds but it should be fresh air without drafts. At first, the pullets will need teaching to go on perches, and setting them on perches will help. Birds will have more fresh air and suffer less from crowding when they learn to perch.

Pullet egg-laying is directly benefited by longer days and poultrymen should start in September to use lights to gradually lengthen the pullets' "days" to 13 hours. This will maintain later high production.

Pullets are the profit-makers from now until January, when old hens go back on full production again, and deserve some pampering, according to Moore.

New REA Plant Gets First Coal Shipment



Charlevoix County rural electric consumers will start using electricity produced from the load of coal shown here at the Advance Steam Plant of Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, Inc. on Lake Charlevoix when the transmission lines now under construction are energized. The Steamer Ben E. Tate was the first of several coal carriers that will deliver a stockpile of thousands of tons of coal preparatory to operation of the new power plant and transmission lines.

Winning Fight On Pullorum In State

Recent figures supplied the U. S. Department of Agriculture by the Michigan State Poultry Improvement Association show conclusively that Michigan hatcheries are winning their battle to eradicate pullorum disease in poultry.

H. C. Zindel, Michigan State collgee extension poultryman, said that during the 1951-52 season, Michigan hatcherman tested 688,104 birds in 1,804 flocks for pullorum disease using the rapid whole-blood test. In the first test only 2,738 reactor birds were found for a percentage of 0.39 percent, the lowest in the history of testing in Michigan.

Tips On Freezing Given Homemakers By College Expert

Freezing does not improve foods. But through freezing a greater amount of original flavor and color can be retained than through any other method of preservation, according to Dr. Pauline Paul of the Michigan State college foods and nutrition department.

Original food value is well retained by freezing, too. And it is interesting to note that greater loss of vitamins and minerals comes from careless handling than from frozen storage, Dr. Paul advised.

In considering what products to freeze, a good rule of thumb is that fruits and vegetables which are usually canned will freeze satisfactorily. Meats, poultry, fish and eggs may also be preserved by freezing. There are exceptions, of course—foods eaten raw like lettuce, celery, onions, cucumbers and radishes do not freeze well. Tomatoes and pears are not practicable freezing products, nor are high-starch content foods such as potatoes, rice and macaroni.

In general, freeze only the best—firm, well-ripened fruits and fresh, tender vegetables. Meats must be high in quality and handled properly from the time of slaughtering to freezing, Dr. Paul warned.

Field and tree-ripened fruits have the richest color and flavor for frozen storage. The fruit should be firm-ripe and freshly picked. In sorting and washing the fruit, take care to prevent bruising. Drain well after washing and pack in moisture-vapor-proof containers, dry or with sugar or sirup, depending upon the fruit. Sugar and sirup help preserve color and flavor, as well as prolong the storage time of the fruit.

Even in cold weather cotton has a place in the wardrobe, say Michigan State College home economists. Dark cotton dresses or cotton blouses with suits are wise buys for business girl who work in overheated office.

Mildew spots on fabrics must be treated when fresh, before the mold growth has a chance to weaken the cloth, say Michigan State College home economists.

More people are injured in the home than any other place, so check home safety measures. Now.

Charlevoix Library Starts Winter Hours

The Charlevoix public library hours will be returned to their winter schedule, Miss Florenz Milner, librarian announced this week.

Beginning Monday, Sept. 8, the hours will be from 2 to 5:30 and 7 to 8:30 p.m. daily except Sunday.

Motorists Are Reminded That Speeding Kills

Chief Clarence Heise, of the Charlevoix Police Department is reminding motorists that although speed control is being stressed during the current traffic safety campaign in Michigan, the dangers of driving too fast are present all year around.

"Speed," Chief Heise said, "is the leading traffic killer every day of the year. Although speed takes its heaviest toll during the summer season, it continues to show up as the predominant factor in traffic deaths during the fall, winter and spring.

"For several weeks the Charlevoix Police Department and other police agencies throughout Michigan have been urging motorists to practice strict, self-enforced speed control. The state law itself requires that speed be adjusted to all conditions.

"Last year 1,604 persons were killed and 48,418 injured on Michigan streets and highways. That was a daily average of 138 casualties. The highest daily toll was recorded in July with 160 casualties.

"This traffic record is unexcusable when we realize that most of the accidents, injuries and deaths could have been prevented. One or more drivers were reported as violating traffic laws in seven out of every ten fatal accidents. Of all the violations reported, 44 per cent were for driving too fast for conditions.

"Drivers should realize that the menace of speed can be checked only through their own efforts. They should remember that speed control is always a matter of life or death."

Authorities Say State Deer Herd Should Be Cut

Michigan's deer herd, presently estimated at nearly one million in number, should be cut to about one-half this figure, conservation department game specialists say.

Department estimate is made on the basis of what would be biologically sound for preservation of the herd.

This would not mean the smaller herd would stay small, game men point out. Increasingly better health of remaining deer would raise the birth rate so that by the following fall the population would be up considerably from the suggested half-million size.

The present over-population has caused serious damage to herd health and more important from a long-range viewpoint, has severely damaged the deer range, much of which is overbrowsed and dying.

New deer hunting regulations, established by the conservation commission, will better this situation to some extent. The commission approved the taking of does and fawns during the last three days of the regular buck season, a move expected to lower the population somewhat and give the herd a "new lease on life."

Over-populated for a number of years, the herd has maintained its large numbers despite large annual losses by starvation and hunting, and despite the fact that it is eating itself out of house and home.

Give Report For Year On Goldman Fund

"It's impossible to place a price tag on the actual value of warm clothing when a child is cold, on a bottle of milk when a child is hungry or on unsolicited emergency aid to a family in need", Robert Bridge, secretary-treasurer of the Lenore Goldman Meyer Fund told the members of the late Mrs. Meyer's immediate family and the local administrators of the Fund at the annual meeting of the two groups at the Alvin D. Goldman home Thursday evening.

Mr. Bridge made this statement in reporting on the work accomplished by the Fund in the Charlevoix area during the past year.

The actual figures show that during the year ending Aug. 11, 1952, $890.00 was spent for clothing, shoes, fuel, food, milk and miscellaneous items for the needy in the area. The figura brings to more than $12,000 the amount expended during the 11 years the Fund has been in operation. Mr. Bridge said.

Seventeen cases involving 44 individuals were aided during the year. The number included six new cases.

Council Tables Bids On Water Tower Repairs

Bids for the painting and repairing of the city's water tower were tabled until Wednesday night by the Charlevoix city council after an extensive discussion of the project during the regular council meeting Monday night.

The council opened the two bids on the work which had been received earlier but failed to reach a decision on the bids so voted to leave the matter open until the special meeting.

The Keesler Company Ltd. of Fremont, Ohio, entered a bid for $1,025 for painting and reconditioning the tank after specilic repairs named by the company were made at the expense of the city. The E. H. Jones Co. of Royal Oak entered a bid for $2,415 for tha work.

Representatives from both companies appeared before the council and outlined what each would include in his respective bid. The advisability of installing an electrical device to cut down on the corrosion was also discussed.

The Council also decided to again advertise for bids for the underpinning at the Electric light plant. Only one bid was entered when the Council advertised for the bids in June..

An application entered by William Butters of the Sunset Lodge at 205 Michigan ave. to place a sign in the yard at the lodge was rejected by the council inasmuch as it was not within the ordinance limitations regarding such signs in a residential district.

The cost of opening a grave for a county charge was set at $16 by the council, four dollars under the regular cost.

Bills totaling $9,840.26 were accepted and ordered paid.

Construction Of New Highway 31 Halted For Now

The construction of 1.4 miles of new highway on US-31 north from Michigan and Dixon ave. has been halted until next spring the council has been notified in a letter from R. B. Dibble of the planning committee of the Michigan State Highway Department.

Carl Goodwin and Sons of Allegan who were awarded the contract last month forfeited the contract when they were unable to procure coment for the job.

The contract will be re-let during the winter and construction started in the spring if concrete is available at that time. If the work is done then, it will be completed before the summer season starts.

Enrollment In Schools Shows A Slight Decrease

The initial enrollment in the Charlevoix public schools this week showed a slight decrease over the 1951 figures, Supt. Roy G. Bennett said Wednesday.

The entire enrollment for the schools showed 798 students registered on the opening day as compared to 806 students last year. Other students who are still working or are out of town are expected to bring the enrollment up to the 1951 figure within the week, however.

11th	50	57
10th	74	51
9th	65	73
8th	73	72
7th	60	74
	374	384

In the elementary schools the enrollment is about the same as last year as the following figures reveal:

6th	58	58
5th	55	61
4th	62	59
3rd	56	61
2nd	57	51
1st	65	59
Kindergarten	71	72
	424	422

The enrollment at St. Mary's Catholic school is a ittle under the 1951 initial registration, Sr. M. Athanasius, principal and teacher of the first four grades said this week.

Thirty-two children are enrolled in the first four grades and 35 are registered for the fifth through the eighth grades which are taught by Sr. M. Leona.

Last year the school had three teachers with an enrollment of 70 pupils.

Sr. M. Paula and Sr. M. Gerome, supervisors from Marywood in Grand Rapids, are visiting the school this week.

Drivers - Watch Children

Now that the summer vacation season is over and the children of the area have returned from various visits, trips and camps to again concentrate in one section, we feel that the following message is well worth reading and heeding. In connection with Police Chief Clarence Heise's warning in last week's Courier that "Speed Kills", this advice again reminds us that the automobile is a wonderful aid to man . . . if man realizes the power he controls.

With the re-opening of schools and nearly one and one-half million Michigan children crossing streets and highways on their way to and from classrooms, Sgt. Harold Moore, commander of the Gaylord State Police post, is urging all persons to take part in the current statewide child safety campaign.

"Last year," Sgt. Moore said, "8,247 children under 15 years of age were killed or injured in Michigan traffic, an average of about 160 casualties each week.

"More often than not the children were victims of their own carelessness, but many of the tragedies could have been avoided if drivers had been more alert and expecting the unexpected.

"Drivers should take special precautions, not only in school and playground areas, but in all areas where children are likely to be. They should also remember that thousands of pre-school age children will be outdoors during all hours of the day. In other words, children may be anywhere, any time.

"Likewise, adult pedestrians, parents especially, can help prevent accidents involving children by practicing safe walking habits. Adults should realize that their own actions are examples boys and girls follow. Too often these are examples of carelessness.

"HELP PROTECT CHILDREN. FOR THEIR SAKE . . . AND YOUR OWN . . . WALK AND DRIVE CAREFULLY.

Rayders Begin To Take Shape After Ten Days Of Practice

The Charlevoix Rayders football squad is beginning to take shape after daily practice sessions for the past ten days, Coach Del Terrill reported this week.

Two daily sessions the first week did much to put the 55 aspirants in top physical condition and now Coach Terrill is trying the boys out in various positions in an effort to find the semblance of a starting line-up as the date for the opening game Sept. 26 draws near.

This year's squad will be built around three regulars from last's season's squad plus several lettermen who saw limited action during tha season.

Bobo Bennett, who assumed the regular quarterback duties midway in the schedule last season, will be back in that role with an assist from Ray Sanford, a likely candidate for the spot.

Jim Lewis who played fairly regularly last season and Don Vratanina will be vying for the left half spot while Joe McDermott and Jerry Albright, both up from the reserves, will be trying out for the right half position. Albright will also play guard.

Paul Johnson and Bob Jolliffe both of whom did some playing last year, will be out for the fullback berth.

Fred Jolliffe has been shifted from the backfield to a guard position where ha shows promise. Everett Pease, Wilfred Browe and Johnny LaBlance, all up from the second team, ara the other candidates for guard positions.

Veteran tackle Stan Whitley will be assured of a regular berth in the line-up but will have plenty of competition from Bill Mosier, Larry Burns, Ken Allison, Jack Cross and a newcomer, Joe Powell, a sophomore transfer from Ellsworth.

Filling out the line will be Dean Davenport, Dave Glassford, Jack Denemy, Don Smith and Gordon Mol seeking regular posts as ends on one of the lightest lines the Rayders have fielded in recent years.

Carl Foster, understudy to Ted Browe in the center spot last season will find Gene Towsley and Ivan Whitley also trying out for the job.

Newcomers showing promise early in the season are Dick Elzinga, a freshman and guard, Tom Swanson and Tom Connolly, both sophomores and tackles up from the Reserves.

Coach Pete Burns has his freshmen team going through their paces in preparation for more serious work later this week.

by Gene Alleman

Move over; Texas!

Michigan will soon have something to brag about that even the Lone Star State can't match . . . a bridge five miles long, with a 3,800 foot span, soaring 565 feet above the historic Straits of Mackinac.

"The bridge is closer to reality today than ever before in our history," says Prentiss M. Brown, former United States Senator and now chairman of the Mackinac Bridge Authority.

Let's ask Brown a few questions that Michiganders have been wondering about:

Can a bridge be built at reasonable cost which will withstand all the forces of nature?

"Yes," asserts Brown. "Leading engineers, experienced with long-span construction say that a Straits bridge would pose no problem which hasn't already been solved.

Winds are pretty strong up at the Straits. Will we be having another Galloping Gerty, (the bridge that blew down at Tacoma) on our hand?

"The bridge is designed to withstand 120-mile-per-hour winds; the highest ever clocked there has been 78 miles per hour. Piers and anchorages have been designed to stand under the thick ice and heavy currents of the Straits, too."

A University of Michigan professor said the rock on which the bridge would stand is carvernous and would collapse. How about that?

"He has since retracted his statement. Expert geologists have made tests that emphasize the fact that the bridge would stand on very substantial formations."

DO YOU HAVE to dig far to reach solid rock?

"The south anchorage would go down 140 feet. The San Francisco Bay Bridge went down 240 feet."

How long would it take to build the bridge?

"Four or five years, depending on weather and availability of materials."

Will the bridge be useable in all kinds of weather? .

"In any kind of weather you can ordinarily drive a car and, particularly, in all weather that the ferry boats can operate in."

All that sounds mighty good but there's always a joker in buying anything you like very much: How much does it cost? How do we pay for it?

Brown has an answer for that, too.

"Toll rates . . . exactly the same as those charged by ferries now . . . would pay for the $85 million project. The State would not have to obligate any of its general fund money for that," explains the dynamic chairman.

"Present ferry tolls gross $1.4 million a year. That wouldn't be enough to pay interest and principal but traffic experts predict that a bridge would increase traffic so much that in the early years of the bridge tolls would be $3.5 to $4 million. That would grow, too, just as ferry crossings have in the past."

On August 22, a Saturday but nowhere near a holiday, nearly 8,500 vehicles were carried across the eight-mile ferry route. That was an all-time record and nearly doubled the peak load of 1942.

More than half of the present ferry business comes from Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, and points east. These are all heavily populated and rapidly growing sections of our nation. The potential added tourist trade from these parts hasn't been touched yet. The bridge itself would lure tens of thousands of visitors and its convenience would take many more along US-2 for transcontinetal travel, say men who study traffic trends.

THERE'S another economic factor involved in crossing the Straits. The State loses more than a half-million dollars annually operating ferry service. As demands increase . . . as they do every year . . . that dificit gets larger.

The $8 to $9 million invested in new boats and docks in the past three years would have built a lot of State highways, Brown points out.

Upper Peninsula businessmen would purchase many more of their requirements from Lower Michigan instead of Wisconsin and Illinois if a bridge speeded transportation.

"Scores of businessmen hesitate to expand above the Straits because they cannot depend upon the arrival of shipments on schedule," says Brown. He knows, too, because he spent most of his life on the northern shores of the Straits. "They can't afford to tie up their men and equipment waiting for ferries, either."

He envisions the new bridge transfusing fresh economic blood into the UP Country which hasn't been flush since the days of the copper and lumber booms. And that, he contends, will help the financial security of all Michiganders.

Sen. Brown's group was formed by the Legislature in 1950 to study the physical and economic feasibility of the bridge. After it reported that no real obstacles stand in the way, the Authority was empowered to finance and build the structure.

Since then the Authority has been ringing doorbells to find the millions needed for the job. It has applied to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for such a loan and has invited private financial firms to bid on bonds it would issue.

The latter have reported that without the State underwriting the loan to some extent, such bonds would be hard to sell. The law creating the Authority prohibits pledging the faith and credit of the State so it appears that the RFC is the key.

A REPORT due any day now is expected to lend much weight to the Authority's arguments. It's by Coverdale & Colpitts, New York traffic experts, who made previous reports and now are bringing data up to date that, the Authority feels sure, will demonstrate both to RFC and private financiers that their investment would be sound and profitable.

"For fifty years the people of Michigan have dreamed about a bridge to link the two great peninsulas of our state," Brown recalls. "We believe that if people can have the bridge at no greater cost than they now pay for ferries, they would much prefer it.

"I know that many people enjoy the boat ride across the Straits. Most people enjoy a horse-and-buggy ride, too. But they wouldn't swap their auto for a surrey with a fringe on top.

"Barring upheavals in the international situation, it appears that a bridge at the Straits is virtually on its way," observes the former senator.

Texas! Better do your bragging now; Michigan is coming up with a real whopper!

DID YOU ever hear such a lonesome sound as the train whistle Sunday night . . . Or was it our imagination . . . Anyway it just seemed to be saying 'Bye for now . . . we'll see you again sometime . . . Trains come and go all summer but it's only the last few when all our summer folk are leaving that give you that nostalgic feeling . . .

CHARLEVOIX will soon be lacking in young men . . . kids in their late teens and early 20's as they go off to college or to the services . . . We've certainly lost a lot of them to the enlisted services in the past few weeks . . And what with those taking off for college it's going to be mighty lonesome . . . And about those kids in the services . . . Don't forget to write to them . . . They get mighty lonesome too . . . . They don't have a familiar face or sight they can turn too . . . Sure it's a wonderful new adventure . . . But they're just finding out how tough it is too . . .

WE HAD THE good fortune Monday night to see the picture filmed and prepared by Dr. C. O. Whitten telling the story of our District Health Unit . . . It's all done in color, shows all the services offered by the department and in a very fine way tells a story well . . . And it's lots of fun seeing your friends in the movies too for the 'cast' is composed of health department personnel . . . If you get a chance see it . . . and if you don't, ask to see it . . .

HAVE YOU noticed . . . most of our summer visitors are gone . . . The last week has left the town practically desolated . . . but it's kinda fun meeting your friends on the street again and having time for a chat . . . After all, we haven't seen some of them since the summer season started.

THIS WE LIKED . . . Art Taylor's description of the Lone Star state sent in a recent letter . . . Beautiful country, Texas . . . no trees, no water, no nothing . . . just dirt and sun . . . If you'll remember, Art was one of four '52 graduates who enlisted in the Airforce in June and went to Lackland Field near San Antonio for basic training . . . Can you think of a worse time to leave Charlevoix than in June . . .

CONGRATULATIONS to the Charlevoix gals who are finishing nurses' training this week . . . It seems only yesterday they left for training . . . but in those three years they've stored up a whale of a lot of knowledge and equally as many memories . . . Memories they'll cherish more as the years go by . . . A 'well done" to three of the cutest nurses you'll ever meet.

KEN FORBES who celebrated his birthday anniversary Tuesday called to tell us about the greeting he treasures most . . a Happy Birthday song via telephone sung to him by Mrs. John Bugbee who will be 88 years old next month.

And if you've noticed the cute birch-bark basket we have marked "Marquette Prison" . . . it's definitely not a momento of any time we might have spent there . . . Just a souvenir brought to us by Ricki and Vicki Miller when they visited the gift shop there recently . . .

What's the Ideal Health Food?

Yes, "MILK" is the answer. And when it's Maxbauer's milk, it's tops in both food value and flavor because of it's freshness and full bodied richness. Give the youngsters plenty of milk for their healths sake. For a "treat" drink it's refreshing, too, either plain or with their favorite flavor added. Serve it at home or suggest it at the dairy bars.

State Utilities Group Hears Challenge

ped in its development. If generating capacity is in pace with or ahead of population and industrial growth the community is in a good position to plan for economic expansion."

He went on to say that managers of municipally-owned power plants must see that a part of the revenue from the plant is held in reserve so when expansion is necessary, the funds will be on hand. He also cited the competition between privately-owned and municipally-owned plants and said that if the latter are to stay in business they must accept this competition as a natural thing and work accordingly. He concluded by saying that if communities are to grow economically, it is up to those responsibile for its utilities to make known to industry the facilities available and the best way to do this is to have such information in the office of the Michigan Department of Economic Development.

The three-day meeting at the Beach Hotel was attended by managers and officials of municipal power systems in 39 Michigan communities.

The utility managers also heard George E. Olson, technican represantative of the Dow Chemical Co. in Midland emphasizo the importance of using treated wood to meet tho growing demands for wood use today as well as to increase the "wood life."

Olson compared the transition in the Great Lakes region, which occurred with the removal of its forests, through the 'timber famine' period which followed, up to the present when a 'spirit of conservation' of our timber resources prevails. An important part of this spirit of conservation, he observed, is the use of treated wood.

Olson concluded his talk by describing the development of the new chemical wood preservative "Penta" which is coming into common use by utilities in all parts of the country where clean treated utility poles and timbers are desirable.

The milk program, carried out in the schools, has become one of the major items financed by the Fund. Through the Fund children who otherwise would not have this nourishing food, receive milk daily along with the children of more fortunate families.

Tha Lenora Goldman Meyer Fund dispenses only emergency assistance to those who are in need of immediate aid other than medical care and who ara not receiving help from any other source.

A summer resident here since childhood, Mrs. Meyer, the former Lenore Goldman, loved Charlevoix and the fond memories she had of her summers here. Members of her family mado the first large contribution when the fund was establishad and have continued to make substantial contributions to it through the years. Thair friends here and elsewhere, as well as othars who have come to know the great work boing accomplishod through the Fund, now contribute regularly to it in honor of a birthday, an anniversary or in memory of someono they have lost.

Safety Expert Gives Rules On Handling Of Gas

Petroleum products can be servants or destroyers . . . it all depends on how they are used, according to David Steinicke, Michigan State College extension safety specialist.

He said that gases and vapors from these products may be ignited by a flame, a spark or excessive heat. Explosions have occurred from gases and vapors ignited several hundred feet away from where the flammable liquids are stored or handled.

Here are some suggestions for farmers. Never refuel a tractor while the motor is running or extremely hot. Check fuel lines frequently to avoid leaky connections. Flammable liquids should never be drawn or handled in the presence of an open flame or other sources of ignition.

An underground tank with a pump is the safest method of storing gasoline. Next best method of storing gasoline supplies is in a well-constructed steel tank, located at least 40 feet from farm buildings. If a separate enclosure is used, it should permit vapors to escape in case of a leak or spill.

All gasoline containers should be labeled, painted red, and of an approved safety type. Kerosene should be kept in containers of a different color, shape, and aize, and be properly labeled to eliminate chances of error, Gasoline, mistaken for kerosene, has been the cause of many farm deaths and burns.

Sell Old Hens To Cut Disease

Sell old hens in the fall to cut disease in the pullet flock, recommend poultry specialists at Michigan State College.

Mixed flocks have more avian tuberculosis than young flocks, research has shown. If old hens are sold before pullets go off range, poultrymen will have a chance to clean and disinfect laying houses thoroughly.

It's also a good time to do the necessary rat-proofing work for the winter, they note, adding that rats spread disease in poultry. County agricultural agents can offer complete details on laying house preparations.

WE'LL tell you the answer to that one—it's the figures on the price tag.

For some reason, lots of people just can't believe they can buy a Buick at a price so close to "the low-priced three."

Maybe it's because a Buick seems so much better and bigger.

Maybe it's because they think Buick has so much more power and room—which is true.

Maybe it is because so many distinguished people own Buicks—which is also a fact.

But the fact remains—if you can afford a new car, you can own a Buick—so let's see what you get.

You get the thrilling power of a Fireball 8 Engine, that's a gas-saving high-compression valve-in-head—as much power as you can get in cars costing $300 to $400 more.

You get as much room as you'll get in cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

You get a ride that cost an honest-to-goodness million dollars to develop.

*You get the silken smoothness of Dynaflow Drive.

You get big-car comfort, styling, durability.

Don't take our word for it. Come in and see for yourself why so many folks are stepping up to this great car this year.

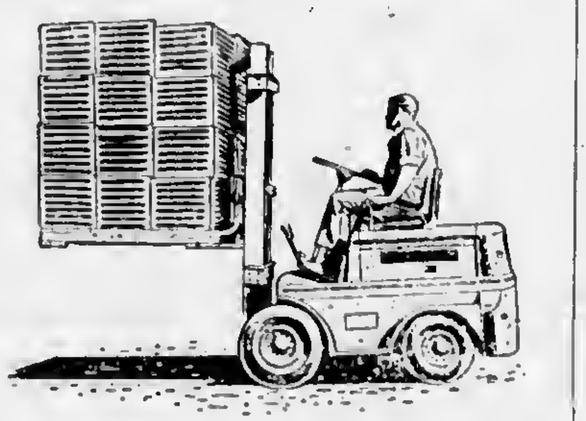
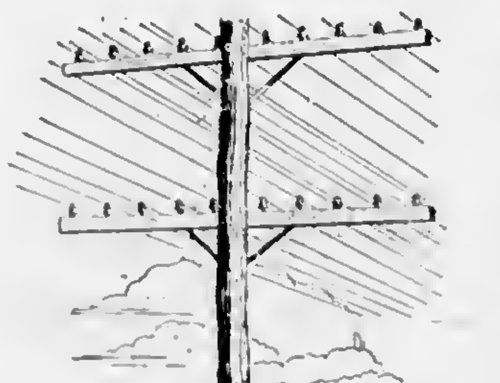
Lift truck boosts profits for fruit growers



Fruit growers who handle 10,000 crates a year can realize generous savings on labor and equipment costs by using a fork lift truck. A recent study by agricultural engineers of Michigan State College and the U. S. Department of Agriculture revealed this saving: In 1950, without a lift truck, a 25,000-bushel apple crop was moved from orchard to storage by 2 tractors, 4 orchard trailers and 7 men. In 1951 a similar crop was handled by a lift truck with 2 tractors and only 2 trailers and 3 men. Savings on loading and unloading operations alone amounted to $1,000 during the harvest season. Your County Agricultural Agent can give you further advice on mechanizing your orchard operation.



Why we pamper telephone poles

Did you know timber for telephone poles is growing scarce? And that the cost of a single pole has more than doubled since 1940? To insure a proper supply, and to help keep costs down, Michigan Bell is using new timber species such as Western Larch. And to prolong the life of telephone poles on the job, telephone engineers constantly take advantage of new and better timber preservatives. Michigan Bell's pampered poles are further evidence of a continuing effort to hold costs down while keeping the quality of telephone service high.

Katherine Gill Becomes Bride Of R. E. Donaldson In Church Service

Katherine Elizabeth Gill became the bride of Richard E. Donaldson in an impressive candlelight ceremony solemnized at the First Congregational church Saturday evening.

Baskets of white gladioli and huckleberry greens flanked by an arrangement of multi-colored gladioli and lighted tapers in candelabra formed the background for the double ring service read by the Rev. L. L. Lewis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Gill and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Donaldson are the parents of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Charles Bellinger, organist, played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white lace, taffeta and net designed and made by the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Charles Evans. Styled with a strapless lace bodice, the gown had a full skirt of net over taffeta. A bolero jacket completed the costume. Her short veil fell from a matching lace cap and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, blue forget-me-nots and ivy centered with yellow roses.

Kathleen Gill, cousin of the bride, as flower girl, wore a yellow sheer crepe dress trimmed with green ribbons and carried a straw basket of garden flowers centered with rings.

Warren Shadko assisted the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Charles Donaldson and Thomas Donaldson, brothers of the bridegroom, George Haggard Jr. and Larry Peterson.

Mrs. Gill selected a slate blue faille dressmaker suit, navy accessories and a corsage of picardy glamellias for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Donaldson, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gold chartreuse taffeta gown, black accessories and a corsage of rust glamellias.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. A tiered wedding cake centered the reception table, which also held a birthday cake honoring the bridegroom's birthday anniversary.

The day was also the bridegroom's parents' twenty-third wedding anniversary.

For traveling on their wedding trip the bride chose a beige wool doeskin dressmaker suit, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The couple returned here briefly before leaving Tuesday for Miami, Fla., where the bridegroom is enrolled at Miami University.

Both are graduates of the Charlevoix high school. The bridegroom was discharged from the U. S. Air Force in June after serving four years.

Exhibit By 4-H Groups Sets New Record At County Fair

4-H leaders and their members went all out to make a record exhibit at the 63rd annual county fair held at East Jordan last week. A total of 319 leaders and members made a record display of 673 exhibits.

The exhibits showed the best preparation ever seen. 4-H cattle were well groomed and were kept so throughout the week, vegetables were well selected and attractively arranged. 4-H club members made quite a sacrifice in preserving their clothing and knitting exhibits of last winter so they would look well at the county fair. For summer 4-H club work the fair is the achievement day or culminating event but most of the projects do not end until gardens and crops are harvested and reports submitted to the county 4-H office.

A few 7if the outstanding exhibits to be mentioned could be the excellent desk, chairs and lamp made by Joe Martincheck of route 2, Charlevoix, the dairy animals exhibited by the South Arm club of East Jordan, Archie Murphy leader, the remarkable exhibit of knitted articles of Mrs. Leatha Larsen's club of East Jordan. Although the South Arm club had the blue ribbon display in clothing, the largest and most complete display was made by the Boyne City clothing club.

The best food preparation display was made by Mrs. Agnes Healey, leader of the Star food club. Garden club honors were shared by South Arm and Star clubs, both were given first place ribbons, leaders were Mrs. Carl Elsworth and Mrs. Frank Hayden.

Game Cafeteria

Considered a choice food and rover combination for small game are planted corn patches adjacent to wild blackberry bushes. William Mason, conservation department field man, inspects the big berries which provide extra summer food for all types of wildlife in the Port Huron state game area The corn, purposely planted next to the bushes, affords shelter and food long after the berries are gone and winter has arrived. As in other game areas where wild and planted combinations are worked out, corn usually is good for two or more seasons use. Deer have been observed dragging ears to the ground

Economist Tells Feeder, Market Hog Potential

"You can pay up to $18.20 for 50-pound feeder pigs if you feed them balanced rations, and use good sanitation and production practices, including good legume pasture."

That's the answer Robert Kramer, Michigan State college agricultural economist, gives to farmers who are wondering about buying feeder pigs today. That figure assumes corn at $1.70 a bushel and 40 percent protein supplement at $6.60 a hundred pounds. It also assumes that you will market your feeder pig as a 225-pound butcher hog four months from now.

With that point as a starter, you can figure back to your own situation. If you feel that will have to pay $1.80 a bushel for corn and $6.70 a hundred for protein supplement you can afford to pay only $17.10 for your 50-pound feeder pig. In other words, you can pay $1.10 each less for your feeder pigs for each ten cent increase in the cost of corn and protein supplement. Or you can add $1.10 for each ten cents less you figure they will cost.

On the other hand, if it costs you more to put gains on your pigs, you'd better figure on paying less for them.

These figures assume that market hogs will sell for $21 a hundred pounds the first week in December when your feeder pig would weigh 225 pounds and be ready for market, Kramer said.

Arrange Barns To Reduce Man Hours With Cows

Good barn arrangements can reduce the man hours required to care for a dairy animal as much as 50 hours per year, according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

Less time per animal is required on an average in the loose system as compared to the stanchion barn. However, in a well-arranged stanchion barn a good operator may spend less time in caring for the animals than an operator of a loose housing system where feeding arrangements are poor.

Good barn arrangement includes proper location of the silo and grain storage in relation to feed areas, Rebman points out. In the stanchion barn, feed grain and silage with a cart. Have the feed alleys and doorways wide enough to permit one trip feeding. Back tracking with the feed cart and loading silage into cart by hand, instead of running the cart under the silo chute, requires extra time and energy.

Hay self-feeders are the quickest and easiest way to feed hay. However, another hole in the hay mow floor over the feed area may save a lot of carrying when hay feeding time comes.

Locate the milkhouse as close to the milking area as possible. One corner of the barn is generally a good location for the milkhouse.

A lot of planning should go into the remodeling before the saw and hammer start to work. Sketch out all the possibilities of remodeling a barn. Then select the best layout, Rebman suggests.

Home-grown lumber, homemade stalls, homemade stanchions, portable gates for pens, and farm labor can keep remodeling costs to a minimum, the agricultural agent says.

East Jordan Bank Buys Grand Prize County Fair Steer

The State Bank of East Jordan purchased the grand champion hereford steer at the fat stock show at the Charlevoix County Fair at East Jordan last Thursday, September 4, according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. This steer was owned by Jim Behling of Boyne City and brought $42.50 per hundred. The steer weighed 1000 pounds at the time of the sale. The weight of the beginning of the project was 415 pounds making a gain of 585 pounds.

There were 20 animals sold at this second fat stock sale. The reserve champion was purchased by the Gaylord Livestock auction for $41.00 per hundred. The reserve champion steer weighed 1035 pounds.

Twelve more boys are feeding steers for next years show and these steers were caught in this years calf scramble. There will be no other steers on feed other than these calf scramble steers.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Narrow Town— Broad Outlook

The wife's cousin Ben, and Belle his bride are back from honeymooning in the Rockies. Took them to dinner last night at the Garden Tavern. Ben told about the trip:

"Went through a town in Idaho that was only 100 feet wide. No kidding! Built into a long, narrow canyon. And it shares those 100 feet with a railroad track that runs right through the hotel!

"To get gas there we had to park right on the tracks. Suddenly Belle screams—'there's a train coming!' But the gas fellow just laughs and says we were there first. Blamed if the engineer didn't stop the train and wait, too!"

From where I sit, it's a good illustration of how people can learn to "think of the other fellow" so that the community benefits. Railroaders and townspeople, Democrats and Republicans, malted milk fanciers and those who prefer a temperate glass of beer—we all have to share the same space. Let's maintain our [illegible] "right of way."

Star Attractions Herald Approach Of Fall Weather

Ann Arbor — Venus is coming, folks! Watch for her.

After an absence of a year, Venus is again emerging as the "evening star" and may be seen near the western horizon in the early twilight, setting about an hour after the sun, according to Miss Hazel M. Losh, associate professor of astronomy at the University of Michigan.

This brightest of planets is continually increasing its distance from the sun in the sky, moving farther and farther east, Prof. Losh says. Consequently, it may be more easily seen throughout the falls months as it appears higher and higher in the evening's western sky.

The astronomer indicates fall will actually arrive September 22 at 9:24 p.m. That's the time the sun reaches the autumnal equinox and crosses the equator, bringing spring to those south of it.

The sun reaches an altitude of about 50 degrees at noon in September, but decreases to less than 25 degrees by December. These oblique rays of the sun and its shorter daily path account for the colder weather.

The constellation of Pegasus, the Winged Horse, is well placed for observation in the east this month. Rising around sunset and well above the horizon after dark, its chief interest lies in "The Great Square" or "Big Diamond." It is one of the stellar landmarks, Miss Losh indicates, being about 15 degrees on a side and composed of fairly bright stars.

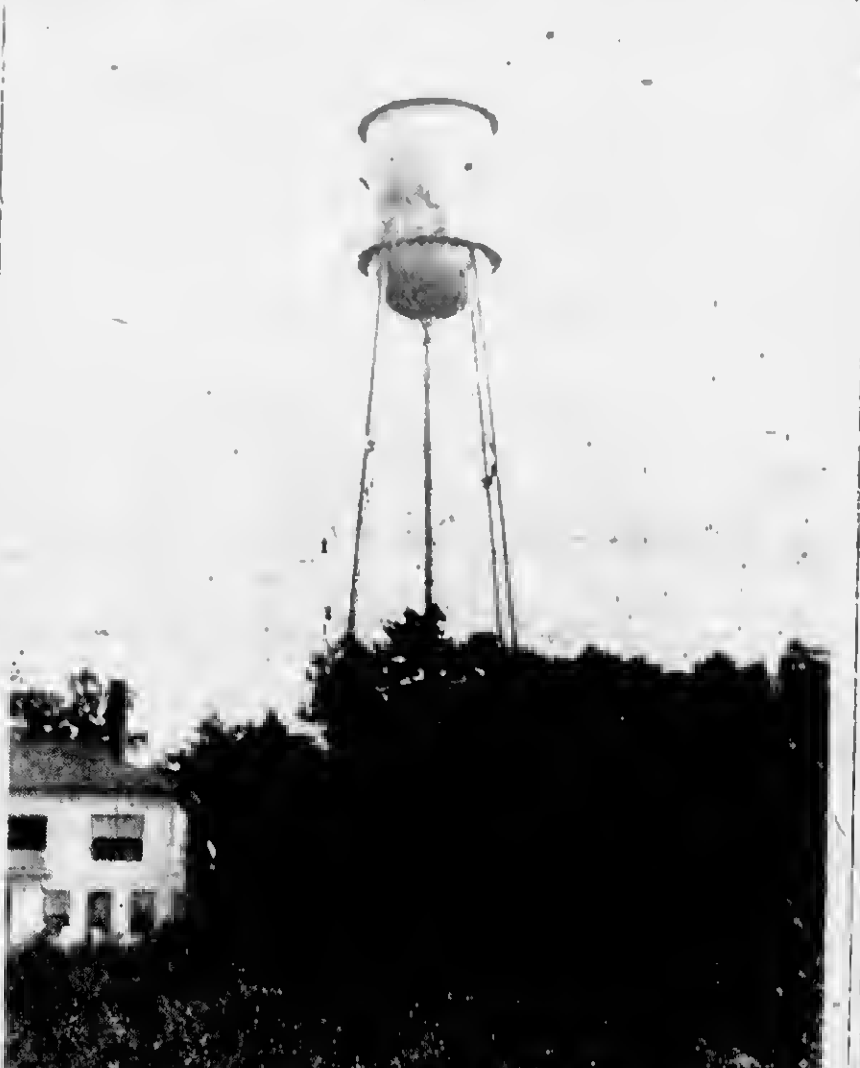
City Will Renovate Landmark



One of Charlevoix's most familiar landmarks, the city water tower, will be renovated this fall following the decision of the Charlevoix city council to accept the bid submitted by the Kessler Company Ltd. of Fremont, Ohio.

The bid by the Ohio company was for $1,025 and includes the cleaning and re-finishing of the interior of the tank for the first time in 14 years and the cleaning and painting of the exterior for the first time since 1947.

The city will finance the major repairs to the 100,000 gallon tank. The extent of the repairs will not be known until the tank has been drained and cleaned.

To most people the water tower seems as much a part of the landscape as the piers or the bridges or other familiar landmarks which seem a part of the town.

However, the steel structure which rises approximately 130 feet into the air was built in 1907 on the hill which at that time was directly above the city's source of water supply.

Its construction marked the growth of the city for when it was built the city's water system had grown to a point where it was necessary to maintain a constant pressure in the maze of water mains and this seemed the way to do it.

Exodus Of College Students Underway With Summer's End

The exodus of college students has started with more than forty Charlevoix high school graduates leaving almost daily for various colleges, universities and business colleges in Michigan and other midwestern states.

Phyllis Trimble, a senior pharmacy student at Ferris Institute in Big Rapids, was among the first to return to school. Leona Scott, a 1951 graduate has been enrolled at Davenport Institute in Grand Rapids for two weeks and Betty Warner has returned for another term after completing one year at the school.

Ron Cunningham and Bruce Zeitler, out for football at Central Michigan College, have been on the campus for three weeks while Donna Ball has gone to Mt. Pleasant for freshman orientation week. Others who will be leaving this week are Mary Roberts, Sara Coleman and Neil Suomala.

The University of Michigan seems to be the favorite school this year for Charlevoix students. Tom Bleha, Charles Krahnke, Vic Gibbons and Becky Badger have already gone to Ann Arbor for freshman week. Others who are returning to school are Brad Foster, Alvin Ranger, George VerWys, Dale Suomela, Bob and Bruce Shanahan, Jim Gibbons, who is attending medical school, Jim Bowman, who returned early for football practice and Mike Bergeon, who is enrolled under a special Naval program.

The enrollment of Charlevoix students at Michigan State College has dropped off with only 12 students enrolled this term. City Council Adopts Plan Of Retirement

Effective Nov. 15, city employees must retire when they reach their sixty-fifth birthday anniversary following action taken at a special meeting of the City Council Wednesday night.

At this meeting the council adopted a resolution making it compulsory for the employees to retire at that time.

Employees who have been with the city for 25 years or more will receive severance pay. Department heads will receive $150 and other employees will receive $100 in cash.

At the age of 65 employees may receive Social Security.

The future of the Charlevoix Municipal Golf course was also discussed at the meeting. It was decided to place Frank Poole, who has acted as caddy master and manager for several years, in full charge of the nine-hole course located north of the city.

He will hire the maintenance crew and have full charge of the upkeep as well as the management of the course.

October 6 Is Deadline For Registration

Only 16 more working days left to register for the November 4 general election . . . is the warning issued this week by Fenton R. Bulow, county clerk, in behalf of the city and township clerks.

Because of the half-day holiday in some offices, Oct. 6 has been set as the deadline for registering for the all-important election.

Mr. Bulow also offered some advice to servicemen who wish to vote in the coming election.

If the serviceman is not registered, there is still time to call your city or township clerk and have a registration card forwarded to him. If he is overseas, make sure it is sent via airmail. When he returns the card to his city or township clerk, he can apply for an absent voter's ballot.

If the serviceman is overseas and a registered and qualified voter, a member of his family (father, mother, wife, sister or brother) may make application for an absent voter's ballot to be sent to the serviceman.

If the serviceman is in this country and is a registered and qualified voter, he may apply himself at the office of the city or township clerk for an application for an absent voter's ballot.

Rayders Prepare For Opening Contest Against Boyne City

The Charlevoix Rayders football squad is buckling down to some honest-to-goodness practice sessions now that the weather has cooled off and the first game of the season is but one week away.

The backfield has been drilling diligently and is in good shape for the game with Boyne City at Kipke field Sept. 26.

The line is working hard this week. Coach Del Terrill reports and should be ready for the test of competition against the Ramblers.

The team has suffered two causuatities so far this season. Don Vralanina suffered a cracked collar-bone in practice late last week and will be out of the line-up for the season's opener. Bob Jolliffe, who has been out with a rib injury, is expected back later this week.

At Boyne City will be found such veterans as Denny Pratt, halfback, and Don Arner, fullback along with Ron West, end, Shorty Smith, guard and Merle Karlskin, center. Others who will have berths on Coach Tom Weede's initial line-up will be Mert Erber, qb, and either Gary Newville or Leon Florenski in the other halfback spot.

In the line will be Tom Whale, end; Ken Anderson and Larry LaCroix, tackles; Ed Boyer or Gordon Caplin in the other guard position. The Ramblers line will average about 175 pounds and the backfield about 160 pounds, Coach Weede said.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

by Gene Alleman

BOOM TIME is returning again to Michigan's Copper Country at the edge of the Porcupine Mountain State Park near Ontonagon.

We've just visited Keweenawland and drove over to examine Ontonagon's revived White Pine mine.

It was our first trip into Keweenaw since VJ-Day in 1945. Then we traveled by the chugging Copper Queen boat from Copper Harbor to Isle Royal national park in company with Dave Wilcox of the state conservation department. Memories of that jaunt still linger. It was good to see this scenic bit of Michigan wonderland again.

Copper boom at the White Pine mine, formerly operated by Calumet & Hecla, involves a new process just perfected by the Copper Range Mining company at a cost of many millions and over a period of several years.

Back at the turn of the century Ontonagon county was the scene of 1,000 men working in a galaxy of mines. There were the Minnesota, Michigan, Rockland, Victoria, National, Nonesuch, Carp Lake (Porcupine Mountain), Norwick, Mass, Adventure and the White Pine mine.

The White Pine was opened in 1881 and was closed down one year later. Calumet & Hecla, Michigan's biggest copper enterprise, took an option and finally started operations in 1914.

Approximately 18 million pounds of the red metal were produced between 1914 and 1921. This was a relative low grade of copper ore, the highest average yield being 24.76 pounds to the ton of rock.

At a public sale held in Ontonagon in January, 1929, White Pine holdings were picked up by the Copper Range Mining company. The purchase price was $119,000, just enough to pay off $116,000 in bills.

AFTER YEARS of experimenting with methods to extract copper profitably from the White Pine type of low grade rock, Copper Range applied to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan. Diamond drill cores were submitted to RFC engineers as proof of mining potentials. RFC offered $100 millions on the basis of the ore findings, together with a study of the Copper Range research methods.

The final agreement was $57 millions at 5% from the federal government, while the Copper Range company was to put up $13 millions of their own money.

Copper Range is reported to be confident that the White Pine will turn out to be a bonanza. The chalcocite rock can be mined in much the manner as coal at lower cost than the traditional methods employed in following veins of native copper down deep into the earth. The old Nonesuch mine and much of the Porcupine Mountain State Park have the same potentials. Calumet and Hecla officials do not agree. They say, "Uncle Sam has bought a lemon."

When White Pine is in full operation, estimated now for 1954, approximately 1,000 men will be employed. A brand new community is being created out of the bush. A 49-acre trailer park, for example, is now under construction with all modern facilities. Hospital and schools will be available.

A railroad is to be constructed some 20 miles from the Duluth South Shore and Atlantic line at Bergland to the south, on M-64. The state highway will be rerouted to run through the town of White Pine.

THE COPPER COUNTRY near Ontonagon has had its ups and downs for more than a century. The Civil War furnished the first real boom, then mines shut down when prices tumbled. Lumber mills thrived for 20 years, agricultural boom came in this century with promise of good times.

If the White Pine project proves that low grade copper ore can be produced profitably, there is enough ore available in this region to keep mines in operation for a half century or more, it is estimated.

Space does not permit analysis of the potentials for the Upper Peninsula in similar mining of low grade iron ore. It is well known that region possesses millions of tons of this metal that only awaits the perfecting of research methods, already well under way.

Don't sell the iron and copper counties of the Upper Peninsula short-

That was our conclusion after digging a little for information about the 1952 copper boom at Ontonagon and the revived interest in iron mining elsewhere.

MICHIGAN DAIRY leaders are studying the vigorous competition the revived oleomargerine business is giving butter makers.

In 1949, butter eaters used 17 pounds per capita. Then came the war years and butter was scarce. Many housewives turned to oleo from necessity. When it became legal to sell colored oleo and the housewife was spared the laborious chore of kneading coloring into white oleo, the per capita consumption of butter tumbled to nine pounds, little more than half of the pre-war figure.

Twenty years ago, America used 2.3 billion pounds of butter annually; last year it ate 1.4 billion pounds. Oleo meanwhile went from less than 2.5 pounds per capata in 1940 to about seven pounds last year.

Michigan has fared better than the national average because oleo is still a favorite in tenement areas. But you can bet a buffalo nickel that the huge dairy industry of our state isn't going to sit idle and not protect its butter market, a source of economic strength not only to that industry but to all of Michigan.

MICHIGAN pays more federal revenue taxes than any state except New York and Illinois. It's sixth in the number of tax returns filed and seventh in population.

Yet the latest Internal Revenue Bureau plan is to lump Michigan with Ohio and make Cleveland the division headquarters. And Michigan doesn't like that one little bit.

Every businessman who deals with Uncle Sam's tax boys . . . that's everyone from a farmer in Huron County to General Motors in Detroit . . . fears that Cleveland will be just another sand bar in the channel to Washington. Tax problems will take weeks longer to be cleared up, they fear.

"Michigan taxpayers, who file nearly three million returns and pay approximately 1-12 of the total tax collections in the United States, cannot be serviced efficiently and economically with a District Commissioner in another state," argues John S. Coleman, president of the Detroit Chamber of Commerce, acting as spokesman for all Michigan Businessmen.

Business leaders in your community may soon be asking you to add to the protesting telegrams being sent to Treasury Secretary Snyder.

Exodus Of College Students Underway

Donaldson is enrolled at Wayne University in Detroit; Elaine Wojan, the only 1952 graduate to enter nurses' training, will attend nursing school at Passavant Hospital in Chicago; Marian Carol Seymour left last week to continue her studies at Elkhart University, Ind.

Joyce Paul is continuing her studies at Emmanuel Missionary school at Berrien Springs; Armand Peters will leave this weekend to enroll at the Michigan Veterans Vocational school at Pine Lake near Doster; Kay and Beverly Cunningham plan to leave early in November for Minneapolis, Minn., where they will attend the Gale Institute.

Many recent graduates have enlisted in the armed services. Among these are Jon Henry who enlisted in the WAVES in June and who is now attending Teleman school at Bainbridge, Md.; Leo Allard, Arthur Taylor, Bill Barker, Ted Browe, Gerald Lelt, William Allison, Bud Barber, Douglas Falting and Frank Lagerman who are all Air Force enlistees.

Others may be planning to attend school but have not notified the Courier of their intentions.

ODDS 'N ENDS

NOT THAT WE think we think we'll be good at it but we're going to turn to sleuthing . . . That is, we're going to ask your assistance . . . In talking with Frank Weaver of Farmington last week we learned that he's looking for a picture which once belonged to his father . . . It's a painting of the old tug J. L. Taylor as she was going out through the piers at Chicago in a heavy sea . . . It's outlined with indelible pencil and painted with water colors . . Frank's father, the late George Weaver, was skippering the boat at the time the painting was made and for years had the picture . . . But it's disappeared as things will . . . If you've ever seen it get in touch with Frank at his home is Farmington . . .

WE'RE NOT golf fans . . . in fact, to be honest we just can't see the game at all . . . But one thing we've always contended . . . If caddies had the time and the money they'd make our best players . . . And to bear that out Dwain Walker, who's only about 16, made a hole in one on the third hole of the Municipal golf course . . . So it's only 170 yards . . . So let's see you do it . . .

A NOTE FROM the Harry Walstads recently brought the news that they were enjoying their trip west . . . enroute to Klamath Falls, Ore., to make their home if they like it . . . Mrs. W. wrote that they had enjoyed the Black Hills, the Bad Lands and other points of interest but still Michigan is better . . . And the heat made them wish they were back on the shores of Lake Michigan . . . Maybe we'd better start appreciating what we've got here.

MRS. DICK Donaldson, the former Bette Gill, did something with a part of her bridal bouquet which we thought was kinda sentimental and nice too . . . In her lovely Colonial bouquet she had ivy in place of ribbons which she removed and placed in water . . . She plans to keep it growing and who knows . . . Maybe in years to come she'll give a piece to her children and grandchildren . . . Kind of a nice custom, we think . . .

A BELATED birthday greeting to one of our summer residents, Mrs. S. J. T. Straus who observed her seventy-fifth birthday anniversary recently . . . The years have not dulled her zest for living and she enjoys everything . . . including a trip to Europe this summer . . . But it could be she's kidding everyone for you'd never dream she'd had that many birthdays . . .

HAVE YOU been pinching yourself to see if you're dreaming . . . about that heavenly weather, we mean . . . As this is being written it's cooled off a little but it's been almost too good to be true . . . We don't think anyone minded the rain Sunday . . . We certainly needed it . . . Let's hope we have a little more of it . . . The winter won't seem so bad if we do . . . Golly . . . Hasn't this summer been something . . . It started early . . . has lasted late . . . It was surely worth waiting for . . .

HOW ABOUT IT? . . Have you registered yet . . . You've less than three weeks to do it in so why not do something about it now . . . Then . . . come Nov. 4 you can put your little X's in the proper squares . . . We're warning you . . . you might as well do it for we're going to keep reminding you . . .

DID YOU know that it's now a misdemeanor and punishable by law if you do not give up a telephone party-line for an emergency? . . . 'Tis true it's one of the new laws just adopted as a result of several fires which completely destroyed homes because party-liners thought it was a huge joke when another subscriber asked for the use of the line . . . What's an emergency? . . . A fire, illness . . . any number of things which we're sure you'll consider just that if you are asked to give up the line . . .

WE DON'T know much about birds but we do think there was a conference held in our block Sunday . . . About mid-afternoon we counted 13 robins at one time . . . Meeting, no doubt, to make initial plans for the annual trek to winter quarters . . .

HOW EARLY did you get up Sunday morning? . . . Was it early enough to see the perfect rainbow about 6:15 a.m. . . . They tell us it was the loveliest thing seen in ages with every color standing out . . . Who was up that early . . . We heard about it from two telephone operators . . . one who'd been up all night Hilda Cooper . . . and one about to go to work . . . Mrs. Bruce Henley . . . So, you see, there are people who get up . . . even on Sunday . . .

Will Renovate Old Landmark

At that time four wells located on Palmer st. where the U. S. Fisheries building and the city-owned brick buildings now stand furnished water for the city. The wells are still used by the Fisheries to pump water for their tanks.

At that time the water was pumped from the wells to the water tower by steam and later electric pumps. The present pumping station located on Lake Michigan about a quarter of a mile south and west from the [illegible] was built in the early 1920's.

The history of the city's water supply goes back even farther than that, however. The first central water supply was located on [illegible] Round Lake in the brick building now owned by M[illegible] Boat Co. and consisted [illegible] which are [illegible]. The project was privately [illegible] and was operated in the early 1880's.

There's no substitute for sufficient room in the laying house, [illegible] Michigan State College extension poultry specialists.

State Land May Be Auctioned For Copper Mining

LANSING—The conservation department may soon issue the first lease ever to be granted for copper exploration and mining on state-owned land.

The department's land division discloses that it has received an application to lease 1,080 acres in the Baraga state forest. Most of the acreage is in the Mass, Greenland and Winona areas. If approved by the conservation commission at its Oct. 9-10 meeting, such a lease will be offered at public auction in accordance with state statute.

The acreage, located on the copper-bearing [illegible] which extends [illegible] from the Keweenaw peninsula, is about 25 miles [illegible] from the [illegible] White [illegible]

However, the last copper mining on [illegible] land currently in [illegible] ownership was for malleable copper. Mining operations ended in 1921 when copper prices dropped below production costs. Land subsequently became tax delinquent and reverted to the state.

First copper mine in the Mass area was accidentally discovered in the 1840's by a prospector who fell into an ancient mine tunnel. The mine probably was operated by roving Indian tribes who mined copper [illegible] as implements and for use in inter-tribal barter.

Copper from these mines was carried south by Indians. In fact it definitely has been established that some of the copper actually was picked up by Columbus when he landed on the South American coast. That it was upper peninsula copper was unknown to Columbus.

Attendance Tally In State Parks Hits Record Pace

LANSING—Latest attendance tally for Michigan's 57 state parks and recreation areas reflects a record-topping pace. But the conservation department's parks division does not expect it to continue unless the remainder of September is unusually warm.

So far, over 11,910,000 visitors have been picnicking, fishing and indulging in other forms of outdoor recreation in these playspots. This is 120,000 more persons than were recorded through the comparative period in 1949. The 1949 final total was a record 13,017,000.

Camping permit tally also is higher; 50,830 issued so far in 1952 as against 47,390 in the comparable 1949 period.

Attendance figures show an increase over last year in nearly every park in the state. Bay City and Holland showed declines from 1951, but other heavily-used parks offset this by marked increases.

Patronage at Dodge number four nearly doubled, shooting from 489,000 in 1951 to 875,000 to date this year. Grand Haven is up from 1,024,000 to 1,319,000, and East Tawas attendance increased from 223,000 to 302,000. Most other parks showed lesser increases.

Baldpate Ducks Herald Start Of Waterfowl Flights

LANSING—Two flights of baldpate ducks (widgeon) made their annual pinpoint landings in Michigan during the first week of September, heralding the start of bird migrations through the state.

Each year, thousands of the wily little ducks land off Maisou island, Saginaw bay, and off Strawberry island, St. Clair flats, the conservation department reports. The first flights appear during the first week of September, regardless of weather. The occurance is doubly unusual in that only rarely do baldpates nest in Michigan; the flights probably came from Manitoba summer home of the birds.

Baldpates are noted for their theiving ways, stealing much food from the bigger, diving ducks. Unable to stay underwater very long, a baldpate waits for a big duck to dive and dig up choice vegetables. When the big duck surfaces, out of breath, the busy thief is there to snatch it from his mouth.

But other ducks profit by having the widgeons nearby; they are first to see danger approach and spring from the water with a terrified cry, giving warning to slower ducks.

Save time sorting clothes on washday. Put a plywood partition in your hamper for colored and white clothes.

September is a good time to seed grass waterways from conserving soil, according to Michigan State College authorities.

September is the time to reseed those bare spots appearing in your lawn, Michigan State College specialists suggest.

MILK HOUSE IS SOUND INVESTMENT

WITH 34 states already requiring producers to provide a special building for the handling of milk, a good milk house is an investment which will pay dividends in time and energy saved and reduction of losses resulting from rejected milk.

The milk house shown here is efficient, economical to construct, and conforms to rigid sanitary regulations. Simple in design, it can be built by the farmer in his spare time if he does not wish to employ outside help.

Built of cinder block with glass block panels for daylighting the interior, this compact 12 by 12-foot milk house has ample space for handling approximately 50 gallons of milk a day. Hopper windows in the glass block panels assure plenty of ventilation in warm weather.

Insulux glass block, which has the insulating value of an eight-inch brick wall, and the cinder block provide weatherproofing against the winter cold and summer heat and resistance to condensation damage.

Built on a 12-inch foundation which extends below the frost line, the milk house has a four-inch concrete floor which simplifies cleaning problems. Adequate drainage facilities help to eliminate dampness despite the large amounts of water used to clean equipment and to cool the milk.

In building a milk house, the following points should be remembered:

1. Choose a site close to the milking room.
2. Locate it where a good supply of pure water is most readily available.
3. Build the milk house on the sheltered side of the barn for protection from winter winds.
4. Window space should be at least 10 per cent of the floor space to assure adequate daylight. Glass block panels provide the daylight source and still maintain insulating efficiency of the overall structure.
5. Before starting to build, consult county or state officials to be sure your milk house will conform to the regulations of the area in which you market your milk.

Glass block panel improves milk house appearance.

The size of the milk house will vary, of course, according to the productive capacity of the individual farm. The U. S. Public Health Service recommends a floor area of 144 square feet for 50 gallons or less per day; 168 square feet for 50 to 100 gallons; 192 square feet for 100 to 160 gallons and an additional four square feet for each 10 gallons of capacity over 160. It is also recommended that the width of the milk house should not be less than one-half the length, nor less than 10 feet wide.

Make Sure Child's Boots Leak-Proof For Fall Rains

If your children slosh off to school on rainy fall mornings, you will want to be certain their rubbers and boots are leak-proof, suggests Olevia Meyer, Michigan State College home management specialist.

Miss Meyer suggests several methods for mending rubber. These methods can be used on house hold supplies such as hot water bottles as well as on galoshes and rubbers.

The cold patch method requires some inner-tube patching material. Turn the article inside out and put the patch on the wrong side. Clean the place with a dry-cleaning fruid, wipe dry and then roughen it with sandpaper. Cut the patch a half inch larger all around than the spot you are mending. Spread on rubber cement, using two coats on the rubber you are mending, but none on the patch itself. Let each coat of cement dry a few minutes. Then press the patch firmly over the spot. Do not move it once you have placed it. Might be well to hold it in place with a weight or clamp until the patch is set, Miss Meyer advised.

Hot patches are put on with heat and pressure and are more durable than cold patches. Materials for making a hot patch come in a kit with complete instructions. The patch, as it comes, is a piece of rubber protected by Holland cloth, as is the cold patch. This patch is mounted on the bottom of a small pan cantaining a tablets and when lighted provides heat to vulcanize the patch onto the rubber article.

In using a hot patch it is well to prepare the rubber article by cleaning and sandpapering it.

Farmers Urged To Check Grain Bins For Heat

Is your grain heating in storage?

Better check to be sure, cautions Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. Frequently grain which looks and feels dry at the time it goes into the bin may start to heat several weeks after harvest, he explains.

Grain should be down to 14 percent moisture or less for safe storage, reminds Rebman. Take samples from several points in the bin to get representative grain, he advises, and have it checked at your local elevator for moisture.

Green weed seed and trash often cause heating in directly combined grain. These may be removed by running grain over a fanning mill. The same operation will cool off any grain that may have started to heat.

Moderate heating, undetected in the bin, can impair germination. Rebman recommends checking germination of any home grown seed grain before spring planting.

Weevils multiply rapidly in warm grain and can destroy large quantities of feed. If a check shows more than one weevil per quart of grain, farmers should obtain full fumigation instructions from Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, at Boyne City.

Growth-promoting antibiotics will not control worms in pigs.

Charlevoix Farmers Finding Trench Silos Good Method Of Forage Storage

Trench silos are receiving much interest from farmers in Charlevoix county this fall Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, reported today. The reason for this increased interested in trench silos is the fact that 1952 was a good corn year and many farmers have more green feed than they had planned for. Second cutting hay is also very good, although the weather for curing hay was excellent.

Building a trench silo to store this extra amount of green feed is to choose the site very carefully. A slope is needed with good drainage. Next, digging the hole is simple. The first consideration is easier if you can get a caterpiller tractor to help you. The sides of the trench silo should be fairly straight. The walls should be tipped about 6 inches so that the trench silo will be one foot wider at the top than it is at the bottom.

For the first two or three years dirt walls may be used. After that time spoilage will occur if dirt walls are continued to be used. Permanent type of walls may be made of concrete, or concrete blocks providing they are so constructed that they will not cave in when there is no silage in the trench silo.

The roof of the trench silo is very important. There must be a good seal on top of the silage to exclude the air and prevent spoilage. Several things are used to seal this silage. Some farmers use saw dust, others use dirt still others will sow some oats on top of the silage.

It is very easy to put up silage in a trench silo. The silage is either blown into the silo or if a field chopper is used the wagons are dumped in the silo. A tractor is then used to pack the silage. Chopped silage need not be spread around but if farmers are planning on using long hay silage this must be spread around to prevent spoilage. Plans for constructing these trench silos are available from the county extension office at Boyne City.

Sheep Producers Have Choices For Picking Good Rams

Michigan sheep raisers have several choices for selecting registered rams from the leading purebred flocks of the state this fall.

They may pick one by coming to Ram Day at the Michigan State College sheep barn, September 29; by visiting one of the six Ram Truck stops to be made in northern Michigan, by attending the Marlette sheep sale, October 9, or by visiting a local purebred flock.

Graydon Blank, Michigan State College animal husbandry specialist, said that the Ram Truck stops will be at the H. Wetzel farm, near Ithaca, from 10 to 12 a.m., September 30; at the Julius Schaeffer farm, near Clare from 3 to 5 p.m., September 30; at the Feeder Cattle Yards at West Branch, from 1 to 5 p.m., October 1; at the Joe Lilly farm, near Glennie, from 1 to 5 p.m., October 2; at the Alpena Auction Yards at Emerson, from 1 to 5 p.m., October 3; and at the Feeder Cattle Yards at Gaylord, from 8 to 12 a.m., October 4.

Blank suggested that flock owners who wish to buy from the Ram Truck place their order with their county agricultural agent as soon as possible. Rams will be selected and held for them until the truck makes a stop nearest them.

A farmer need not buy the ram if it does not suit him in every way, but the system gives those in charge of the Ram Truck a better idea of the number and breeds of rams to carry on the truck.

Order Fertilizers For Side-Dressing Wheat Next Spring

"It's not too early to order fertilizer to apply on your wheat crop next spring," L. V. Nelson, Michigan State College farm crops specialist, said today.

Commercial nitrogen should be applied as early in the spring as you can get on the ground after the frost has gone out. This kind of fertilizer will be in short supply next spring.

Nelson said that it pays to put on about 15 to 30 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre. That means about 45 to 90 pounds of ammonium nitrate, or 75 to 150 pounds of ammonium sulfate, per acre.

This nitrogen feeds the wheat plants when soil nitrogen may not be available because of the cool temperature of the soil. Additional nitrogen is especially important if the soil is low in humus.

Barnyard manure is a good source of nitrogen fertilizer. It should be applied at the rate of about six loads to the acre while the ground is still frozen.

Fertilizer is an especially good buy for wheat growers because wheat is the most responsive to fertilizer of the grain crops grown in Michigan. In addition, the relationship between the price of wheat and the cost of fertilizer makes maximum recommended applications of fertilizer pay off in profits.

Hard Dough Stage Best For Cutting Corn For Storage

For the highest yield of good quality silage, corn should be cut when the grain is in the hard dough stage and when most but not all of the kernels have dented.

That's the advice of E. C. Rossman, farm crops department researcher at Michigan State College. He also says that corn should not be picked for cribbing until the ears have dried down to not more than 25 to 27 percent moisture for the best yield of high quality grain.

Corn can safely be picked for cribbing in narrow cribs, about 4 feet wide, at about 25 percent moisture. When picked and cribbed at a high moisture content, there may be spoilage, especially when the temperature is above freezing. Corn at 30 to 35 percent moisture may be safely stored if artificially dried before cribbing.

Back to the silage subject, Rossman explains that if corn is cut when the grain is in the hard dough stage and most of the kernels have dented, the total moisture in the plant will be enough for preservation of good silage. At that time the grain will contain about 45 to 50 percent moisture and the fodder will contain 75 to 80 percent water.

Cutting corn for silage before this stage results in less grain in the silage and less total dry matter per acre. If harvested too late, the silage may be too dry and difficult to preserve without spoilage.

Tree Seedlings, Transplants Are Now Available

Forest tree seedlings and transplants are now available to farmers in Charlevoix county. The Charlevoix Soil Conservation District will have about 30,000 red pine for this fall planting. These trees will arrive in the county next week. Anyone interested in obtaining some of these trees should contact Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent in Boyne City as soon as possible. Order blanks for trees from the Conservation Department and Michigan State College will also be available at the county extension office.

Tree planters throughout the state are faced with the problem of choosing the proper species to plant on their particular land. According to Lester Bell, extension forester at Michigan State College, each species of tree has specific soil and evironmental requirements. Bell says some trees do best on dry sandy sites while others prefer lower moist sites, some prefer acid soils, others want alkaline conditions; others need open areas where they will get full sunlight, others do best under partial shade.

According to Bell, the site preferences of most of our common species of trees have been pretty well catalogued by foresters and botanists. "Now," he states, "our big problem is to select the proper species for planting on each of the sites that we wish to reforest."

In general, Bell states that Scots and Jack pine are best adopted for droughty light sandy soils. Red pine likes a well drained sandy loam and white pines do best on the more fertile loams with a fairly high water table. The spruces should be planted on well drained loamy soils not subject to droughty conditions.

The spruces and white pine should not be planted on south and west slopes where they will be subjected to hot drying winds and high soil temperatures. Such slopes are better adapted to the growing of Jack, Scots and red pines.

A rule of thumb about refrigerator size is six cubic feet for two people with an additional cubic foot for each additional person. Michigan State College specialists point out, however, that a refrigerator is soon outgrown and it would be better to buy a large one in the first place.

Fire Destroys A Barn, Contents On Kelley Farm

A barn and its contents on the farm of Sam Kelly, located six miles south of Charlevoix in Marion township were destroyed by fire from an unknown cause at noon Thursday. The loss was estimated at $8,000.

Lost in the blaze were the frame barn, 40 tons of hay, 15 tons of straw, a tractor, three pigs, two heifer calves and farm equipment.

The Charlevoix fire department which was joined by the Ellsworth fire department, devoted its efforts to saving the other farm buildings.

Mr. Kelly told Fire chief Jerome Whitley he had visited the barn a half hour before he returned from another part of the farm to find the building in flames. The fire is believed to have started from faulty wiring or spontanous combustion. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Carbon dioxide is as dangerous in a silo as in a closed garage..

Work To Start Soon On Light Plant Repair

A bid for the construction of the underpinning of the Diesel engine at the Charlevoix light plant was accepted by the Charlevoix city council at a sepeial meeting Tuesday noon.

Bids for the project were opened at the regular meeting Monday night which was adjourned after a brief session.

The bid submitted by the Hilton Guncrete Co. of Pentwater for $6,884.73 was accepted for the work, which is expected to start within two weeks. Under the contract the city will furnish all materials for the project. Major item is sheet-piling, which the city purchased earlier at an estimated cost of $2,000. A second bid for $17,131 less $2,000 for sheet piling was entered by Owen-Ames Kimball Co. of Grand Rapids.

The underpinning is being instelled on the recommendation of J. B. Sims of Grand Haven, consulting engineer for the city, in an effort to remedy the vibration of the Rethbun-Jones engine.

A representative of the Kessler Co. Ltd. of Fremont, Ohio, which started work on the water tower last week, appeared before the council and reported on the condition of the tower and made recommendations for major repairs. After Mr. Sims examined the tank which had been drained and cleaned, he recommended specific repairs which the council then contracted to have done at a cost of $477. The repairs include the welding of plates and rivets where the legs join the bowl of the tower, welding of the ladder inside the tank, repair of the lower catwalk, repair of tie rod, painting of 'Charlevoix' on the exterior and the painting of interior with one coat of zinc chro-

City Assured Federal Funds For Hospital

The good news that Charlevoix has been assured of $329,175 in a federal grant under the Hill-Burton act for the construction of a new hospital was received Saturday in a telegram from Rep. Charles E. Potter.

The wire read: "Have just been informed by Public Health Service of preliminary approval of new 38-bed general hospital for Charlevoix at a total cost of $612,500, federal share of which is $329,175 under Hill-Burton Act".

Similar messages were received in a telephone call from the office of Sen. Blair Moody and in a telegram from Sen. Homer Ferguson.

It is expected that contracts for the new hospital will be let early in 1953 and work will begin next spring on the structure which will be built at the present Trailer Park site.

The plans for the hospital were approved earlier by the state hospital survey committee which recommends grants from the federal government through the Hill-Burton Act.

The remainder of the total cost of construction or $283,325 has been raised locally through contributions and pledges.

by Gene Alleman

MICHIGAN voters cast twice as many votes in the 1952 primaries as they did in the last presidential year, '48.

But at least one observer isn't handing out any laurels for that record.

He's closely indentified with a major political party and so he doesn't want to be named. In this close-fought campaign, one observation such as this might lose the race.

Governor Stevenson's remark about "the mess in Washington" has certainly been thrown back at him enough and Eisenhower was quick to seize upon the levity with which the Illinois governor spoke of Korea in an unguarded moment.

So this political expert stays anonymous . . . but not silent.

"Everybody is getting all excited because 58% of the registered voters went to the polls.

"But they completely overlook the fact that only 81% of our eligibles in Michigan are even registered. Take 58% of 81% and you get a measly total of people above 21 who exercised their privilege and duty of the ballot.

"Add to that the fact that an awfully lot of the primary voters were practically hog-tied and dragged to the polls by service clubs and civic organizations that had 'Get Out The Vote' campaigns.

"Put them all together and you get a picture of a state that doesn't care a whooping darn about the most crucial election we've had in a generation. I say crucial and I don't care what party you lean toward."

IN 1948, THE total votes in the gubernatorial primary, in both parties, was 715,834. In August this year, there were 1,436,675 votes cast on the Republican ballot where competition was keen and on the Democratic one where Governor Williams was doing a solo act.

The same increase held in the senatorial primary. In '48 the total was 637,576 and in '52 it rose to 1,340,358.

The upswing this year isn't due entirely . . . or even in greater part . . . to a population growth. Something has kindled a fire in the voters.

Whether it's the fresh personalities on the national scene, the [illegible] of corruption that have aroused citizens in both parties, or the reawakening of public interest due to campaigns staged by Michigan newspapers, great and small, to get people to the polls, no one can say with finality.

One thing is sure. Not only Michigan but the whole nation can well better their previous records.

In 1940, two out of three persons of voting age went to the polls. Four years ago barely one out of two voted. While, from '40 to '48, over 14 million more people became eligible to vote, the number of votes actually cast decreased by more than 3 million.

Only 16% of the total population elected Harry Truman president.

Whether his election was good or bad depends, of course, on the political affilation of the assayer. But no patriotic American, Democrat or Republican, will be happy over a decision made by such a minority of his countrymen.

IF MICHIGAN voters don't break all records come November, it won't be for a lack of the wooing. Campaign plans on both sides of the fence call for the most concerted onslaught on the electorate in history.

Michigan is a key state in both national campaigns and neither the GOP nor the Democrats can count it in the bag. That's why both Ike and Adlai have, and will, make major speeches here.

The Moody-Potter senatorial campaign will be watched closely by the whole nation. That result may play a dominant part in the makeup of the new Congress.

Potter's scorching attacks on Communism may be another indication of just how much the American public is aroused and alarmed by Red infiltration. Many Michigan observers believe that Sen. MacCarthy's victory in Wisconsin, was less an endorsement of his methods than approval of his vigor in fighting domestic Communism.

Potter is playing that there for all it's worth.

One Congressional election will have more of an effect on Michigan than it customarily does. That's the one in the Eleventh District, bordering the Straits.

Potter left its Congressional seat to seek a place in the Senate. In the Republican primary, Victor A. Knox of the Soo was chosen to carry the GOP standard and is expected to be a shoo-in come November.

That leaves Knox's old job of Speaker of the House vacant. Who succeeds him will have a big bearing on Michigan's internal affairs.

THE SHUTDOWN of Great Lakes freighter runs during the steel strike should cause no coal shortage in Michigan this winter.

The idled ships were those that hauled ore down from Lake Superior and carried coal back up on their return. Most of their loads are dumped in the Duluth area for trans-shipments westward.

Michigan gets its coal in the main from Toledo and only a very slight deficit resulted from the steel strike . . . well under 200,000 tons.

Of course, John L. Lewis can change the picture in the flick of one of his king-size eyebrows. A coal strike . . . possibly to regain personal political power Lewis has lost . . . would play hob with more than Michigan.

Michigan lost one popular insurance policy against John L's whims.

The last working mine in Saginaw County . . . and in the whole Central Michigan area . . . closed this Summer at St. Charles. Owned cooperatively by the men who worked it, the mine was granted special dispensation by Lewis to stay open during strikes.

Many a Saginaw Valley home stayed warm during mine shutdowns, thanks to the St. Charles Mine.

Today not even a tipple remains to mark the last stronghold of the once-mighty coal mining industry of Lower Michigan.

Enemies of rubber household items are heat, oil, grease, tar, copper and dry cleaning fluid. Rubber gloves and copper scouring pads just don't mix home economists explains.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

YOU'LL REMEMBER we did a story on the water tower last week . . . And there were a lot of things that didn't go into the story . . . Fr'instance, how when we were kids and were returning home from a trip, we always watched for the first sight of the tower or its lights 'cause then we knew we were almost home . . Or the Hallowe'en pranks that once were common and one was apt to find the most 'unusual' things dangling from the tower come Oct. 31 . . . And when one was in the woods and thought he was lost, everything was alright when the tower came into view. . In other words, it just wouldn't be Charlevoix without the tower.

WE WERE over at the railroad station the other day and were amazed to see a big ole bird come in for a landing . . . Someone offered the information that it was a blue heron and that a pair had been living on the Chicago Club this summer . . . We don't know much about them or their habits but it's certainly something unusual for our money . . .

W. H. SUPERNAW took off last week via bus to pay a visit to Ellenburgh, N. Y., his birthplace . . . He hasn't been back since he left there about 70 years ago as a boy of 12 . . . It will be interesting to hear what he thinks of the place . . . after all these years . . .

FOR THOSE who like to do their Christmas shopping early . . the all-important holiday is just three months from today . . . So you'd better get going . . . And you'd better start planning, too, what you are going to send that serviceman overseas . . . . The mailing dates for overseas boxes are from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15 . . . And when you send your parcel pack and wrap it well . . .

WAS SURPRISED to open last week's Collier's and find a picture of Coach Biggie Munn of Michigan State staring out at us . . . There's a 'super' article on him and his Michigan State team that's pretty timely since the Spartans football team has been picked as the top team in the nation . . . Boy, what a spot to be in . . . A bit like being behind the eight-ball . . . But it's going to be something to watch and we won't have to wait long . . . that Michigan State- Michigan battle comes off Saturday . . Don't forget to listen . . .

WHO WAS the most popular guy in town last week? Why, none other than Jerry McSafety . . . and if you don't believe it, ask any kid in school, 'specially the little ones . . . He came here through the courtesy of the Northern Auto Co. and gave the youngsters a lot of pointers on safety rules about crossing streets 'n' everything . . . But, according to one little girl, "Jerry forgot some of the safety songs and we had to sing them for him" . . .

AS YOU know, the George Roffs just returned from a year at Cortland, N. Y., where Mr. R. attended school . . . But the experience turned out to be 'school' for the entire family, it seems . . They took advantage of the opportunity to visit all sorts of places in the east from the New England states south to Virginia and all the places in history they'd studied about . . . Hearing them tell about it is almost as good as seeing the places yourself . . .

REMEMBER the story about the Boyne City teacher, Kent Freeland and his troubles with the internal revenue department last year . . . It came out again in this month's Reader's Digest with Boyne City mentioned in the very first sentence . . .

AND SPEAKING of the Reader's Digest, there's a yarn in the late one entitled "Good-bye, Central" . . . a story about the small town telephone operator . . . Be sure to read it for that's exactly what's going to happen to Charlevoix in the next three month's . . There are times, we grant you, when we cuss the operators but we're going to miss all those little personal touches . . . Mark my words . . .

IF THERE'S someone you haven't seen in quite a while and would like to, just put in an appearance at the Buyers Jamboree on Saturday afternoon . . . Holy Cats . . . that thing's snowballed into something . . . And we'll bet it's more of a success than anyone ever dreamed it would be . . And with another $150 in prizes being offered again this week, chances are it will be bigger than ever before . . .

YOU CAN'T keep a good man down they tell us, and we guess it's true especially in the case of Fred Trimble . . . laid up since April with a back injury he's back at the grind . . . just because he feels better when he's working . . . Try it sometime and you'll find out he's right . .

IT'S FOOTBALL time again . . The Rayders will meet up with Boyne City here come Friday and the battle will be on . . . And then the following Wednesday they'll meet East Jordan for another 'knock-down drag-out' affair . . . Nobody's got "nothing" to hear the coaches . . . all of 'em . . . tell it . . . But you just wait. . . . The other day Dick Boles, Harbor Springs' new coach said "I'm beginning to think this is a tough league" . . . He hasn't seen anything yet . . . .

There just isn't a harder-fightin' bunch of kids in the state than you'll find in this league . . And of course we could be a little prejudiced, but right at the top of the heap you'll find the Rayders . . . How will they do this year? . . . Allright . . . To the team and their coaches . . . Lots of luck from all of us . . . Opening the season with two "toughies' isn't easy but don't let it throw you . . .

AND INCIDENTLY, Our "Meet the Rayders" series of pictures and thumb-nail sketches of players start this week . . . We at the Courier are pretty proud of those . . . We started them in 1950 at the suggestion of Coach Del Terrill . . . And since then the idea's been copied by several other northern Michigan papers.

ACCORDING to Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower, being registered for voting is every citizen's first duty and the "halfway mark of a 100 percent voter" . . . Which is just another reminder that you have only six full days and two half days (Saturday) to register before the deadline Oct. 6 . . . So get on the ball and roll your little self right down to the office of your city or township clerk . . . It's all so simple if you'll only get at it . . .

Dr. F. W. Young spent several days last week in Detroit on business.

Ikens-Empey Vows Are Exchanged In Church Ceremony

In a quiet ceremony solemnized at the First Methodist church in East Jordan early Thursday evening, Beverly Kay Ikens became the bride of Norman Empey.

The Rev. Robert Moore read the service in the presence of their attendants.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenroy C. Ikens of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Empey of Norwood are the parents of the bridegroom.

The bride chose a navy shadow plaid taffeta dress and navy accessories for her wedding.

Mrs. Kenneth Empey, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, as her only attendant, wore a gray crepe dress and red accessories.

Mr. Empey assisted his brother as best man.

Immediately following the service a wedding dinner for the bridal party and their immediate families was held at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Jessie Hager in East Jordan. A tiered wedding cake and autumn flowers decorated the dinner table.

After a brief wedding trip to northern Michigan, the couple are making their home at Norwood.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. Kenneth Empey entertained with a bridal shower honoring the bride-elect. Thirty-six guests gathered at the Norwood township hall for an evening of games, a social hour and refreshments. The honoree was presented with a variety of lovely gifts.

Red Rayders Open Football Season Here Friday

Meet Boyne City, Then Take On East Jordan In A Mid-Week Game

The Charlevoix Rayders, coached by Del Terrill, will open their 1952 football season against Boyne City Friday and meet a second major opponent, East Jordan, the 1951 Northern Michigan Class C league champions the following Wednesday.

Friday's game with Boyne City will be played at Kipke Field at 3 p.m. The Rayders will journey to East Jordan to meet the Red Devils at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

The game here Friday will mark the initial appearance of the Rayders while Boyne City, fresh from a 19-0 win over Onaway, will be out to rack up their second victory of the season.

Coach Del Terrill and the ten lettermen who will form the nucleus for the 1952 Rayder football squad.

The Rayders will open their 1952 season against Boyne City at Kipke field Friday and next Wednesday will travel to East Jordan to meet the defending champions.

Charlevoix Rayders

1952 Schedule

Sept. 26	Boyne City here at 3 p.m.
Oct. 1	East Jordan there at 3 p.m.
Oct. 10	Gaylord here at 3 p.m.
Oct. 16	Harbor Springs there at 8 p.m.
Oct. 24	Pellston here at 3 p.m.
Oct. 31	Mancelona there at 8 p.m.
Nov. 7	Cheboygan here at 3 p.m.

Charlevoix's next opponent, East Jordan, has a 32-7 win over Traverse City St. Francis and will be meeting an inexperienced Pellston eleven at Pellston this week.

Coach Terrill will be fielding an untried team Friday but after four weeks of intensive practice he feels the squad is ready for the ordeal. In the starting line-up will be found three regulars from last year's squad plus six lettermen who saw limited action. Missing from the line-up will be back, Don Vratanina, who is recovering from a cracked collarbone received in practice.

Two of the three regulars will be found in the backfield. They are Jim Lewis, left halfback, and Bill Bennett, quarterback. In the other backfield spots will be halfback Joe McDermott and fullback Paul Johnson. Lewis has been favoring a turned ankle but is expected to be ready to play Friday. However, Bob Jolliffe is being held in reserve in case Lewis is unable to start.

Veteran Stan Whitley, hard-playing tackle, is the only regular returning to the line.

Other starting linemen will be Dean Davenport and Jack Denemy, ends; Whitley and Bill Mosier, tackles; The guard spots are still in doubt but will be selected from among Everett Pease, Larry Burns and Fred Jolliffe who was shifted from the backfield to the line; Carl Foster or Gene Towsley will start at center.

Coach Terrill has not decided on a defensive line at this time.

Nineteen members of the Varsity squad will be wearing newly-issued football pants at the game Friday, according to Coach Terrill.

What Coach Tom Weede of Boyne City has cooked up for his game with the Rayders is not known. When the Ramblers opened at Onaway last week they played straight football, making all their gains via the ground route. They tried only one pass during the game.

If Coach Weede and his team have anything special up their sleeves chances are it will be pulled out for Charlevoix in an effort to avenge the loss handed them last year at the hands of the Rayders.

"Beat Boyne" will be heard up and down the street tonight as the Pep Rally sponsored by the Charlevoix high school Pep Club gets underway at the school at 7:30 p.m.

Led by the high school band, the student body will snake dance to Kipke field for a bonfire, cheers and songs before returning to East Park for a formal program.

The event will be held in the high school gym in case of rain.

"Beat Boyne" is a war-cry of long standing and the Rayders will be out to do just that. Boyne will come to Charlevoix with victory in mind so the game should be good and a test of strength for both elevens.

Since last week's game. Coach Weede is making a few changes in his line-up. Denny Pratt is being shifted from halfback to quarterback and Chub Rothenberger is expected to move into the halfback spot.

Ed Boyer who was injured in the Onaway game is being replaced by Gordon Capeland at guard.

The remainder of the line-up will remain the same with Don Arner and Gary Newville in the backfield and Ron West and Tom Whale at ends; Ken Anderson and Larry LaCroix at tackles; Shorty Smith who does the kicking for the team and Capeland at guards and Merle Karlskin at center.

At East Jordan, the defending champions, Coach Gayle Saxton is re-shuffling his line-up for their meeting with Pellston. The same line-up will probably be used against Charlevoix next Wednesday.

Keith Evens, quarterback, Sam Milstein and Ray Gee, halfbacks and Bob Romback, fullback, will compose the starting backfield. Romback was shifted from the line to the backfield when Gordon Danforth was injured in practice. It was learned this week that Danforth will be out for at least a month so Romback will continue in the fullback spot.

In the line will be Jim Wiesler and Leon Bartlett at ends; Dick Freeman at tackle along with either Jack Zoulek or Bill Rogers; Jim Shepard and Pete Nemecek at guards and Larry Chanda at center.

Coach Saxton at present is looking for defensive guard and tackles but until now has not found any.

Against Traverse City St. Francis, the Jordanites used a variety of plays and are expected to use both a ground and aerial attack against Pellston and Charlevoix.

Class C Conference Schedule Opens Officially This Week

The Northern Michigan Class C Conference football teams will officially open their season this week with all seven teams playing.

East Jordan, defending league champs, will play at Pellston and Charlevoix will entertain Boyne City in games scheduled for 3 p.m. and Gaylord will play at Harbor Springs and Mancelona will host Grayling in a non-loop meeting under the lights at 8 p.m.

Coach Ray Brown at Pellston will be fielding a green team against East Jordan this week as the Hornets open their season.

Probabla line-up for the Hornets will be Glenn Aurrand, right halfback and one of two returning lettermen, Wayne Spray at the other halfback spot, Bob Rudy at quarterback and Ron Wilson at fullback.

In the line John Schauffler and Marshall Hampton will start at ends, Charles Yoder and Harold Drier at tackles; Lee Archer and Sabastian TaTocha at guards and Don Boettger at center.

Little is known about the Pellston eleven but they seemed to make a fair showing in a scrimmage against Cheboygan recently and despite their inexperience can be depended on for a good scrap.

East Jordan, on the other hand, has several returning lettermen plus one game to their credit so should have little trouble with the Hornets.

The Gaylord-Harbor Springs bout should be a close one. Gaylord is fielding the biggest team in the league this year but besides Gene Fleming doesn't seem to have too much speed. Harbor Springs with two good ends should be able to take to the air if the weather cooperates and give Tex Teixeira's boys a good game.

Harbor Springs never had a chance against Cheboygan last week as the Chiefs rolled over the Rams 35-6 but Coach Dick Boles did have an opportunity to see how his team would react under fire and make a few changes. Leon Sterly will be added to the Rams line-up this week in place of Al Chingwa who will return to his regular position in the line. Sterly will take over the halfback spot and Chingwa will be back in the guard position. Vic Kishigo may see some action as quarterback.

Coach Teixeira isn't planning any major changes in his line-up which made a fine showing against Grayling last week. The Blue Devils won 19-0.

The game Friday should be a fine test for both squads and the score could go either way.

Mancelona with a 32-0 victory over Northport should have no trouble with Grayling particularly if Duane Worden, big halfback is unable to return to the line-up after being injured in the game with Gaylord Saturday. Mancelona who seems to have a well-balanced team should rack up a win over the Vikings but this early in the season anything can happen.

Johnny Holstad will not be back in the line-up at the end but after the good showing Larry Hamblin made against Northport he is expected to start in Holstad's place. Holstad is recovering from a shoulder bruise received in practice.

The non-loop game should give Coach Matt Jacobson another week to look his team over and really prepare them for conference play before they open their league schedule the following week.

With untried teams anything can happen, but this week should give coaches and followers alike an idea of what can be expected from the teams in the league.

SAW SERVICE — Don't swear at that saw, let me service it. Small tool and drill grinding including carbide tipped drills, etc. Ed Tillotson, Ellsworth. 38-39-40c

Mrs. Robert Ashdon, Children Leave For Porto Rican Home

It's off to New York this week for Mrs. Robert Ashdon and children, Tony, who will be 14 Oct. 12 and Andrea, 8, on the first lap of their journey which will take them to San Juan, Puerto Rico to join Mr. Ashdon who is stationed there with the U. S. Coast Guard.

Since Mr. Ashdon's departure in mid-August for his new assignment the family has been preparing for the trip. There have been regular trips to the doctor's office for all three for a variety of shots, and the storing of this and the packing of that for the anticipated trip.

First Mr. Ashdon secured housing for them and then came the long wait for shipping orders, which finally arrived last week. So after a last minute scramble, they had the family car packed with their luggage and Tuesday departed for New York where they must deliver the car Saturday and report for final orders Monday.

Luckily, Mr. Ashdon found a furnished house and the only household appliance they had to take was a washing machine, but packing clothes for two growing children is no small item, Mrs. Ashdon has found. Added to that, each wanted to take along all his belongings and toys. And even after the choices were made, there was the packing of things to be left here, for their house on Palmer st. is to be rented in their absence.

But, ready or not, they left Tuesday on what is to be a grand adventure for all of them . . . a strange, new world in which they are going to live for the next two years. They will sail Oct. 1 aboard the transport, Henry Gibbons, and arrive at their destination in time to celebrate Tony's birthday in their new home.

The remainder of the Ashdon family, a dog and two cats will join them later. They are Jeep, a Springer Spaniel, and the cats, Sandy and Cindy, who are at the animal hospital for the present. When the family gets settled in San Juan the animals will be crated and sent via air to their new home.

As Mrs. Ashdon says, "Bob and the animals fly. We do it the hard way".

In Puerto Rico, the family will live in an American housing project and the children will attend an American school maintained for the children of service personnel statinned there. Tony is a high school freshman and Andrea is in the third grade.

Mr. Ashdon, Bos'n in the Coast Guard after 15½ years service, was transferred last month to duty aboard the cutter, Sage Brush. Prior to that he was in command nf Coast Guard Group Charlevoix, which includes the local lifeboat station for two years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ashdon. Mrs. Ashdon is the former Shirley Partridge, daughter of Mrs. Henry Partridge.

Bernie Zeitler Is Listed On Central Michigan J-V Squad

Junior Varsity football practice is in full swing at Central Michigan College at Mt. Pleasant as the team prepares for the season's opener with the Alma J-V's Sept. 30.

In the tentative line-up released this week by Coach Bill Theunissen was the name of Charlevnix's Bernie Zeitler who is listed among the halfbacks who might start the game.

Bernie, a graduate of the Charlevoix high school and a veteran of four years in the U. S. Air Force, is enrolled as a freshman student at the college. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zeitler Sr.

Floyd Brown Is Given Award For Aiding Safety

Floyd Brown, Dodge-Plymouth dealer in Charlevoix and Petoskey was recently named recipient of a highway safety award in recognition of his safety contribution through the loan of a car to Charlevoix for use in practice driving instruction in conjunction with their Driver Education activities. In presenting the award, Joseph Brady, vice chairman of the Michigan Inter-Industry Highway Safety committee, said, "This outstanding contribution, valued at more than $2000.00 on the part of a Michigan automobile dealer, is thorough evidence of the public spirited support they are giving to the furtherance of the Driver Education Program."

"In our cities and on nur highways the program has the double value of instilling in young drivers not only skill in the use of an automobile, but proper driving attitudes which will remain with them throughout life. Recent reports show that of Michigan's 536 high schools, 336 offered both classroom and student practice driving instruction during the 1951-52 school term. Studies indicate trained young drivers have only one-half as many traffic violations and an even greater percentage cut in fatalities than the non-trained drivers in the same age group.

The award is printed on parchment paper and has the signature of James Mason, chairman of the Michigan Inter-Industry Highway Safety Cnmmittee, Paul Graves, Executive vice-president of the Detroit Automobile Dealers Association and Gilbert L. Haley, Executive-secretary nf the Michigan Automobile Dealers Association. The award was presented to Mr. Brown at a meeting held at the Hidden Valley Ski Club in Gaylord.

More than six thousand cars, valued at approximately 12 million dollars were provided to high schools throughout the country during the 1951-52 school term. As a result, last year nearly 335 thousand students were enrolled in both class and practice driving courses in the nation's high schools.

Where?

That trout planting in suitable lakes does pay off is demonstrated by J. A. "Jack" Kratage and his 10-year-old son Robert. The Detroiters did not catch these choice rainbows in one of the noted upstate trout streams but in southeastern Michigan . . . in Oakland county's Union lake. Including the five-pound fish caught by Robert, the two-day catch of the Kratages totaled 15 trout, none under 12-inches. Four trout are not shown. The conservation department has planted legal-size (seven-inch) trout in Union lake for several years and stocks similar cool, deep lakes which have sufficient oxygen in summer and few predatory northern pike. Union and some 200 other designated lakes and streams in 56 counties are open to fall rainbow fishing through November 30.

Waterfowl timetable maps, showing daily starting and stopping times for gunners, can be picked up only at regional and district offices. These are at Imlay City, Detroit (branch), Jackson, Plainwell, Grand Rapids (branch), Gladwin, Baldwin, Traverse City, Mio, Gaylord, Newberry, Escanaba, Marquette, Crystal Falls and Baraga.

Camp deer permits also will be available from some license agents and all regional and district offices. With such an extra license, a hunting group of four or more may take an extra buck deer for camp purposes.

When buying lemons, avoid the green-tinged fruit, as generally it is not fully "cured," advise Michigan State College home economists. On the other hand, limes should be green rather than deep-yellow for green limes contain more acid.

Urge Lake Superior Fishermen To Take Lake Trout Eggs

With only nne Great Lake's source remaining, the conservation department urges Lake Superior commercial fishermen to collect as many lake trout eggs as possible this fall.

Annual closed season, to permit maximum natural reproduction during the spawning period, starts Oct. 10 at noon. Season reopens Nov. 4 at noon.

Department field men will pick up eggs at Marquette, Munising, Ontonagon and Keweenaw bay ports, and take them to the Marquette hatchery for handling.

November weather has much to do with the success in egg taking.

Closed season on lake trout prevails Oct. 1-31 in Lake Huron and Oct. 10-Nov. 15 in Lake Michigan. Because of sea lamprey depradations reducing trout populations to practically nothing in Huron and Michigan, eggs are not expected to be taken in these lakes when the season reopens.

Department notes that whitefish and chub closed seasons also run the same as last fall. Whitefish cannot be taken Nov. 1-Dec. 1 in Huron, Nov. 1-26 in Superior and Nov. 5-Dec. 10 in Michigan. Repeating is the Nov. 1-30 closed season on chubs in all three lakes In all cases, seasons open and close at noon on dates shown.

Four New Clubs Register Under Williamston Plan

Four new clubs have been registered this year under the Williamston hunting plan, the conservation department reports, but the total number of clubs—47—remains the same as last year.

Under the plan, farmers in an area band together and issue a certain allotment of tickets to hunters for a controlled harvest of game over their lands. The plan helps hunters by allowing them to hunt the entire club area, and helps farmers by reducing trespass problems.

New clubs this year are the Big Six club, Lenawee county; Hazelton Club, Shiawassee county, Hazy Cloud Conservation association, Kent county, and the Huron wildlife Protective association, Washtenaw county.

This year, 168,000 acres will be available to hunters under the program, slightly more than last year. The acreage is scattered through 21 counties, mostly in southern Michigan, though Charlevoix and Antrim counties have a club.

The department will provide 3,000 gate signs, 37,000 boundary signs, and 11,000 tickets scheduled for delivery to the clubs about October 10.

Marsh Plow Aids Farmers

Adam Prawdzik of Boyne Falls and Bill Grimm, farm planner on the left looking at the job of plowing being done with the marsh plow operated by Lilak and Moore of East Jordan.

Turning wet swampy areas into [illegible] for Charlevoix County farmers is now possible by the use of the marsh plow, Ed Rebman, county agent, reported. The marsh plow is owned by the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District and was purchased for them by the Charlevoix State Savings Bank, the Charlevoix County State Bank, the State Bank of East Jordan and the Boyne City Bank. The district is paying for the plow through a rental charge to the farmer who uses it.

This plow is a heavy land breaker type of plow. It will turn a furrow 24 inches wide and if necessary, 16 inches deep. Small [illegible] such as willow and [illegible] may be turned under with the use of this plow. Stumps and logs, however, must first be removed in order for the plow to do a good job.

Many farmers have low, wet, swampy, muck areas that today are not bringing any income for them. By using this marsh plow and turning the soil over and with a good seed bed the above area could be the best pasture the farmers ever had. On the wetter areas where water would stand 20 to 40 days in the spring reed canary grass should be used. Reed canary grass does best planted at the rate of 4 to 6 pounds per acre and when an ample application of fertilizer is made some farmers reported that cows did not eat reed canary grass, however, it has been demonstrated many times that with proper fertilization, reed canary grass is as palatable as any other feed.

On the somewhat drier swamp areas a legume mixture could be used. Ladino, alsike, with some brome grass would make an ideal pasture. Here again fertilizer is important to increase the production and also make it more palatable for the livestock.

This marsh plow is available for anyone to use in this area. Farmers may use it with their own tractors if their area is dry and they can get footing with their rubber tires. Where they can not get footing a caterpiller tractor must be used. To obtain information regarding this plow contact one of the directors of the soil conservation district, the farm planner or the county agent.

Use DHIA Record To Boost Profit From Dairy Herd

Many farmers aren't making full use of the profit-making opportunities provided by dairy herd improvement association records.

There are three methods of improving the efficiency of Michigan dairy herds through information provided in DHIA resords, says George E. Parsons Michigan State College extension dairy specialist.

For one thing, DHIA records provide a reliable record from which a dairyman can retain or cull animals from his herd. "There are two kinds of cows," Parsons expains, "those which keep the dairyman and those which the dairyman keeps." These records will help put the non-profitable animals in the slaughter house where they belong.

The DHIA records also provide a basis for a sensible feeding program. In addition the yearly records provide the basis for a sound breeding program. This third value of DHIA records is a big one.

Parsons explains that by reporting all of the lactation records, a proof will be assembled and reported on the herd sire. To further make use of these records the dairyman should refer to the back section of the DHIA book for instructions on how to make a herd analysis.

A herd analysis will show in an easy-to-read graphic form what has been happening in the herd during the years while it was on test. Parsons says it will show certain families of cows within the herd which have consistently good. From such a family you will want to save heifer and bull calves.

A 'For Sale' ad will get results.

Hayes Community Farm Bureau Has Annual Election

Ed. Shanahan was elected chairman of the Hayes Community Farm Bureau at the annual election of officers held by the group Sept. 18.

Other officers elected were: vice chairman, Leo Berg; secretary, Mrs. Clifford Struthers; [illegible], Mrs. Leo Berg; discussion leader, George Smith; minuteman, Robert Straw; Blue Cross secretary, Fred Willis; women's committee [illegible], Mrs. Robert Straw; recreation leader, [illegible]; publicity chairman, Mrs. [illegible]. [illegible], Mrs. Clifford Struthers, Leo Smith, [illegible] nominated for membership on the county board of directors.

There was general disapproval of the fair trade laws as they now exist, it was disclosed by a discussion of the subject lead by Ed. Shanahan.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Straw were hosts to the group.

Cows should be dry at least 6 to 8 weeks before calving.

Marketing high quality eggs is one of the best ways for Michigan poultrymen to get the most from favorable fall egg prices.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

No Longer Two Sides to This Question!

Ever seen those two-family houses they have in some places—with separate front doors and porches—side by side? My sister owns half of one and lives in it, near Philadelphia.

Nice little frame home. Only Sis painted her half brown and the other family always painted theirs green. Ruined the effect—but for years neither family ever thought of suggesting that they both decide on a common shade.

Now Sis writes that their two-toned home is no longer. "I mentioned we were going to repaint," she says. "And they said let's get a color we all like. So we did. A nice shade of gray for both sides."

From where I sit, so often when there's a difference of opinion it's best to sit right down and work things out (like when our volunteer firemen decided to serve both lemonade and beer at their annual picnic last month). Don't let prejudices "color" your opinion of your neighbor. He'll probably be quite as open minded as you are.

Banks P.T.A. Has First Meeting Of Fall Season

Ellsworth — Mrs. Harry Potter's fifth and sixth grade room received the money gift in the "Kitty" for the largest percentage of parents present at the first fall meeting of Banks P.T.A. held at the Banks school, Tuesday evening, September 16.

The Executive committee of P.T.A. served as hosts for the meeting which was supposed to be a reception for the new teachers. However, Fred Stecker of East Jordan, our part time music and band instructor is our only new teacher so he was introduced but the faculty members were not required to make their speeches as usual.

Featured on the program was a short talk, by James Wind of the high school faculty, who told of his interesting experiences in serving in the Honor Guard for General Douglas McArthur in Japan during world war II. He spoke of how well the General was guarded and the rigid routine under which such a personage must live, also in what high regard the General was held by the Japanese and Russian people who came in contact with him.

Musical numbers were provided by Mrs. James Wind and Mrs. Hans DeYoung, who played a piano duet "On and Away", and Betty James, who sang "When Jesus Came" with Godda Sherk as piano accompanist.

Mrs. Max Bolser, program chairman, announced the program numbers.

During the business session, presided over by President Marvin Elzinga, superintendent Henry Smith spoke briefly on this year's school program, which is enlarged by an art course taught by Mrs. George Brown. Also, introducing Mr. Stecker of East Jordan, he stressed the priviledge we have in having such an experienced teacher.

It was announced that starting Oct. 2 potato vacation will continue for about 10 days to enable the growers to get out the crops.

Announcement of the Annual Harvest Auction Sale was made by the Ways and Means committee, chairman, Mrs. Henry Ruis. The date is Oct. 21 so you have a month to plan and prepare for this annual affair.

It is not thrift to keep old dishes. Fall cleaning time is an opportunity to get rid of chipped and cracked dishes—especially cups. MSC home economists say when the glaze is worn or chipped from dishes they simply cannot be sterilized and hence they may be a health hazard.

Local Musicians To Audition For Network Program

Nick Hamilton, only member of the band now in Charlevoix, said he understood the band was to be auditioned for an appearance on the Talent Scout show. If they are successful in the audition he thinks the group will be given an appointment for a later appearance.

Nick will leave here Saturday for Ann Arbor where he will be joined by Bob and a third member of the orchestra.

Earlier the council had accepted the company's bid for cleaning and painting the interior of the tower at a cost of $1.025.

The property presented to the city recently by Frank Brown and located in the Linlsey addition was discussed and the minutes amended to state the property was an outright gift from Mr. Brown and not presented "in lieu of payment of taxes" as stated earlier.

A proposal to set up a schedule for the loaning of city-owned equipment was rejected by the council when the resolution failed to poll a majority vote.

School Bus Drivers Play Major Role In Young Charges' Lives

Meet Charlevoix's school bus drivers, seven in all, who transport approximately 400 students 316 miles daily to and from classes at the Charlevoix schools.

They are Martin Elzinga, dean of the drivers with six full years to his credit and also in charge of bus maintenance, Joe Smith, L. L. Lewis, Bradford Foster, Albert Thorp, Peter Kanoff and Averill Howard.

Charlevoix's school buses cover a maze of roads within the Charlevoix school district, bringing youngsters to classes from homes on every main highway and crossroad within a radius of ten miles of the city.

In addition the buses carry athletic teams, the band, spectators and other groups to events throughout the state. However, under a new law, the school must finance these 'side trips'. Earlier the school was reimbursed for all mileage.

The school bus drivers play major roles in the lives of their young passengers who constitute better than 50 percent of the school's enrollment.

His word is law on his bus and all his charges, big and small, have a certain admiration and kinship for him. He becomes the recipient of all their troubles as well as all the happy events in the lives of his passengers. He is the first one to hear any family news, good or bad, and he knows the trails and tribulations the boys and girls have at school.

The kids who ride his bus are the envy of those who don't and to those who do, he's a 'special

Linden Man Is Drowning Victim In Lake Louise

The body of Herman Saxton, 57, of Linden, was recovered from Lake Louise at 10:15 a.m. Monday by State Police of the Gaylord post following a three hour search.

The body was recovered near the spot where his capsized metal boat was anchored.

The State Police started dragging operations early Monday after receiving a call from Mrs. Saxton at 2 a.m., telling them that he had failed to return from a fishing trip. Sheriff Floyd Ikens and the Charlevoix Lifeboat station were called at 9 a.m. and arrived in time to help recover the body from the lake.

Mrs. Saxton told police her husband had gone fishing late Sunday afternoon. It is believed his boat capsized during a brief squall during the evening. Mr. Saxton could not swim, his wife said.

Coroner Dr. L. E. Grate said death was due to accidental drowning.

The body was brought to the See Funeral home here before being taken to Linden for funeral services and burial at Glenwood cemetery in Flint.

Pfc. R. L. Jolliffe Receives Injuries In Korean Accident

Pfc. Richard L. Jolliffe, serving in Korea with the 40th Division, was injured in a training accident early last month, he has written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Jolliffe of Norwood township.

According to his letter he was hospitalized at Pusan for facial injuries when struck across the face with a log following an explosion. He said he and two other men were showing new men in the company how to blow up a bunker when the accident occurred. The first explosion went off as scheduled but there must have been more TNT for a second big explosion followed. A log, part of the debris blown loose with the second blast, struck him across the face, fracturing his nose and causing other less serious injuries.

He was hospitalized at Pusan for about two weeks where he underwent several operations on his face. He was to return to his company which is some place above Chunchon on Sept. 19.

George Burns, Area Pioneer, Dies At Age 97

Charlevoix's oldest resident, George L. Burns, 97, died Thursday at the Turk Convalescent Home in Petoskey where he had been a patient for the past year. He had been in failing health for some time and had been seriously ill for several weeks.

Funeral services for the pioneer resident were held at the See Funeral Home Saturday with the Rev. Lloyd Schloop officiating. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Canada, Dec. 25, 1854, George Lee Burns came to Norwood township with his parents, Bernard and Abigail Burns, who settled on a homestead there during the Civil War days. The community of Barnard was later named for his father.

As a pioneer of northern Michigan, Mr. Burns was one of the few remaining 'old-timers' who could remember working on projects which marked the growth of the area. He drove a team of oxen for his father in 1871 when the latter took a contract for three miles of roadbed for the old G.R. & I. railroad (now the Pennsylvania railroad) in the eastern end of what is now Charlevoix county; drove a team for the men who surveyed the area and divided Emmet county into two sections, Charlevoix and Emmet counties; drove the stagecoach which carried mail and passengers to Petoskey before the

Plan To Open Annual Campaign To Solicit Funds On October 14

The 1952 Community Chest budget was set at $4,600 at a meeting of the Budget and Admissions Committee at the city hall Thursday night, Mrs. Herbert Campbell, president of the organization, has announced.

The Community Chest drive to solicit funds for the participating organizations will open Tuesday, Oct. 14 and continue through Nov. 6.

The participating organizations in the 1952 fund drive are Boy Scouts, $900; Girl Scouts, $550; Community Nurse, $850; Salvation Army, $350; City Recreation Council, $300; Emergency Fund, $140; United Health and Welfare Fund, $1,110. Campaign expenses were set at $140.

The 1951 budget was $4,128.

This year's increase is due to the request from the City Recreation Council for $300 to enlarge the city's recreation program and minor increases in other requests.

Dean Davenport, representing the Recreation Council, appeared before the budget and admissions committee and outlined the plans the Council has for a year around recreation program in an effort to provide a variety of recreation for all age groups. The $300 raised during the Community Chest drive would be used to augment the recreation directories salary, which was shared by the city and the school this past season.

Most other requests are about the same as last year. The Boy Scouts asked for $50 more than in 1951 and the Girl Scouts for $100 more.

However, the Charlevoix Hospital, which was granted $500 in 1951, did not make a request this year.

The Emergency Fund which cares for all needs not covered by specific requests was increased this year.

The United Fund asked for only $82 above their 1951 request.

City Council Will Ask For Bids On Sewer

The Charlevoix City Council plans to advertise for bids in the near future for the establishment and construction of a sanitary sewer on West Hurlbut ave. between Sheridan and Lake streets following a resolution adopted at a special meeting of the council Monday night.

The project will cost an estimated $1500 according to figures furnished by the committee on sewers, J. C. Marshall and the city surveyor and will be financed by special assessments plus $500 from the general sewer fund.

A special stipulation was made in the resolution regarding the assessments on the property. No assessment, according to the ruling, is to exceed 25 percent of the value of the property as valued and assessed for state and county taxation and any other costs shall be paid from the general sewer fund.

Mayor John Knight's appointment of Arthur Bergeon and Fay Davis to serve with Mary C. Feindt as a Board of Special assessors on the sewer project was approved by the Council.

October 20 was set as the date for a special hearing on the sign ordinance to permit use of signs no larger than eight square feet on US 31 and M-66 within the city limits where such signs are now prohibited.

Michigan Mirror

by Gene Alleman

THERE'S A "get tough" era coming to Michigan highways and someone is going to get hurt.

It may be you.

You may be hurt by a traffic ticket and a stiff penalty.

But Michigan editors, who are touching off the "get tough" policy this week, think it's better to get hurt in the pocketbook nerve than to wind up in a hospital or morgue.

Michigan editors . . . the editor of the Courier and 500 other weekly and daily newspapers . . . have pledged the power of the press to the Michigan Highway Safety Seminar. That is made up of law enforcement officers, school administrators, transportation leaders, courts, engineers, businessmen . . . a cross-section of all Michigan interests and activities.

Speaking through the Michigan Press Association, the editors have set up these objectives . . . any one of which may hurt you:

1. To obtain from public officials and to publicize in their columns the names of all persons who have lost their driver's license.
2. To acquaint the public of a need for centralized driver's licensing bureau.
3. To enlist the prosecuting attorney, chief of police, sheriff, justices of the peace, judges, mayors and city managers in a "get tough" program of law traffic enforcement and punishment of offenders.

Those three steps can hurt you . . . and they can protect you from hurt.

IF YOU'RE a reckless driver and your license is taken away, you're going to be hurt. Your name will be splashed in type in your hometown newspaper; your neighbors will know your disgrace; somebody is going to tip off the officers if you drive without your license.

But if you're an average Michigan motorist, decent and law abiding, that publicity is going to keep some gasoline cowboy from endangering the life of your child.

If you're an epileptic, a habitual drukard or in your dotage, you're going to be hurt by a centralized driver's licensing bureau.

You won't be able to get a driver's license by telling a hard-luck story or because the official is a good friend of your brother or because some bored clerk in the bureau is too lazy to give you a test.

But if you're the average Michigan motorist, you're going to be mighty happy to know that the driver of that truck hurtling down on you isn't apt to have a seizure and crash head-on into you. You'll be glad to know that a driver's license is positive assurance that some nearsighted driver isn't going to run down your wife because he couldn't see her in the twilight.

If you're a habitual traffic violator, if you drive while drunk, if you think it's smart to pilot your jaloppy like a super-sonic jet, then the "get tough" policy by police, prosecutors and judges is going to hurt you.

You're going to find that the days of a slap on the wrist for traffic violations is all over. You're going to be rapped with as heavy a fine for endangering lives with your car as if you had threatened them with a gun or stilleto. You're going to spend many a night in jail instead of squaring yourself with the law with a small fine.

YOU'RE GOING to find that Michigan doesn't like killers or maimers whether they do their bloody work in a speeding car or with a blackjack and pistol.

But if you're just John Q. Michigan, you're going to be happy that the potential traffic slayer of your three-year-old daughter will be scared and punished into obeying safety laws.

Through Michigan Press Association, embracing all daily and weekly newspapers in the state, editors have pledged the cooperation and the tremendous power of their newspapers to the Highway Safety Seminar.

There are 3,065,447 licensed drivers in Michigan. Only through newspapers can all these motorists be reached. Some will have to be scared; some will have to be threatened; most will have to be educated before Michigan highways are even as safe as a Korean battlefield.

From the hundreds of suggestions made by the Seminar in its meeting at Michigan State College last spring, the press association committee picked its three targets.

Thirty thousand Michigan drivers lost their licenses last year, the newsmen were told by state law officials. Yet few of the offenders' names were printed because there was no way except by accident that a newspaper could check on such action.

Proper publicity will direct the pressure of public opinion against these dangerous violators, editors believe, and the names of those violators should be exposed to public scrutiny just like that of a man who breaks other laws.

FROM LONG experience, safety officials have learned . . . and newsmen covering their beats, too, have learned . . . that only through a centralized licensing bureau can the public be assured that only qualified persons are allowed to drive.

Nine hundred thirty-four persons, 60% of the 1,640 killed on Michigan highways last year, were struck after dark. In many cases they died because the oncoming driver had such poor eyesight he just didn't see his victim.

Persons with such poor eyesight or with other physical defects that make driving hazardous will be denied the privilege of driving only when one agency is made responsible for the issuing of licenses.

Swift, sure and impartial enforcement of law is the only deterent to any crime.

When Pennsylvania set a 50-miles-per-hour speed limit and enforced it to the hilt, traffic fatalities were halved in the first year. Michigan can cut down its traffic deaths only by a "get tough" policy so violators are certain their misdeeds will go neither undetected nor unpunished.

That's why Michigan editors today are launching this three-pincered attack.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

AS THIS IS written it's hard to believe that October is just about here . . . the leaves are still on the trees and very green with only splotches of color here and there . . . the weather is balmy . . . In fact, we can't remember such grand weather this time of year . . . the weather man was right, he said September would be a good month . . . it was . . .

With a harvest moon working its way up to a full moon, the nights are beautiful . . . crickets can still be heard in the grass and it seems more like spring than fall . . . We've certainly been blessed with unusually fine weather . . . even for Charlevoix.

AND HOW about the Rayders Friday? . . . They surprised everyone with their fine performance . . . there're corners to be polished and a lot to be learned but they certainly did well for for their first game . . . Hope they do as well Wednesday against East Jordan. The game will be over by the time you read this but we're sure they'll do alright . . . Anyway, lots of luck.

THIS WEEK we had to write about the passing of about the last one of our pioneers, George Burns . . . a man we'd known all our life . . . With his passing an era ended . . . In relating the events he'd witnessed in the progress of our town one couldn't help but wish we could have seen Charlevoix as he once saw it . . . For instance, when there was no upper channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix and when Pine River which leads to Lake Michigan was but a rambling little stream which wended its way not straight out to the big lake as it does today but along the foot of the hill in back of what is now the Coast Guard station . . . in fact, Bob Sommerville's house and all the others on Palmer st. are built in the river bed . . . Such were the stories he would tell . . . and now they're gone . . .

HAVE YOU noticed the tower . . . that color . . . is it orange or red . . . is downright awful but they tell us it isn't going to stay like that so we guess we can stand it for a while . . .

YOU'LL READ elsewhere in the Courier about Dick Jolliffe and his recent injury while serving in Korea . . . His mother loaned us his letters so we could get the details of the accident which fractured his nose . . . and incidently, it's the first time his nose is straight, he tells his family, since he played football in high school . . . But the thing that struck us was his interest in the football team . . . in ever letter he asked how the team looked and if the boys thought they could beat East Jordan this year . . . I hope the team does it if for no other reason than for Dick . . . And personally we think he's a pretty good reason . .

LAST WEEK-END was a gala one for the Harry Elzingas . . . Two of their sons were married and a third returned home from Korea . . . all in three days . . . That's what we call stacking it up, but a happier event we can't imagine . . .

A GOOD TIME is not confined to those who are young . . . as the youth sometime believe . . . as is shown by the fact that Chris 'Pop' Drost, who is 88 years old, danced with his grand-daughter, Bonnie Drost at her wedding reception following her marriage to Charles Elzinga. . .

A LOT of people tell us they read this column . . . we hope that at some time or other we bring you something special . . . Something you enjoy . . . And now, through this same column, we're going to ask a favor of you . . . We're asking those of you who have not registered to vote in the Nov. 4 election to hurry to your city or township clerk and register before 8 p.m. next Monday . . . If you are interested in freedom and democracy . . . If you treasure all the sacrifices which have been made in your behalf so that you might have the right to vote you will register . . . not only as a personal favor to us but to yourself . . . So don't forget, will you . . . Make it soon . . . make it by Monday, Oct. 6 . . .

ELSEWHERE in the Courier you will find a story on the new Herefords purchased by Leo Berg . . . In getting the story Mrs. Berg related an interesting angle that we enjoyed enough to pass it on to you . . . It seems the cows were unloaded first and taken to the farm before their offspring were trucked to the same farm . . . As each calf left the truck he would let out a little blat, as calves will do, and immediately his mother would be there to claim him . . . How the mother recognized their little ones no one knew for they certainly look pretty much alike, but she did and immediately took possession of him . . . An unusual experience, says Mrs. Berg, who added she wouldn't have missed it for the world . . .

Michigan State College home economists urge homemakers to freeze only firm, well-ripened fruits and vegetables and highest quality meats. In all cases, proper handling is essential to a quality frozen food.

The Rev. John Gryzbowski read the double ring service during the Nuptil Mass before an altar decorated with white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace, satin and nylon tulle designed with a fitted bodice and hoop skirt which terminated in a cathedral length train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a cap of Chantilly lace and pearls. She carried a white prayer book with white orchids.

They wore identical gowns of autumn gold satin and nylon net, matching lace mitts and headdresses. Their colonial bouquets were of ivory gladioli centered with deep purple asters.

Chis Ann and Ricky Campbell of Royal Oak, niece and nephew of the bride, were flower girl and ring bearer. Chris Ann wore a floor length dress of white taffeta and tulle and carried a basket of bebe mums and asters, GO THE PRICES OF WONDER DRUGS!

In three short years, the price of cortisone has dropped 92%. Vitamin B-12 costs 97% less than it did in 1949, and penicillin and streptomycin cost only 3% of what they did seven years ago. These are but a few examples of how the miracle of American productive ingenuity brings down the prices of wonder-working drugs and makes their health-restoring, life-saving benefits available to all. We do our part in keeping down the price of these—and all drugs—by basing our prescription prices upon the cost of the ingredients plus a nominal fee for professional service.

One Acre In Six Of State Lands Open For Hunting

Lansing — More than 6,600,000 acres of Michigan land are open for hunting this fall in state and federal forests, game project and wildlife areas and parks and recreation areas, the conservation department reports.

That means Michigan hunters have a state wide choice of better than one acre in six on which to hunt. The total land area of Michigan is about 36,800,000 acres.

More than six million of these acres open to hunters are in the upper and northern lower peninsulas state and national forests.

The remainder is scattered throughout the state in game and wildlife project areas and parks and recreation areas, with the bulk of these centered in the southern lower peninsula.

Most forests and areas and their locations are shown on the official highway department map.

Department game men expect a sizeable army of small game hunters to use these southern areas while deer hunters will, of course, focus their attention on the north country.

Remove mildew spots as soon as they are discovered to prevent weakening or rotting of the material. First take off the surface growth with a brush, but do it out of doors to prevent scattering the spores in the house.

Ten Wolves Caught For August Bounty

Lansing — Ten wolves, most since April of 1949, were included in the 1,050 animals turned into the conservation department for a total of $10,470 in August bounty payments.

Same number of wolves were bountied in April, 1949. Most wolves taken in any month in recent years were the 11 bountied in September, 1946.

Latest state monthly tally shows 531 foxes, 411 coyotes and 98 bobcats in addition to the upper peninsula wolves, five of which were from Gogebic county. In August last year, $14,015 was paid for 1,250 foxes, 414 coyotes, 101 bobcats and one wolf.

Slightly More Land Reverts To State This Year

Slightly more land reverted to the state this year due to tax delinquency but the number of counties with no reversions dropped, the conservation department reveals.

Lands division report shows 3,554 acres and 3,952 lots passed into state title as compared to 2,767 acres and 3,824 lots in 1951. In 14 counties there were reversions, 21 with none in 1951.

The 1952 land is the annual tax-deliquent residue not sold at last year's county tax sales or redeemed within the "normal" grace period.

However, the former owner still can take steps to recover the land under Act 167, passed by the 1951 legislature. He should go to his municipal government unit on or before November 4 and request a resolution that the land be withheld from state sale. With the resolution, the county treasurer is authorized to collect the back taxes, with interest, and make a report to the state auditor general. Once the tax record has been cleared, the lands division will execute a deed to the applicant which will reinstate the owner's interests as previously existed.

This year there were no lands reverting to the state in Alger, Bay, Benzie, Calhoun, Clinton, Iosco, Kent, Mason, Missaukee, Ogemaw Oscoda, Ottawa, St. Joseph and Tuscola counties. In six other counties—Alpena, Huron, Isabella, Keweenaw, Luce and Ontonagon—reversion was limited to one lot each.

As last year, most acreage passing to the state was in Gogebic county, 1,050 acres. Most lots again, were in Wayne county, 634.

Total state-owned land now amounts to 4,212,726 acres and 116,822 lots as compared to 4,171,652 acres and 117,312 lots before.

Expert Warns Of Yard Accidents In Fall Season

If monstors and boogeyman lurked in your own backyard it probably couldn't be any less safe than it is!

Few realize that the yard is second only to the kitchen as the scene of home accidents, says Olevia Meyer of the Michigan State College home management department. The yard ranks first in injuries for men and boys.

So, in this fall season, Miss Meyer suggests extra precaution when you are raking and burning leaves and getting flowerbeds "winterized".

Never allow rakes and hoes to lie in the grass or leaves with teeth and sharp edges turned up—keep them in a storage place when not in use. Handle scythes and grass-cutting equipment with care. Provide closed containers for broken glass and other discarded sharp objects, Miss Meyer instructs.

Fires, of course, must be carefully controlled in yards so it is wise to have a metal container for burning. A fire extinguisher in the garage would be a wise investment, but remember to keep it filled and in good working order. Become safety-conscious about not throwing lighted matches and cigarettes in grass and leaves, too.

Falls rank high as the cause of home injuries and often prove fatal for persons over 65. Miss Meyer suggests keeping steps, walk and porches in good repair at all times. Provide a sturdy handrail for all steps and be careful that snow and ice are removed in the wintertime. As inside the house, toys and trash on the ground can be a menace. For night time, rig up good lights on driveway, walks, steps and porches. Such a light should be controlled by switches in both house and garage, she suggested.

New Collection Of Maps Is Available

Lansing — The conservation department's new edition of county maps, with special features of interest to hunters and anglers, now is available to the public.

Containing individual maps of all 83 counties, the revised book shows new state game and recreation area land, forest additions, public fishing sites, trails, airplane landing fields and many other features of prime interest to the recreation seeker.

Complete books are offered at cost by the department's lands division here. There is no charge for reasonable requests of individual county maps.

PAY MORE? WHAT FOR?

Before this year, if you wanted a big-car ride ... a high-compression engine ... a complete choice of interior-exterior appointments ... or a curved one-piece windshield and a car-wide rear window, you had to pay hundreds of dollars more. Now FORD offers all these features at no extra cost. It's the one fine car in the low-price field. Take 10 minutes and "Test Drive" a Ford. You'll agree ... you can pay more but you can't buy better.

School Bus Drivers Play Major Role

friend. Besides being a good driver he must have good judgement, be kind, thoughtful and, above all understanding.

In other words, he's a pretty special person and if you don't think so, ask his passengers.

The drivers are selected by Supt. of Schools Roy G. Bennett and the Board of Education after consideration has been given to their qualifications for driving and their ability to handle children. They must attend special bus drivers workshops annually where they receive special instructions in new traffic regulations and other information pretaining to their jobs.

The history of Charlevoix's school buses, which are now a part of the community's everyday life, goes back more than 20 years, when the first children were transported from the immediate area after the ward schools were closed following the completion of the central elementary school. The first bus was an old jitney with seats along the sides. It was owned by the late Edward O'Niell, who operated a taxi service here for many years and was driven by Lawrence Supernaw and Lynn Sheldon.

About 1932 the school district leased a bus from the late H. R. Fowler, who had at one time operated a bus line between Charlevoix and Petoskey.

It wasn't until 1935 that the Charlevoix school district purchased its first bus, a second-hand Model A Ford, from the East Jordan school system. Harry Powers was the first driver.

In 1937 the first new bus was purchased and as the Charlevoix school district grew, more buses were added to the fleet, which now numbers seven.

Charlevoix's buses, like most school buses, have been painted red, white and blue until a recent ruling went into effect making it compulsory for all buses, as they are repainted or replaced, to be chrome yellow because they are more easily visible in stormy weather as well as at dusk or at night.

Regardless of their color, however, the buses still carry the legend "Charlevoix the Beautiful" wherever they go, whether it is along their regular routes or on a trip to anther section of the state.

present railroad was built; helped dredge what is now the upper channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix when the flow of water was re-routed from its former course now known as Old River to the present waterway so boats could navigate between the two lakes; when the swing bridge, which was replaced in 1941 by Memorial Bridge, was built in 1900-01, he had the contract for hauling the steel parts from the railroad cars to Pine River where the bridge was assembled and placed over the river.

As a young man he worked as a lumberjack during the winter months and often related the story of the burning of the passenger ship, the Champlain, off Smithson's lumber camp near Norwood in June, 1884. He and several others rowed out to the scene and helped save several survivors in one of the lake's most tragic fires.

He operated a livery business here from 1885 until 1906 when he moved to a farm in Hayes township on the north side of Lake Charlevoix at Oyster Bay, which he had purchased ten years before from the late Martha Ayers. He liked to tell how he purchased the farm on a land contract and paid for it with $800 in gold fifty cent pieces. He farmed until 1927 and then went into the tourist business which he operated until 1947.

In recent years he had spent the winter months in town with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Burns.

His wife, the former Ida Whitmoyer whom he married Jan. 1, 1887, preceded him in death June 29, 1945. A daughter, Sylvia, died in childhood.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Gail Jones, Dearborn; three sons, George of Grand Junction, Robert of Flat Rock and Leonard of this city; an adopted son, John of Romeo; a grand-daughter, Mrs. Frank Behan, of Petoskey who was reared in their home; 13 other grandchildren; three great-grandchildren and a brother, Nat of Zephyrhills, Fla.

Executives Of Girl Scouts Hear How To Teach Conservation

Thirty Girl Scout executives from throughout Michigan gathered at Camp Charlevoix Saturday for a one-day Conservation Institute.

The conference, arranged through the cooperation of the Michigan Conservation Department emphasized the theme "How to teach conservation out of doors". Wilbur T. Bull, head of the education division of the department and an authority on snakes, defined conservation as the wise use of natural resources and he and his assistants portrayed in their lectures and slides how to make conservation work today. With him were Ford Kellum, district superintendent of game, Stanley Leivense, district superintendent of fisheries, and Fred Haskins, district superintendent of forests, who presented lectures and slides pertaining to the topic they knew best.

Field trips, headed by the lecturers, were enjoyed during the afternoon and provided an opportunity to apply the knowledge of conservation learned from the morning lectures.

During the evening the conservation film "The Web of Life" was shown and Miss Shirley Brehm, formerly with the education division of the conservation department and now a Girl Scout executive in Lansing, talked on ways of presenting conservation to Girl Scout leaders and troop members.

Because of the success of the conference, which was arranged by Mrs. Charles Bleha, Charlevoix Council training program chairman, it was decided to make the conservation institute an anual event at Camp Charlevoix.

Kiwanis Hears Of Need For Support Of Local Scouting

The future of Boy Scouting in Charlevoix was discussed by Slim Rehms of the Scenic Trail Council at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club, local sponsors of the Scouts.

Charlevoix's Scouts are in dire need of a scout master and cub scout master, and ways of getting parents interested in the movement were discussed. It was decided by H. E. Paddock and Leonard Burns of the Kiwanis Scout committee to call a meeting of parents at a later date in an effort to keep the Scouts active in Charlevoix.

A question and answers game was presented by Herbert Schofield of the activities committee to close the meeting.

Two visitors; Robert Burns of Flat Rock, and Aody Bloetscher of Detroit were present for the meeting.

Special Sprays For Better Game Habitat

Houghton Leke—Completion of test spraying with special herbicides, to create better game habitat on a 600-acre experimental plot near Grayling, is reported by the state's Houghton Lake wildlife experiment station.

Aided by the Dow Chemical company and the American Association of Aerial Applicators, conservation department game men are trying to find efficient methods of "opening" cover to produce good sharp-tailed grouse habitat. Birds were introduced into the Grayling area several years ago and since have spread near this 600-acre plot.

Non-toxic to game, the chemicals will kill broad-leaved shrubs and trees such as aspen, oak and maple. Few small pine present which are less vulnerable to herbicides, should survive and make better growth once the large trees are removed.

Experiment is being made on state land, typical of much in northern Michigan, which now ports only low quality timber but could be profitably managed for game. Sharp - tailed grouse especially, require semi-open brush.

Results of this method of opening forest land to produce better grouse habitat will be compared with controlled burning studies in progress the last several years. Deer and other wildlife benefit from such openings as will.

Another County May Have Extra Season On Bear

Lansing — A third northern county, Montmorency, may have a special bear season October 15-November 5.

Request of the Montmorency county board of supervisors will be considered by the state conservation commission at its October 9-10 meeting at Higgins Lake.

Commission previously approved a special hunt for Otsego county on mentioned dates. It authorized the conservation department director to either grant Gogebic county the same special season or remove all protection on bear in that county, depending on the preference of the county board of supervisors.

Thirty-two other northern counties are closed to bear shooting except during the general and archery bear seasons, November 15-30 and October 1- November 5 respectively. There is no closed season in all other counties.

Give Precautions For Bringing Back Canadian Big Game

Lansing — Michigan big game hunters returning from Canada this fall with choice trophies may run into an unbending customs barrier unless certain precautions are observed.

The U. S. clamped strict embargoes o meat imports when hoof and mouth disease was discovered in Canadian cattle.

The embargoes extend to all wild ruminants, including moose, deer, elk, caribou, mountain goats and mountain sheep.

Trophies from these animals, horns, antlers and hooves, may be imported only if inspection shows them clean, thoroughly dried and free from pieces of undried hide, flesh or sinew.

Hides and skins may be imported if hard-dried. Otherwise they must be shipped from the port of entry to an approved processing plant for disinfection.

Trophies already treated or mounted by taxidermy can be admitted to the U. S. without restriction, according to the department of agriculture.

Fifteen pounds of completely boned and thoroughly cooked meat from any of these animals may be imported if inspection shows them acceptable.

No prohibitions have been enforced against imports of bears, rabbits or other non-ruminants, geese or ducks.

Give Rules For Bringing Back Canadian Birds

Lensing — Migratory bird hunters going to Canada for fall hunting should note that game birds brought or shipped from Canada must have head, head plumage and feet attached, the conservation department warns.

In addition, birds shipped here from Canada must be accompanied by tags or permits if required by provincial or Dominion law.

United States import limitations on numbers of birds include: ducks, 10; American and red-breasted mergansers, no limit; Scoters, eider or old-squaw ducks, 14; geese, except Ross', six in any combination not exceeding either three Canada geese or three white-fronted geese or a mixed bag of three of these species; brant, three; coot, 15; woodcock, eight; band-tailed pigeons, six; doves, mourning and white-winged, 10; rails and gallinules except sora, 15; sora, 25.

Easter and Hilaria

Hilaria, the festival of the Roman people celebrated March 25, indicated the rebirth of nature after the long winter. Some believe the Christian celebration of Easter has some connection with Hilaria.

Mrs. Nellie Corlett Takes First Plane Trip At Age Of 90

Mrs. Nellie Corlett, who celebrated her ninetieth birthday anniversary last spring, left Saturday via plane from Pellston for a trip to Boise, Ida. It was her first plane trip.

She was accompanied by her son, Maynard Corlett of Boise, who had been in Chicago on business and came here to take his mother west with him.

Mrs. Corlett has made her home here with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Wood.

Relatives from various northern Michigan cities were at the airport in Pellston Saturday afternoon to wish Mrs. Corlett 'Bon Voyage'. She plans to remain indefinitely in the west with her son and two daughters.

Mrs. Corlett called her daughter, Mrs. Wood, Sunday morning to inform her she had arrived safely and that she had enjoyed every minute of the trip. In fact, she refused to sleep because, as she said, everything was so beautiful she didn't want to miss anything.

Gives Rules To Avoid Farm Fire Losses

Smoking and gasoline, lightning and electricity and overheated stoves and haymows cause many thousands of dollars of Michigan farm fire losses, cautions Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

The real villian in farm fires, however, according to the agent, is negligence on the part of farmers.

Careful checking against things that will burn coming in contact with things that set fires will pay off all year long, advises the agent on the eve of Fire Prevention Week, October 5 through 11.

Hotels have rules against smoking in bed and it's good advice on the farm too, according to Rebman. Every day 10 people die in fires and many of them are on farms.

Gasoline, used in tractors and many other ways around farms, can be a wonderful friend of the farmer but also a great enemy if not stored properly, explains the county agent. Lightning rods are not put on homes for decorations, he continues, but if they are not put up right, are not built right, are not grounded against a bolt from the blue, they aren't even good decorations.

The farmer who plugs one appliance and piece of electric equipment after another on to the same circuit is looking for trouble greater than a blown fuse, according to Rebman. Electricity must be handled properly or it enslaves its master and burns his home and barn, he warns. Defective fire-pots or defective chimneys are good invitations also to a disastrous fire and the agent urges farmers to check up now for winter.

Hay in the barn may not be as cool as it looks and if a farmer has a friend with a hay prod thermometer, take its temperature and don't wait for a case of spontaneous combustion.

Fisherman Makes An Unusual Catch

Monroe—An aged fisherman at Sterling state park was reeling in his line when he hooked a really big one, reports conservation department park manager John Cahill.

A 20-minute battle ensued, with the man's catch holding its own until the fight became a real battle of brawn. Then, slowly, the catch began to give ground.

Quite a crowd had gathered by this time. One man stood ready with a landing net. And when the catch got close enough to shore, two others grabbed the line to help pull it in.

Finally the catch broke surface—a park picnic table, thrown there by park vandals months before.

S. flower quilt, handmade. If we've left anyone out, please forgive us for your cooperation was appreciated.

Other Ramblers coming in on the play were Merle Karlskin (33) center, halfback Gary Newville (21), and several unidentified players.

Rayder gridmen in on the play were halfback Joe McDermott (25) and Stan Whitley (tackle) 43.

Rayders Open Season In Impressive Style

Coach Del Terrill's Charlevoix Rayders opened their 1952 football season by racking up a 13-0 win over the Boyne Ramblers, a team they played to a 0-0 tie last season.

Despite the fact that it was the Rayders first game against a team which already had one victory to its credit, the local eleven performed like veterans. The Charlevoix defense was outstanding all the way and their offense attack against a much bigger and heavier team was far superior to any displayed last season. With each player, newcomers and lettermen alike, giving a fine account of himself at all times it is almost impossible to name an outstanding player.

From the time right tackle Bill Mosier kicked off to the Ramblers after Charlevoix won the toss, the Rayders looked good.

Boyne was forced to kick after failing to make downs following the initial kickoff and the Rayders worked the ball back to Boyne's 12-yard line on a series of line plays by halfbacks Joe McDermott and Paul Johnson and a pass from quarterback Bill Bennett to right end Dean Davenport. A pass from Bennett on the 12-yard line to left end Jack Denemy on the goal line gave the Rayders their first touchdown of the 1952 season. The kick by center Carl Foster was not good.

Charlevoix kicked off, Boyne City failed to gain ground and was forced to kick and the quarter ended with Charlevoix in possession of the ball.

The Rayders were again on the march when Boyne quarterback Denny Pratt intercepted a Rayder pass on his own eight yard line. Boyne City kicked after failing to make a first down and McDermott took the kick on Boyne's 40 yard line. Charlevoix worked the ball back into scoring position and fullback Jim Lewis went over from the one-yard line but the play was called back because of a Charlevoix offside. Boyne City broke up a pass from Bennett to Davenport and another Rayder threat was halted as the half ended 6-0.

Boyne fumbled on the Rayder 22 yard line shortly after taking the kickoff and Charlevoix recovered. Two plays later Charlevoix fumbled on the 20-yard line with Boyne City recovering. The Ramblers failed to capitalize on the break, however, and kicked to the Rayder 49 yard line. The quarter ended with the ball on Boyne's 41½ yard line.

Charlevoix marched down the field and was threatening again when Pratt broke up a pass into the end zone and Boyne City won possession of the ball on the 11-yard line after the Rayders had failed to make a first down. Boyne City worked the ball up the field for their first down of the game when McDermott intercepted a Boyne pass on the 25 yard line. The Rayders returned the ball to the five yard line where halfback Paul Johnson carried it over for a second touchdown. Bennett passed to Denemy for the extra point after Boyne City was offside on a kick which was not good and the game ended.

Charlevoix was in command of the game all the way as shown by the fact that they made 13 first down to one for Boyne City and were forced to kick only once. No major penallies were called on either team during the game although both teams lost yardage on offside penalties.

In Charlevoix's starting line-up were ends Davenport and Denemy, guards, Fred Jolliffe and Everett Pease, tackles Mosier and Stan Whitley, captain for the game, center Larry Burns, fullback Bob Jolliffe, who injured his ankle during the game, quarterback Bennett, halfbacks McDermott and Johnson.

Others who played were fullback Lewis who also has an injured ankle, quarterback Ray Sanford, tackle Jack Cross, center Foster, end Don Smith, guard Tom Erber, line backer Gene Towsley and halfback Jerry Albright.

Fullback Bob Jolliffe will be out of the Rayder line-up for the next ten days after x-rays taken Monday at the Charlevoiz hospital showed a chipped bone in his right ankle, Coach Terrill has announced. He received the injury while playing against Boyne City Friday.

This Week With Class "C" Teams

Northern Michigan Class C league play will hit its stride this week as all teams, with games behind them, settle down to serious play.

The top game of the week will be the Charlevoix-East Jordan meeting scheduled for Wednesday afternoon.

Other games this week, all scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday, will find Pellston playing at Gaylord; Harbor Springs traveling to Mancelona and Boyne City meeting Class B Cheboygan on the latter's field.

The game between the defending champions, East Jordan, and Charlevoix will be a test of strength for both teams. Charlevoix showed some power, particularly on defense, against Boyne City while East Jordan has two lop-sided victories racked up against Traverse City St. Francis anl Pellston.

With 14 straight wins behind them, East Jordan is going to be in there fighting to retain their record while Charlevoix will be equally as determined to break it.

The team than can capitalize on the breaks will have the upper hand if the game is played in fair weather but if East Jordan's clay-covered field is wet, anything can happen. East Jordan defeated the Rayders by a 6-0 score in '51.

Night football will be initiated at Gaylord this week-end with the Blue Devils hosting

Class C Play Gets Underway, Follows Predicted Pattern

Northern Michigan Class C football fans got their first look Friday at the league teams as six of the seven teams met in conference games.

Games went pretty much as predicted as East Jordan romped over Pellston 33-7; Gaylord downed Harbor Springs 19-6; Charlevoix defeated Boyne City 13-0 and Mancelona played Grayling to a 12-12 tie in a non-league meeting.

At Pellston East Jordan scored most of their five touchdowns around end as the Pellston line tightened up but failed to make allowances for end plays. Quarterback Keith Evans scored from inside the 10 yard line after East Jordan had intercepted a Pellston pass on the 40 yard line and worked it down within scoring distance. Fullback Bob Romback ran the extra point across. The same play added another touchdown by Evans in the second period with end Jim Wiessler carrying the ball for the point after touchdown. The half ended 14-0.

In the third period Ray Gee halfback, went over from the five yard line and Romback again carried the, hall for the extra point and later in the period Evans went around end for another six points.

Gee scored again on a line play in the last period but failed to make the extra point.

The Hornets only tally came late in the game when quarterback Bob Rudy tossed a pass from his own 40 yd. line to end Marshall Hampton who took it on East Jordan's 40 and romped the distance for a score. Halfback Glenn Aurand scored the extra point on an off-tackle play.

Gaylord 19-Harbor Springs 6

The visiting Gaylord eleven scored all three touchdowns in the first quarter before Harbor Springs tightened its defense and held the Blue Devils on the one-yard line at two points later in the game.

Halfback Gene Fleming, on a reverse play from the 30 yard line scored the first touchdown and minutes later ran 75 yards on a punt return for tho second touchdown. Quarterback Bud Jones intercepted a pass on Harbor Springs' 28 yard line to make it 18 points and added another as he booted the ball between the uprights. He had failed to convert the extra point following the first two tallies.

Harbor Springs only touchdown came in the last quarter when quarterback Chuck Taylor on the 25 yard line passed to right end Frank Granstra on the 15 yard

Season Opened On Most Game

Hunters in the northern lower peninsula took to the woods Wednesday as the season for small game opened two weeks earlier than last year.

It will be open season on cottontail rabbits, snowshoe hares and raccoons as well as ruffed grouse, more commonly known as partridge, pheasant, ducks and other birds.

In general these openings herald a season that will provide more opportunities for Michigan hunters. Greater hunter pressure is expected on all species because of longer seasons, more advantageous opening dates and peak game crops on many species.

Through the northern lower peninsula cottontail and snowshoe season runs an extra 44 days, the season to open Oct. 1 and close March 1.

Raccoons are expected to provide considerable sport in the northern lower peninsula because of the October 1 opening, allowing a full month earlier, better weather for coon hunting.

The lower peninsula woodchuck season will be longer by 14 days in the north portion running October 1-January 1. Michigan hunters place little emphasis on chucks but the conservation department expects a total fill somewhat higher than last year.

A record-topping one million ruffed grouse may be taken during the season that will get started in the upper and northern lower peninsulas October 1.

Grouse are holding their population peak this year and a season twice as long as last year faces hunters. Game specialists say the longer season and heavy crop will draw more hunters into the grouse country.

Somewhat relaxed regulations on sharp-tail grouse and priarie chickens also means a higher kill of these species. Six counties are open in the northern lower peninsula; only four were open last year. The northern lower peninsula season runs October 1-22, same length but different dates from last year.

A wider distribution of hunting pressure is expected in the upper and northern lower peninsulas this year because of the simultaneous opening date. Last year hunters concentrated in the upper peninsula which opened October 1, before moving south to the October 15 lower peninsula opening.

But even if hunters do take a record bag of grouse this year, the available surplus will not be fully harvested.

Further information is available in the rule book issued with hunting licenses.

Pellston in a game which should add another win to Gaylord's victory column. Pellston with little to offer on offense may hold the big Gaylord line for a while but the Blue Devils can be expected to win by at least three touchdowns.

If scores mean anything this early in the season, the Mancelona-Harbor Springs game should be close. Mancelona played Grayling to a 12-12 tie after Gaylord had defeated the Vikings 19-0. In turn Gaylord defeated Harbor Springs 19-6.

Both teams depend a great deal on aerial offensives and if both are at full strength it should be a close game.

Boyne City surprised everyone against Charlevoix last week by their lack of both offensive and defensive strength despite their bigness. Coach Mike Hoben, back after a year in Korea with the Marine Corps, and his Chiefs spearheaded by speedy Tom McGinn should have little trouble with the Ramblers.

line. Granstra then went 15 yards for the touchdown. The kick for the extra point hit the crossbar and bounced back.

Mancelona 12- Grayling 12

Halfbeak Bill Dalton scored Mancelona's first touchdown after taking a shovel pass from quarterback Dick Derrer on the ten yard line. Derrer's kick for the extra point was blocked.

Grayling came back in the second period to score from the 15 yard line on a run by Malonen. The kick for extra point was wide.

A pass from Derrer on his own 48 yard line to end Andy Patrick on the two yard line set the scene for the next touchdown with Derrer going over from the two yard line on a quarterback sneak. The pass for the extra point was incomplete.

Parkinson scored from the 25 yard line on an end run to end the game. Earl LeDere blocked the kick for the extra point.

Junior Sportsmen Elect Officers At Their First Meeting

Kit Carson was named president of the group; Guy Swanson, vice president and Jack Stebe, secretary.

Projects for the next meeting will be refinishing of gun stocks

Leo Berg Farm Is Now Stocked With Herefords

A shipment of more than 100 white-face Herefords arrived here recently from Missouri for Leo Berg of Hayes township.

The stock, numbering 50 cows and an equal numbers of calves and one registered bull, will be added to a small herd of 15 registered Herefords already owned by Mr. Berg.

The cattle, a good grade of commercial stock, arrived via railroad cattle car from Salem, Mo., and were enroute six days. They were removed from the cars to stock--pens at various points along the route.

Mr. Berg plans to select the best of the herd when they are older for breeder stock and market the others for beef stock.

After examination following their arrival, the herd was placed out on range on one of Mr. Berg's farms in Hayes township. When the weather gets more severe the herd will be fed under cover and will be placed where they can have shelter if they want it. However, this type of stock seems to do hetter if left on range all year except when the snow is very deep. Besides feeding on the range, they are fed grain, hay and silage.

The Berg herd is one of two in the immediate area. The other is owned by Cmdr. E. K. Shanahan of the Birchwood Ranch.

Insects-Disease Damage Small Fruits

Ed Rebman, county agent, on the left, Loyal Barber and Ed Andrews, plant pathologist from Michigan State College, looking at some raspberry leaves.

Insects and diseases take a heavy toll of small fruits in Charlevoix county Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent said today. One such example is a field of raspberry plants at the Roscoe Barber farm located on the Peninsula between East Jordan and Ironton. This plot has 1,000 plants of the Milton variety. Part of this plantation is two years old and part of it is three years old.

About three weeks ago Mr. Barber noticed that plants were losing their leaves in one edge of the field. Within one week about one-half of the plantation had lost their leaves or were losing them. At that time, Ed Rebman, plant pathologist from Michigan State College and the county agent made an inspection of the plantation.

Fortunately there was no disease in this young plantation. As near as could be determined the trouble was caused by tiny little mites that were so small that a magnifying glass had to be used to see them. Control for these mites this year at this time would not do too much good but the plantation must be watched during next spring.

There are several other diseases and insects that bother raspberries is this area. Probably the most important insect is the cane borer. Growers at harvest time will notice on the young shoots about 4 or 5 inches from the tip and a row of dots around the shoot. The adult of the cane borer has laid her egg at that place and has punctured the cane. Control for this insect is tough. The most successful method is to practice sanitation in the planting. All old canes and those that have borers on them should be cut out, removed and burned.

Probably the disease that causes the most trouble with raspberries is Anthracnose. It is generally found in almost all plantations but when it becomes very prevalent it can cause considerable damage. This disease is recognized by white slightly sunken spots with a red ring on the cane. Sanitation again plays an important part in the control. Dormant spraying in the spring with a dormant spray such as lime sulfur or DN compound will control anthracnose.

Anyone interested in setting out a raspberries plantation should first carefully locate the site. It should be away from wild raspberries. The soil should be good, well drained loam. Plants should be obtained from an inspected nursery. Do not get your plants from your neighbor, and above all, Rebman reminds, all growers should practice sanitation in their plantation.

Soils Need Proper Diet To Give The Highest Production

Soils need a proper diet just as animals do if they are to be top producers and dollar earners.

Properly-fed soils save both in the short and long runs, farmers are being reminded by Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. The only way to take the guessing out of the soil ration is by soil testing, he noted adding that now is the time to do it.

Late summer is the time for soil testing because sampling is easier and the fertilization program can be planned on time. Lime can be applied to sod fields as needed and worked into the soil before spring seeding of legumes.

One Michigan farmer saved $100 in lime costs by tests that showed that particular plot needed no liming to sweeten the soil. In some series of tests, four out of five samples showed no lime needed, and the farmers could put the money they planned to spend on lime into fertilizer. Soils need phosphorus, potash, ntirogen and other things besides lime, Rebman stresses and any farmer in doubt should have soil tested before wasting money.

The county agent is available to guide farmers in their testing and fertilizing problems. When a major problem arises, he can call on specialists from Michigan State College.

Farms Should Provide Cover For Equipment

Much of the horse power found on the farms today is under the hood of a tractor or truck rather than four feet in the form of draft horses, Ed Rebman, county agent said today. Few people exposed their work animals to the weather throughout the year. Almost every farm provided some type of housing for their power units in past years, and it is important today to still provide protection for your power units.

A gasoline engine that is protected from the elements will give longer and more dependable service through the span of use. The little things that can go wrong with an engine that cause delay in starting and irritation to the operator can many times be eliminated when proper protection is afforded a gas engine.

Housing in the form of a large tarpaulin covering the entire unit may afford the same protection as a machine shed. However, it is much easier to run the tractor in a machine shed than to get a tarpaulin and cover it every time we crawl off the tractor.

Protection of other farm implements shows good management practice. An all metal machine may give quite long life even though it is exposed to the elements if the metal is treated with some type of rust preventative such as oil or paint.

However, machines that have parts such as rubber belts, wooden shafts, flexible couplings, exposed bearing, canvas aprons and rather fine adjustments all need protection or the life of the machine is bound to be shortened. Such parts that deteriorate rapidly can be removed from the machine and housed separately. However, many times this is a time-consuming operation. Even a tarpaulin cannot protect some of the less durable parts

Several studies have been made during the past years to show the economic value of housing for farm equipment. Where protection was given to parts of the machines that will deteriorate rapidly the studies have shown that housing has not afforded any great economical advantage in the length of the machine life or the wear from moving parts. It is much easier and much simpler to put machines under a roof than to depend on removing the less durable parts. Machinery that has been housed generally gives less trouble in field operation and requires less expense for maintenance.

The Farm Bureau is co-operating with the Barnard Grange in having Ed Rebman show his soil conservation pictures Oct. 10 at the Grange hall.

The October meeting of the Farm Bureau will be at the John Rosquist home. The date will be announced later.

Dairymen Should Breed Cows For Fall Freshening

There are several advantages to the dairymen which should encourage the practice of breeding cows for fall freshening, Ed Rebman county agent, said today. A summary of DHIA records of cows in Michigan during 1951 showed those cows freshening during September, October, and November produced more milk and butterfat than cows freshening during other months of the year. The income over feed cost was $232 per cow for those freshening during these fall months as compared to $212 per cow for those freshening during March, April and May.

The feed cost was slightly higher for cows freshening in the fall than those in the spring but the increase in production and higher price for milk and butterfat still provided about $20 more per cow in favor of fall freshening.

Cows freshening during the fall months make possible a more even distribution of labor throughout the year. During the late fall, winter, and early spring there is more time to spend with the dairy herd that will help to obtain maximum production. Calves born in the fall will usually make better growth since they are in the barn for the first six or eight months when they will receive better care and then be of such age and size by the following spring that they will be able to make good use of pasture.

Fall freshening is of particular importance to those dairymen selling whole milk for most fluid milk markets since these are the months in which milk base is established.

It is not always easy to breed cows so they will freshen during the fall months. However, a greater percentage of cows would freshen in the fall if the herd was managed with this goal in mind.

Mrs. Davis Is Re-Elected As Polio Chairman

Mrs. Walter Davis of East Jordan, was re-elected chairman of the Charlevoix county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis at the annual meeting of the organization at the K. P. hall in Charlevoix, Sept. 30.

Mrs. Thomas Carey of Charlevoix was named vice chairman, Henry Lee of Boyne City, secretary, and Gregory Boswell of East Jordan, treasurer.

Jon Dahli of Marquette, a representative of the National Foundation, attended the meeting and presented a check for $1,700 to Mrs. Davis. Earlier in the year Charlevoix county received a grant of $2,750. The check presented Tuesday brought to $4,450 the amount the county has received from the National Foundation to aid in the payment of medical expenses and hospital bills for county patients who are hospitalized at various Institutions. The total expenditures for these expenses from January 1 until Sept. 30 was $4,940.18.

The report also showed that on Dec. 31, 1951, the chapter had $489.82 on hand. After realizing $2,493.44 as its portion of the 1952 drive and receiving $2,750 from the National Foundation, the chapter now has on hand, after paying expenses of $4,940.18 and chapter expenses of $45.00, a total of $748.08.

Charlevoix county now has 15 cases which are receiving care.

The reports also revealed that Charlevoix county ranked in tenth place in the state drive with only 37 cents per capita. Otsego county was first with 80 cents per capita. In 1947 Charlevoix county rated second in the state.

Retires From Island Practice

Dr. and Mrs. Russell E. Palmer pictured in their Petoskey avenue home here where they will be living following a Mexican vacation trip.

Dr. Russell E. Palmer, who has administered to the ills of the people of Beaver Island for nearly 29 years, has resigned from the Michigan Department of Health as island doctor.

With his charming wife he arrived here last week to spend several weeks at their Petoskey avenue home before leaving for what the doctor refers to as his first vacation, a trip to Mexico where they plan to spend the winter.

Dr. Palmer wants it understood that he is not retiring from the medical profession.

His retirement as the only doctor on the island, located 35 miles northwest of here in Lake Michigan, has left the more than 250 year 'round residents without a doctor, for the Michigan Department of Health has been unable to find a replacement for him.

The position is still open for anyone interested in a private practice of medicine with a state subsidy which at the present time is between $5,500 and $6,500. He may also collect any fees he can above the salary paid by the state of Michigan.

How did Dr. Palmer happen to go to the island nearly 30 years ago? A graduate of the University of Toronto in 1920, he had completed an internship at a Detroit hospital and was writing his state board examination when he heard about the opening for a doctor on Beaver Island, which had been without the services of a medical man for seven years.

He accepted the position and arrived at Beaver Island via boat from Charlevoix as winter was setting in, Dec. 17, 1923.

He says now that he might not have accepted the position had he realized where the island group was located and the conditions there but once he was on the island there was

Three County Chest X-Ray Survey Will Start October 28

A three county chest x-ray survey will be launched October 28 when a Michigan Department of Health X-ray unit begins a tour of Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties, according to an announcement made this week.

With a goal of giving free chest X-rays to all adults, including students 15 years of age and older, Dr. A. F. Litzenburger, district health department director, said the check-up campaign will last in the three-county area through November 25.

In a planning meeting at Charlevoix on September 25, members of the area health unit staff met with a Michigan Tuberculosis Association representative to lay plans for making maximum use of the Michigan Department of Health X-ray bus.

Dr. Litzenburger expressed hope that a large number of older adults will take advantage of the X-ray opportunity. Pointing out that tuberculosis is spread from the sick to the healthy, the health unit director said more and more tuberculosis is now centered in older age groups, particularly men over 40.

"While everyone 15 years of age and older should have an annual chest X-ray for protection from unsuspected tuberculosis, parents and grandparents are urged to be X-rayed every year to protect children as well as themselves from the unknown spread of TB germs," Dr. Litzenburger declared.

He added that the X-ray process will require no disrobing and will take only a few minutes. Reports on possible abnormal conditions will be confidential to the individual and his family physician.

"The success of the one-day campaign to fill the budget will depend entirely on the contributors," Mr. Supernaw said. "The workers in each ward and township will find their task much easier if you will have your contribution ready for the solicitor, or if you are to be away from home, make some arrangement with your ward or township captain so a worker need not call more than once."

The campaign will open with a kick-off breakfast at the high school caeteria at 9:30 a.m. Friday, Oct. 17, for the Community Chest committee, ward and township captains and all workers.

Michigan Mirror

by Gene Alleman

BATTLE LINES are being drawn over who is to control the Michigan Legislature . . . CIO labor leaders of four counties or the citizens of Michigan in 84 counties.

And if you don't think the CIO is wheeling big guns into the fight, look at the battle-plans the labor bosses have charted in Muskegon County alone.

They've earmarked $9,000 to be spent in that county . . . In fact, mainly in only 17 precints within the cities of Muskegon and Muskegon Heights.

In as detailed plans as a general has on D-minus-1, the CIO has drawn up its field stragtegy.

They'll spend $2,400 for workers in those 17 precincts in the final three days of registration for the general election. On election day they'll hire seven crews to distribute campaign literature, with supervisors getting $16 per day and boys hired at $5 a day.

On election day they'll hire 180 field workers for $2,880 to haul voters to the polls and will spend over $300 just to pass out campaign literature.

HERE'S HOW the labor bosses plan to take over.

In November 4, Michigan voters will choose between two amendments setting up a new system for allocating the seats in the State Legislature.

Amendment No. 2 is sponsored by the Michigan CIO. Governor G. Mennen Williams has given it his blessing: the Democratic Party put it into their state platform.

Amendment No. 3, sponsored by business, professional and farm interests, has the endorsement of Republican nominee Fred M. Alger Jr. and Republican legislators.

The CIO amendment would make population the key to the whole legislature.

Reapportionment Plan No. 3 would follow the system of the United States Constitution whereby geographic areas as well as population assures against domination of our federal legislators by the sheer weight of population.

CIO LABOR strategy in backing Proposal No. 2 is crystal clear.

A few populous counties would be able to dominate the Legislature by sending a majority of senators and representatives to Lansing. Four counties . . . just four . . . would be able to control Michigan

They're Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Genesee. All have heavy concentrations of CIO membership. Add Kent, with its big Grand Rapids industries, and Muskegon and perhaps Saginaw and the labor bosses have plenty of insurance.

Gov. Williams is sympathetic to the CIO to put it mildly. He sees the labor dominated Legislature as a perfect solution to the impasse that arose when the GOP Legislature consistently opposed his corporation profits tax.

The CIO thinks the plan is swell. They'd like to have the lawmaking body sit up to their whistle.

The CIO's Walter Reuther demonstrated his power this Summer when he turned down Alben Barkley as a presidential possibility and approved the draft that made Adlai Stevenson the Democratic standard boarer.

He wouldn't be human if he didn't savor the taste of such power in national circles; he wouldn't be human if it didn't irk him to see his control of the governor go for naught because he can't control the Legislature the same way.

THE REPUBLICAN position, as outlined by Alger, is: "The Legislature should function for all citizens, all sections . . . not for any special class or area."

Any plan which would make 79 of Michigan's counties controlled by organized minority groups in four counties just couldn't give the state a Legislature that could equably represent the best interests of Michigan as a whole.

Michigan's rural counties would be stepchildren of the auto workers under Plan 2. So it's natural that the Michigan Farm Bureau should get into the fight. And it's a plenty hard fight facing out-state Michigan.

According to the Constitution, the seats of the House and Senate must be reapportioned every 10 years. That has to happen in 1953.

There must be some revision; everyone agrees to that.

The traditional solution of voting no to a puzzling amendment would be a mighty bad way out of the present situation.

The out-state voters must vote NO on Proposal 2 and YES on Proposal 3 to protect himself from UAW-CIO domination and assure reapportionment on a basis accepted as equitable through all Michigan's history.

BECAUSE it is such a complicated issue, backers of Plan No. 3 will hit on a few major points such as:

The whole upper peninsula and four lower peninsula counties would have only two Senators;

Fifteen areas will be "gerrymandered": that is, their boundaries will waver and wobble all over the map to make labor unions dominate each voting area;

The plan would destroy the basic American principle that the lower house should be set up to represent population and the upper house to represent areas;

By giving labor the majority voice in the Legislature, union bosses could re-write the Constitution to suit themselves. Delegates to a Constitutional convention which the Legislature could call, would be selected on the same basis as State Senators are . . . again with the majority under union domination.

REMEMBER that white stuff which comes out of the sky when it gets cold . . . It's called snow, in case you've forgotten . . . Well, it arrived Sunday . . . just flurries of it but too early . . . What with the leaves still green despite the fact that they're drying out right on the trees, the snow looked kinda out of place . . . The temperature was only around 40 degrees but with a wind of 25 miles or so out of the northwest it seemed like zero . . Could it be we're all spoiled by the heavenly summer we had . .

HERE'S A gesture which we think deserves a mention . . . Usually when one is hospitalized he has a feeling of losing contact with the 'outside world' but at the Charlevoix Hospital it's different . . . A downstate newspaper is delivered daily to the hospital for the pleasure of the patients through the courtesy of Brown Motors and, if we might mention a courtesy which started quite some time ago, several copies of the Charlevoix Courier are delivered weekly . . . A recent patient at the hospital, Mrs. Abe VerWys, contends that it's one of the nicest things she's heard of and that it rates a 'say-so' . . .

COULDN'T help wonder Saturday as we listened to the Michigan-Standford game (about which we almost shed tears, we might add) if the Ted Fosters and the Faulkners were at the game . . . And which rooting section they were in . . . Both live at Palo Alto, you know . . . Dr. Faulkner is on the faculty at Standford . . .

ONCE UPON a time, not too long ago, we said we'd like to see the day when the names of two Charlevoix boys, namely Charles Fairbanks and Jim Bowman, would appear in the line-ups of Michigan State and Michigan respectively . . . Jim Bowman, remembering that, sent a copy of the program from the M.S.C.- U. of M. football game and sure 'nuff right there in print . . . were the names of the boys . . . No. 82 and No. 52 respectively . . . Since that has come to pass we'd like to make another statement . . . We'll look forward now to the day when the pair will face each other in the line-ups in that traditional battle of the gridiron . . . Lots of luck, fellas, that will be a proud day for Charlevoix . . .

CHARLEVOIX'S done it again . . . received mention in a national magazine as the summer home of the family of presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson . . This time it's in the Oct. 11 issue of Collier's in a story on Gov. Stevenson's sister, entitled "Adlai's Lady" . . . In writing the story the author tells of the Stevenson home in Bloomington and describes Mrs. Ives room . . . "On its wall hang water colors of Charlevoix, the Michigan resort where the Stevensons spent their summers" . . . The water colors were done by Mrs. Dean Atcheson's mother, Jane Stanley, who was a close friend of Gov. Stevenson's and Mrs. Ives mother . . . The pictures were given to Mrs. Ives by Mrs. Acheson who, incidently, also spent her summers here as a child and young woman . . .

LIKE THE editor of the Shawnee (Okla) News-Star, we like to have something in the paper for all our subscribers . . . This is what he had to say about it . . . "In case you find a mistake in the News-Star, please consider it was put there for somebody's benefit. We try to get something in the paper for everybody, and some of our subscribers are always looking for mistakes" . . . Now you understand why we have mistakes in the Courier . . . we aim to please . . . everybody.

OUR VERY best wishes to our good friend, Dr. Perry G. Holden, for a happy, happy birthday . . . If our figures are correct he will observe his eighty-seventh birthday anniversary Oct. 12 . . . Was it two or three years ago we were all together at a party given for him by his daughter, Mrs. Ellsworth Besemer . . . Time flies but the memory is still with all of us here . . . So from all of us here our very best wishes for a grand day and many more . . .

HERE'S A warning to expectant fathers . . . don't try to work too hard when your wife is at the hospital awaiting the arrival of the little one . . . John Powell took his wife to the Charlevoix Hospital last week and was told it would be quite some time before the baby would arrive so went to work at Freedman's . . . But who can concentrate at a time like that? . . . Certainly not John for he injured his hand and also went to the hospital . . . as a patient . . . .

BARBIE BICE, a freshman at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn., writes home that she has a 'nodding' acquaintance with the movie star, Claude Jarman, who is in the same German class . . . Hmmm . .

A CARD from Mrs. R. J. Nowland Sr., who with Mrs. Claude Davy, is visiting in the east, brings the news that they have seen two former Charlevoix residents now living in Boston, Mass. Mrs. Roman Emery and son, Winfield, who had gone out to Gloucester to see them . . . The travelers report they are having a wonderful time and the scenery is really something . . .

AS YOU will note elsewhere in the Courier, Dr. and Mrs. Russell Palmer have left Beaver Island after administering to the ills of the island people for more than a quarter of a century . . . In talking with them, one can easily see what a difficult decision it must have been for them to leave the scene of a good part of their lives . . . Despite the fact that they were isolated, we have a feeling that more and more they will miss the island people . . . Mrs. Palmer didn't have words to describe the farewell party given them by the island folk before they left . . . The St. Cecelia club and all the other residents of America's Emerald Isle cooperated in making it an event which will be long remembered by the couple . . . We know that the thoughts of the Palmers will wander often to their years there, their lovely home where they knew so many happy hours and their many friends there . . . Almost the entire island population gathered at the airport to say farewell to the couple who had played such major roles in their lives . . .

Voice of Our Readers . . .

Letter to the Editor:

One month from now, Americans once more have the great privilege and opportunity of helping to choose their leadership and indicating by the casting of their votes their stand on local, state, and national issues. This procedure of registering our vote has never been a greater challenge—never have there been more momentous or far-reaching decisions ahead.

In the recent past too many Americans have been willing to let that exciting challenge slip by unheeded. Four years ago, only 51% of our eligible voters helped to choose national leadership—leadership whose action always affects those who do not vote equally as much as those who do. In local elections, in off-national years, only one out of five American voters cared to exercise their gift of choice. Both European and Asiatic nations, who have suffered in the past a lack of chance to choose, outdistance us by far in recent election percentages. Is it absolute necessary that we go on through the years until we, too, must learn the hard way as they did? For surely history teaches us that, regardless of political creed or which of any number of parties is in power, continued low voting percentages over the years lead to dictatorship.

Many voters close their eyes to life by convincing themselves that their individual vote doesn't count anyway. There are thousands of examples to disprove this thesis, but perhaps the classic concerns the admission of Texas to the Union. A farmer in Indiana almost missed going to the polls because he wanted to get his wheat to the mill by a certain hour. But either conscience or a neighbor prevailed and a man, for whom he voted, was sent to the state legislature from his district by only one vote. At that time the state legislature in Indiana elected national senators and a man named Hannegan was sent to Washington in that capacity, Mr. Hannegan was president pro tem of the Senate when the question arose of admitting Texas to the Union. The vote on the floor was tied and Mr. Hannegan broke the deadlock, admitting Texas.

No citizen who enjoys even one of the privileges of individual guaranteed rights or who undertakes even one obligation of citizenship such as paying taxes, can POSSIBLY AFFORD NOT TO VOTE. He is exercising the pressure of his stock in the greatest corporation in the world, our own United States.

Sincerely,
Mrs. R. A. Bradley

Charles Dickens Club Observes 40th Anniversary

A loving tribute was paid to Mrs. Mabel Elliot as the only charter member of the Charles Dickens Club present at their fortieth anniversary luncheon Tuesday.

Twenty-seven active members of the organization gathered at Houston's to celebrate the founding of the Charlevoix branch of the Charles Dickens Club in November, 1912 by Mrs. Elliot, Mrs. Peter Vandermade, Mrs. Lynn Purdy, and the late Mrs. Frank Wilkinson.

Congratulatory greetings received from many former members were read to the group by the president Mrs. Charles Bleha, vice-president Mrs. Ross Alexander, secretary-treasurer Mrs. H. E. Paddock and librarian Mrs. Robert Miles.

A pleasant afternoon was spent in reminiscing and recalling the memories of past programs and festivities sponsored through the past 40 years by the Dickens Club members.

The next meeting of the group is scheduled for October 20 when they will join with members of the Shakespeare Club to sponsor a book review by Mrs. Alfred Snook.

Mrs. Bleha was in charge of arrangements for the anniversary luncheon.

Dr. Palmer Retires Island Practice

little else to do but open a practice. He added, however, that he has never regretted his decision to stay and that he could have left at any time had he not liked it.

Fresh from a hospital where he had had every convenience, Dr. Palmer found he had to call upon his medical knowledge and ingenuity to carry on his practice. Making home-made splints for fractures, using kitchen tables for operating tables, a kitchen stove in place of an autoclave and untrained lay people as assistants was no easy task for the young doctor but he took it all in his stride for he had no other choice.

In those days there was no plane service from the island as there is today and that first winter was especially difficult, for his supplies were limited. He learned that one had to anticipate his needs and order necessary supplies while they could still be brought to the island by boat for after navigation closed the only means of communication with the mainland was by dog team or horse and sleigh over the 22 mile ice-covered channel between the island and Cross Village. If the winter happened to be an 'open' one where the lake did not freeze over, the island would be isolated for weeks for at that time there was not even telephone communication with the mainland.

In 1923 the population of the three major islands in the Beaver group, Beaver, High and Garden Islands, was approximately 1,000, the majority of whom were of Irish decent. Many Indian families lived on High and Garden islands where they fished for a livelihood.

In 1924 Dr. Palmer returned to his native Toronto to marry black-eyed Suzanne Brisbois, who had just completed her nurse's training at St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto.

She returned to the island with him and for the first time he knew the comfort of a real home in his 'frontier' practice. Being a nurse she was able to help him in many ways in his practice as well as make a home for him.

Dr. Palmer relates many stories of his experiences in his unusual practice, particularly in the early days when he worked under the most primitive conditions. He has made calls via boat, dog team, horse and buggy or cutter, plane and in his own car.

Today things are better, he believes. There are few times when air service from the mainland is not available from Charlevoix or, in an emergency, from the Coast Guard Air Station in Traverse City. The hospital, with all its modern equipment and other doctors, is now only a short time away by air.

During his years on the island, Dr. Palmer estimates he has delivered more than 600 babies, performed more than 100 operations and cared for more than 30 fractures. This estimate does not include those patients hospitalized on the mainland.

Though they were isolated most of the year, the Palmers made a home for themselves in their adopted homeland. They collected books for a fine library and both spent any spare time from their duties doing oil paintings. Dr. Palmer is a member of the American Physicians Art Association and has exhibited his work at national meetings. Several years ago he was awarded a first prize for his painting of an island woman mending nets. He is also a stamp collector.

Mrs. Palmer, an accomplished pianist, devoted her time to teaching music to the children of the island and each year presented them in a recital.

The entire island population gathered at Holy Cross hall for a party for the couple prior to their departure. There fond farewells were said but when the Palmers went to the airport for the trip to the mainland they found the same group there. In the crowd Dr. Palmer could find many of his 'babies' and other patients who had become his friends during the years on the island.

Even now Dr. Palmer admits that though he has dreamed of the day when he could return to the mainland and enjoy the association of his collegues in the medical profession and other friends, both he and Mrs. Palmer will miss their island friends and remember them with fondness.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Our Town Wouldn't Take a "Back Seat"

Well, the "battle of the buses" has been settled! Our town is again friendly with Balesville.

Everything started when buses began going through our town with a big sign on them saying SHOP IN BALESVILLE. The bus line is owned in Balesville and operates over here on a franchise.

Windy Taylor was all for putting up barricades—he kept calling up the police and the bus company. Finally Judge Cunningham invited the Balesville Chamber of Commerce to meet with ours at Andy's Garden Tavern.

Over a good meal and glass of beer we all reached a compromise without any trouble. Those signs now read SHOP HERE IN TOWN. Everyone's happy.

From where I sit, it shows how problems disappear once both sides get together and try to work things out. Naturally we're all a little different. Some like soda pop, for instance, and some like beer. So what? We all have to ride along through life together. Why not make it a pleasant trip?

Good Repair Lumber

A farmer who doesn't keep a stack of home-grown, custom-sawn boards often pays a high price for good repair lumber. Usually cheaper boards would serve the purpose and save him money. The man who cuts his low grade logs and hauls them to the mill for custom sawing gets his repair lumber for about one-third of the cash cost of the same lumber purchased outright. He adds that there are few wet weather jobs around the farm that will pay more money.

Clubs Will Hold Joint Meeting To Hear Book Review

The Dickens Club and Shakespeare Club are planning a joint meeting on Oct. 20 at 2 p.m. at the Congregational church, at which time members and their guests will hear Mrs. Alfred Snook of Wayland, Mich. review the book "The Gown of Glory" by Agnes Sligh Turnbull.

Mrs. Snook is well known here and is returning by popular request. She delights her audience by her perfectly natural manner.

To Conduct School Enrollment Survey Week Of October 13

New national figures on school enrollment will be available from information obtained in the October Current Population Survey, according to District Supervisor Mr. Donald P. Watkins of the U. S. Census Bureau. Supervisor Watkins pointed out that the Current Population Survey would be conducted in East Jordan and in 67 other areas through the country during the week of October 13.

Last year's survey showed that 30,500,000 persons 5 to 29 years old were enrolled in school or college at the beginning of the 1951 - 1952 school year, Supervisor Watkins said. The corresponding number enrolled in October 1950 was 30,190,000. The high enrollment was due primarily to the presence in the elementary grades of a large number of children born shortly before and during World War II. In October 1951, the number of children 7 to 13 years old attending school was nearly 18 million, an increase of about 725,000 over the previous year, and 3,200,000 more than the comparable number in October 1945.

Supervisor Watkins stated that the questions of school enrollment will be asked in addition to the usual monthly questions on employment and unemployment.

Win Puts Red Devils In Tie With Gaylord

A punt recovery in the last period gave the East Jordan Red Devils the break they needed to chalk up the winning touchdown in the game against Charlevoix last Wednesday.

The final score of the game which may have been the deciding battle for the 1952 league championship was 14-7. The halftime score was 7-7.

As the game opened on the Jordanites' field, Charlevoix kicked off after the Red Devils won the toss and decided to receive. However, an East Jordan fumble on the Rayder 46 yard line gave the visitors possession of the ball after three plays.

A pass from Quarterback Bill Bennett to right end Dean Davenport, who lateraled to halfback Joe McDermott, moved the ball to East Jordan's 26 yard line. On the next play Bennett connected with left end Jack Denemy in the end zone for the Rayders' only touchdown.

The try for extra point was not good but the Jordanites were offside and on the second attempt Bennett ran the ball over and the score was 7-0.

East Jordan started a drive after taking the Charlevoix kick but lost the ball to the Rayders when they were forced to kick. Halfback Paul Johnson bucked the East Jordan line for two first down to put the Rayders in scoring position. Fullback Jim Lewis took a pass from Bennett and raced 30 yards for another touchdown which was called back because of a Rayder holding penalty.

East Jordan took over on their own 30 yard line and after moving the ball to Charlevoix's 40 yard line, quarterback Keith Evans fired a pass to end Jim Wiesler who went the remaining 25 yards to score. Evans ran the extra point to tie the score with 19 seconds to go until halftime.

Both teams played on even terms in the third period with Charlevoix moving the ball into scoring position but losing the ball following two penalties.

Early in the last quarter East Jordan recovered their own punt on Charlevoix's 35 yard line. Two line plays moved the ball to the 30 yard line where halfback Ray Gee took the ball on a reverse play and went around end to score. Evans ran the ball for the extra point.

The Rayders took to the air in an attempt to tie the score but costly penalties and a fumble cut short their chances and the game ended 14-7.

The victory gave East Jordan 15 straight wins and put them in a first place tie with Gaylord.

The game was played without the services of regular officials when the three men who had been engaged for the afternoon failed to appear at game time. By mutual agreement between the two schools, four men, two from each city, were called from the sidelines to assume the officials' duties. Charlevoix offered Chick Gallagher and Don Meggison and East Jordan brought forth Marlin Cihak and Howard Sommerville.

Charlevoix Rayders To Play Gaylord Eleven Here Friday

The Northern Michigan Class C schedule this week will find Charlevoix hosting Gaylord and Harbor Springs playing at Pellston at 3 p.m. and Mancelona traveling to Boyne City for an 8 p.m. meeting Friday. In a non-loop meeting Onaway will play at East Jordan at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Gaylord, sharing first place in the league with East Jordan, will invade Kipke field Friday with the idea of remaining in first place and defeating the Rayders for the first time in more than eight years. Coach Tex Teixeira is fielding the biggest team in the league and to date has chalked up wins against Harbor Springs and Pellston in loop play and Grayling in a no-loop meeting.

Sparked by halfback Gene Fleming who has scored five of his team's six touchdowns in league play, the Blue Devils look strong.

Charlevoix on the other hand has one win over Boyne City and one loss to East Jordan. The Rayders are a smaller team but size in this case has nothing to do with scrappiness for the local eleven will give the visitors a battle all the way.

Despite their records, the Rayders should have an edge over the boys from the top of Michigan.

The game at Boyne City should be a test for Matt Jacobson's lads, who have one win over Harbor Springs. The Ironmen also played a 12-12 tie with Grayling. The Ramblers have one loss to Charlevoix in loop play and a win over Onaway, which may have to be forfeited because of an ineligible player, and a trouncing at the hands of Cheboygan.

Coach Tom Weede, handicapped by squad injuries, will be reshuffling his line-up this week in preparation for the game Friday.

The game could be close but if Mancelona's passing attack clicks it could mean disaster for the Ramblers, unless they show more fight then they have to date.

For some reason the Harbor Springs Rams, who looked like a sure thing on paper have failed to catch fire and may find tough going against a green, inexperienced Pellston eleven who have come a long way since the season opened. Coach Ray Brown is pleased with the development of his squad, which is composed of many freshmen and sophomores. However, if the Rams should come around they could mark up a win.

Both teams have been defeated by Gaylord and if scores mean anything they should meet on an even basis. However, when traditional rivals meet, anything can happen and the game could go either way.

In the non-loop game East Jordan should have little trouble with Onaway, which Boyne City defeated 19-0 earlier in the season.

Last Week With Class "C" Teams

In Northern Michigan Class C football games Friday night Gaylord defeated Pellston 19-0; Mancelona trounced Harbor Springs 25-6 and Boyne City went down to a 32-0 defeat at the hands of Cheboygan.

Gaylord 19 Pellston 0

At Gaylord the Blue Devils capitalized on Hornet fumbles and came out of the game with a three touchdown edge. Halfback Gene Fleming scored the first touchdown from Pellston's 35 yard line following a pass interception. The second tally came later in the first quarter after Gaylord took the ball at mid-field and worked it to the 12 yard line. A pass from quarterback Tony Fadley to Fleming put the ball across. Tom Buell, tackle who does Gaylord's kicking, put the ball through the uprights to end the half 13-0.

The last touchdown came in the third period after Gaylord had worked the ball to the three yard line. The Hornet line got stubborn at this point and it took four plays to take the ball across.

Mancelona 25 Harbor Springs 6

Mancelona scored early in the first period to put the Ironmen ahead 7-0 after halfback Earl LeDere went over from the six-yard line and quarterback Dick Derrer kicked the extra point.

The score remained 7-0

Says Wonderful Things About You!

The instant your beautiful Cadillac points its crest into view, it begins to say wonderful things about you.

It says, almost as plainly as if the words were written out, that you are a person of achievement in your own world of affairs.

It talks of your good judgment and your splendid taste—and indicates your sense of responsibility for those who ride with you as passengers, or drive beside you in the traffic lanes.

It speaks of your family and home and your way of life—and, in general, paves the way for the respect of those you encounter as you sit at its wheel.

This is true because those who own Cadillacs form a virtual "Who's Who" of America's highways. In almost every community in the country, it is obvious that Cadillac is the favored car of the leading people.

The reason for this, of course, is found in the history of the car itself.

For fifty years, it has been the unwavering purpose to make Cadillac as fine a car as it is practical to produce. Goodness has always heen the watchword—craftsmanship has always been the creed.

As a result, Cadillac has long been known and accepted as—"The Standard of the World." And, inevitably, people who want and seek the finest have turned to Cadillac.

That's why the man who sits at the wheel of a Cadillac is an accepted member of the most distinguished motoring family to be found anywhere.

If you are ready for membership in this incomparable group, better come in and see us soon. We'd be happy to welcome you at any time.

Turkey Growers Make Plans For Big Festival In November

The sixth annual Michigan Turkey Festival will be a real "early bird" affair.

Scheduled before Thanksgiving for the first time since its inception in Alma in 1947, the event will be November 4 through 6 at Civic Auditorium in Grand Rapids. Entries are expected to top the 1951 record of nearly 400 live and dressed turkeys.

The festival, concluding with a banquet at the Pantlind Hotel, is co-operative project of the Michigan Growers' Association, the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Michigan State College.

Highlights the first day will include a panel discussion by veterinarians who are turkey specialists on "Turkey Health". Dr. Ralph C. Belding, MSC poultry pathologist, will lead it. A marketing panel the second day will be led by James A. Davidson, MSC poultry husbandman. On November 6, a program for consumers and producers will include demonstrations of selecting, cooking and cutting up turkeys. Miss Mary M. Bodwell, MSC consumer education specialist, and Charles Hawks of the Poultry and Egg National Board will conduct the demonstrations.

Dr. W. A. Billings, University of Minnesota extension poultryman, will lead a panel discussion on "Turkey Management" November 5 at 8 p.m. and will be a toastmaster at the closing dinner.

Entries, to be received from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. November 4, will be judged by Prof. E. Y. Smith of Cornell University and Dr Lawrence E. Dawson, MSC poultry husbandman. Entries will be in 39 classes.

Short Course Scholarships Open At MSC

Some scholarships for the fall term of Agricultural Short Courses at Michigan State College will not be awarded until Friday, October 17, officials have announced. Young farmers interested in applying; or persons knowing of eligible youths, should contact a high school teacher of home economics or agriculture, a county agricultural agent, a local banker or Short Courses Department MSC, East Lansing.

The fall term will open October 27 with registrations, with the present ranks of 92 advance enrollees expected to be swelled before then. Both leadership and practical agricultural skills are taught. The tuition, room, board, and books for an eight-week course period average about $140.

The complete agriculture course for men includes livestock, dairying, crops, farm management, poultry, soils, horticulture; farm mechanics(plant diseases, bacteriology, farm insects and other subjects. Elective subjects include rural leadership, family relations, parliamentary procedure and public speaking. Some courses are co-educational and there is a home economics course for women.

Young men will live in the Short Course Dormitory and eat at the Short Courses Cafeteria. Campus quarters also will be provided for women students. The associations and experience will help them to greater successes in farming and in rural leadership.

Banks in Michigan back the program annually with 240 Bank Scholarships and Sears, Roebuck Co. provides other financial help for students

Added Nitrogen Gives Less Help In Hot Summer

If nitrogen side - dressing of corn, beans or sugar beets or top-dressing of small grains didn't pay off in extra yields in Michigan this past summer, do not reach the conclusion it never pays. Dr. Ray Cook, Michigan State College soil scientist, explains it this way.

In a summer of hot weather, extra nitrogen application does not "pay-off" as effectively as it would in a normal or cool summer. When the soil is cool the small organisms do not work to break down the organic matter very fast. That means less nitrogen is liberated to help the crop. So the nitrogen you add gives yields quite a boost.

When the summer is hot the organisms work faster and let off much nitrogen which the plant can absorb. As a result, the extra nitrogen you apply is not as efficiently used.

In 1951 experiments at the Ferden Farm near Chesaning, side-dressing of corn made extra bushels cost only 18.6 cents each when 40 pounds of nitrogen an acre were added. Sugar beets were produced at a cost of $2.14 a ton with the same amount. Extra beans made possible by 40 pounds of nitrogen cost only $2.33 a bushel.

For the same year, 40 pounds of top-dressed nitrogen produced extra bushels of wheat at 22 cents a bushel, barley at 19 cents a bushel and oats at 23 cents a bushel.

But the soil scientist is not expecting good returns from nitrogen applied to crops this year.

Barnard Grange To Initiate Class Of 15 At Special Meet

A class of 15 candidates will be instructed in the third and fourth degrees of the Grange ritual at a special meeting Thursday evening at the Barnard Grange.

Grange Official Talks To Barnard Grange Members

Merle Eady of Grant, state Grange official, spoke on the Grange and Grange work at the annual Barnard Grange booster night Saturday evening.

More than 100 members and their guests heard Mr. Eady and enjoyed the program which included community singing, tap dancing by Buddy Balch and Roberta Gillispie, several readings and vocal selections.

A potluck supper, attended by 80 members and guests, preceded the business meeting and program. Dancing and a social hour concluded the evening.

Will Feature Seed Cleaning Equipment At Potato, Seed Show

The proper use of seed cleaning equipment for elavators and farms will be a special feature of this year seed section of the Northern Michigan potato, apple and Seed Show, says Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

A large commercial manufacturer of seed cleaning equipment has agreed to set up elevator size equipment and farm equipment at the show. Throughout each day at the show, periodic demonstrations of the use of the equipment will be made. It is a known fact that equipment now in the area is capable of doing a much better job of cleaning, if properly used. There are so many little adjustments with such equipment, that effect the job being done. A special day for elevator operators is being planned.

This year's show will be held in the new 4-H Community Center on the Emmet County Fair Grounds in Petoskey, Novem- 4 to 7.

The seed section of this year's show has been expanded to include cereal grains: oats, wheat, barley, rye and corn; field beans; red kidney, yellow eye and white pea and field peas, in addition to the legume seeds such as alfalfa, the clovers; red, mamouth, alsike, ladino and sweet and also vetch. An eight pound sample of a particular exhibit is needed for an entry. The exhibits can be certified or uncertified seed.

County Cattle To Have Bangs Disease Retest

Charlevoix county dairy farmers will soon experience another retest in the program for the control and eradication of bangs disease, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, announced today. This program is joint between the Federal, State and County Governments. Charlevoix county, in the past has been an accredited county and only by retesting can the dairy farmers hope to control bangs disease.

Rebman states that the forthcoming county-wide retest program will be altered somewhat to include the use of the milk ring or ABR test. This ABR test is conducted only on composite herd samples of milk or cream and is used to locate probable infected herds.

Herds demonstrating any reaction to this ABR test will be blood tested as in the past. The procedure following the blood test will also be the same as in previous tests. Farmers are urged by county agent Rebman to assist the department in making the retests in order that this dreaded disease may be controlled and possibly eradicated.

Test Soil Samples To Assure Results In Spring Seeding

Mr. Farmer, would you like to take the gamble out of getting a good seeding of clover or alfalfa next spring? Well, who wouldn't- Then collect soil samples from the fields you will be seeding next spring before the freeze-up or snow comes this fall. This will make it possible to have the samples tested in your local soil testing laboratory during the fall and winter months, advises Ed Rebman, county agricultual agent.

It is estimated that fully a third of the legume seedings made in Michigan each year result in failure. Many other seedings are "spotty" and fail to produce satisfactorily.

Most seeding failures as well as poor production are the results of acid or low-lime soils and lack of abundant qualities of plant food according to E. D. Longnecker, Michigan State College extension specialist in soil one learn positively whether lime science. Only by soil testing can and extra plant food are needed. So test, don't guess, he stresses.

Generally one or two samples per field is enough . . . one sample from each major soil area. Samples should represent the entire plow layer . . . not be scraped from the surface. Each final sample should be a composite of a half dozen or more samples taken from scattered locations in one general soil area, the county agent suggests.

Charlevoix IN UNIFORM

James Fiedler, FN, serving aboard the heavy cruiser, USS Salem, which has been doing patrol duty in the Mediterranean area, has written an interesting letter from Villefrenche, France: It reads in part:

"I rate liberty today but I am staying aboard. I sent a letter to Dawson Way near Paris and he might come down to see me.

"Besides it took all my money to buy Joyce's accordion. I wrote a check and an officer cashed it for me. When he looked at the check he said: 'Charlevoix, Michigan. I was born in Petoskey and my family lives in Traverse City.'

"Villefrenche, just three miles from Nice, is the heart of the French Riviera. It's beautiful here and good liberty. I had some good chow at the beach the other day.

"We are staying here for ten days. At Tangiers we were relieved by the Des Moines CA 134. Then nine days across the Atlantic and Boston about Oct. 10, where there will be fresh milk and hamburgers. I like it here so well that I wish we weren't going back to Boston.

"This morning 50 men in liberty uniform went ashore to help make a movie; I was one of them. Hollywood directors are making a movie of the Riviera. They made movies of us 'hitting the beach' from a liberty boat. We had more fun. I'm in quite a few of the shots."

County Board Of Supervisors Meeting Here

The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors opened their annual fall meeting here Monday with chairman, Claude Pearsall, of Wilson township, presiding at the opening session.

The first three days have been devoted to receiving requests for appropriations, hearing a report on health department activities from Dr. A. F. Litzenberger, director of department No. 3 and discussing other matters in committee.

In the session, which the board hopes to end this week, the 1953 budget will be set, salaries will be discussed and a road commissioner named Thursday. The term of Sam Rogers of East Jordan who has served as a commissioner for 25 years is ending.

Reports have been heard from Roy Gregory of the Welfare Commission, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, the Road Commission and the County Fair Association.

Representatives of the Michigan Children's Aid and the West Michigan Resort and Tourist Association appeared before the board and asked for appropriations.

All committees are in session and it is hoped all business will be ironed out so the board can adjourn by the week-end after adopting a budget and cleaning up other business.

The board adjourned early Wednesday to visit the county-financed Grandvue Hospital at East Jordan and remain for dinner at 5:30 p.m.

He preceded her in death in 1910 and a short time later she came to northern Michigan. For many years she was employed as a housekeeper at the Loeb estate here.

She was a member of the Eastern Star and Rebekah lodges and the Baptist church where she was active in church circles.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Bertha Curtis of Charlevoix and Detroit; two grandsons, Frederick Curtis and Robert Herrington of Detroit and three great-grandsons.

District Health Unit Plans Clinics

Dr. A. F. Litzenberger, director of the Michigan Department of Health No. 3, studies a map of northern Michigan while consulting with Miss Elaine Abbott of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association while planning the route the mobile X-ray unit will take during its stay in northern Michigan Oct. 28 to Nov. 22.

The mobile X-ray unit will visit Charlevoix Oct. 30-31 and Nov. 1.

At the annual meeting of the Michigan Department of Health No. 3 which includes Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties, tentative plans were made for the free chest x-ray survey being conducted in all but Antrim county Oct. 28 through November 22.

Miss Elaine Abbott, case finding representative of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, met with Dr. A. F. Litzenberger, director of the district health department and his entire staff recently, to make arrangements for the mobile x-ray unit which will enter the area at East Jordan Oct. 28 and visit all major communities in the three-county area during the following month. The unit visited Antrim county earlier this year.

The schedule set up by the group and which is subject to change has the mobile x-ray unit at East Jordan Oct. 28-29; Charlevoix Oct. 30-31 and Nov. 1; Boyne City Nov. 4-6; Walloon Lake and Boyne Fall Nov. 7; Gaylord, Nov. 10-12; Harbor Springs, Nov. 13-14; Pellston, Nov. 17; Alanson, Nov. 18 and Petoskey, Nov. 19-22.

It is the aim of the department to have the entire adult population of the three-county area starting with the 15-year-old group x-rayed while the unit is here. Special hours will be arranged for those who cannot visit the unit during the day-time hours. The hours and the location of the unit will be announced at a later date.

"Tuberculosis is a threat to all age groups, Dr. Litzenberger stresses but it is most dangerous to women in their child-bearing years and to older men. In these times few people consider it a threat to the community but most people would be surprised to know that 17 new cases in the four-county area were admitted

Saturday's Jamboree To Again Offer $100

One hundred dollars in cash awards will again be offered at the seventh weekly Buyer's Jamboree at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in East Park, Jack Mailhot, president of the sponsoring organization, the Charlevoix Retail Merchants association, announced this week.

Due to the popularity of the Jamborees, the association voted this week to continue the weekly events through Nov. 1, Mr. Mailhot added. After that date another series of events which promise to be equally as much fun for shoppers in Charlevoix, will be presented by the association. An announcement regarding the plans for the Christmas series will be made after Nov. 1.

On Saturday, October 18, eight awards totaling $100 in cash will again be presented at the Buyer's Jamboree at 2:30 p.m. There will be one $50 award; one $15 award; one $10 award and five $5.00 awards.

A crowd of approximately 500 shoppers attended the sixth weekly Jamboree in East Park Saturday. Lawrence Swanson was presented with the $50 cash award; Clayton Walker the $15 award; Mrs. Robert Zeitler the $10 award; Mrs. Robert Withers, Mrs. John Geer, Mrs. Don Brown, Mrs. Irving Racignol and Mrs. Drew Young, $5.00 each.

The Buyer's Jamborees have been sponsored throughout the autumn months by 30 members of the Charlevoix Retail Merchants association. During the successful shopping event, $575 in cash awards has been presented to 37 local shoppers.

Buyers in Charlevoix's retail stores are urged to ask for information regarding the Buyer's Jamboree. Unfortunately, there were six of the last week Charlevoix shoppers who were not on hand for the Saturday Jamboree to get their $5.00 cash prizes. Sponsors of the event urge all shoppers to be sure and get their Jamboree tickets and also be on hand for the Saturday Jamboree.

Services Held In Lansing For Mrs. Minnie Kipke

Funeral services for Mrs. Minnie Kipke, 87, mother of Ray L. Kipke, were held in Lansing Tuesday. She died Saturday at a Lansing hospital.

Mrs Kipke visited Charlevoix many times after her son, Ray, came here in 1028 to coach Charlevoix athletic teams.

Her last public appearance here was in June, 1949, when she stood proudly by as Charlevoix dedicated its athletic field in honor of her son, who had coached Charlevoix Rayders squads for 22 years. With her on that occasion were most of her nine children.

Besides her son, Ray, she is survived by five other sons, Harry, former University of Michigan football coach now in Chicago, and Ernest, William, Walter and Herbert of Lansing and three daughters, Mrs. Minnie McCurdy, Mrs. Michael Maloney and Mrs. Marie Drew, also of Lansing.

Mr. and Mrs. Kipke and daughters, Nancy, Amy and Bennie Lee, left Sunday for southern Michigan to attend the services.

Coast Guard Is Called To Save Distressed Ship

The "Australie", a 50-ft. sail boat or ketch rig with diesel engines, was towed into port here early Tuesday by the U. S. Coast Guard patrol boat from the local lifeboat station after being saved from going aground at Stoney Point off Cross Village, 31 miles north of here.

The ship, owned by Cmdr. R. B. Luker of Corpus Christi, Tex., was enroute to the Texas city from New York via the inland water route when it developed engine trouble off Cross Village.

The Lifeboat station here received a call at 7 p.m. Monday and dispatched the patrol boat with a crew headed by James Johns, BMC, to its rescue. The Coast Guard vessel arrived about 9:15 p.m. to find the anchored ship about to go aground in the 30 mph northwest wind.

Mrs. Luker, who gave her name as skipper of the ship, and two crew members were making ready to abandon ship when the patrol boat arrived.

The ship, built in Holland, was shipped to New York recently and was on its maiden voyage.

Alfred Allison Loses Hand In Farm Accident Last Week

Alfred Allison, 48, Hayes township farmer, is in fairly good condition at the Charlevoix Hospital following the amputation of his right hand at the wrist after it had been injured in a farm accident last Wednesday, hospital authorities said Wednesday.

Allison was working alone on his farm near the Maple Grove Grange hall when foreign matter became tangled in his combine. He was reaching into the machine to release it when his hand was caught in the mechanism, mangling it before he could pull it free.

He stumbled more than a quarter of a mile across the field to the Robert Straw farm where tourniquets were applied. Peter Winnick Jr., 16, who had stopped at the Straw farm enroute home from school, rushed the injured man to the hospital for treatment.

Allison is the father of six children, four of whom attend the Charlevoix schools. Alfred Jr., entered the army last summer and another son, William, is employed by an electrical firm in Traverse City. Mr. and Mrs. Allison have resided in Hayes township for about 20 years.

FRIENDS and neighbors of the Allisons are planning a work bee at the Allison farm near the Maple Grove Grange hall Sunday.

To save the crops, the results of his summer work, everyone is pitching in Sunday to pick 20 acres of corn, to cut a winter's supply of wood and other farm work that the family would be unable to do.

The event is being held on Sunday, the only day the other farmers can spare from their fall work.

A potluck dinner will be served at the Grange hall at noon for all the workers.

Everyone who can is asked to help with the bee for there won't be many days left in which to harvest the crops and do other farm chores before winter sets in.

Kiwanis Names Officers For The 1953 Term

Capt. H. E. Paddock was elected president of the Charlevoix Kiwanis club Monday night to succeed Frank Bird.

Other officers named at the regular meeting of the club at the high school cafeteria were: first vice president, Leonard Burns; second vice president, Cmdr. E. K. Shanahan. Ralph S. Hamilton is secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Named to the board of directors were Fred Bancroft, C. B. Meggison, R. G. Bennett, Charles Pontius, Angus Fochtman, Fred W. Willis and Frank Olcksy. The new officers will be installed at the club's first meeting in January.

Two representatives of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., C. L. Johnson of Petoskey, Company manager, and John Lamb of the Customer Relations Div., were present and spoke on the new dial system to be placed in operation here in December.

Mr. Johnson said that the firm date for the change-over to dial has been set for 1 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4.

In speaking of the payroll which will leave Charlevoix with the installation of the new system, he said that though the payroll would decrease in the beginning, eventually it will be more than before due to the fact that more higher paid employees would be needed to service the dial equipment.

Two More Local Men Enlist In Armed Services

Two new names are being added to the growing list of Charlevoix men enlisting in the armed services.

The latest to be added are those of William H Ward and L. Eugene Gillispie.

Bill, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Ward Sr., has enlisted in the U. S. Navy for four years and left Tuesday for Detroit where he will be sworn in. He expects to be sent to the U. S. Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill., for boot training.

Gene, the son of Mrs. Mabel Gillispie, has enlisted in the regular-army for two years. He will leave here Oct. 21 for Detroit for final examinations prior to being sworn into the army.

John B. Martin, Jr. To Speak At Rally

John B. Martin, Jr., of Grand Rapids, Republican candidate for re-election as Auditor General of Michigan, will address a Republican Rally here Thursday, Oct. 23 at 5:30 p.m. it has been announced by Guy Conkle, County Republican chairman.

Chest Drive Is Friday

Kick-Off Breakfast Will Open One-Day Campaign For $4,600

A corps of more than 75 workers will canvass the city of Charlevoix and the surrounding communities in a one-day campaign Friday to raise $1,600 in the annual Community Chest drive.

All workers will meet at the high school cafeteria at 9:30 a.m. Friday for a kick-off breakfast of coffee and rolls before receiving last minute instructions and kits. They will then officially open the 1952 Community Chest fund drive, William Supernaw, campaign chairman said.

Residents of the area are being asked to be prepared for the workers and to contribute generously to the fund which solicits contribution for so many worthwhile organizations.

Without this Campaign Charlevoix would not have Boy Scouts or Girl Scout programs, a community nurse, an enlarged recreational program, a Santa Claus Anonymous, or a fund with which to purchase glasses, crutches or wheelchairs. The Salvation Army would not receive its quota of funds with which to carry on its fine work, either would the United Health and Welfare Fund, through which you contribute to a number of worthwhile agencies.

In fact, without the Community Chest, Charlevoix would not be much of a community in which to live for a community which does not care for its youth or the health and well-being of its people is not a good community.

Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, in addressing a meeting of the United Health and Welfare Fund said, "In considering the necessity of active altruism and the need for cooperation in a democratic society, we should keep in mind the vital fact that there are personal obligations which cannot be handed over to a government bureau to perform. Government can do, and does, great work in the field of human welfare but we cannot discharge our obligations as human beings merely by paying taxes. It is not enough to authorize the government to perform good deeds in our behalf; the therapy of altruism demands it be active and personal".

In those words, Dr. Henneh has placed the entire idea of the Community Chest. One cannot live a full life without helping his fellowmen.

The words 'health' and 'welfare', also are more than mere words when applied to the Community Chest. Everyone knows the meaning of the word 'health' . . . 'being well, or a condition of body and mind', according to the dictionary. But do you really know the meaning of the word 'welfare'? It is "health, happiness

Rev. H. E. Kohn New Pastor Of Local Church

The Reverend Harold E. Kohn, formerly of Oak Park, Ill., will preach his first sermon next Sunday morning as pastor of the First Congregational church of Charlevoix. He comes to Charlevoix after a successful pastorate at First Church (Evangelical United Brethren), Oak Park, where his ministry was rewarded with increased membership, growth of attendance at church worship services and other church functions, and a greatly enlarged youth program.

Rev. Harold E. Kohn

A native of Michigan, Mr. Kohn was born in Mayville, in the "thumb area," and spent most of his childhood in Flint, where he graduated from Flint Central High School. His college studies were pursued at North Central College, Naperville, Ill., where he received his B. A. degree in Psychology and was elected a life member of Pi Gamma Mu, a national honorary society for students of the social sciences. His seminary work was taken at the Evangelical Theological Seminary at Naperville.

Before serving the parish at Oak Park, he had been minister of an Evangelical United Brethern church at Marcellus, Mich., and at Chicago. He also served as Art Director at denominational headquarters at Dayton, Ohio. During his service as Art Director he designed covers for religious magazines, did general art work of a commercial nature, and drew religious cartoons that were printed in city newspapers in Dayton, Ohio, in many religious publications, and in newspapers throughout America's Southwest. His writings have been printed in religious periodicals of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Mrs. Kohn received her B. A. degree in English and Latin from North Central College, and for some years taught these subjects in schools in Cass City and Marcellus.

Rev. Kohn, his wife, Marian, and daughter, Carolyn moved into the Congregational parsonage at 205 State St. this week. The Kohns have many interests which they share together . . . reading, nature study, and tropical fish being among them. However, they state that their deepest interest of all is in people and in discovering ways of serving them. Charlevoix will no doubt offer ample opportunity for the pursuit of this interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Versal Seymour have as their guests this week the latter's sister-in-law, Mrs. Dale McCann and daughter, Lynda of Flint who came Sunday. Mr. McCann will come for them this week-end.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

THREE WEEKS from next Tuesday, Nov. 4, is a pretty important day in this country of ours . . . It's the general election during which we elect national and state officials and also vote on several amendments in this state of ours . . . These three weeks are going to whiz past in a hurry and the BIG day is going to be here before you know it and you're not going to know how you're going to cast your ballot for everything . . . We're asking you to give a lot of thought to that vote of yours before you visit the polls so that when you get behind that curtain you're going to know where to put that X of yours . . . We're not telling you how to vote but we do want you to make the best of your vote and cast it intelligently . . . Your vote was never more important than it will be this year . . . Give it some thought . . .

WERE YOU disappointed in the outcome of the World Series? . . . So were we . . . But maybe we'll be able to settle down now and do a little concentrating on something else . . . But we still wish D Bums could have won . . .

FOR THE PAST year we've all been talking about the high water in the lakes and thought for a while it was going to keep right on coming up . . . But have you noticed it's starting to recede . . . It's gone down about a foot in the last six weeks or so . . . What with the fall storms still [illegible] of us everyone will be glad to hear that . . .

DID YOU notice we had our first killing frost early last Friday morning . . . Some places near town weren't hit by it but out in the country we understand it was bad . . . But before the frosts came we stopped by to see the huge dahlia plant in the Floyd Supps' yard . . . It was all of eight feet high with huge blossoms on it . . . And in the backyard rows and rows of summer flowers . . . a little shabby after the wind and rain but as colorful as ever . . . And roses . . . Mr. Supp gave us a lovely Sutter's Gold rosebud which opened into a lovely flower . . . so appreciated this time of year . . .

IN CASE you've been concerned that Charlevoix's younger fry won't grow up to be as cute and pretty and nice as the present crop we'd like to re-assure you . . . We noticed just scads of them in all sizes out enjoying the nice weather Saturday and we'd like to tell you they're just about the cutest kids you'd find anyplace . . . But then, that's just one of the many things Charlevoix is blessed with . . .

AND HOW about that football game Friday . . . It looked kind of black for a while in the first half but in the second half . . . things were different . . . And those kids really got in their and pitched . . . every one of them . . . 19 . . . in all . . . Now if we can just get by the remaining four games we'll be all set . . . but none of them will be push-overs and the Rayders know it, so each game is played as hard as the last . . . That's why they're [illegible] . . .

HERE'S A word of advice . . . just in case you ever lose anything . . . advertise in the Courier and tell the kids in the neighborhood . . . We did both and had returned to us by Mary Jean Glasgford and Corky Curtis a tiny pill-box we never thought we'd see again . . . Just thought you'd like to know, just in case.

YOU'RE ALWAYS hearing about people finding this or that in old attics or basements or closets but here's one for the books . . . In remodeling and redecorating the Congregational parsonage in preparation for the arrival of the new minister, the Rev. Harold E. Kohn, a silver communion service which no one in the church now had ever heard of was unearthed . . . It's a lovely silver pitcher and two goblets which were presented to the church by the members of the Chicago Resort, now known as the Chicago Club, in 1883. . . according to the engraving on the pitcher . . . It is now cleaned and polished and will rate a place of honor in the church now that it's been discovered . . .

ON FRIDAY of this week the Community Chest will stage a one-day drive for funds for such local projects as the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the recreation program, the Salvation Army, the Community nurse an emergency fund which gives needy kids glasses, crutches and brings toys to some at Christmas time plus the United Health and Welfare, helping just scads of worthwhile which does a tremendous job agencies . . . The only way these organizations can keep going for our kids here, for others elsewhere is through your generosity . . . A few dollars from each of us will grow into quite a sum for a lot of people so dig down deep and give as much as you can . . . And if you feel that you haven't the amount now that you'd like to give, pledge a certain amount and pay as you go along . . . Most of you have purchased something on the installment plan at some time or other . . . Your pledge is another way of purchasing something mighty important . . . A hope for the future for a lot of people less fortunate than you . . . So remember, when your Community Chest worker comes to your door tomorrow, greet him and give him as much as you can . . . You'll feel better for having done it . . . We promise you . . .

JACK AND Carolyn Goldman, up from St. Louis for the perch fishing issued us an invitation last week to go fishing with them aboard the Ranger . . . Never one to let a good deal like that slip by we went and had one of the best times in a long while . . . Of course we picked a day when the fish weren't biting and the wind was beastly cold but it was grand just the same . . . Wearing most of the clothes we owned, the Goldmans, the Art Rangers and Phil McClure, took off up the lake, dropped anchor and proceeded to cast our lines over the side . . . We'd heard tales of the dozens everyone had hauled in the day before and were prepared to do the same but nothing happened . . . After hauling in our lines countless times to see if the bait was still on someone came up with just about the smallest perch we'd ever seen so we found there were still fish in the lake . . . Just to give you an idea what the situation was, we caught 33 perch in 3½ hours . . . Of course part of the time had been spent eating and drinking gallons of hot coffee to keep us alive but that's half the fun of fishing . . . Fish or no fish, the afternoon on the lake was worth the time and effort for it was beautiful . . . After a swing around Lake Charlevoix and a short run out into Lake Michigan, which was plenty rough we made our way home . . . Tired and cold but with an afternoon to remember . . . PS—Everyone was sorry for us 'cause we'd only caught three fish so they gave us the entire catch . . . and were they good . . . We learned one thing . . . a lot of reasons why the fish weren't biting . . . Everything from Tillie Ranger changing her shade of lipstick, to having the wrong boat . . .

Applications For Combat Pay Are Made Available

Applications for combat pay for Korean War veterans are now available at the Charlevoix post-office or at the homes of Major Richard Surratt, V.F.W. service officer and Kenneth Forbes, American Legion service officer, Mr. Forbes said this week.

Any veteran who served in Korea, in the air over Korea or in waters off Korea are elegible for the benefits.

The next of kin of any serviceman killed in action, missing in action or held as a prisnoer of war may also apply for the benefit.

When applying veterans are asked to bring their original separation papers. They are also urged to apply as soon as possible because it may take several months for the application to be processed.

Information on any other benefits for Korean veterans are also available through the service officers who have offered to assist veterans with their applications for combat pay.

Important Facts About
PACKARD'S PROVED POWER BRAKES

Outstanding Advancement in Car Control
Sets New Standard of Motoring Safety

NOT SINCE 1924—when Packard was first to offer four-wheel brakes as staodard equipment—has there been so important a contribution to driving aod safety as Packard Power Brakes!

● ● Proved foster acting, far easier to apply and completely safe at all times, Packard Power Brakes give you quicker, smoother stops with 40% less foot pressure—as thousands of Packard owners have already learned through hundreds of thousands of motoriog miles!

● ● You don't even have to take your foot off the floor to use them. You merely pivot your toe from the accelerator to Packard's low-level brake pedal. This alone cuts 29% from the average time it takes to apply brakes! Gentle toe-tip pressure is all that Packard Power Brakes require.

● ● First power brakes oo aoy passenger car that you don't have to lift your foot to apply, proved Packard Power Brakes use engine vacuum to produce 40% of the braking effort and to assure a normal "feel" to pedal action. They give you smooth, straight-line stops every time.

● ● The only car with these proved power brakes, today's great Packard offers you aoother braking exclusive in its Safti-Set Parking Brake. This convenient hand brake is either "ON" or "OFF"—it can't be accidentally left halfway on to cause brake lioing wear when the car is moving.

● ● SEE, COMPARE AND DRIVE A PACKARD before you spend $2500 for a car. Ooly Packard gives big-car comfort, performance and safety at medium-car cost aod economy. Aod remember—"Built like a Packard" means built to last!

Joyce E. Murray Weds Bruce Barber In Double Ring Ceremony In Texas

The Lackland Air Force Base Chapel at San Antonio, Tex., was the scene of the October 5 wedding of Joyce E. Murray and AB Bruce Barber, U. S. A. F., Lackland Air Force Base.

The Rev. Fr. Travis read the double ring service before an altar decorated with white gladioli and pink carnations. The chapel organist played a program of traditional music.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murray and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Barber.

For her wedding the bride selected an afternoon gown of light blue taffeta faille with navy trim, navy accessories and a corsage of red roses and white carnations.

Her sister, Patricia Murray, as her only attendant, wore a navy and light blue taffeta gown, pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations and bebe mums.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Murray chose a chartreuse gabardine suit, brown accessories and a corsage of rust pompons. Mrs. Barber, mother of the bridegroom, wore a forest green satin gown, gay accessories and a corsage of orchid pompoms.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Tech. Sgt. and Mrs. Barber. The refreshment table placed on the lawn was centerd with a tiered wedding cake and decorated with white gladioli and lavender pompoms.

Trapping apparently is an occupation for youth. Conservation department records show far more trappers 11 through 17 years of age than for any other age group of similar span. The 14-year-olds made up the largest single age group.

For treating lice on dairy animals, the specialist advises use of methoxychlor and points out that DDT has no place at this time for this purpose. Methoxychlor should be mixed at rate of eight pounds of 50 percent wettable powder to 100 gallons of water. He

Win Puts Charlevoix In Second Place Tie

The Charlevoix Rayders, who found themselves trailing a strong Gaylord eleven 7-0 at half-time at Kipke field Friday, snapped back in the third period to tie the game and in the last period scored a second touchdown to win 13-7.

The Rayders, with a two-win one-loss record to date, which puts them in a second-place tie with Gaylord, will travel to Harbor Springs Friday to meet the Rams under the lights at 8 p.m. The Rams have a record of one win and two losses.

At the game here Friday the Rayders received Gaylord's kick-off on the 18-yard line and marched the length of the field only to fumble on the two yard line and lose the ball to the Blue Devils.

On three line plays, Gaylord returned the ball to their own 35 yard line before losing it to the Rayders on a fumble as the first period ended 0-0.

On the first play of the second period, Gaylord recovered a Rayder fumble on the 40 yard line and marched to the nine yard line, where halfback Gene Fleming took the ball over for the first score of the game. Fleming fumbled in the end zone, however, but left end Jerry Hinkle fell on the ball to save the touchdown for the visitors. Quarterback Bud Jones' kick for the extra point was good and the score stood 7-0 well into the second period.

Charlevoix failed to make a first down after taking Gaylord's kick and after an exchange of punts the Rayders were in possession of the ball on their own 49 yard line as the half ended with Geylord leading 7-0.

Gaylord had definitely dominated the play during the first half.

Charlevoix kicked to the Blue Devils to open the second half and after making one first down, the Rayder line tightened and the Gaylord offensive, which had controlled the game up to this point, found itself stopped for the first time and Charlevoix took over on their own 48 yard line.

An exchange of punts after failing to gain ground gave the Reyders possession of the ball on Geylord's 30 yard line following a bad kick by Jones. With halfback Peul Johnson carrying the ball through the line to pick up a first down on the 20 yard line, fullback Jim Lewis picked up one yard before quarterback Bill Bennett carried the ball over for the first Rayder tally. End Don Smith's kick for the extra point was good and the game was tied 7-7.

The Blue Devils failed to make a first down after receiving the Rayder kick and Charlevoix found itself with the ball on Gaylord's 29 yard line as the period ended 7-7.

Charlevoix, unable to take advantage of the break, lost the ball on downs on Gaylord's 22 yard line. The Rayders line held, however, and after three tries, the Blue Devils got off a kick which travelled only 11 yards and the Rayders took the ball on Gaylord's 31 yard line.

Gaylord took over on the 25 yard line when the Rayders failed to make a first down but the visitors gambled on a fourth

Charlevoix To Invade Harbor Springs Under Lights Friday

Action in the Northern Michigan Class C league this week will find Boyne City playing at East Jordan and Mancelona traveling to Pellston for afternoon games ad Charlevoix invading Harbor Springs and Gaylord hosting a non-loop rival, Rogers City, in night games.

Boyne City, fresh from a 12-7 victory over Mancelona, will be eager for another win when they visit East Jordan this week but the Red Devils, holding down first place in the league are going to be hard to beat with another conference championship within their reach.

The Ramblers, who field a bigger team than does East Jorden, may hold the Jordanits for awhile but the latter's speedy backs aided by quarterback Koith Evens' throwing arm should come through unscathed and retain their league standing.

The Mancelona Ironmen, who are feeling the loss of their regular quarterback, Dick Derrer, who is out for the remainder of the season with a fractured lower leg, will travel to Pellston Friday to meet Coach Ray Brown's Hornets, who are eager for their first win. Hampered by continuous fumbling due to their inexperience, the Pellston eleven is coming along well and could serve as a serious threat to a team like Mancelona. The Ironmen have been hampered by injuries which have kept regulars out of practice sessions and slowed up the team's activities. With a little luck Pellston could give the visitors a hard time and might come out of the ordeal on the credit side for a change.

In their first night game this season the Reyders will journey to Harbor Springs Friday to meet the Rams who have a win over Pellston and losses to Mancelone and Geylord thus far this season in loop play.

Gaylord is the only mutual rival both have met this season and scores show Gaylord defeated Harbor Springs 19-6 while bowing to Charlevoix 13-7 so the Rayders should have the edge over the hosts.

The Raders could come through with a lopsided score if they are "up" for the game. Otherwise they may find the going rough.

In another night game Gaylord will be meeting Class B Rogers City at Gaylord. Little is known of the eastern Michigan team except that they played Cheboygan to a 7-7 tie earlier this season. Cheboygen in turn has trounced Harbor Springs by a 35-6 score and Boyne City by a 32-0 score. The Blue Devils are apt to find the going rougher than it was at Cherlevoix last week.

Last Week With Class "C" Teams

East Jordan remained in first place in the Northern Michigan Class C league after defeating a non-loop opponent, Onaway 33-6 Saturday afternoon. Gaylord after, suffering a 13-7 defeat at the hands of Charlevoix, dropped out of a first place tie with the Jordanites into a second place tie with the Rayders with two wins and one loss.

Boyne City defeated Mancelona 12-7 Friday night. The two teams are now sharing a third place tie with one win and one loss each. Harbor Springs won over an inexperienced Pellston eleven by a 13-0 score and moved out of the cellar position into fourth place leaving the Hornets in last place.

Boyne City 12, Mancelone 7

At Boyne City Friday night the Ramblers were able to rack up their first league win this season by defeating Mancelona 12-7.

The Boyne eleven scored their first touchdown in the second period when quarterback Denny Pratt tossed the ball from Mancelona's 40 yard line to halfback Chub Rothenberger on the 18 yard line. Rothenberger went the rest of the way to score. The kick for extra point was not good and the half ended 6-0.

An 80-yard run by fullback Don Arner gave the Ramblers their second touchdown. The kick for the extra point was wide and the score was 12-0.

Mancelona came back in the last period to score its only tally for the night when third-string halfback Don Phillips went over from the 10-yard line after two passes had net-

J. W. Johns, BMC Is Transferred To Norfolk, Va.

James W. Johns, BMC, who has been stationed at the U. S. Coast Guard Lifeboat station here for 3½ years, has been transferred to Norfolk, Va. He will report at his new station Nov. 10.

He served as temporary officer in charge from mid-August until Oct. 12 when he was relieved by Joseph Etienne, Chief Bos'n who arrived here Monday from Cleveland, Ohio, to assume command of the U. S. Coast Guard Group Charlevoix, of which the local Lifeboat station is a part.

John S. Woldarek, BMLC, who has been stationed at Buffalo, N. Y., will succeed Johns.

A veteran of 14 year service in the Coast Guard, Johns and his family plan to leave here soon to visit their respective families in Florida before going to Norfolk.

Local Post Office Has Ample Supply Of Savings Stamps

The Charlevoix post office now has a plentiful supply of Schools Savings Stamps and albums ready for the new school season Postmaster Peter H. Timmer announced today. "We have received shipments of both stamps and albums during the summer recess and are fully prepared to continue serving of our schools," he added.

Mr. Timmer also stated; "There is every reason to anticipate a far heavier demand for Savings Stamps this year than at any time during the peacetime years. The fall, which proved such an outstanding success, created keen interest in the program on the part of teachers and students. The drive, which added 5,815 new School savings programs throughout the country, will be continued during the first semester of this school year. It is expected that nearly 5 million students will be in Stamp Day schools by the end of this calendar year.

"It is hard to visualize the great benefit this one program will have for our country with 5 million children saving nickels and dimes and building the habit of thrift. School savings have been on the uptrend the past three years," he continued. "Stamps sales in the nation's schools increased from $10 million, 800 thousand in 1950 to $14 million in the 1951-52 school year."

Postmaster Timmer also announced that the new improved Series E Bonds are now available. In describing the new bond he said: "It is now better than ever. Your return on this bond is 3 per cent, compounded semi-annually, if held to maturity. It also provides higher cash values in the earlier years. Proof of its popularity is evidenced by the fact that the cash value of E Bonds now outstanding has mounted to $34.9 billion, the highest ever attained."

ted the Ironmen 43 yards to put them in a scoring position. A pass from quarterback Johnny Holstad to end Vernon DeWent accounted for the point after touchdown and the game ended 12-7.

Mancelona was playing without the services of their regular quarterback, Dick Derrer, 16, and a junior, who received a fracture of the lower leg in scrimmage Wednesday night. Derrer, who has done a fine job of calling signals for the Ironmen as well as passing and runing for several touchdowns, will be lost to the team for the remainder of the season. Holstad, who usually plays end, will take over in the quarterback spot. The Boyne game marked his first appearance with the team this season.

A Boyne City lineman, Ron Gibbons, was injured during the game and taken to Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey for treatment of a knee injury.

Harbor Springs 13, Pellston 0

Countless fumbles because of inexperience were costly for Pellston Friday as Harbor Springs racked up two touchdowns to mark their first win of the season.

Playing at Pellston the Hornets took the kick-off from Harbor Springs but fumbled the ball on the 45 yard line with the Rams recovering. On the second play of the ball game, Harbor halfback Leon Sterly went the 45 yards to score. The kick for extra point was not good.

Harbor Springs treatened again in the second period when they lost the ball to Pellston on the goal line following a fumble but the Hornets failed to take advantage of the break.

The Hornets threatened in the third period but lost the ball on downs.

East Jordan 33, Onaway 6

The East Jordan eleven rolled over a visiting Onaway team Saturday afternoon, scoring 20 points in the first half and 13 in the last period.

Left halfback Bob Danforth opened the scoring spree with a touchdown from the five yard line following a series of line plays which put the ball in scoring position. End Sammy Milstein scored the next two tallies. The first was on a sleeper pass from quarterback Keith Evans who threw the ball from the 35 yard line to the 20 yard line. The second td was scored on a reverse from the 10 yard line. Evans carried the ball over for the first point after touchdown and fullback Bob Romback scored the second through the line.

Onaway's only touchdown came in the third period when the visitors recovered an East Jordan fumble and took advantage of the break.

In the last period halfback Floyd Detloff scored from the 14 yard line and then carried the ball over for the extra point. However he fumbled the ball and end Jim Shepard recovered the ball to earn the point. Romback scored the last touchdown from the three yard line.

down try for two yards, gave up the ball to the Rayders on the 34 yard line.

This time a ground gain of four yards by Bennett and a pass from Bennett to Carl Foster, moved the ball to the 20 yard line for a first down. Johnson, on two line plunges, moved the ball to the 13 yard line where Bennett tossed it to left end Jack Denemy on the five. He moved it to the one yard line before he was dropped by the opposition. Oh the next play Johnson moved it through the line for the Rayder's second TD. The kick for the extra point was wide and Charlevoix led 13-7.

After a short kick to the Blue Devils, the Rayders recovered a Gaylord fumble on the 45 yard line and Johnson, on a series of line plays, had picked up a first down as the game ended.

Johnson was again the chief ground-gainer for Charlevoix with a total of 50 yards, while Lewis and Stan Whitley were most effective on defense. Fleming, a speedy back, played excellent ball for the visitors.

Pen Type Barn Gives Service And Saves Labor

The loose housing type of dairy barn-known as a pen barn or pole barn-will serve the farmer well and save his labor time, advises Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

The new barn generally refers to a barn having overhead storage where standard construction is used. The pole barn gets its name from the use of poles for supporting the roof and side walls.

Chore time per dairy animals has been reduced as much as 50 hours per animal per year by an operator changing from the stanchion to the loose housing type of barn, reports Rebman.

The loose housing barn requires a better farm manager than the stanchion type of barn if satisfactory conditions are to prevail, he cautions. The key factors to good pen barn management are correct barn arrangement, enough room for the cows that are to be housed, sufficient bedding and a farm operator who is interested in his dairy herd.

The biggest disadvantage in a loose housing barn is probably the farm operators habit of working in a warm barn. To operate correctly the pen barn should be cold with at least one door open all the time. Generally the milking parlor is "on the chilly side." If the farm operator can overcome the desire to close the barn doors in cold weather, he will find his animals are frequently outside even when it is snowing hard, according to Rebman

A special feature of Peninsula Grange booster night was a program tendering recognition to leaders of the Peninsula and Star 4-H clubs.

George Klooster, of East Jordan was in charge of the 4-H recognition program. Two movies films shown by K. C. Festerling, district 4-H club agent, started the program. Following the films Festerling gave a short talk on the duties of the local 4-H leaders, some of the hardships they must go through and congratulated them on taking their own time in assisting boys and girls to be 4-H members and to become better citizens.

Attending the recognition program were three Peninsula club leaders—Mrs. Lewis Prebble who leads photography and outdoor meals; Mrs. Albert Chanda leading vegetable garden and Mrs. Alfred Crowell who is leading food preparation.

There were seven leaders from the Star 4-H club present. These were Mrs. Clayton Haley leading food preparation; Mrs. Frank Hayden leading vegetable garden; Frank Hayden leading rabbits; Mrs. Ken Russell leading flower garden; Mrs. Charles Arnott who is the food preservation leader; Mrs. Lawrence Elzinga leading food preparation and Lawrence Elzinga leading the dairy pro[illegible]

Following the recognition to the 4-H leaders the Grange held its regular booster program under the direction of Mrs. George Harley lecturer of the Grange. This was followed by an evening of square and round dancing under the direction of K. C. Festerling.

Twin Heifers To A Bull Calf Can Be Perfectly OK

Don't rule a heifer calf "no good" just because she had a bull calf twin, farmers are advised by James G. Hays, dairy extension specialist at Michigan State College. There is at least one chance in 12 that she will grow up to be a normal breeding cow, he advises.

How can you tell?

That question can be answered easily by a blood test, replies Hays. A veterinarin can draw samples and have them typed, Hays explains, by sending them to the nearest cooperating laboratory—for Michigan it's Ohio State University. In most cases, a veterinarian can decide if bloodtyping is worthwhile by inspection at, or shortly after, the birth.

If the heifer and bull calves test alike, the heifer will be a non-breeder, Hays says. This indicates they had a joint blood circulation before birth male hormones sterilize those of the female, he notes.

If the blood types vary—and cows have about 30 types—the heifer is normal and should become a breeder cow, the MSC dairy specialist assures.

County Agent Says Improper Lifting Can Be Dangerous

"Correct lifting should be practiced until it becomes a habit," says Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. Each year thousands of persons are victims of sprains, strains, hernias and other injuries caused by improper lifting.

According to records of Michigan State College safety specialists the most common causes of lifting injuries are: lifting and lowering with the back muscles; insecure grip or footing and unsafe placing of hands or feet; using quick, jerking, twisting or awkward movements of the body; obstructed vision, unstable loads or inadequate control; and insufficient help or failure to use mechanical aids.

One common practice is to bend at the waist when reaching down to grasp an object. Lifting in this position places a severe strain on the sensitive back and abdominal muscles. Always bend your knees and keep your back straight when it becomes necessary to lift, Rebman suggests.

The county agent advises rearranging work to eliminate or reduce the amount of lifting required. He also suggested exploring the feasibility of using simple and safe mechanical aids, such as rope hoists, wooden skids, hand trucks or inexpensive conveyors.

Health Unit Plans Clinics

to sanatoria for treatment during 1951. As long as there are active cases in the area, there is a need for the mobile x-ray unit, Dr. Litzenberger said.

Free x-rays taken at the Charlevoix and Emmet county fairs last year plus the patch tests given the younger school children by the community and county nurses were instrumental in finding the 17 cases which were later hospitalized.

At the same meeting at which the mass chest x-ray project was planned, several other special clinics were discussed. Among them were a special hearing program for adults sponsored by the Michigan Association of Better Hearing scheduled for next month; Diabetes Detection week, Nov. 16-22; a hearing program for school children to be held early next year; and an orthopedic clinic to be held at Gaylord next June.

"The Michigan Department of Health No. 3 like all health groups, does its job with one idea in mind," Dr. Litzenberger said in giving a report on the various phases of the department. "It is our job to make the communities in which we serve a better and healthier place in which to live. Through our cooperation with private physicians, school and local authorities, we try to accomplish this goal."

The many services offered during the year call for a full-time staff which serves under Dr. Litzenberger and includes Mr. Scott, the sanitarian; Marion Rice of Charlevoix county, Katherine Warner of Emmet county, Irene Jackson of Otsego county and Helen Gervers of Antrim county, all registered nurses and county nurses; Margaret Davenport of Charlevoix, Elizabeth Robertson of East Jordan and Alma Cessar of Petoskey, community nurses in their respective cities; Helen Louise Goodwin, Boyne City school nurse who works with the department; Dr. Whitten; Miss Dun; Pauline Whitten, dental assistant. Clerks in the office located at the city hall in Charlevoix are Arbutus J. Rassat and Helen Light.

The district health unit was financed in 1951 by a state grant of $17,371.40; a federal grant of $2,308.87; plus appropriations of 10 cents per capita in Antrim, Charlevoix and Otsego counties and 50 cents per capita in Emmet county which also pays part of the county nurse's salary and contributions from the Community Chests in Charlevoix and East Jordan. Expenditures in 1951 were $42,656.96.

Chest Drive To Be Staged Friday and prosperity", not a dole to the less fortunate, as some people have come to think of it.

So give to the Community Chest . . . have a personal investment in the health, happiness and prosperity of your community.

Among the workers who will solicit funds in the drive will be found many of your friends and neighbors. When they call at your home, be ready for them and make their work easier by making your contribution at this time. They are out doing a job for you.

If you find, when your worker calls, that you cannot make as large a contribution now as you would like, you are urged to use the pledge system and pay your contribution every three months. Let us say you would like to give $20 but cannot see your way clear at the moment. Through the pledge system you pay $5.00 now and the remainder of it at three month intervals during the year. In this way you will be giving but not feeling the pinch.

During the drive a survey will be made to determine what the populace thinks about giving the united way; that is, giving to all agencies in one drive. Everyone is asked by the Community Chest Committee to give the matter some thought and have an answer ready when your solicitor asks.

Agencies who will receive contributions through the Community Chest drive are: Boy Scouts, $900; Girl Scouts, $550; Community nurse, $850; City Recreation Council, $300; Emergency Fund, $450; Salvation Army, $300; United Health and Welfare, $1,100; Campaign expenses, $110.

Among the more than 75 workers who will canvass Charlevoix and the surrounding area in the one-day campaign will be Charles Pontius and Maurice Foster who will cover the business district.

Thirty local retail merchants, all members of the Charlevoix Retail Merchants Association, have sponsored the weekly events which will be concluded Nov. 1.

Band Parents To Raise Funds For Uniform Jackets

New uniform jackets for the Charlevoix high school band has been the project adopted this year by the Band Parents association, Mrs. Gerald Left, president of the association, announced this week.

A supper at the high school cafeteria at 6 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 27, is the first of a series of fund-raising events to be held during the winter months under the sponsorship of the Band Parents association.

Mrs. Walker Miles has been named chairman of the supper and has planned an excellent autumn menu for the occasion.

Mrs. Robert Miles is ticket chairman. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the association.

Anyone who has seen the band recently, realizes he drastic need for new jackets. It is the aim of the Band Parents association to raise funds for new jackets for the entire band rather than replace worn ones with the same type of jacket, which has been unsatisfactory.

Honor Former Fire Chief With Dinner, Plaque

Charles W. Marshall, who retired in August as Charlevoix's fire chief after serving 33 years in the job, was honored Monday night at a dinner at the Argonne given by the Charlevoix City Council and department heads.

S. E. Coleman, secretary of the Board of Commerce, was toastmaster and on behalf of the city presented Mr. Marshall with a plaque on which was engraved "Charles W. Marshall 1919-1952 In recognition of faithful service to the city of Charlevoix."

In response Mr. Marshall said that this was indeed a happy occasion for him. He went on to say that during his years sa fire chief he had served under eight mayors and that there had always been complete understanding between himself and the Mayor and Council.

During those years, there was never any question of judgment regarding his department. Charlevoix's fire department always received the highest praise from state inspectors who always said this was one of the very few places in the state where the fire chief never had trouble with his volunteer firemen.

He concluded by saying that in his retirement he would only have happy memories of his associates the friends he had made through the job and that it had been a privilege to serve the city of Charlevoix.

Present for the occasion were Mayor John Knight, Aldermen Harry Gebeau, chairman of the fire-department committee, Drew Young and Dean Davenport, Hugh Mayne, city clerk, Clifford Riley, Arthur Bergeon, J. C. Marshall, Edward Swanson, Clarence Heise, and Leo Allard.

Community Chest Drive Over Half-Way Mark

The half-way mark in the Community Chest drive to raise $1665 for the 1952 budget was passed Tuesday night, according to William Supernaw, city fund chairman, as he announced the results of the first four days of the campaign.

At that time $2,628.30, or 57 percent of the 1952 quota had been collected since the drive opened Friday.

On Friday, the opening day of what was to have been a one-day drive, $1471.80 was reported by the workers. However, it is believed that more was collected than was reported, due to a misunderstanding.

No report has been received from the surrounding townships so at this time it is quite impossible to determine the exact amount that has actually been contributed.

The drive will be continued by a corps of more than 75 workers until every business place and home has been visited.

The future of the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the community nurse, a bigger and better recreation program and even Santa Claus Anonymous rests with the people of the community, Mr. Supernaw said Wednesday. If we are to have these things and make our contribution to the United Health and Weltare Fund and the Salvation Army, we have to get behind this drive and give.

Now is the time to give so you will receive the benefits of these programs in Charlevoix, he concluded.

A number of generous contributions have been received from summer residents, Mrs. James, Coleman, secretary of the Community Chest reported Wednesday. These have added greatly to the success of the drive thus far, she said, and Charlevoix is grateful for the assistance contributed from our part-time residents.

If you have not been contacted and want to make a contribution to the Community Chest, you may give your gift to any of the workers listed last week or leave it with Lawrence Feindt, treasurer of the Community Chest.

A blackboard in the window of the Charlevoix Abstrect and Engineering Co. is keeping the public informed on the progress of the drive.

A meeting of the Community Chest board members, campaign chairman and committee and captains will be held at the city hall at 8 p.m. tonight (Thursday).

Jack Paul Enlists In Paratroopers

Jack Paul, 1952 graduate of the Charlevoix high school, has enlisted in the paratroopers for three years.

He enlisted at Cadillac recently and left Monday for Detroit where he will be sworn into the service.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Paul of RR 3.

Kiwanis Club To Hold Its Annual Halloween Party

The date for the fifteenth annual Kiwanis Hallowe'en party for the young people of Charlevoix was set at the last week meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

Because of the football game at Mancelona on Hallowe'en, Oct. 31, the annual party will be held on Thursday, Oct. 30.

During the day on that date the children of the elementary department will be the guests of the Kiwanis club at a movie at the Palace theatre and later will receive a treat. A parade to the theatre behind the Charlevoix high school band with the youngsters garbed in Hallowe'en costumes is one of the highlights of the event.

On Thursday evening the junior and senior high school students will attend the movie and receive a treat as guests of the club.

A. L. Livingston and Fred Bancroft of the Hallowe'en party committee will visit the Charlevoix public schools and St. Mary's parochial school to extend an invitation to approximately 900 youngsters to attend the annual party. In return for the invitation, the youngsters will pledge themselves to celebrating a non-destructive holiday.

Other members of the committee are Charles Pontius, M. A. Levinson and Lou Comfort.

Girl Scout Week Is October 25-31

The Girl Scouts of Charlevoix will join with Girl Scouts around the world in observing Girl Scout week Oct. 25-Oct. 31.

To commemorate the week, Girl Scouts in this city will attend the churches of their choice Sunday, Oct. 26.

Sam Rogers Is Renamed As Commissioner

Sam F. Rogers of East Jordan, who has served as Charlevoix county road commissioner for 25 years, was renamed to the post for a six-year term by the Board of Supervisors last Thursday.

Mr. Rogers was re-elected to the post with 12 votes. Three other candidates for the office received 11 votes. Clinton Blanchard of East Jordan, had eight Del Carson of East Jordan two and Angus Fochtman of Charlevoix one. Two members of the board of supervisors were absent when the vote was cast.

Other members of the Road Commission are Lyle Wangeman of Boyne City whose term will expire in 1954 and Karl Erber of Charlevoix whose term will expire in 1956.

For 16 years prior to this year, the county road commissioners were elected by the voters of the county. At the annual spring meeting the supervisors voted to name the supervisor rather than place the candidates on the ballot.

City Council Raises Pay Of Local Firemen

The Charlevoix volunteer firemen were voted a pay raise at the regular meeting of the city council Monday night.

Nov. 3 was the new date set for the hearing on the amending of the sign ordinance to permit illuminated conforming signs in certain districts of the city.

Bills of $8,861.74 were ordered paid.

The Michigan District Health Department No. 3 is offering an opportunity for an extensive tuberculosis survey in this community next week in cooperation with the schools, the Michigan Department of Health and the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, Dr. A. F. Litzenberger, director of the District Health Department, said this week.

A state tax-supported mobile x-ray unit will be brought to this city Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 30-31 and Nov. 1 by the District Health Department No. 3.

At that time all adults, which in this case includes everyone 15 years and older, in Charlevoix and the surrounding area are urged to have a free chest x-ray. There is no undressing for the x-ray and it takes less than a minute.

In the meantime children from the kindergarten through the 14 year old age group, whose parents sign a consent card, will be given tuberculin patch tests by the Community nurse, Mrs. Margaret Davenport. Approximately 600 children, or better than 85 percent in that age group in the Charlevoix public and St. Mary's parochial schools will be tested this week. Figure of $135,721 Is $5,151 Reduction

The Charlevoix county board of supervisors adjourned late Monday after adopting a budget of $135,721 for 1953.

At a time when other counties were increasing their budgets, the Charlevoix county board of supervisors cut the current budget $5,151.22 below the 1952 budget of $140,861.18. Despite increased appropriations in other departments, a slash of $14,000 from the 1952 appropriation made to the Department of Social Welfare accounted for the cut in the 1953 budget.

Salary increases for county officers and their staffs as well as for the members of the board of supervisors and appropriations to the various departments were among the other major problems settled at the seven-day session.

Board Grants Salary Raises

One of the first actions of the board was to adopt a salary increase of $210 for all elected officials, their first pay raise since 1943. The same increase was given to the deputies or clerks as well as to the friend of the court, the welfare directors and court house custodian.

The increase hiked the salaries of the sheriff, prosecutor, clerk, register of deeds and treasurer from $3,000 to $3,210: the salaries of the deputies or clerks in the offices of the clerk, treasurer, register of deeds and the probate judge as well as the court house custodian from $2,100 to $2,310: friend of the court from $800 to $1,010 and the welfare director from $2,800 to $3,010.

The elected officials were not satisfied with the salary increase and Monday appeared before the finance committee to ask for the 11 percent cost-of-living increase they had requested last spring. The finance committee denied the request.

The salary increase amounted to seven percent for the elected officers and 10 percent for the others.

The board of supervisors in Appropriations were made to the departments at the closing sessions Monday.

As in the past the major appropriation was made to the department of social welfare, which this year received only $32,000 as compared to $46,000 for 1952.

$30,000 of the amount appropriated will pay for the maintenance of the department and Grandvue hospital as well as for direct relief and other expenses. $2,000 of the $32,000 was earmarked for repairs and the painting of buildings on the Grandvue hospital property near East Jordan.

Last year the department received a $40,000 appropriation for department expenditures plus $6,000 for the improvement of the nurses' home at Grandvue hospital.

[illegible] department shows a balance of $20,000 from the 1952 [illegible] Oct. 1 [illegible] $40,000 plus the $20,000 [illegible]

For the first time an annual [illegible] appropriation was made to the Charlevoix Hospital. After discussing the matter with Fred W[illegible], chairman of the hospital board, it was decided to pay the regular average hospital rate for county patients hospitalized at the local hospital. In the past the county has received a special rate for county patients and made the appropriation to reimburse the hospital for the loss in revenue.

The appropriation to the District Health Department was set at $6,063.75, an increase from 40 cents to 45 cents per capita on the county's population of 13,475.

One new appropriation was

Vote No On 2; Yes On 3

By Gene Alleman

AN OLD OZARK preacher once attributed the amazing success of his sermons to the manner in which he delivered them.

"Fust Ah tells the cong'egation what Ah is gonna tell 'em.

"Then Ah tells 'em what Ah

"Then Ah tells 'em what Ah tol' 'em."

On that basis, that it takes more than one telling to clarify a situation as confusing as the one facing Michigan voters on constitutional amendment proposals leaders throughout the state are "tellin' the voters what they told 'em."

Business and professional organizations and farm groups throughout out-state Michigan are repeating this theme in the closing weeks of the campaign:

"Proposal No. 2 would place control of both houses of the legislature in the hands of 26% of the voters."

That's a broad and alarming statement.

To people outside the Wayne-Macomb-Oakland area that prospect becomes more alarming when they are reminded, again and again, that 26% of Michigan's voters represents a bloc which is apparently well under control of CIO labor bosses.

IT HASN'T been until recently that such domination of both the Senate and the House was possible.

In 1900, for instance, it took 24 counties to account for 51% of the state population. These represented both industrial and agricultural sections from Detroit factories to Thumb farms to Ionia shops.

The House of Representatives, elected on a population basis, could therefore never become lopsided in reflecting the welfare of a small segment of Michigan.

The Senate, based on area, made representation even more thoroughly reflective of the whole state.

Under two state constitutions, those adopted in 1835 and in 1850 . . . the plan worked satisfactorily. Under the present, 1908, constitution there have been rumblings of dissatisfaction. Because, by constitutional provision, senatorial districts have to be redrawn in every year ending in 3, labor bosses see the November election as an excellent way to prepare for reapportionment next year, '53.

They noted that Wayne, Macomb, Oakland and Genesee counties now have 51.6% of the state's 6. 371 million population. They are also well aware that tightly-controlled unions can swing those four counties.

Thus, by scrapping the Federal ideal of representation in the lower house by population and in the upper house by area the labor bosses would obtain the same hail-brother reception in the Legislature they now enjoy from the Governor's office.

IF THE CIO Plan 2 were in effect there would be no reason for two houses in the Legislature, say outstate opponents. The reason we have two houses in Washington and in most states is to give equitable representation to areas whose interests are vital to the general welfare but whose population would make them impotent minorities on a per-population basis alone.

Farmers, especially, are gravely concerned and through the Michigan and local Farm Bureaus, are fighting to defeat the CIO plan.

In 1900, 60.7% of the state's inhabitants lived in rural areas. Today, 64.3% live in urban areas, incorporated places of 2,500 or more.

Part of the shift was the emergence of industry as the biggest economic factor in the state. Part was due to mechanization of farm work so that fewer and fewer farmers could feed more and more city cousins.

THERE are four methods of determining representation. Population only, the plan the CIO sponsors, which is used by five states; Voting participation, with representation determined by turnouts at the polls, which is not used by any state; Functional representation, with occupational or economic interest groupings determining legislature make-up, which is used only by Arizona; and geographical only, a plan used nowhere in the United States.

Thirty-three of the 47 states which have two houses use a combination, a different base for each house. This is the present Michigan set-up which is threatened by the CIO attack.

AMENDMENT No. 3 maintains the current system, has the House chosen by population and the Senate by areas. The only difference between Plan No. 3 and the present plan is minor. It would raise the House from 100 to 107 Representatives and provide 34 instead of 32 Senators.

So, the outstate battle-cry is "No on No. 2; Yes on No. 3."

Privately, some leaders would be very content if both questions were defeated. "It's better to carry the slight handicap of the present system then to have to whole state under the thumb of Walter Reuther," they philosophize.

With two strong groups fighting over two questions on the ballot, it's good for the peace of mind of the average voter to know that everyone agrees on Question No. 1.

Without any recorded dissent, all parties are agreed that passage of No. 1 will strengthen the law in its fight against narcotic mobsters. It revises rules of evidence so that the scum that pushes dope to teenages will find fewer loopholes to escape their just desserts.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

HOW DID you like that weather we had over the week-end . . . Had the feel of winter about it and we didn't like it but a little . . . But guess we'll have to learn to like it . . . It's almost the first of November . . .

AND Speaking of November, the general election is coming up the fourth of next month so plan right now to visit the polls and cast your ballot . . . And for those of you who are registered and can't get to the polls because new home . . . the Los Angeles of illness or something . . . get an absent voter's ballot . . . Just drop a card to the city or township clerk or call the office on the phone and you'll be sent an application . . . When you return that, you'll receive your ballot and you can vote at your convenience . . . It's simple . . .

IT'S ONLY two months away . . . that holiday known as Christmas . . . yes two months from Saturday . . . So you'd better finish that shopping list . . . make up your mind now what you're going to give Aunt Susan or Cousin Kate and start looking for it . . . But more important right now are those servicemen you know who are overseas . . Those packages have to be in the mail by Nov. 15 and if you want the boys in Japan, Korea and points in the far-Pacific to get their parcels for Christmas, you'd better get to it . . . Just look around the shops and stores . . . there are so many things to send . . . Just little things that would mean so much . . . if you haven't any ideas, ask the clerks, they're good at that sort of thing . . . And if you still can't make up your mind, ask us . . . we'd be glad to help . . . But get the boxes packed and mailed . . . That's one thing that can't wait . .

WE'D ALMOST given up hope . . . about fall colors in the trees . . . but we just got under the wire and for about ten days had the lusious fall colors . . . The wind and the rain have taken most of the leaves now but they certainly were lovely while they lasted . . . Ever so many people enjoyed their own color taurs of their favorite spots . . .

REMEMBER the Communion set we mentioned last week . . . the one given the Congregational church here some 69 years ago when the church was merely an infant . . . one year old . . . One of the older members called us to tell us it wasn't really lost . . . Several people knew it was in the parsonage but weren't quite sure where . . . Now, we understand, it's going to be given a proper place in the church . . .

AFTER READING the story about the Communion set, Miss F. L. Edson told us a story about a huge marble baptismal fount in an old church in England she once visited . . . It was placed in the village church when it was first built centuries ago . . . it was of marble, stood as high as a man's shoulder . . . a very impressive piece . . . But it too disappeared . . . However, it was recovered years later . . . Some farmer was using it in his barn as a watering trough for his cattle . . .

MAYBE we don't look or listen at the right times but we haven't seen or heard any wild geese going south this year . . . Could it be they haven't gone yet? . . . That would be too much to hope for . . . Probably we just happened to miss them . . .

DID YOU notice the display of campaign buttons in the Central Drug store window . . . We haven't asked to whom they belong but someone's been collecting for a long time . . . There must be close to 50 and they're really something to see, so take a look. .

ONE OF THE things that never ceases to amaze me are the coyotes on Beaver Island . . . We never even knew there were any around 'til we heard about them there . . . Archie LaFreniere was over from the island the other day and was telling us about them . . . As you know the game club there and others have devoted much time and effort to replenishing wild life on the island . . . It's only been a few years that it's been open to deer hunting . . . As Archie said, the wild life was just beginning to make a come-back and things were looking up . . . Then came the coyotes . . . they kill countless deer and other game and seem to be increasing like mad . . . They're really going after them and the foxes this winter . . So if you say there's nothing to do on the island, think again . . .

OUR neighbor, Mrs. Bill Ratigan, came in the other day with something she'd found in some books and music they'd purchased some place . . . It was a piece of music, "In Flanders' Fields", but the thing that had attracted her attention and made us both curious was the fact that it was copyrighted in 1919 by a John Henry Albert, and, according to the advertising matter on the front and back sheets, he was better known as "Backbone" Albert . . . How he could get a copyright on a number like that and who he was are a couple of things we'd like to know . . .

ANOTHER NEIGHBOR Mrs. Drew Young, loaned us a copy of the fourth annual edition of the "8 Ball Final" published by the Greater Los Angeles Press Club whose chairman is John S. Rose Jr., a former Charlevoix resident now with the Los Angeles Examiner . . . Evidently published for club members only, the thing is a riot, to put it mildly . . . It has scads of pictures and among them was one of Jack with Margaret Truman and Jane Wyman and another at a banquet table with the Army Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins and other equally-well known army brass . . . Incidently, the club has a Ambassador Hotel . . . . Those Rose boys sure get around . . .

YOU ALL know the story of Goldilocks and the Three Bears but have you heard the one about Terry Davis and the black bears? . . . Seems Terry and his dad, Fay Davis, were hunting with a party of friends in the Black River area east of here recently . . . Terry was by himself when he heard the bushes rustling near him and assumed it was one of the hunting party . . . Imagine his surprise, however, when he turned around and found himself face to face with the biggest, blackest bear in the North . . . So surprised by the unexpected meeting, he couldn't utter a word until the bear turned around and started running through the wods . . . He then found his voice and shouted the news to the others . . The poor bear by this time must have gotten the feeling that someone was trying to fence him in for he was almost running in circles in an attempt to get away and several of the party saw him . . . And they vouched for Terry's story that it was a full-grown black bear . . . who no doubt went home and told his family of the terrifying experience he'd had running into a man . . .

HOW DID you like the Lions-Rams football game in Detroit Sunday . . . It was fun to listen to and for the large group of Charlevoix people who went down it must have been even more exciting to see . . . Bob Carey got to play for the Rams and everyone was thrilled by that . . . In a case like that, just which team do you root for . . . The Lions, a Michigan team, or the Rams because Bob plays with them . . . Or are there people who go to a football game and keep quiet . . . Could be . . .

Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo Is First Concert Series Presentation

The first appearance in northern Michigan on Tuesday, Oct. 28 of the newly organized Concert Company of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, brings area music and dance lovers the opportunity to see a new troupe, especially assembled to bring the ballet to 500 American towns and cities never visited by the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo in the course of it's 14 coast-to-coast tours.

Most popular number is likely to be a worldwide favorite with audiences everywhere: "Gaite Parisienne" designed by Leonide Massine to the music of Jacques Offenbach, France's favorite composer of the Empire of Napoleon III, this number recalls an evening in Paris of the 1860's at the Cafe Tortoni (For which the ice cream is named). The music includes the once-scandalous can-can, the haunting "Barcarolle" from "Tales of Hoffman," and one of the loveliest waltzes which ever made a heart flutter or a pulse tingle.

Other highspots are the famous "Bluebird" Pas de Deaux (Steps for two) from the full length ballet by Tschaikowsky, "The Sleeping Beauty," and excerpts from the same composer's "Swan Lake," the most popular of all classic or "white" ballets the world over. The Cirque de Deaux (Circus for Two), arranged by a brilliant young American Choregrapher to the familiar ballet music from Gounod's opera "Faust", a productinn which politely kids the airs and graces of foriegn ballerinas, completes the evening's varied bill.

This is the first presentation of the four in the 1952-1953 series of the Northern Michigan Community Concert association. The other three are: Conrad Thibault, baritone on Nov. 19; The Teltschicks, a two-piano team on Feb. 23; and the Denver Symphony on April 10.

All programs will start at 8:30 p.m. in the Petoskey high school auditorium and admission will he by membership in the Northern Michigan Community Concert association only.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Wonder How Miss Gilbert Is in "History"?

By now I guess you've heard about the spelling errors in the kids' report cards this week.

A typical card looked like this:

Arithmetic .... B
Geography .... B–
Spelling C
Grammer .... B

I don't know if Miss Gilbert, the principal, actually wrote those cards, but she took full responsibility. This morning I hear she got up in the Assembly Hall—before all the students—and started writing GRAMMAR with two "a's" on the blackboard 100 times!

From where I sit, I'll bet this makes her even more popular with the students. It's nice to see an expert admit she occasionally makes a mistake. Too many so-called "experts" claim they're never wrong on such subjects as what you or I ought to eat . . . what we should wear . . . whether we should enjoy beer or buttermilk. A really wise person never claims to "know all the answers" all the time.

Watch the results a few days after using ENER-TRITION. The bright new feeling of strength and energy as your body builds new vitality. New red blood will flow into your veins. Color will return to your face. Your food will taste better. You will feel like a new different person.

"I have never seen anything to match this new ENER-TRITION," a Registered Nurse of 26 years professional experience stated recently. "A patient of mine was terribly sick, pale and weak. Nervous and underweight, she had no appetite and slept badly. She suffered misery from a painful aching in her back and shoulders. Her bad cold kept getting worse. I read about ENER-TRITION and bought a package for her. Believe me, she began to improve almost overnight. She is up and about now, doing her house work like she had never been sick."

Charlevoix In Second Place After Victory

The Charlevoix Rayders, running up their highest score for one game since 1949, defeated the Harbor Springs Rams 40-28 on the latter's field Friday night, putting them in second place in league play.

This week will find the home team hosting the pellston Hornets here at 3 p.m. Friday. Pellston, in last place in the league, has a record of four losses for the season.

At Harbor Springs Friday night, the Rayders, finding the Rams line ineffective against a strong offensive attack, took advantage of the weakness and scored all six touchdowns on line plays with the Rayders line opening the way for their backs.

Harbor Springs, on the other hand, finding the Rayder line almost impassable, detected a weak spot in the Charlevoix pass defense and took to the air to score three of their four touchdowns.

The Rayders, who chose to receive, opened the scoring by placing the ball in scoring position on a series of seven line plays after receiving the first kick-off. Halfback Joe McDermott went over from the 12 yard line to score the Rayders first tally. The kick for extra point was not good and the score stood at 6-0.

The Rams received the Rayders kick and on the second play Harbor halfback Rodney Pontius, on an off-tackle play, went 87 yards to score and tie the game after the attempt for the extra point was stopped.

Charlevoix, on another series of first downs after receiving the Rams kick, brought the ball back into Harbor territory and McDermott again scored from the 12-yard line. This time halfback Paul Johnson carried the ball over for the extra point and the score stood at 13-6.

Johnson soon added another six points after scoring from the 12 yard line following several line plays when the Rams lost the ball on downs. The attempt for the extra point was short and the score stood at 19-6 at the end of the first period.

The Rams opened the scoring in the second period on a pass from quarterback Tom Clark on the 15 yard line to end Stan Pifer on the five yard line. Pifer then went the rest of the way to give his team its second touchdown Clark passed to left end Frank Granstra for the extra point and the score was 19-13.

Midway in the second period Jim Lewis added another tally from the six yard line. McDermott ran the extra point over and the half ended 26-13.

Early in the third period Herbor again took to the air and on a pass from Clark to Granstra moved the ball from the Rams' 40 yard line to the Charlevoix 45 yard line. Granstre got away for a long run and racked up another six points. The kick for the extra point was blocked and the score was 26-19.

The Rams added another two points on the next play when they trapped McDermott in the end zone for a safety after he had taken the Harbor kick-off.

Johnson scored his second touchdown of the game from the one yard line after Charlevoix had returned a Harbor punt to scoring position. A pass from quarterback Bill Bennett to right end Dean Davenport added the extra point and the score was

Charlevoix To Play Pellston Team Here Friday Afternoon

The sixth week of the Northern Michigan Class C football schedule will see Charlevoix hosting Pellston in the only afternoon game and Gaylord playing at Boyne City, East Jordan traveling to Mancelona and Harbor Springs entertaining Onaway under the lights.

At this point East Jordan, the defending league champions, is still leading the loop with three wins; Charlevoix is in second place with three wins and one loss, Gaylord and Mancelona with two wins and one loss each, are sharing third place, Boyne City with a win-two loss record is in fourth place; Harbor Springs with one win and three losses is in fifth and Pellston with no wins in four starts is in last place.

Coach Ray Brown of Pellston will be bringing his Hornets to Charlevoix Friday afternoon to meet the Rayders. The Hornets, however seem to have lost their sting for the time being for they have managed only one touchdown this year while having 15 scored against them in four games. At times, however, the squad composed of young players shows promise and is gaining experience for another year. Coach Del Terrill's eleven should not have too much trouble with the visitors. Despite their losses, however, the Hornets are a scrappy crew and can be depended on to put up a good fight.

The Gaylord-Boyne City game will mark the meeting of the two biggest teams in the loop. When it comes to size they are quite evenly matched. Gaylord has taken advantage of this fact, however, and has two wins and one loss to their credit while Boyne has only one win in three games.

The Ramblers caught fire against East Jordan last week and showed a potential not seen earlier. If they keep this up they may be able to stop Gene Fleming and the Blue Devils, but the latter will have the advantage and should come out on the credit side of the score.

East Jordan, held scoreless for three periods last week against Boyne City, may find tough going against the Mancelona Ironmen, who, on occasion, have looked exceptionally good this season. Weakened by the loss of quarterback Dick Derrer they dropped a game to Boyne City but were back in stride last week behind Johnny Holstad, another good signal caller. The game could be close, but East Jordan with three wins to date will be the favorite.

Harbor Springs will entertain Onaway on Dad's night Friday. Onaway, defeated by both Boyne City and East Jordan, should be easy prey for the Rams.

This Week With Class "C" Teams

In the northern Michigan Class C league last week East Jordan came close to being upset by Boyne City as they managed a 12-7 win while Mancelona won over Pellston 14-0; Charlevoix defeated Harbor Springs 40-28 and Gaylord took a non-loop win from Rogers City by a 25-20 score

East Jordan 12 Boyne City 7

At East Jordan the Boyne City Ramblers came to life against their traditional rivals and not only led the Jordanites for three periods but also held them scoreless until the final period.

Boyne City scored in the second period after fullback Don Arner intercepted an East Jordan pass and went 35 yards to score. Shorty Smith's kick for the extra point was good and the Ramblers led 7-0 as the half ended.

The Ramblers line held for the entire third period but a few minutes into the last quarter fullback Gordon Danforth playing his first game since receiving a head injury in early practice sessions, went over from the one-yard line following a drive from mid-field. Quarterback Keith Evans' try for the extra point was stopped and Boyne still led midway in the last period 7-6.

A pass interception mid-field by halfback Sammy Milstein who returned the ball to the 35 yard line gave the Red Devils the break they needed. After a series of running plays, Evans scored from the four yard line on an off tackle play to put the East Jordan eleven ahead for the first time in the game.

Halfback Bob Rombach's try for the extra point was not good and the final score was 12-7.

End Andy Patrick took a pass in the end zone from quarterback Johnny Holstad on the 20 yard line to give the visitors their first touchdown. A pass from Holstad to Patrick added the extra point and the half ended 7-0 in favor of Mancelona.

In the last period Mancelona was on the march again when a 15 yard penalty on the Hornets put the ball on the one foot line and Holstad scored on a quarterback sneak. He added the extra point on a pass to end Vernon DeWent.

Gaylord-25 Rogers City-20

A 91 yard punt return by Gaylord halfback Gene Sleming with less than three minutes to play gave the Blue Devils their winning touchdown against Rogers City Friday night.

The spectacular run came in the first play after Rogers City had racked up a touchdown by halfback Tony Furman and an extra point by right end Myron Smoleski to give Rogers City a 20-19 lead.

Earlier in the game left end Jerry Hinkle had scored from the six yard line in the first period and Fleming had scored from the same distance out in the second period. Quarterback Bud Jones' second try for the extra point was good and Gaylord was ahead 13-0.

Rogers City's fullback Norm Vogler, with three minutes to play in the first half, scored from the two yard line and Charles Montych, right tackle, kicked the extra point as the half ended 13-7.

RECENT PRISON RIOTS cost you and your fellow Michigan citizens about $2,000,000! The supervisor of Michigan State Prisons—appointed by the Governor—and the Governor himself, failed to act in time to prevent these costly riots. Later, a "truce" was made with the surly prisoners and YOU bought them steak, ice cream and other favors for their promise to be "good boys" in the future!

WHO CONTROLS OUR GOVERNOR? Find out who ordered him to open the prison gates for a goon-squad leader convicted of destroying property. Find out who ordered him to veto the "Good Roads Program" to take Michigan out of the mud. Find out who ordered him to veto the loyalty board charter amendment to Detroit's city charter and told him not to let the legislature consider anti-communist laws in a special session.

THESE SPECIAL GROUPS can get favors and privileges from the Governor's office because they "control" the Governor. He owes allegiance to them because they are the back-bone of his support. They are not interested in what is good for the State of Michigan but only in what will further their own ambitions and lust for power. These groups are controlled by a few men who dictate policy and act as political advisors to the Governor. They are responsible to nobody but themselves. This secret political bossism in Michigan must end!

SURE, YOU'RE BURNED UP! Well, do something about it, this time! Get Michigan State Government back in working, do-something order! Show them you mean it, by voting straight Republican . . . on November 4th!

Cows Calved In Fall Give More Return For Feed

Fall-freshening cows give more returns for feed costs than those freshening in the spring, reports L. A. Johnson, dairy extension specialist at Michigan State College.

Study of 2,347 records of cows in Dairy Herd Improvement association tests in 1951 gave Johnson his answers. Cows freshening in September through November averaged 24 more pounds of butterfat and $20 more income over feed costs per cow than those freshening in March through May.

Feed cost to produce milk was slightly lower with the spring freshening cows, admits Johnson. But a combination of higher production and higher fall prices gave the financial advantage to the fall group.

Dairymen breed cows to freshen year-around seeking an even flow of milk, Johnson notes. Lush spring pastures increase spring production and short pastures in the fall cut production, he continues. He thinks it would be to the dairymen's advantage to breed more cows to calve in the fall. This would even the milk supply to even more and give a financial gain, he advises.

Planning a timed breeding program is not easy, he says, but strict attention to time of drying off, heat periods and breeding dates as shown in a complete breeding record will help make the system work.

County Farm Bureau Opposes Federal Wage, Price Controls

Voicing opposition to the federal wage and price control laws, 200 members of the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau adopted a resolution advocating discontinuance of the laws when they expire next spring. The action was taken at the annual meeting of the organization held Friday evening at the East Jordan high school. A second resolution approved by the group would shift the power to set bag limits and regulate opening and closing of game seasons from the state legislature to the department of conservation.

Chairman Leo Berg of Charlevoix stated that when it comes to livestock and perishable crops, price control puts the farmer in a serious position.

The law, he said, puts a ceiling on these commodities, but sets no base price. When market prices fall seriously the farmer takes a licking on livestock and perishable crops. But when these products are in short supply the farmer cannot boost his price to recover previous losses. That's because there is a ceiling price on these commodities.

Resolutions passed by the county group will be considered with other Farm Bureau group resolutions thrown into the hopper at East Lansing next month. The Michigan Farm Bureau will hold their annual meeting at Michigan State College.

Those final resolutions that are acted upon at the state meeting are used to guide Farm Bureau's over all policy.

The much-discussed proposals number 2 and number 3 to be placed on the ballot for the November election were taken into cosideration by the farmers. It was the general feeling of the members that all northern Michigan voters should vote No on number 2 and Yes on number 3.

Proposal number 2 was portrayed as a CIO sponsored plan to grasp control of the state legislature.

If tha proposal is epproved by the voters of Michigan, members of the house and senate will be elected on a population basis. This would ellow four heavily populated southern Michigan counties to control the state—since they would represent over half the seats (51.6%), and the remaining 79 counties, less than half, (48.4%).

Thus, Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Genessee counties would carry the balance of the voting power at the state capitol.

Ralph Klein Takes Scottville Position

Ralph Klein, who has been employed as bookkeeper at the Charlevoix Co-operative Association for the past 6½ years, has resigned his position to accept a managership at the Mason County Co-operative Association.

He left earlier for Scottville to assume his new position.

Frank Case Jr., who has been employed by the local Co-operative for five years, has taken over the bookkeeping duties here.

Board members reelected by the farm group Friday night were: John Rosquist, of Barnard; Franklin Cellner, of the Loab area; George Block, of Charlevoix; Mark Saunders, of Ironton and Milford McElroy, of the Phelps area.

The body named Lee Sneathen, of Charlevoix, to the board of directors to replace Leo Berg, also of Charlevoix.

Ralph Harmon, of the Chandler area, was named to replace Roy MaGee, of Chandler. John Brock, of East Jordan, will replace Leonard Babel, also of East Jordan.

Mrs. Harman Brock, of East Jordan was relected as Ladies chairman.

These men named to the board of directors will meet in January and name the 1953 officers of the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau.

Present county officers who conducted Friday night's meeting are: Leo Berg, of Charlevoix, chairman; Leonard Babel, of East Jordan, vice chairman; Charles Mascho, of Charlevoix, secretary; and Lavern McGhan, of Charlevoix, treasurer.

Ed Rebman, Charlevoix County agricultural agent, brought farm films and presented a short movie before lunch was served.

Production Credit Group Meeting In Gaylord November 1

Gaylord — The eighteenth annual meeting of the stockholders of the Gaylord Production Credit association will be held in Gaylord at the V.F.W. Hall on Saturday, November 1. Registration will start at 10:30 a.m. and the meeting will adjourn early in the afternoon.

Bernard Hubbard, Production Credit Corporation Fieldman, will be the principal speaker at this meeting. Important business will be discussed at the meeting and two directors will be elected. The terms of Arnold W. Ostrander of Afton and Joseph Martinchek of Charlevoix expire at this meeting.

The production credit associations were established in 1933 to finance agriculture on a short-term basis. The Gaylord Production Credit association is completely farmer owned and serves the counties of Alpena, Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Crawford, Emmet, Montmorency, Oscoda, Otsego and Presque Isle. Anyone interested in agricultural financing is welcome to attend the meeting.

Protect Seedlings

An inch depth of sawdust mulch around fall-planted evergreen seedlings is advised by W. Ira Bull, in charge of the Conservation Nursery at Michigan State College. He says this will protect the trees against frost heaving in the spring. An unusually dry fall can be offset and good tree stands gained by making sure seedlings are deep-rooted, straight down, and ground packed tight to both lower and upper root areas, he points out.

Mr. Farmer:

It takes a large volume of livestock to attract a large number of livestock buyers.

The Traverse City Livestock Commission sells more livestock than any sale in Northern Michigan.

The bigger buyers attend the Traverse City Livestock Auction, therefore you are assured the full market value when you consign your livestock to the Traverse City Livestock Commission. Don't hesitate to spend a little extra money for trucking to the Traverse City Livestock Commission. It will be repaid many times.

Hearing Tests Will Be Made In Area Soon

The new mobile hearing testing unit of the Michigan Association for Better Hearing will visit northern Michigan between Oct. 27 and Nov. 7.

The unit is expected to arrive in Charlevoix early in November. The date and place will be announced later.

Made possible by contributions to the United Health and Welfare Fund, the unit is designed to provide a quick, inexpensive method for discovering hearing problems among large citizen groups who do not suspect they have hearing troubles.

The general public may receive a two-minute hearing test made by audiologist William K. Ikes. If the quick test indicates a problem, an appointment is made for a longer, more comprehensive test so that serious hearing troubles may be averted. This plan enables the unit to serve a large number of people in a short time and still provide more complete service to those who need it.

Facilities of the unit are provided without charge. Persons who know they have a hearing problem can also make arrangements for securing counseling and guidance of the Association through the mobile unit.

The unit will return to the area early in January for comprehensive tests.

er age groups and school personnel will be x-rayed during those hours.

From 9 a.m. to 12 noon Friday all employees in local industrial plants, city, county and postoffice employees, city street and utility crews and county road crews, the Coast Guard and others will be x-rayed while the unit is still at the school. During the afternoon of Friday the unit will be moved to the south end of East Park.

From 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1-5 p.m. Saturday the hours will be devoted to the adult population of the community. An effort will be made to have every adult in the entire community x-rayed.

Mrs. George Smith has been asked to head a committee who will notify all churches, church groups, clubs, lodges and farm groups of the forthcoming visit of the mobile x-ray unit and the aim of the District Department of Health to have everyone x-rayed while it is here.

Tuberculosis, once known as a disease of the young, is now known to attack all age groups, Dr. Litzenberger said in explaining the importance of chest x-rays. It is especially prevalent in men in the older age group and women during their child-bearing years. This, however, does not mean that if you are not in one of those groups, you should not have your chest x-rayed.

Plan now to visit the mobile x-ray unit when it visits Charlevoix Oct. 30-31 and Nov. 1. If you are unable to visit the unit at the hours announced, contact Mrs. Davenport at 421 or 51-J and an appointment will be made for you.

added to the list. It was to the Child Guidance Clinic in Petoskey for $954 or 30 cents per capita based on the county school population of 3,180. The schools will pay a similar amount to assist in financing the clinic.

Other appropriations include: county agricultural agent, $2700, an increase of $50; county board of education, $1500, a $50 increase; [illegible] Park, $500, the same [illegible] on the Charlevoix county fair, $1128.29, approximately $300 more than last year, advertising, $1200, $400 of which will go to the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association; veterans affairs, $800, an increase of $200; soldiers and sailors relief, $200, an appropriation which was not necessary last year; conservation, $400, $100 less than 1951; bee inspection, $150, a $50 increase.

After adopting the budget and making necessary appropriations, the board found it would have $7,988.82 left from the amount received from the eight mills levied on the county's assessed valuation of $143,709.96. This amount plus the fees and refunds from the various county offices which will be an estimated $10,000 will be applied to the county deficit of $51,000 thus cutting it to $33,012. It is the first time in recent years, the board has had any funds to apply to the deficit.

Study Clubs Hear Mrs. Alfred Snook Give Book Review

One of the season's outstanding literary programs was presented under the sponsorship of the Shakespeare and the Charles Dickens study clubs Monday, Oct. 20 when 100 members and their guests met at the Congregational church for a book review given by Mrs. Alfred Snook of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

In her own inimitable quiet style Mrs. Snook gave an excellent portrayal of Agnes Sligh Turnbull's popular best-seller "Gown of Glory." Her soft-spoken words and subtle expressions of humor and sorrow, love and disdain brought the devoted character of the village Presbyterian minister and his charming family to life.

Following Mrs. Snook's presentation tea was served in the church lounge. The attractive tea table was centered with yellow and white mums, flanked by white tapers in silver candleabra.

Mrs. Gordon Freedman and Mrs. Charles Bleha, presidents of the Shakespeare Club and Dickens Club respectively, presided at the tea table.

The committee in charge of arrangements consisted of Mrs. Robert Paul, Mrs. James Coleman, Mrs. Robert Anderson and Mrs. Fred Young.

Accepting New Island Mail Contract Bids

Bids for the Beaver Island mail contract are being accepted by the Post Office Department following an announcement that the Beaver Island Transit Co. which had contracted to carry the mail until June 30, 1955, has asked to be released from its bargain effective Nov. 24.

The announcement came as a surprise as the Beaver Island Company which carries the mail aboard the motorship, North Shore, had been awarded the contract less than 18 months ago.

R. W. Carlislo of St. James, Beaver Island, president of the company, sald Monday his company found it necessary to ask for a release from the contract due to the steadily rising costs of operating the service across the 35 mile route between Charlevoix and Beaver Island. The company had received tha contract on a bid of $3,898 per year for four years beginning June 30, 1851.

The contract calls for six trips weekly from May 1 to Nov. 30 and three trips weekly during the months of April and December, making a total of approximately 210 trips annually.

During the winter months from Jan. 1 until March 31, the mail is carried by the McPhillips Flying Service of Charlevoix, which holds the contract until June 30, 1955.

Mr. Carlisle said his company plans to bid again for the contract.

Bids for the contract, which extends from Nov. 24, 1952 to June 30, 1955, must be filed with the Post Office Department in Washington D. C. by 5:15 p.m. Nov. 13. Bidders must have a specific type power boat and be bonded for $2,500. Applications are available at the Charlevoix post office.

An Editorial

Vote No On 2; Yes On 3

Do Michigan voters want to retain an equitable balance of power between rural and metropolitan areas in their state?

If so, definite and intelligent action must be taken by voters of Charlevoix County and surrounding territory on the proposed Constitutional amendments No. 2 and 3 to appear on the referendum ballot next Tuesday.

Both proposals have to do with reapportionment but they differ greatly. Don't be misled that they are similar. Proposal No. 2 would put representation in BOTH House and Senate on a strictly population basis, thus giving control of State affairs to the four heavily populated counties of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Genesee.

Proposal No. 3 would give a balanced distribution based on population and area . . . members of the House to be selected on the basis of population; members of the Senate on an area and population basis as at present. This plan is a virtual copy of the way the national Senate and House seats are determined and is fair to the rural areas and the more thickly-populated as well.

Under Proposal No. 2, four counties would dominate, and under certain sets of conditions even dictate, all legislation passed in Michigan. Proposal No. 3 would preserve for outstate Michigan a full voice in legislative matters because of its area representation in the Senate.

It is necessary to vote on BOTH these proposals, we are warned. So, if you, as a resident of this area, want to protect your right to have something to say about how your state is run you will vote NO on No. 2 and YES on No. 3.

J. C. D.

P.S. In another column of this issue of the Courier Police Chief Clarence Heise gives the very excellent reasons why you should vote YES on Proposal No. 1 on the ballot, which will give the police of the state much-needed help in curbing the narcotics traffic.

Boys, Your Alibies Are Out!

Last week Gordon Neff, Pete Zeitler and Roy Plum, of Charlevoix, and Jim Gibbs, of Lansing, decided to fly over to the Beavers for a few days of duck hunting.

The first day they spent on Beaver's various lakes and found the shooting to be just average. So they arranged for Charlie Martin to take them over to Garden Island.

As Roy Plum put it, "It was really rough terrain and the wind was blowing a gale, but Man! that's a duck shooter's paradise."

After two days on Garden Island the boys showed up at the Courier office with the ducks shown in the photograph. The take consisted of twenty ducks, mostly blacks, with a few bluebills. One of the ducks wore a leg band which will be returned to the Conservation Department.

Mobile X-Ray Unit Is Here For Three Days

After a successful two-day visit at East Jordan, the mobile chest x-ray unit of the Michigan Department of Health arrived here today for a three-day visit before going on to Boyne City and Boyne Falls next week.

Dr. A. F. Litzenborger, district department director, called upon adults to take time out for the important chest check-ups which are free to the entire adult population of the community.

While here the mobile x-ray unit will be stationed at the Charlevoix public school.

Students, positive reactors to the tuberculin tests and all school personnel will be x-rayed Thursday afternoon.

Friday will be devoted entirely to industry. All local industries have cooperated in sending their employees into the unit during the day. Any group that has not been contacted is asked to call 421 for an appointment.

Saturday the unit will be open from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 5 p.m. so that the adult population of the entire community may visit the trailer for a free chest x-ray.

Everyone from 15 to 100 years will be welcomed at the x-ray unit.

Sponsors of the survey emphasize that getting an x-ray "snapshot" made is safe, swift and reliable. It takes only a few minutes and requires no disrobing.

Chief purpose of the survey is to help foward prevention and control of tuberculosis. Although by far the greater number of persons getting an x-ray will be found apparently free of the disease, Dr. Litsenbarger said that those whose films indicate possible danger will be advised to consult their physicians and have additional tests.

Prior to the visit of the mobile x-ray unit, more than 600 school children from kindergarten through the 14 year age group were given tuberculin tests by Mrs. Margaret Davenport, community nurse. She was assisted by high school students and Mrs. Franklin Curtis.

To Give Hearing Tests On Tuesday

Persons who know or suspect that they have hearing difficulties will be given the benefits of a new testing service, when the mobile hearing testing unit of the Michigan Association for Better Hearing visits this community next Tuesday.

The unit will be located at the city hall on Election Day. At that time services will be made available to the public.

Tests will be given free of charge in the unit which is housed in a 19-ft. trailer by William K. Iekes, audiologist.

These facilities are made possible by contributions to the United Fund campaign.

Students From Area Grade Schools Enjoy Play Presentation

Approximately 250 school children from the third through the sixth grades of the Charlevoix public schools were in Petoskey Monday morning to attend the Clare Tree Major presentation of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," at the Petoskey auditorium.

The group, accompanied by their respective teachers, made the trip to Petoskey via bus.

Children from the rural schools in the area also attended the play which was enjoyed by most of the younger school children in the Charlevoix-Emmet county area.

The Clare Tree Major Company is brought to northern Michigan annually by the American Association of University Women.

East Jordan Youth Killed In Car Crash

The condition of three persons injured in a two-car collision near Central Lake Saturday night in which Terry Murhpy, 15-year-old East Jordan high school sophomore, was killed, was slightly improved Wednesday, Charlevoix Hospital attendants said.

The accident occurred at 9:25 p.m. Saturday when Terry lost control of the car he was driving on a curve a mile west of Central Lake on M-88 and struck a car driven by Vernold Carpenter, 36, of Central Lake as it approached from the west. He was killed instantly by the impact. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Murphy of RR 3, East Jordan.

His cousin, Gary Gee, 14, an eighth grade pupil in the East Jordan school, who was riding with him received a fractured back. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gea of East Jordan.

Mr. Carpenter suffered a fractured right forearm and his wife, Pearl, also 38, a compound fracture of the left knee-cap, severe knee lacerations and a shoulder injury.

All were brought by Diton ambulance of Central Lake to the Charlevoix hospital for treatment.

Funeral services for Terry, a member of the East Jordan football squad, were held at the Watson Funeral Home in East Jordan Wednesday with burial in Sunset Hill cemetery.

Besides his parents he is survived by a brother, Maurice, a Purple Heart veteran of the Korean War now living in East Jordan.

Kiwanis Club's White Elephant Sale A Success

The Charlevoix Kiwanis club held its most successful White Elephant sale in 15 years last week, Frank Bird, president of the organization has announced.

The gross profit for the three-day event was $777.33, according to figures announced by Angus Fochtman of the White Elephant committee. The amount includes the sale of white elephants prior to the sale last week which was headed by M. A. Levinson.

The profit from the 1951 sale was $359.54.

Fred Bancroft was co-chairman with Mr. Fochtman for the event. Others who assisted were Frank Oleksy and Kit Carson.

Among those who served as saleswomen were Mrs. Fochtman, Mrs. Bancroft, Mrs. H. E. Paddock, Mrs. Ralph S. Hamilton, Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Bird, Mrs. A. L. Livingston, Mrs. R. G. Bennett and Mrs. A. J. Stelter.

The success of the sale was due to the generous contributions made by everyone as well as the hard work of the committee and others, Mr. Bird said. Mr. Fochtman donated the use of his building for the sale.

The usable clothing which was left after the sale was contributed to the Holy Childhood school in Harbor Springs.

Community Chest Fund Drive Is Near Three-Quarter Mark

The Charlevoix Community Chest drive is moving toward the three-quarter mark this week in its campaign to raise $4,600 to meet the 1952 quota, William I. Supernaw, campaign chairman, said Wednesday.

At noon Wednesday a total of $3,367.85 or 73.3 per cent of the goal had been reported by the corps of 75 workers. Approximately $900 of the amount had been contributed by summer residents.

At this point in the campaign, $1,233 remains to be collected before the drive ends. Failure to raise tha quota will mean that such programs as the Boy and Girl Scouts, Community nurse, recreation program, Santa Claus Anonymous, Salvation Army and the United Health and Welfare fund will have to curtail their activities because of the lack of funds.

Everyone knows what these programs mean to Charlevoix.

The United Health and Welfare played a major role in the development of the mechanical heart which has created so much interest in medical circles recently. The achievement was financed in part by contributions to the Michigan Heart Association through Community Chest, United Health and welfare campaigns.

With all these worth-while programs at stake, Charlevoix must back the Community Chest and see that the drive goes over the top.

The Community Chest officials, campaign chairman and captains will meet at the City Hall at 8 p.m. tonight (Thursday).

Girl Scouts To Baby Sit Nov. 4

A community service will be offered on Election Day by the Senior and Intermediate Girl Scouts. They will baby-sit at the Girl Scout room in the city hall for any parents who want to bring their children with them when they vote.

Predict Record Vote In County, State For Election November 4

Voters of Charlevoix county will visit the polls next Tuesday, Nov. 4, as will voters throughout the country, to cast their ballots in the 1952 general election.

A record vote is predicted in the county, as well as elsewhere, following a record registration earlier this fall. F. R. Bulow, county clerk, predicts that more voters in this county will visit the polls next week than in any other election in the county's history.

Charlevoix county is expected to go Republican as it has in every election in recent years. The party polled approximately 64 percent of the votes in the county in the last presidential election in 1948 and the margin is expected to be about the same this year.

Campaigns for both major parties will draw to a close in the next few days as each candidate makes his bid for the voter's ballot next Tuesday.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m.

All registered voters are urged to visit the polls and cast a vote in this most important election.

When voters go to the polls Tuesday they will find themselves with four ballots.

The first will list the candidates for presidency and vice presidency of the United States, not only on the Republican and Democratic tickets but four minor parties.

A second ballot will bear the names of the candidates for the state, congressional, legislative and county offices. There will be no contest for the latter offices since the candidates who won nomination in the primary election will seek office without opposition.

A third ballot, a non-partisan election ballot, will name the candidates for the office of the justice of the Supreme Court of Michigan; the probate judge of Charlevoix county, Floyd A. Supp who is seeking election without opposition; and the circuit court commissioner, Norman D. Ance, who is also unopposed for the office.

A fourth ballot will list the three amendments on which the voters are being asked to vote 'yes' or 'no'. The first would permit new evidence in narcotic prosecution. No. 2 would give control of both Houses of the Michigan legislature to a four-county area, based on population only. No. 3 would give a balanced distribution of seats in the Michigan Legislature . . . in the House on population and in the Senate on area and population.

Dr. Isaac Terr Is Named Planning Group Chairman

Dr. Isaac Terr was elected chairman of the City Planning Commission at the organizational meeting of the commission Monday evening at the City Hall.

Kay Fitch was named vice chairman and Ralph S. Hamilton secretary.

A meeting to be called after the general election will be devoted to the issue of the city charter.

Other members of the commission are Frances Milner, Dr. Gerald Gibbons, Judge Floyd A. Supp, Carl F. Kohler, J. Clark Dolliver and Ralph V. Hess.

She was always active in community and church circles. During World War I she was active in Red Cross circles and headed committees which made bandages and other supplies for the organization.

Since returning here she has devoted her time to helping others. She called regularly on shut-ins, visited the sick and performed many kind acts for people.

She is survived by four nephews, Elliott C. Timme and Victor F. Timme of Oak Park, Ill., Robert Bridge of this city and Clarence Bridge of Midland and several cousins including Capt. H. E. Paddock of this city.

Mrs. Annie Nasson Dies Following A Long Illness

Mrs. Annie Nasson, 85, widow of John Nasson, died Wednesday at the Charlevoix Hospital where she had been a patient for three days. She had been in failing health for several months.

Funeral services were held at the See Funeral Home Saturday with the Rev. George L. Majors officiating. Burial was in the Brookside cemetery.

Born in Denmark May 5, 1867, the former Annie Hansen came to Antrim county at the age of 18 years. She lived there and in Charlevoix prior to her marriage to Mr. Nasson April 26, 1891. They resided on a farm in Eveline township until 1927 when they moved to Charlevoix. Mr. Nasson preceded her in death Sept. 3, 1952.

She is survived by two sons, Emil of Petoskey and Amos of Duncan, Ariz.; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

To Live Democracy--Vote

Do you remember the last time you voted? You had listened to the radio and read the papers and magazines. Your friends on both sides had repeated facts and rumors, and you had agreed and disagreed. There was a camaraderie as you stood in line with neighbors waiting your turn to cast your ballot and being glad all the others were there too.

Then . . . swish . . . the curtains closed and you were alone; alone in the voting booth, alone and free. Your heart gave an extra beat as you carefully marked your ballot while consulting your own perpared list.

No one could influence you further, and no one could know how you voted. You, just you, one single citizen, in privacy, in freedom, and with no possibility of coercion. You came out of the booth and handed your folded ballot to the clerk and you felt fine and strong and satisfied that you had had your say.

At the moment you felt the strength of America. Your heart went out to those certain lands who, if allowed to vote at all, must vote as they are told.

But you are free to vote, and to vote for the candidates of your free choice . . . to take part in the self-government that is the privilege of United States citizens.

You know that you are really the loser if you decide not to bother to vote: that you rob yourself of a big moment . . . a moment in which you know yourself to be a link between America's past and future. There really is no feeling like it.

If this feeling of pride and strength and responsibility has not been yours to date, it can be yours next Tuesday.

Together we shall decide the course our country is to take and, to the extent that we influence other nations, the course our world is to take during the coming years.

NEVER LET it be said kids can't entertain themselves . . . Things must have gotten tough last Saturday for on the hank which goes down to the north side hill were a gang of kids . . . slidding down the bank on big pieces of cardboard cartons . . . It looked like a lot of fun . . .

LAST WEEK we mentioned not seeing wild ducks and geese traveling south . . . Mrs. Anna Eccleston called us to tell us she'd seen two flocks in their familiar formation going south on Sunday . . . Incidently, it was the first time she'd ever seen them flying in formation . . . And then Klaus Andersen said he'd seen two hugh flocks of geese go over Tuesday . . So low, according to Klaus that he had to duck or lose his hat . . .

ANOTHER reminder . . . the Michigan Tuberculosis Association mobile x-ray unit is coming to town today . . . It will be in East Park all day Saturday where you can have a free chest x-ray . . . HAVEN'T you enjoyed the Buyer's Jamboree staged throughout the fall months . . . Most everyone had a lot of fun . . . so why don't you tell your retail merchant about it and maybe they'll have another one next fall . . . And in the meanlime look for an announcement about the new Christmas event which will start shortly . . . It sounds super . . .

MRS. E. J. Edwards stopped by Saturday with something really appreciated this time of the year . . . two lovely rosebuds . . . if you can imagine roses this late in the season . . . She also brought along her color slides of her roses and other interesting flowers and scenes which we enjoyed so much . . . And we'd also like to tell you about the violets . . . those pretty little spring blossoms . . . which we almost got . . . Mrs. Robert McClure found three in her garden last week but they got lost in the garden cleaning process so we didn't actually see them . . . This grand Indian summer we've been enjoying has probably brought out a lot of blossoms . . . Let's all keep our fingers crossed and hope it stays with us for a while . . . FOR THE past three Saturdays spectators at the Michigan State games have seen a new name in the line-up . . . none other than our own Charlie Fairbanks . . . His first chance came in the Texas A&M game when he caught a beautiful 12 yard pass. . . . And on hand to see him do it were the Charlevoix Rayders who were in Lansing for the game . . . He got in again against Syracuse and this past week against Penn State . . . Maybe it wasn't for long but they all have to start some place . . . And another name that's becoming familiar is that of Don Cutler . . . You all remember him as the fast back on the East Jordan team in '49 . . . He's playing tackle quite regularly . . . It's good to see kids from our little ole Class C schools doing well . . . Huh? . . .

CONGRATULATIONS to the Girl Scouts of Charlevoix on the occasion of Girl Scout week . . . They perform countless services in our community and certainly by their many acts make a better place in which to live . . . They're supported in part by the Community Chest and that is as it should be . . . But right now they need leaders . . . more and more little girls are arriving at the age where one just naturally becomes a Brownie or she simply can't live . . . Others a little older are flying up this week and will now be Girl Scouts . . . A few people . . . quite a few, we should say . . . are working very hard to keep the Scouts going but they need a little help . . . Surely there are among our readers some mothers whose children have received the benefits of Girl Scout program and who might have time to take a troop . . . You'll never be sorry if you do . . . the youngsters are wonderful . . . you'll be doing a great service and even if they about drive you mad on occasion, they'll keep you young and you'll love it . . . Just as they'll love you . . . And what better reward than the love and appreciation of a child . . . So get in touch with Mrs. Charles Duerr or some other member of the Girl Scout committee and offer to help

If ever there was a time to call a halt to wasteful, heedless government spending, that time is now. Every dollar wasted in Washington or Lansing means higher taxes for you, higher costs of food and clothing, less "buying-power" in your pay envelope.

Here is why we are mad—and why you should be too. In just five short years the cost of food . . . clothing . . . all the things you buy have gone up over 47%! Traditional Symbol of Sympathy

One of man's most beautiful and enduring customs has been to express sympathy to the bereaved through flowers. Sending flowers is only natural because through their very fragrance and beauty they breathe hope. Their gentle presence relieves doubt and fear. When you want to express sympathy, take the way that is natural, correct and kind . . .

Bank-Norwood Hunting Group Meets Friday

The annual meeting of the Banks-Norwood Hunting association to be held at the Norwood town hall Friday evening, has been announced by Norman Empey, secretary.

Purpose of the meeting is to elect officers and make plans for the year's hunting program. Hunting signs for posting and guest hunting tickets, furnished by the conservation department, will be available at the meeting according to Empey. He points out there is no charge for membership in the organization and all landowners within the area are eligible for membership.

The association is operating under the Williamston plan of hunting as set up by the Conservation department. Purpose of the plan is to keep large hunting areas open to the public and at the same time allow landowners to control the hunting in the area.

With the opening of a doe season four years ago in this section, many landowners were fearful of having their land over run and considered private posting. Landowners in the Banks and Norwood township area decided to try the Williamston plan which had operated successfully in the small game areas in southern Michigan. More than 80,000 acres were posted by the association and hunters were requested to apply to any member for a guest permit which allowed the holder to hunt on all of the posted land with the understanding he abide by the rules of the association.

Many of the members believe the adoption of the plan has deterred an influx of down-state hunters into the area and as a result there has been few reports of damage or destruction by hunters. Empey points out the areas posted by the association will be open to deer hunters this year but the association requests the hunter to get his guest ticket.

A very good crop of apples, much more than I expected, is what John Rosquist, fruit grower three miles south of Charlevoix told Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent last week. Mr. Rosquist said that his apple crop is one of the best he has ever had and that the quality is excellent. Growing fruit is full time business during the summer months. Apples require from 8 to 12 different sprays throughout the season. The first spray is applied early in the spring before the trees start growing and the last spray is applied just previous to harvest. Apple maggot and codling moth are the two main insects that must be controlled during the growing season, while scab is the worst disease affecting apple growers.

The Rosquist orchard is known as the Long View Orchard. They have 50 acres in the farm. There are 500 Montmorency cherry trees and about 1000 sweet cherry trees. These sweet cherries are Schmidt, Napoleon, Bing, Windsor, Early Seneca and a few Black Tartarians to aid in pollination. In growing fruit some varieties are not self-pollinating, thus a different variety must be transplanted to aid in the raising of fruit.

Their apple orchard has about 300 trees. The variety they have are Snow, Transparents, Wealthy, Wagner, Starks, Grimes, McIntosh and a few Delicious. Mr. and Mrs. Rosquist sell all of their fruit locally in an area within 100 miles of their place. The Rosquists purchased this orchard 11 years ago and have been raising quality fruit since that time.

John Rosquist is 63 years of age and his wife is 51. They are very active in their community since they belong to the Barnard Grange, Farm Bureau and to the Barnard Reformed Church.

Michigan State College short courses are popular with young farmers.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Mr. Slocum of the Greyhound Bus Lines from Lansing who showed a film, "This Amazing America", which was greatly enjoyed.

A potluck supper for Grangers and friends was planned for Saturday evening November 8th at 7 o'clock and will be followed by a cake walk and square dancing.

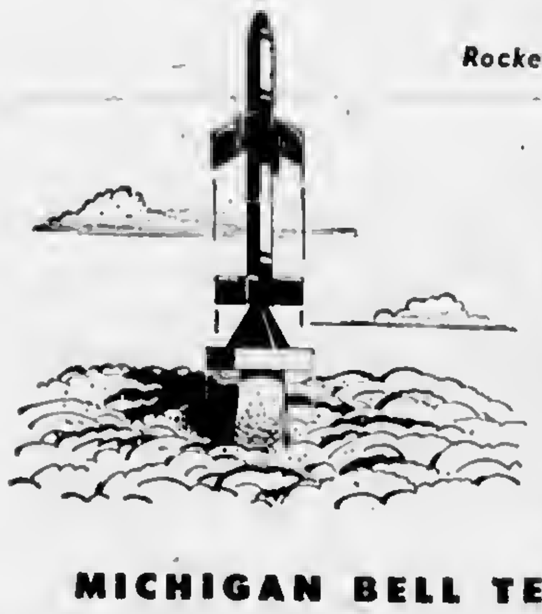
Sawdust found excellent for cattle bedding

Sawdust or shavings will make warm, absorbent bedding for dairy cattle, according to reports from Michigan State College's Upper Peninsula Experiment Station at Chatham. Folks there have found that, under controlled conditions, sawdust or shavings have no harmful effect on soil when the manure is later applied to fields. Bedding the herd on sawdust will also mean savings in liquid manure. Northern Michigan dairymen usually find shavings easy to obtain; in other sections, good supplies can be picked up from nearby sawmills. For more information, call your nearby County Agricultural Agent.



Rockets and telephones have much in common

To reach its target, this guided missile depends on an "electronic brain" developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories and produced by Western Electric, the manufacturing unit of the Bell Telephone System. Western Electric production techniques also turn out electronic controls and firing systems for Army and Navy guns and Air Force bombing planes. Did you know these same techniques are used to make the "electronic brain" that guides your Bell telephone calls to the right number? Thus modern research and facilities give you better telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

Michigan Life Lines!

FROM THE VERY BEGINNING, roads were built to further commerce and trade, and down through the centuries the first requirement whenever a new territory was to be settled has been to build roads.

Michigan has over 100,000 miles of roads and streets, most of which are surfaced and in good condition. These are Michigan's life lines, without which the State could not exist.

For over these highways farm produce goes to market, raw materials and parts get to factories, finished products reach the consumer. Yes, over these roads children get to school, fire-fighting equipment responds to emergencies, the moving of household furnishings takes place.

If you've got it, a truck brought it!

Entire Rayder Squad Appears In Game Here

The Charlevoix Rayders added another win to their growing list of victories by defeating Pellston 19-7 at Kipke field.

Coach Del Terrill substituted freely throughout the game which marked the first time this season the entire squad appeared in the line-up.

The game against the last place Hornets served a breather before the Rayders meet the up and coming Mancelona eleven who last week played the first place East Jordan squad to a 6-6 tie. The game will be played under the lights at Mancelona at 8 p.m. Friday.

In the game here Friday, the Rayders won the toss and elected to kick to the visiting Hornets. Pellston took end Don Smith's kick on the 10 and returned it to the 35 yard line. A series of line plays moved the ball to Charlevoix's 45 for a first down. A holding penality on the third down with two yards to go pushed the ball back into Pellston territory and forced the visitors to kick when they failed to gain yardage in three downs.

Charlevoix took the punt on their own 29 and in two plays moved it to midfield for a first down but the Hornet defense tightened and quarterback Bill Bennett had to punt.

Pellston took possession on their own 11 and in one play picked up a first down to the 22 yard line. Their march was short-lived however, as the Rayders stopped them cold and they were forced to kick out of danger.

The kick was short and the Rayders took over on the Pellston 26. A pass from Bennett to left end Jack Denemy and two line plays moved the ball into the 12 yard line for a first down. Bennett went around end for another first down on the one-yard line as the quarter ended.

On the first play of the second period Bennett scored on a quarterback sneak. Smith's kick for the extra point was wide and the score stood at 6-0.

Pellston took the kick and picked up two first downs after moving the ball from their own 30 to the Charlevoix 43. A holding penalty set them back on their own 42. They picked up six yards on the next play but a clipping penalty pushed them back another 15 yards and they were forced to kick.

The Rayders took the ball on their own 42 but a holding play set them back to the 27. A lateral to Bennett moved them out of trouble to the Pellston 40 for a first down. Line drives with the entire backfield carrying the ball behind fine offense line play moved the ball to the 9 yard line for a first down. Fullback Jim Lewis scored on the next play and halfback Paul Johnson carried the ball over for the extra point

Rayders To Meet Mancelona There In Night Game Friday

Attention in the northern Michigan Class C league this week will be focused on the Gaylord-East Jordan game to be played under the lights at Gaylord Friday.

Ranking second in importance will be the Charlevoix-Mancelona game also scheduled for 8 p.m. at Mancelona. Boyne City and Harbor Springs, now tied for fifth place will fight it out at 8 p.m. at Harbor Springs.

If comparative scores from recent games mean anything, the league-leading East Jordan eleven will be in for a beating this week at the hands of Gaylord for the Blue Devils from the top of Michigan defeated Boyne City 20-6 Friday night while the Jordanites barely managed to get by the Ramblers by a 14-7 score the week before.

On the other hand East Jordan defeated Charlevoix 14-7 one week and the Rayders clipped Gaylord 13-7 a week later.

Past scores, however, will be forgotten as the two teams meet Friday in a game which may determine the conference championship. The Blue Devils will be pointing toward a league title for the first time in more years than anyone remembers and that in itself should give them the incentive to win. Even if they should have to share the title with the Rayders which could happen if Charlevoix wins over Mancelona this week, half a title is better than a second place so they should be up for the game.

East Jordan has stayed in first place this season merely by taking advantage of the breaks, so Gaylord will know they have nad competition, regardless of the outcome.

The game will be a toss-up with the team which gets the break emerging the victor.

Mancelona, only two notches below the Rayders in league standings will be out to take Charlevoix this week after tieing the Jordanites last week. With an aerial offensive which has gained them plenty of yardage this season, the Ironmen will be hard to stop, particularly when they see a chance to halt the Rayders who have beaten them consistently in recent meetings.

Charlevoix with four wins and one loss to East Jordan could find the going tough against the Ironmen but if they snap to and play ball they should get by with a win.

If Gaylord gets past East Jordan and Mancelona and Charlevoix defeats Mancelona this week, the season could end in a two-way tie for the conference title.

Boyne City and Harbor Springs tied for fifth place with one win in four starts, will slug it out this week. Harbor Springs one win this season was a 13-0 victory over Pellston, a squad the Ramblers have not met thus far while Boyne City's one win is a 12-7 victory over Mancelona. Again comparative scores mean nothing.

If Harbor Springs can plug a few holes in their lines and take to the air they might hand the Ramblers a defeat. Boyne City, however, is a bigger team with a fair defense which could stop the Harbor backfield and ends.

Again the game should be close with the outcome a toss-up.

This Week With Class "C" Teams

In the Northern Michigan Class C league last week, Mancelona stopped East Jordan with a 6-6 tie to rack up one of the surprises of the present season; Gaylord defeated Boyne City 26-0; Harbor Springs won over Onaway 18-6 in a non-loop game and Charlevoix added a 19-7 win over Pellston.

In the game at Mancelona, Mancelona 6 East Jordan 6, the fourth place Ironmen managed what no other team this season has been able to do . . . to stop the East Jordan Red Devils.

Mancelona drew first blood in the game when quarterback Johnny Holstad on the 25 yard line passed to left end Andy Patrick in the end zone for the first score of the game midway in the first period. The pass for the extra point was incomplete.

In the second period East Jor-

IMPORTANT

To EVERY VOTER in CHARLEVOIX COUNTY and ALL OUT-STATE MICHIGAN

The biggest issue that will be settled by the VOTERS of Michigan at the

is the basis on which the State will be divided for electing Senators and Representatives.

There are two reapportionment Amendments (No. 2 and No. 3) on the ballot. When you enter the voting booth, there must be no mental confusion over these proposals. To preserve a Balanced Legislature we must make it clear that it is necessary to do two things:

Vote ☒ "No" On Proposal 2

PROPOSAL No. 2 — Would give control of BOTH houses of the Michigan Legislature to a 4-county area, based on population only. This is obviously a very dangerous proposal and one which, if adopted, would be detrimental to the best interests of the state as a whole. It was initiated by the Michigan Committee for Representative Government, an organization composed of the CIO and AFL leaders in the Detroit area.

Vote ☒ "Yes" On Proposal 3

PROPOSAL No. 3 — Would retain the Senatorial districts about as they are at the present time, thus giving some recognition in the Senate to both area and population. House members would be apportioned on the population basis. Detroit would be districted for election of Representatives. This would do away with the notorious "bed sheet" ballot. Proposal No. 3, promoted by the Michigan Committee for a Balanced Legislature, has the backing of a large number of state-wide citizens organizations representing business, industry, the professions, agriculture, Chambers of Commerce, etc. They believe that it is fair and would result in a Legislature which would give proper representation to all sections and interests.

Proposal 2---Use the 2-Letter Word "NO"

Proposal 3---Use the 3-Letter Word "YES"

We, the undersigned, believe Michigan should not be governed by four counties, and urge that you vote "No" on Proposal 2 — "Yes" on Proposal 3:

37 to midfield as the half ended 13-0.

The Hornets kicked off to open the second period. Lewis returned the kick from the 10 yard line to the midfield and with the backfield again taking turns carrying the ball picked up two first downs and moved the ball to the 9 yard line. An offside penalty on Charlevoix put the ball on the 14 but line gains by Lewis and Johnson moved the ball to the three yard line where Bennett passed to right end Dean Davenport in the end zone for the third touchdown. Johnson's attempt to run the extra point was stopped and the score was 19-0.

Pellston took the kick, picked up one first down and moved to the Rayders' 48 where the latter took over on downs. A Rayder fumble however, gave the Hornets possession of the ball as the period ended.

As the last period opened the Hornets moved the ball from midfield to the one yard line while picking up two first downs. A costly Pellston fumble gave the Rayders the ball after Denemy recovered and they moved it to the 9 yard line. Bensett kicked on the fourth dows but a Pellston offside penalty moved the ball to the 14 for a first down and the Rayders remained in possession. Lewis moved the ball out to the 31 on the next play but a Rayder holding penalty returned the ball to the 16. A Charlevoix fumble in the backfield recovered on the five yard line by Pellston gave the Hornets a break and after 2 line plays Glens Aurrand went over fro mthe one yard line. Aurrand passed to Harold Drier for the extra point and the score was 19-7.

After failing to make a first downs, Charlevoix kicked to Pellston and Joe McDermott Intercepted a Pellston pass as the game ended.

Charlevoix was in command of the game all the way but at times Pellston showed promise. The entire Rayder squad played excellent ball on both defense and offense.

In the line-up for the Rayders were Davenport, Denemy, Stan Whitley, Bill Mosier, Everett Pease, Fred Jolliffe, Larry Burns, Jerry Albright, McDermott, Bennett, Ray Sanford, Johnson, Lewis, Smith, Stewart Walker, Gene Towsley, Carl Foster, Jack Cross, Tom Erber, Ken Allison, John Connolly, Gordon Mol, Tom Swanson, Dave Glassford, Johnny LaBlance and Sunny Mason.

dan got to Mancelona's 30 yard line but the Ironmen's line held and the march was halted when East Jordan lost the ball on downs. The half ended with Mancelona holding a six-point lesd.

In the third period the Jordanites scored from the 1-yard line with halfback Sammy Milstein carrying the ball on a lateral around the left side of the llne. East Jordan's attempt to buck the line for the extra point was stopped and the score was tied 6-6.

Neither team offered a real threat in the last period and the game ended in a tie score, the first time the Red Devils had been as much as tied in 16 games.

Gaylord 20, Boyne City 6

The Boyne City eleven held Gaylord scoreless in the first period Friday but in the second quarter halfback Frank Karwoski scored from the one-yard line to make the score 6-0 after a 70-yard drive had put the Blue Devils in scoring position.

As the second half opened Boyne fullback Don Arner kicked off to the visitors and Gene Flemming returned the ball 85 yards to chalk up the second TD of the game. Quarterback Bud Jones' kick was was good and Gaylord led 13-0.

Rambler halfback Chub Rothenberger came back in the next series of plays to score for Boyne on a 52 yard run. Shorty Smith's kick was wide and the score stood at 12-0.

Gaylord intercepted a Rambler pass on their own 35 yard line to set up the third touchdown with Fleming scoring from the 18. Jones made the score 20-6 with his kick for the point after touchdown.

Harbor Springs 18, Onaway 6

At Harbor Springs, end Stan Pifer in the end zone took quarterback Tom Clark's pass from the 10 to open the scoring for the Rams. Clark tossed a 15 yard pass to end Frank Granstra on the 25 for the second touchdown and the half ended 12-0 after Harbor had scored both tallies in the second period.

The third perlod was scoreless Chuck Taylor went over from the for both teams but halfback 23 to add another touchdown in the last perlod.

Onaway's only score came in the last quarter when Decker scored from the 30 after taking Tucker's 15 yard pass.

Ellsworth Seniors To Present Play

Ellsworth — You have a date next week! Remember? It's the Senior Class Play "The Ghost Chaser" to be given Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Nov. 5 and 6 in Ellsworth Community hall at 8 p.m.

As the name implies, the play promises a spooky evening full of mystery interspersed with plenty of fun. Slim McGee (who is he?) provides the thread of mystery that keeps Maggie Saunders, (Mary Lou DeVries) posing as a maid constantly frightened with moans and groans; and the others on edge to solve the mystery: Wilson (Ted Spoelman) pretending to be a butler who is not anxious to be found out; Estelle Colfax (Joan Edson) owner of the estate anxious to clear up the case; Beverly Wright (Sue Kaley) close friend who thinks the detective Samuel Higgenbottom (Jim Smith) is quite a guy; her brother, Jimmie Wright (Henry Klooster) who kinda likes the estate owser but not the mystery.

We're not telling anymore! You come over, you'll need a relaxing evening of fun after the election!

Chief Heise Urges Votes For Proposal No. 1

Approval of Amendment No. 1 at the general election November 4 will give Michigan police a powerful weapon in the war against the narcotic traffic, according to Chief of Police Clarence Heise.

The amendment would apply the same provisions to making a search for narcotics legal without a warrant as were applied to concealed weapons in a constitutional amendment approved by the voters in 1936. The concealed weapons amendment has been pointed to as having been most effective both in the reduction of this type of crime and the prosecution of offenders. The same results are expected if the narcotics amendment is adopted.

Proponents of the amendment point out that 77 per cent of narcotics cases are now thrown out of court because of illegal search, the defendants taking advantage of a technicality to ply their trade safely.

"At present police are badly handicapped in fighting dope peddling. They know narcotics are being passed, but too often the guilty person goes free because although narcotics are found upon him the search is declared illegal. The amendment would remove this immunity and give the same protection to the public that the concealed weapons amendment now affords.

"Michigan has enacted new and stronger penalties against the dope peddler. Now all that is needed is this amendment to impose these penalties.

[illegible] Department of health [illegible] x-ray unit made a [illegible] visit to Charlevoix [illegible] Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dr. A. F. Litzenberger, district department of health director, said Monday.

From Thursday noon until 10 a.m. Saturday when a unit breakdown halted examinations, 547 adults of the Charlevoix area visited the unit for free chest x-rays.

During a three-day stay in East Jordan 548 adults were x-rayed at the unit, which left here Monday for Boyne City for a three-day stay. It will be in Boyne Falls Friday before going on to Gaylord.

Because meny adults who had planned to visit the unit Saturday for chest x-rays could not be accomodated due to the break-down, efforts are being made to have the unit returned here for one day some time soon, Dr. Litzenberger, said Wednesday. Il it can bo returned here, local residents will be notified so they can still take advantago ol the service.

Mrs. Dean Davenport, community nurse, who arranged for publicity and for lay workers, said she received excellent cooperation from the entire community on the project.

Mrs. George Smith was general chairman of arrangements for the clinic and for notifying all organizations. She was assisted by members of Girl Scout Troop 1 who distributed posters in town.

Mrs. C. M. Bice was in charge of volunteers to register all visitors to the unit. Assisting her were Mrs. Emil Pischner, Mrs. Robert Miles, Mrs. Lester Smith, Mrs. Fay Davis, Mrs. William Ratigan, Mrs. Gerald Left, Mrs. Henry Ingalls, Mrs. Virginia Dubas, Mrs. John Schroeder, Mrs. J. Mrs. Marion Dennis Is Killed In Car Accident Tuesday

A Charlevoix mother was killed and one of her three sons injured in an auto accident 4½ miles south of Boyne Falls at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday.

The mother is Mrs. Marion Dennis, 36, who was driving south on the highway when she apparently attempted to pass a car driven by Mrs. Sophia Sinigos of Sault Ste. Marie, according to State Police of the Gaylord Post. The Dennis car struck the rear left side of the second car, throwing it out of control and causing it to roll over several times. Mrs. Dennis died a few minutes later of multiple injuries.

Her three-year-old son, Robert, was taken to Little Traverse hospital in Petoskey where hospital attendants said Wednesday his condition was fairly good. He is being treated for a concussion, a severe lip laceration and facial laceration.

Mrs. Sinigos and her husband, Spiro, who was riding with her were uninjured.

Mrs. Dennis' body was brought to the See Funeral Home here after first being taken to the Watson Funeral Home in Petoskey.

Funeral services will be held at the See Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Thursday. Burial will be in Brookside cemetery.

Mrs. Dennis, the former Marion Tuhy, was born in Charlevoix Aug. 7, 1916, and had attended the Charlevoix public schools.

She is survived by three sons, Robert, Charles, 14 and James 9; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tuhy, and one sister, Mrs. Clare S[illegible], of Frankfort.
